The 1941 DART

FINE ARTS

W. SMITH

Foreword

LITTLE did we realize the difficulty of our task, when we determined to make the 1941 DART the best publication since the first DART was edited. To say that we were at times disheartened by what seemed to be insurmountable obstacles is no exaggeration. The staff desires with gratitude to acknowledge their indebtedness to Professor Skeath, faculty adviser, and to Miss Roth, art adviser, whose criticism and advice has been deeply appreciated.

Not entirely content, yet with some feeling of achievement, we offer you this DART in the hope that it may give to those already dimming memories (aspirations, successes— and disappointments) some semblance of immortality.

Dedication

—To the members of the Fine Arts department, whose willing and unselfish services to our school for many years command the respect of every student, we dedicate this volume—

HIS MESSAGE

AMONG my most prized possessions are the copies of the DART which have been issued since 1923, at which time the name was adopted for the school annual. I have received and now have on my shelves every copy that has been issued from that time to the present.

To you, the members of the graduating classes of 1941, the DART means now a partial record of the activities of your classes and its members. If you will preserve your copy through the years, it will come to mean much more later on. The members of your class will live in many widely scattered communities, some of them probably even in foreign lands. Without the benefit of frequent contacts, many names and faces of your classmates will grow vague and dim. Reference to the DART will bring back incidents, happenings, and friendships of these days. You will then come to realize even more the truth of my opening statement and why the statement is true.

I welcome, therefore, each year the new DART as it is laid on my desk and shall especially welcome the DART of 1941.

Your friend,

John W. Long

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF '41

(Foreword. It was feared that many readers of the yearbook would fail to read this thrilling account of the adventures of the glorious Class of '41 if it were called merely "Class History"; however, the possibility of such a catastrophe has been cleverly eliminated by heading the article "History of the Class of 1941"—for no one can resist reading the exciting narration of the illustrious deeds of the Class of '41.)

From the very beginning, way back in September 1939, it was quite apparent that the Class of 1941 was destined to excel, for we were the largest Freshman class ever to enroll at D. J. C. All through our Freshman year we conducted our quest for more knowledge in a manner that continually drew the attention of our professors, and the Dean, to our deeds.

With the reopening of school for the 1940-1941 term, our illustrious Class of '41 continued its adventures into the realms of higher learning with even greater success than that which marked our achievements as Freshmen. At the beginning of the first semester we found time to institute a program of culture and instruction for the naive Freshman class, for which they will no doubt long remember our class. At the Chestnut Party, we reasserted the superiority of the Sophomore class; thus becoming the first class to take first honors for two successive years. The predominance of the Class of 1941 scholastically is proven by the fact that every student on the Dean's List was a Sophomore.

But every good thing has, as it has its beginning, also its end. We won't say we'll weep when the school loses us and the benefits accruing to it through us, for any '41er would be mortified at the thought of anyone even imagining him indulging in so ignoble an act. But we do appreciate how you feel about this matter; we are a sympathetic group; we tender you our sincere consolations.

FRESHMAN OFFICERS

FRESHMAN CLASS HISTORY

Tuesday, September 17, 1940, was a red-letter day in the lives of some one hundred forty-six expectant students, for it marked the beginning of our careers at Dickinson Junior College.

We were the largest class ever to enter Dickinson and presented quite a problem to our distinguished upperclassmen. After an amazingly short period of joyous freedom, they decided to acquaint us with the traditions of the school and there followed a hectic series of embarrassing moments for us unsuspecting Freshmen.

However, we quickly rose above the humility of it all and soon began to distinguish ourselves individually and as a class.

December 10th found us winners of a Sing-Song Contest. This was accomplished largely through the efforts of Clayton Stebbins who contributed a class song and a school song. Next there was the annual Spelling Bee, won by Ivan Dunkle, also a Freshman.

We soon realized the necessity for organizing and electing our class officers. "Wilkie" seemed to be the all-time favorite and if defeated at Washington, was completely victorious at Dickinson in the person of William Wilkinson. Betty Ann Francis was elected Vice-President; Ruth Guest, Secretary; and James Ames, Treasurer.

Not only did we attain high honors scholastically, but also came through athletic contests with special recognition. Many of the football squad were taken from our ranks and we cannot pass over basketball without mentioning such heroes as Joe Garland and Jack Smith.

In fact, the Freshman class had a large representation in practically every extra-curricular activity. We seemed to have an unusually large number of "Dramats" among our members who took leading roles in all of our major productions. The DART and UNION staffs had their share of our literary talent. The various musical organizations, clubs, and fraternities also boasted a large attendance from our class.

Now, after a year in which to experiment and learn, we feel that we have become oriented to the customs of the school and are eagerly awaiting another year at Dickinson when we may put on the dignified robes of the Sophomore Class.

SENIOR PREPARATORY OFFICERS

SENIOR HISTORY

ON September eighteenth, nineteen hundred forty, we were officially organized. We seemed to be a very versatile group and united, we constituted an active and progressive Senior Class. With no false modesty, we can claim considerable credit for our participation in all phases of the school's activities — both scholastic and athletic.

Our officers this year were: Ray Wilson, president; Paul Smith, vice-president; Peg Fowler, secretary; and Mort Rauff, treasurer. They have served us loyally and with gratitude we thank them.

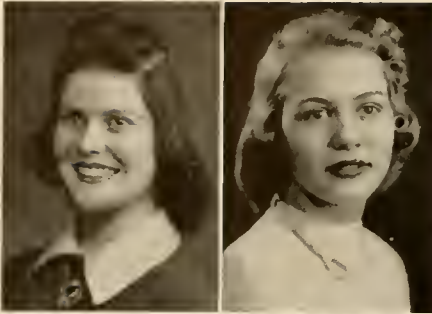

As Seniors, we entered the "Sem" last Fall with a feeling of increased responsibility and dignity. We came into a new being of energy and the desire to work and give ourselves higher learning.

We are proud to have had in our class so many well-known persons. Rauff, Morocco, Peterson, and Smith added to our prestige with their contributions to the football team. Schneider will long be remembered at Dickinson for his superb basketball. And our members who have been outstanding in the dramatic productions of the year are too numerous to mention.

Now that we are leaving, we look back upon our days with complete satisfaction. We have only to regret that we did not make more of the time and opportunities which we have been offered here. We will always cherish the memories of happiness and good fellowship we have enjoyed inside the halls of Dickinson.

DART BOARD

IT has been a point of our observation that it is the custom of a yearbook staff in reviewing the result of its labors to adhere to a stereotyped formula: first, they describe the earnest zeal and ardor with which they began their task; second, they tell of the problems, obstacles, trials, tribulations, worries, barriers, impediments, hindrances, dilemmas, quandaries—and other difficulties encountered in the preparation of the book, and the toil and labor they expended as they strove to overcome aforesaid difficulties, impediments, etc.; third, in spite of their earnest zeal and ardor, and their triumph over aforesaid difficulties, quandaries, etc., they always conclude by humbly imploring the reader to be lenient in passing judgment on their inefficient work.

We early resolved to break away from established tradition by making the third step unnecessary. Of ardor and zeal we had a sufficiency, of problems we had more than a sufficiency, but of apologies, we were determined there should be none. We were still so determined as the unwieldy mass of material went to the printers. But alas—the assembled galley-proofs proved to be our disillusionment. Still hesitant to divert from our policy of non-apology, we are, however, forced to admit that our efforts leave much to be desired, and so we proffer you this work for what it is—whatever it is.

UNION STAFF

A NEW style of scholastic journalism, introducing streamline cartoons, headlines, and gossip-joke columns, increased the appeal of the 1940-41 UNION. Efficiently edited by Eugene Bertin, the renovated paper was enthusiastically received by the students, and enjoyed a most successful year.

Dr. George A. Dunlap, faculty literary adviser, and Miss Roth, art adviser, contributed their worthy bit toward making the UNION the magazine long hoped for by past and present D-sonians.

Evidence of the merit of the paper is given by the fact that once again it was listed among the best at the Columbia Press Conference. This year it won second place among junior college publications. With this revival there is reason to hope that even better things may be expected of the UNION in future years.

Dramatic Club

A GREAT deal of credit for the progress made in the Dramatic Arts at our school this year must go to Miss Wilma Tyson, new adviser of the Dramatic Club. Her enthusiastic and able guidance has been largely responsible for the realization of many hopes and plans never previously completed.

First event of the year was the production of several workshop plays by the Thespians. Included among the long-to-be-remembered plays were "Wolves"—which by general acclaim was selected as one of the best of the group—; "The Birthday of the Infanta", in which the President of the club, Fred Moore, turned in a remarkable performance as a little grotesque; "The Tenth Word", presenting a humorous contrast between past and present ideas on several subjects; and "The Bathroom Door", a comedy full of laughs and chuckles.

Next on the year's list of activities was the beautiful and impressive annual Nativity Pageant, given in the auditorium on the evening before Christmas holidays.

Major production of the year was the well-known play, "The Late Christopher Bean", presented on the evening of March 14. It was without doubt one of the best (both in acting and directing) plays offered in the history of the school.

International Relations Club

OF special interest to students concerned with the problems and perplexities of the world community of nations is the International Relations Club. The club assumed a position of leadership among the academic organizations of Dickinson Junior College during the past year, both in personnel and activity.

On the second Sunday of every month the IRC'ers met to hear talks on pertinent international subjects by well-known local business and professional men, take active part in the heated discussions of current events led by members of the club, and partake of a spot of tea.

The limelight of the year's activities was held by the delegates chosen to represent the club at the Model League Assembly held at Lehigh University the last week of March. Those making the trip were Lois Merrix, Betty Kerr, Orville Warner, and Delbert Lowe.

Officers of the club were: Delbert Lowe, president; Dan Knittle, vice-president; Ruth Guest, secretary; and Jim Ames, treasurer. Dr. Paul I. Miller, faculty adviser of the club, was of invaluable aid in successfully carrying through the year's program better than ever before.

John Wesley Club

THE John Wesley Club is composed of ministerial students and those preparing for Christian service. Meetings were held each month at which time the members either heard inspirational talks by well-known speakers on subjects pertinent to their life-work or conducted lively discussions among themselves.

This year the club was under the leadership of Orville Warner, president; James Dendler, first vice-president; Dorcas Wilson, second vice-president; and Martha Howells, secretary-treasurer.

The conducting of deputation teams, which was formerly the work of the John Wesley Club, was this year incorporated into the work of the Christian Association. The John Wesley Club members, however, were active in the work and activities of the Christian Association.

Besides gaining valuable experiences in Christian service, the John Wesley Club enjoyed the fellowship and Christian spirit of associating with one another.

Hunter, Bieber, Hewitt, Jones, Howell, Russell, Mort, Dendler, Greene, Warner

Student Christian Association

THE Student Christian Association is a new organization on our campus this year. The former religious organizations, including the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. have been incorporated into one large organization under the name of the Student Christian Association.

The cardinal purpose of this organization is to stimulate a more religious atmosphere around the school and to give the students who are especially interested an opportunity to act in the field of their choosing listed under the association.

This organization has been responsible for conducting the weekly fellowship meetings every Wednesday evening. Interesting talks, discussions, dramatizations, and musical programs have been enjoyed by a number of the students and faculty. Throughout the month of March a series of discussions on the subjects "Enriching Your Personality" and "Choosing a Life Work" were held under the direction of great leaders.

This organization has also provided the churches of Williamsport and vicinity with deputation teams. This gave the ministerial students opportunities to gain practical experience and to profit from the ideas of other young people.

Orville Warner heads up the work of the Christian Association. He has as his associates: Harold Dilker, vice-president; Ruth Guest, secretary; Earl Isbell, treasurer. There are also four department groups with a student chairman and a faculty adviser for each. The Department of Church and Worship is under the leadership of Martha Howells and Dr. Paul I. Miller. Joanne Bishop and Professor Phil Gillette are in charge of the Department of Community Service. Charles Greene and Miss Dorcas Hall were responsible for the Department of Forums and Discussions. Raymond Frith and Professor Joseph Babcock head the Department of Recreation.

Double Male Quartet

NO group is better known in Williamsport and vicinity for their fine musical ability than the Double Male Quartet. They have provided entertainment for a number of churches, schools, clubs, and organizations.

The group consists of Richard Enterline, Bud Hackney, Charles Maynard, Laurence Maynard, Max Mitchell, James Mort, Irving Russell, and William Stone. The organization was newly formed this year, taking the place of the Varsity Quartet of last year. Laurence Maynard is the business manager, and Clayton Stebbins is the accompanist.

Perhaps the best known and most popular of their selections are "Fair Dickinson" composed by Clayton Stebbins, "Marching Along Together", "Dance, My Comrades", "Good-bye, Jonah, Good-bye", and "It's Me, O Lord."

C. Maynard, Hackney, Enterline, L. Maynard, Mitchell, Stone, Mort, Russell, Stebbins, accompanist

(Picture of presentation of "The Messiah")

Vocal Ensemble

ANOTHER outstanding musical organization is the Vocal Ensemble. This group has appeared on programs at various churches, schools, and organizations. The Ensemble, assisted by members of the Chapel Choir and by soloists from Curtis Institute of Philadelphia, presented "The Messiah" on Sunday evening, December 8 at Pine Street Methodist Church. They have also sung at several of our vesper services and at the Jewish Synagogue.

The Ensemble is under the direction of Mrs. Myrra Bates, teacher of voice, and is accompanied by Miss Mary Landon, teacher of piano. Miss Miriam Birchard is the student director. The student accompanists are Clayton Stebbins, William Stone, Betty Ann Francis, and Betty Miller.

Chapel Choir

THE Chapel Choir, one of our musical organizations, adds much to the spirit and worship of our Chapel and Vesper services with their music.

They presented a program at the Salvation Army Citadel on March 9. A number of the choir members took part in the "Messiah" which was presented in Pine Street Methodist Church on Sunday evening, December 8.

The choir is under the direction of Miss Florence Dewey, teacher of violin. Miss Caroline Budd, teacher of piano, is the accompanist.

Greater Dickinson Banquet

SPIRITS ran high as the largest crowd in the history of the school turned out to make the twentieth annual Greater Dickinson Banquet a distinct success on February 21.

The gymnasium, transformed into a lustrous banquet hall, with red, white, and blue streamers blended deliciously with a variety of spring flowers, gave evidence of the industry of the committeemen.

Entertainment during the meal was provided by the Singing Strings. After enjoying their tasty portions of turkey with all the trimmings, the guests delightfully responded to the leadership of Mr. Thomas E. Francis in a number of group songs. Dr. William Mather Lewis, introduced by Dr. Long as the speaker of the evening, delivered a masterful address on "The Broader Meaning of National Defense."

The alumni committee this year was headed by Mr. John B. Davis, Richard Vanderlin was chairman of the student committee, while Mr. Frank Ake did a marvelous bit of publicizing the banquet.

Senior Prom

THE most attractive of this year's social events at Dickinson was the Annual Senior Prom. For the past four years a committee has been appointed, and it, at once, begins its plans for a bigger and better dance. With Charlie Maynard and Dick Enterline as co-chairmen, this year's Prom held on May 9 was no exception.

The biggest surprise of that evening came when the girls were given their favors, as they entered the door. Each girl received a beautiful saddle-leather wallet engraved with a gold "D".

As the couples entered the ballroom (the gym in a disguise of Spring Fantasy) the music of Harold Hazen and his orchestra (voted the most popular band on three of the outstanding Eastern campuses) could be heard. Together with the yellow, green, and lavender decorations, the music gave everyone the urge to dance. And dance they did as from nine to one o'clock the orchestra kept the party lively and thrilling.

As all good things come to an end much too soon, so did our 1941 Prom, but not so soon will it be forgotten by the students and alumni.

Lecture and Entertainment

WE students are grateful to this committee, headed by Miss Lulu Richardson. The lectures and entertainments were of a remarkably high quality, and provided us with a release from the stress and strain of our academic labors.

Included in the series were lectures by Will Durant and Ruth Bryan Owen, musical entertainment by the Siberian Singers, and a chemistry show.

A new feature was added to the program this spring in the form of an art exhibition presented by Miss Harriet Roth and Mr. Sponsler, faculty members of the Art department. It had formerly been the custom to invite guest artists to exhibit their work, but it was felt that a higher interest in art could be aroused and maintained by exhibiting the works of persons familiar to the students.

Theta Pi Pi

President	-	-	-	-	Richard Vanderlin
Secretary	-	-	-	-	Fred Moore
Treasurer	-	-	-	-	Charles Diehl

A GAIN the Alpha chapter of the Theta Pi Pi fraternity submits its annual bid for social recognition and appraisal. It was a busy, happy year for all the fraters and it is with pride that they point to their long list of activities. The fraternity is a wide-awake organization and a definite credit to the school.

It will be many, many years before the Theta's active in '41 will forget the formal and informal initiations, the theatre party and dance, the bowling party (one Theta, Bill Smith, came through with a 265 score), the smoker, the punch party before the prom, the banquet, the weiner roast, swimming at Vanderlin's, or even the weekly meetings.

Aside from its amusement value, and by far the more important, is the fraternity's training in cooperation and divergence of enthusiasm into useful channels.

The Theta Pi Pi fraternity is the only secret organization on our campus. It is without question the most exclusive. Their ranks are filled with dean-listers and the ultra-social minded, and the organization is one that Dickinson is proud to acknowledge.

COACHING STAFF

COACH'S MESSAGE

THERE is a lot more to coaching than the box score reflects. Through athletics the coach can go a long way in aiding boys to see issues of character and matters of health, condition and mental alertness, as sports have a hold on the normal boy which studies rarely can ever hope to duplicate.

The man who guides the destinies of young athletes should not miss upon this opportunity to serve them. Set up certain standards and hold to them. Don't ever weaken on these ideals and in the long run they will bear fruit.

To the class of 1941 I'd like to discuss the question frequently asked of a coach: "What are the chances of so and so making a college team?" This question along with many others of a similar nature make it necessary to analyze the attributes one considers most important in the success of a high school player qualifying for a college team.

Some basketball coaches who have enjoyed a certain degree of achievement, attribute the success of their team during a given season to excellent team play, a wonderful defense, perfect passing, good shooting, or to better-than-average material or natural players. An individual may have excellent offensive and equally good defensive ability but to me there are many other factors that contribute toward making a great basketball player. These characteristics may seem trivial and may be overlooked by many of the coaches, yet they appear to me to be the very foundation on which any great athletic team is built; and no team is stronger than the weakest player in the line-up.

One characteristic is leadership-----

Many boys appear to have the physical make-up for varsity players and come to college with a record of years of experience on their high school team, but never become better than the average due to the lack of ability to think ahead: to use their thought powers. As a result they become mechanical in the execution of the fundamentals. They always lack "that something" which enables a man to rise to the occasion and meet a challenge with inspired playing. These men may have considerable success due to their physical make-up but the team spirit and morale is not benefited much by their presence. MY IDEAL is the man who is versed soundly in fundamental technique as a background and in addition is able to think, to plan, and give inspired leadership to the team.

Another important factor is the player's ability to discriminate in his desire to learn—in plain words, just keeping his eyes and his mind open for pointers which he might add to his own individuality and personality to improve his game. Self-satisfaction to me is an unpardonable sin. The player who is satisfied with himself and is not anxiously looking for opportunities for daily improvement ought to be wrapped up and mailed to the intramural department for his recreation.

*Smith, Trainer; Mitchell, Gearhart, Hanley, Hewitt, Finks; Kcator, Manager
Camp, Nixon, Schneider, Jobstou, Garland, Bowers, Weidler
Babcock, Rauff, Mayer, Elder, Myers, Conley, Moore, Sansalone
Williams, Morocco, Eberhart, Merrill, Smith, Cadle, Bricker; McKay, Coach*

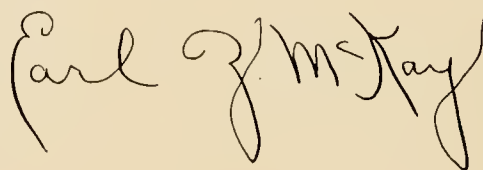

Another characteristic is temperament. —

Emotional stability is a desirable asset. A player must be calm, cool, and collected in his thoughts when the game becomes tense and success or failure hinges on perfection of individual and team play.

There is one other characteristic necessary for success and that is confidence. The player with an inferiority complex is in a pitiful condition. This situation can be overcome by tactful coaching and the proper encouragement to the young player. A player should never consider himself inferior to any man. Once he thinks that, his play is bound to suffer. He will fear to shoot and will look for some one to whom to make a pass, when in reality he is in a better position to shoot himself. Bad passes, fumbles, and infractions of the rules will result in making his removal from the game necessary for the success of the team.

Whenever a player is called upon to play against an opponent with a great reputation he should consider himself equal to the task, stick out his chin, put the bit in his mouth, and with a determined look in his eye, rise to the occasion and prove his equality. The player who has confidence in himself and his ability is usually dependable, courageous, and possesses an unbeatable spirit that is an inspiration to his teammates and his playing is really remarkable to the spectators. He is not conceited, never gets panicky, but he is self-reliant and that young man, when the test comes, is ready to produce results.

Football

THE football training season was inaugurated when thirty men reported to Coach E. Z. McKay and Assistant Coach Joseph Babcock in the early days of September. Trainer Ernie Smith was on hand with his tape and liniment. It was obvious that the team would be lighter but faster than past Dickinson teams. After three weeks of intensive drilling in the fundamentals of the McKay system, the team was ready to commence hostilities.

George Washington Frosh 13      Dickinson 0

The season opened at home on October 5, the McKaymen meeting the George Washington Freshmen. The first half ended scoreless, as both teams played a marvelous defensive game, but with the beginning of the third quarter the tremendous weight advantage of the opponents became the deciding factor. The boys from the Nation's capital scored first on a long run, and then on a pass, to triumph.

Maryland Frosh 7      Dickinson 7

The second game found Dickinson invading College Park, Maryland, to battle the Western Maryland Freshmen on October 12. Having patched their wounds of the previous week, the Hilltoppers were determined to avenge their defeat, but to no avail. The "season of ties" had begun, and no effort was sufficient to altar the inexorable decree of Fate. The Gold and White played grand football throughout the entire game against a heavier opponent, the struggle ending in a 7-7 deadlock.

Scranton-Keystone 7      Dickinson 7

With a strengthened defense and a more closely coordinated offense, the boys and Mac were eagerly awaiting the invasion of an underdog Scranton-Keystone eleven. Scoring in the first three minutes of play, it seemed that Dickinson had at last headed for the victory column, but the opposition came back with a terrific display of offensive ball to tie the score.

Wyoming Seminary 0      Dickinson 0

Wyoming Seminary, traditional rival, made the Homecoming complete for the returning alumni. It was a typical Dickinson-Wyoming contest, packed with sixty minutes of thrills. The McKay proteges came within scoring distance time after time, only to be met by the proverbial stone wall. For the third straight year the game ended in a tie, and we can claim no more than a moral victory.

And so another football season has ended at Dickinson. The boys possessed the spirit and ability characteristic of a McKay football machine. It was a grand team that represented our school on the gridiron this year—the student body is proud of them and their coaches.

Basketball

“CHAMPIONS IN ALL BUT NAME”—such are the 1940-41 hoopsters of Dickinson Junior College. Coach E. Z. McKay’s basketceers came within one game of winning the Northeastern Pennsylvania Basketball League Championship but were beaten out by the strong Scranton University Freshmen.

Employing a fast-breaking, razzle-dazzle style of offense that resembled a “blitzkrieg” in its powerful, lightning-fast attack, the McKaymen emerged on the long end of the score in eleven out of thirteen games and collected a total of 725 points as against their opponents 473.

Much credit is due to Coach McKay for a very excellent job of coaching but credit is also due to Cliff Allen, Joe Freeman, Bill Bowers, Joe Garland, Bill Finks, Ray Schneider, Jack Smith, Frank Camp, Duke Weidler, Johnny Morocco, and Bob Hawkins, for they are all great ball players. No one can question the statement that the 1940-41 ball club ranks and shall always rank among Dickinson’s greatest. We are justly proud of “our team”.

Resume

Keystone Junior College

A poor beginning makes a good ending, so the old proverb goes and there may be some truth in it for the first basketball game of the 1940-41 season spelled defeat for Dickinson Junior College, 43 to 37 at the hands of the Keystone Junior College team and the last game of the season spelled victory over the same team: 55 to 26. Keystone was one of the two teams that were able to stand up under the flashy play of the hilltop boys and come out on top. Perhaps one reason for their success was that the McKaymen were playing their first game on a strange court and with only two weeks' practice behind them. At any rate, the second meeting of the two schools left no question as to which was the superior team.

Bucknell Junior College

Immediately following the Christmas vacation the Gold Bugs struck their stride and in their first home game conquered in "blitzkrieg" style the Bucknell Junior College team from Wilkes-Barre 51 to 42. Three weeks later Dickinson again swamped Bucknell Junior College 28 to 39.

Bucknell Freshmen

The two games between Dickinson and Bucknell Freshmen, came only five days apart. Both games, the first on Bucknell's home court and the second on Dickinson's home court, were won by the McKaymen by nine points with scores of 41 to 32 and 47 to 38, respectively.

Scranton Freshmen

The second defeat of the season came at the hands of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Basketball League leaders, Scranton University Freshmen on their home court 47 to 32. The Hilltopper's attack bogged a bit in the last half of the game and Scranton put on the pressure to pile up the points. The "Sem boys" left that game with only one thought in mind, "Beat Scranton in the return game," and so they did seven days later by the narrow margin of 49 to 46.

Wyoming Seminary

The hearts of all loyal Dickinsonions burned with joy at the terrific beatings the Golden team handed their traditional rivals this season. At the first meeting on Wyoming's small court the McKaymen banished the home team by the lopsided score of 70 to 30. This was the first time in twenty years that Dickinson has defeated Wyoming on their home court. The return game was just as lop-sided with Dickinson again coming out on top, 52 to 21.

Juniata Frosh -- Dickinson Frosh -- Cornell J. V.

Juniata Freshmen, Dickinson Freshmen, and the Cornell Junior Varsity all fell under the powerful playing of the Hilltop boys in four non-league games (Juniata playing twice). Dickinson had an easy time defeating the Juniata Frosh, 80 to 37 and 63 to 31. Dickinson Frosh fell even easier 40 to 12 while the Cornell J. V. team offered a little more competition, but the McKaymen came out on top 52 to 36.

Minor and Intramural Sports

ALTHOUGH the glory of old Dickinson has been upheld by the magnificent work of the football and basketball teams, considerable rivalry has been established among teams of various sorts and descriptions representing dorm halls, fraternities, classes, and clubs.

Many were the evenings we watched the fourth and fifth or fifth and sixth halls battle it out in the preliminary games with "Ref" Bricker calling the fouls.

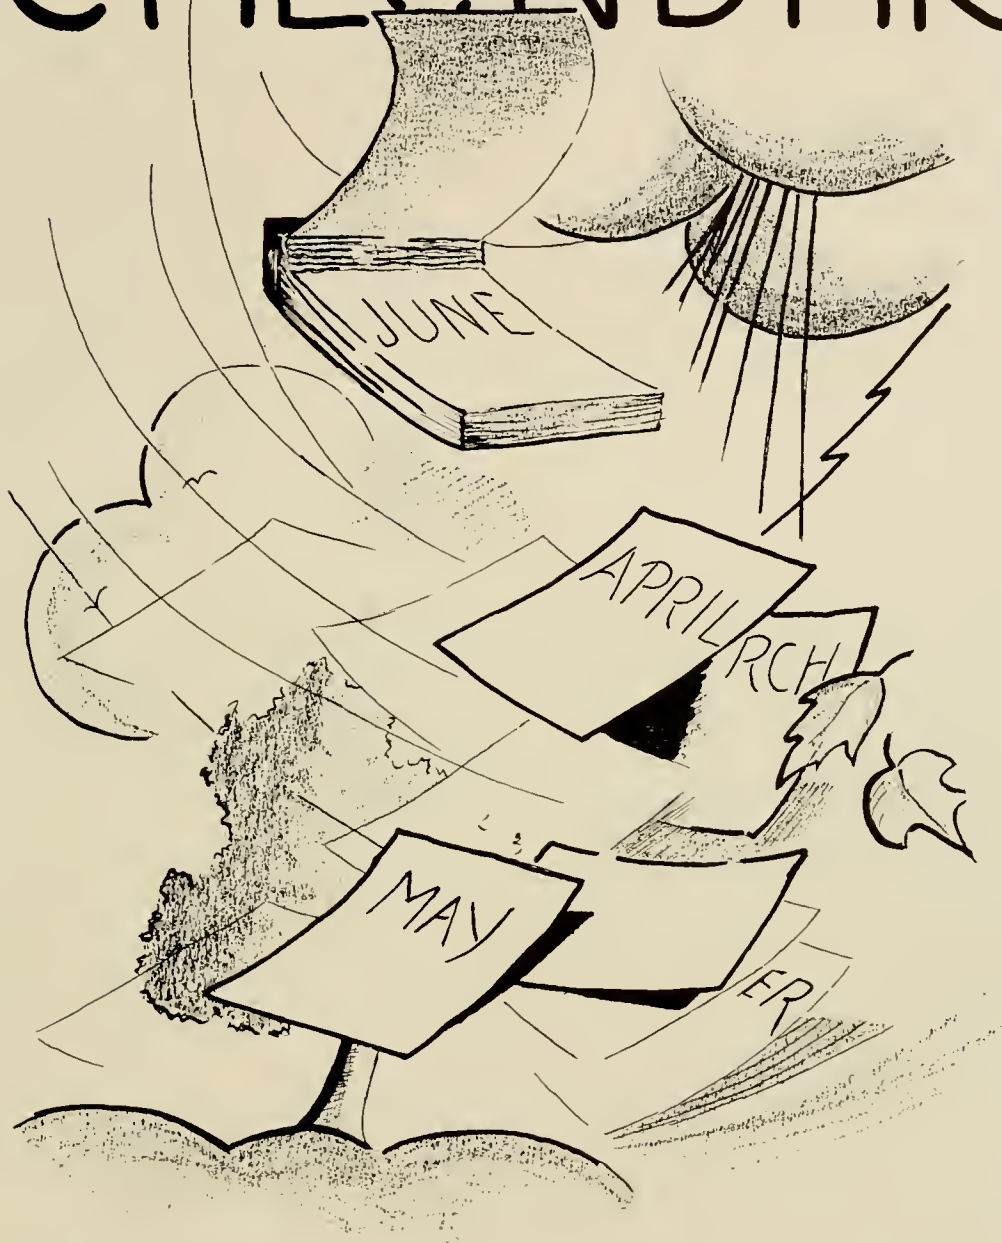

Tennis got an early start last Fall. Before school got rightly started "Mac" and Prof. Hancock had a spirited tournament under way. Betty Ann Francis came through in fine style in the girls' division. Dan Knittle won the boys' singles. Betty Ann and Clark Holman couldn't be stopped in mixed doubles.

Often on gym days we could hear thunder emanating from the bowling alleys as the balls ran down for that last strike—or— The girls were organized into teams and competition waxed hot during the winter months.

New in the line of sports is the life-saving course offered this year to both boys and girls. The course, when completed, offered the participants the advantage of a senior life-saving rating.
