FOREWORD

$\tau$His issue of the yearbook marks two firsts: it is the first edition to be published by a senior class of Lycoming College, and it is the first edition under the new name-The Arrow.

It is the hope of the staff that this issue of the yearbook will serve as a record of the first year of the college's history as a four-year, degrec-granting college, and that in future years it will serve as a reminder to the alumni of the happy associations they had during their undergraduate days.

James W. Sterling

DEDICATION

O JANIES W. STERLING, associate professor of English, who came to the former Williamsport-Dickinson Seminary first as a student and later as a teacher, The Arrow staff is proud to dedicate this edition of the yearbook.

He is one of the most popular professors at Lycoming College-one who is admired and respected by students, alumni, and faculty alike.

The Annow staff honors him not only as an excellent teacher but also as a kind and understanding friend.

John W. Long

President's Message

To the Members of the Class of 19+9, Lycoming College:

1 listory as a subject for study seems to some people uninterest ing, but history in the making is seldom dull. I need not remind you that you, as the first class to graduate and receive degrees Irom Lycoming College, are making history.

Through the century through which our institution has operated, whether as a Preparatory school or Junior College, a large perectage of our graduates entered other institutions to complete their college work. Their loyalties were, therefore, divided and their interest apt to be more keen in the institution from which they graduated last. Since you are the first group who have done all your undergraduate work at Lycoming College, we hope you will take the lead in developing and organizing an ever increasing body of alumni with a deep interest in and an abiding loyalty to your college.

Your Alma Mater, as a fond parent, is interested in you not only while here but will follow you with fondest hopes and cager expectation as you go out to meet whatever life holds for you.

Sincerely,

Rich Hall Dedication, October 30, 1948

Rich Hall

OFFICERS

Junior Class History

The $19+9$ Junior Class of Lyeoming College can point with pride to the number of its participants in school activities. Probably no other class can boast of having such major positions as editor of the college newspaper: student government officers and captaincy of the varsity foothall team.

The class officers were also active in school functions. Frank Smith, president, served as a manager to the varsity sports of football and basketball. Vice President James Keller was elected co-captain of the football syuad along with junior classmate James Gore. Frances Wood, secretary, was hostess at several college events. 1 larold 1 lurwitz, treasurer, was center on the varsity basketball squad.

Of the five Student Covernment Association oflicial posts, three went to the Junior Class. They were: William Welch, first vice president; George Bellak, sccond vice president, and Marjorie Ferrell, secretary.

The Courier staff was headed by Nolan Smith, editor; Paul Arney, busimess manager, and Ben Thompson, managing editor. All of these students were of the Jumior Class.

These names do not, by far, complete the list of notables of the Junior Class of 1949, but perhaps it will suffice to mention a few. We are proud of them and of our college and we sincerely hope that each succeeding Junior Class may make its mark as these have done.

Sophomore Class

Sophomore Class History

One of the outstanding events in the minds of all sophomores is the opportunity to take charge of Freshman Week to which they were subjected the year before. The traditional celebration was, for the first time since the war, back to pre-war standards.

Two members of the Sophomore Class gained recognition by being elected to the Student Government Association. George Bellak was named second vice president and Jack Toohey was named treasurer.

Class officers elected in a vigorous campaign were: Richard Calkins. president: Frances Toohey, vice president: Mary Jane Rizzo, secretary: and Charles Edwards, treasurer.

The Sophomore Class may be proud of their achievements both as individuals and as a whole. Their contributions to growing Lycoming College are to be commended and the spirit in which they have joined in the activities on the campus is an example for future sophomore classes.

The four hundred fifty members of this year's freshman class were given an opportunity to become acquainted with each other early in the term. Freshman week, which began September 20, 19+8, consisted of dances, a pienic, and other socials which helped everyone to forget that first dismal, rain-soaked registration day.

Almost immediately, the major parties on campus launched a vigorous campaign to fill the class offices. After two hectic weeks, during which all kinds of political stunts were witnessed, the following officers were electedPresident, Thomas Bellew; Vice President, Charles Mitchell: Secretary, Nancy Hackenberry; Treasurer, Allan Hinkle.

After the strain of elections, everyone was ready for a hearty laugh. Much merriment wals caused by the freshmen hazing. During haze week it was not uncommon for one to observe a freshman girl, looking like a Ulbangi princess, with her hair in seventeen pigtails, to say nothing of the huge ballonns, for which toothpicks were carried as anchorage. All in all the hazing was done in good sportsmanship, and there was hardly a complaint from the unfortunate victims. The men, too, had their share of hazing, for, among other regulations, they were required to wear beanies (naturally much too small).

As the days passed and studies became more diflicult, the freshmen settled down to some hard work. By the time Christmas vacation came around, not one person wasn't ready for a rest. Of course, when this bricf respite from work came to an end, there were exams for which to prepare. However, the freshmen still held social affairs, one of which, the Freshman Tea, was a tremendous success. This tea, held in the new Rich Hall, was quite colorful with red and white decorations.

This year's class has the distinction of being the first freshman class of Lyconing College. This honor was well merited, in view of the endeavors of the class in scholarship, in government, and in general elliciency.

The Courier

In a year of rapid growth at Lycoming College, one of the most revised organizations on the campus was The Lycoming Courier, college newspaper.

Electing J. Nolan Smith as editor-in-chief for the 1948-49 term, the paper increased its size from four to eight tabloid pages and became a bi-weekly in place of the former monthly issue. Assisting Smith in this ambitious program were: Ben Thompson, managing editor; Paul Arney, business manager; Helen Troisi, news editor; Richard Dickson, feature editor; Anna Netta Livingston, consulting editor; Jack Peril, sports editor; and Charles Kocian, advertising manager.

Concentrating on news and activities, The Courier presented a more complete coverage of campus news and added carefully planned features on campus life and personalities, an increase in pictures, and a thorough sports department.

This year, the administration presented honor keys for publication work to those qualifying at the Senior Class Day exercises.

The improvement in the Courier stems from the untiring efforts of J. Nolan Smith, editor, the co-operation of the college administration, and the supervision of Dr. Eric V. Sandin, editorial adviser and Robert G. Wharton, Jr., business adviser.

Student Government Association

Of increasing importance at Lycoming College is the Student Covernment As sociation. Nore and more administrative functions are being handled by this group.

On October 22, 1948, Lycoming students elected the Key Party to guide them through the year. The all-college officers were as follows: Gcorge Houtz, president; William Welch, lirst vice president; George Bellak, second vice president; Marjorie Ferrell, secretary; and Jack Toohey, treasurer.

The function of the S. C. A. as set forth in its constitution was to have all classes. clubs, and student body work through their representatives, elected to the government, to promote student welfare and to co-ordinate affairs between the administration.

This year the S. G. A. drafted a new constitution. A revision committee, headed by Paul E. Arney, submitted suggestions and the committee then acted as a whole to incorporate the worthy ideas into a workable constitution.

Camera Club

The interests of the Camera Club are concentrated on general photography with special emphasis on processing and retouching. The activities of the club were greatly increased this year by the acquisition of new equipment. The darkroom, located in Memorial Hall, is completely furnished with modern and professional equipment.

Because of the nature of the organization and its limited activities, it was considcred necessary to elect three laboratory chicfs who had complete control over all photographic operations, while the business and organization duties were assumed by the officers.

The advisers to the club were Joseph N. Whitten, librarian, and the Rev. C. Herbert Picht, college chaplain. Club members selected to serve as officers were: William Diehl, president; Andrew Zecha, vice president; Willian Willis, secretarytreasurer, and Thomas Subock, Leonard Friedman and Richard LIman, laboratory chicfs.

Besides rendering special services to campus organizations throughout the year. the club sponsored several motion pictures on campus and presented an informal dance.

Dramatic Club

The Frill and Frown Dramatic Club, one of the most popular groups on the Lycoming College campus, enjoyed a most successful thespian year. The club presented one and three-act plays, bought additional scenery and joined a national fraternity.

Aniceto Malaret was elected president of the organization for the first term and was succeeded by Virginia Shope, vice president, during the second semester. Joan Jackson served as secretary and Marjorie Bender was the treasurer.
"I Like It Here," a three-act comedy by A. B. Shiffrin, was the club's winter selection. The east, headed by Malaret as Willie Kringle, included Teresa Sullivan, Albert Mortimer, Ilelen Troisi, Elmer Koons, Joanne Thompson, Ray Staley and Jack Toohey. Louise Frownfelter, speech and dramatics instructor directed the production. The new scenery and stage property purchased from the South Williamsport Summer Theater was used for the first time in this play.

The Delta Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fratemity, reappeared at Lycoming College after a lapse of several years because of the club's inactivity. Membership in this fraternity is based upon the activity in dramatic work by the individual.

A one-act play, "The Wedding," by John Kirkpatrick, starring Elmer Koons as the befuddled bridegroom, was presented to the members of the Williamsport Masonic organization in February.

French Club

The French Club, "Les Amis de la France," this year continued its policy of importing French film classics with the presentation of three motion pictures-the twopart "Les Miserables" ("Valjean" and "Cosette") and "Un Cannet de Bal."

Club officials were elected in the Fall. Aniceto Malaret served as president for the first semester. Beatrice Burman, vice president, took over the leadership of the club at the beginning of the second semester. Winifred Thompson and Betty Mae Brennar acted as secretary and treasurer respectively.

Throughout the year the French Club featured several outstanding speakers. Madame Simone Ungard discussed "The Characteristics of France and the United States," emphasizing the major differences between French and American thought.

In cooperation with the other language clubs, "Les Amis de la France" contributed to the purchase of a recording machine to be used to further the progress of the students in foreign languages.

Gloria F. Rebecchi and Roger E. Cogswell were advisers to the French Club.

German Club

The German Club was formed under the sponsorship of Miss Charlotte Finkenthal, assistant language professor, for the interest of a better understanding of the German language, literature and culture.

The club held its initial meeting early in November and at that time the following officers were elected to compose the executive board: Lee Summerson, president; Thomas Subock, vice president; Anne Gately, secretary; Max Mitchell, treasurer; and Barbara Fite, representative to Student Government Association.

The club meetings were usually held "in dem Drachen-Siale." The program chairman, Margaret Way, and the officers, planned many educational and enjoyable programs. Group singing, solos, and plays comprised the majority of the programs.

In pursuing its objectives, the organization sponsored a German movie, several radio broadeasts, and became more familiar with German folk dances and customs.

First Low, Laft to Light Smmmersun, Poitor, Barto, Cohiok, Lytle, Serlin, Rossein.

International Relations Club

The sponsors of the International Relations Club at Lycoming College, the Carnegie Peace Foundation, realize the worth of presenting world problems to the student; for today's student is tomorrow's citizen. Through the discussion of current world affairs the I. R. C. hopes to understand more fully the problems of peace.

The president of the local chapter, Dorothy Cohick, was assisted by Stanley Rosenberg, vice president; Donald Barto, treasurer and Mrs. Marsden Lytle, secretary.

In November the club was represented at The International Relations Club Convention at Pennsylvania State College by Miss Cohick and Rosenberg. The theme of the convention was, "How Can Friendly Relations Be Established Between The United States and The Soviet Union."

Appointed committees chose the subject to be debated at each meeting of the club. Among those selected were Spain, China, and Palestine.

Social activities included an outing at Rauchtown and the annual I. R. C. bancuet.

John Wesley Club

The purpose of the John Wesley Club is to give to its members an insight of the problems which they will have to face and how to overcome them. The club met on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month in the Fine Arts Building. Program plans included a speaker each mecting who presented something vital to the work of the church in relation to preparation for that task.

The president of the college, Dr. John W. Long, was the adviser lor this club. The counsclor was the Rev. C. Herbert Picht, head of the religion and philosophy departments and the college chaplain. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Burtt Sweet; vice president, Thomas Anderman; secretarytreasurer, Reginald Wheatley; program chairman, J. Paul Taylor; and publicity chairman, William Usher.

The Rev. Clair !. Switzer was named an honorary member in a club totaling thirty-eight members.

Special activities included a Christmas banquet, a meeting at Dr. Long's home, and lilling vacancies in some of the churches in the area.

Ski Club

The Lycoming College Shi Club, in this its second year of organization, adopted a club emblem and held a two-day outing at Wellsboro for the ski enthusiasts.

Club officers were: Richard Dickson, president; Audrey Sirkin, vice president; Majorie Bender, secretary-treasurer and Lee Goodwin, student government representative.

Wellsboro, famous for its natural beauty and ski runs, was the scene of a two-day shiiers holiday during semester vacation. Here the inembers of the club were versed in the various fundamentals of the skiing art.

The elub emblem, designed by the president, consisted of a felt shield with a pair of skiis crossed in the center. The multicolored pateh unmistakedly gave the novice skiers a professional air.

The experience and outdoor fun enjoyed by the club members proves the worth of a sports club at Lycoming College, for many students received the opportunity to engage in and learn a sport that they would not have ordinarily pursued.

Spanish Club

One of the most active clubs on campus this year was the Spanish Club under the advisership of Gloria F. Rebecehi, instructor in the language department. The diverse and attractive programs featured Spanish movies, South American dances, addresses on the Spanish-speaking countries of Puerto Rico and Venezucla, and the annual club banquet.

Club officials for the 1948-49 term were: Charles Kocian, president: Lois Hill, vice president; Doris Rutherford, secretary: Aniceto Malaret, treasurer and Charles McFalden, social ehairman.

William J. Geist, Muncy businessman, gave an eyc-witness account of last year's Venezuelan revolution. The Rev: C. D. Riggs, pastor of the Hepburnville Baptist Church, gave a lecture on Puerto Rico. The club also enjoyed several lessons in such favorite South American dances as the samba and the rumbal and two Spanish films.

In Nay the club met at the Village Tea Room in Williamsport for their annual banquet with authentic Spanish food on the menu.

Student Christian Association

With the Rev. C. Ilerbert Picht as their faculty adviser, the Student Christian Issociation took an active part on the campus this year.

The members selected Phillip Barnett, president; Reginald Wheatley, vice presipent; Doris Rutherford, secretary; Barbara Stenger, treasurer; Andrew Lady, program chairman: Richard Ilinkleman, recreation chairman; Ann Achard, refreshment chairman; Milton Johnson, publicity chairman; and Robert I Iover, community service chairman.

The S. C. These services continued throughout the school year which gave the boarding students, as well as the day students, the opportunity to hear sclected speakers who gave informative and helpful talks.

Each month an outing was planned for the students to enjoy. Included in the events was a "cook-out," participation in an old-fashioned hay ride, and a toboggan party.

The purpose of the S. C. $\lambda$. is to promote the Christian way of life, to give to every student the opportunity to enjoy real Christian fellowship, and to apply to every day living the teachings of lesus Christ.

Intercollegiate Zionists

The local chapter of the Intercollegiate Zionist Federation of America, organized this year on the Lycoming campus, proved to be an active and helplul group to the student body.

Beginning activities with a Bazaar to gain the needed funds to carry out the year's program, the Zionists brought noted lecturers and movies to the campus which were open to all students. In their club meetings they discussed world prob lems and especially the Palestine situation and the United Nations.

The club chose as its officers the following students: Saul Rossein, president; Anne Gateley, vice president; Joan Kaplan, secretary; and Leonard Friedman, treasurer.

One of the highlights of the school year was the appearance of the noted author Edward Manson and his wife as guest speakers in April. The Mansons discussed Palestine art and the development of the new state of lsracl.

The A Cappella Choir

The third season of the Lycoming A cappella Choir has been marked by real growth both in the quality of the Choir's work and in the expanding appreciation with which these singers are being accepted. The community as well as the college regards the service which the $\Delta$ cappella Choir renders as being genuinely distinctive.

As in the previous season the A cappella Choir prepared two full programs both of which were presented from memory to large audiences in Williamsport and elscwhere. Engagements of particular importance included an appearance before the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist Church which conrened in New York City in January and concerts sung for college young people at Gettysburg and State Collcge.

Since the A cappella Choir is chosen competitively from the entire student body "Tryout Day" in mid-May continues to be one of particular excitement. While representing the college in a fine way, the students selected have opportunities which are varied and great.

The Band

Lycoming College's first four-year college band was small but loud. The organization made up for its lack of numbers with rousing music at all the home football games in the Fall.

This growing unit of college life started in $19+7$ with a group of students who knew the value of a band towards building morale and school spirit. Mr. Osborne Housel, director, worked with them, giving his talents to the betterment of a Lycoming band.

This Fall new blue and gold uniforms arrived and the band sported the outfits at several events. The two majorettes, Helen Boyd and Jacqueline Brouse, twirled their batons and strutted in front, leading the band through marches and maneuvers.

It is hoped that students will continue to show school spirit and join the band in increasing numbers in the years to come.

Chi Rho Pi

Chi Rho Pi, newly organized social fraternity, has chosen, as its aim, "To bring fraternities and school activities closer together and to endeavor to bring about a greater feeling of unity between the students and the faculty."

To accomplish this end, the following officers were selected to begin a now fraternity: president, Charles Edwards; vice president, Gerald Clark; secretary, Geno Ciccarelli; treasurer, George McDonald; and historian, William Formica. Donald L. Larrabee, an instructor in the business department, was chosen fraternity adviser.

Formative plans for Chi Rho Pi were laid last year by three enterprising students. Gerald Clark, Charles Edwards and John I lackenberry met then at several informal gatherings to discuss the possibility of a new fraternity. Out of these sparse beginnings grew Chi Rho Pi.

Early in December the fraternity held a lormal pledge party in the Lycoming 1 lotel ballroom. Dr. John W. Long, president of Lycoming College and main speaker at the dinner-dance, emphasized the necessity of cooperation between fraternities and the college administration.

Lambda Phi Delta

Organized primarily as a social fraternity on February 25, 1948, the Lambda Phi Delta fraternity's aim is to promote brotherhood and build character. Through loyalty and hard work it strives to promote the attributes of its members, but its recognition of its responsibilities does not end here. In an effort to make of its members wellintegrated personalities, its ritual includes recognition of the pre-eminent position of God. By being restricted to a comparatice few, the fraternity believes its best results can be attained.

As testimony to the success which the fraternity has had, mute evidence could be offered through the medium of the high scholastic average of its members, and the position of importance held by its members in the extra-curricular activities about campus.

Officers elected for the 1948-49 term were: Bruce Crissy, president; Donald Ballentine, vice president; Edward Higgins, secretary; Alan Ochrig, treasurer; Bruce Benson, sergeant-at-arms; Wilson Wheeler, chaplain; and Richard Dickson, historian.

Theta Pi Pi

Organized in 1896, the Theta Pi Pi fraternity celebrated its fifty-third anniversary this year. This organization holds great prestige on the campus and is an outstanding example and guiding light for the younger fratemity groups who are undertaking their initia\} formation.

Officers elected this year were: George Smith, president; Bruce Smay, secretary; I larold Bronson, treasurer; Willian King, sergeant-at-arms; and Henry Long, chaplain.

Pledge parties and banquets served to mark the social activities of the fraternity this year.

An alumni bulletin was issued for the first time in the history of the order during the first semester to bring a closer relationship between the active members and Theta Pi Pi's more than five hundred alumni members.

Zeta Delta Kappa

The Zeta Delta Kappa fraternity was organized on the campus of Lycoming Coltege in the Spring of 1947, and is the result of the diligence and ingenuity of its faculty adviser and eight charter members. The Zetas are a well-integrated group and herein lies the proof of their strength.

The aims of the Zeta Delta Kappa fraternity are to inculcate the principles of knowledge, constancy and brotherly love; to promote the welfare of the members; and to establish fellowship.

The faculty adviser of the fraternity is John P. Graham, assistant professor of English. The officers for the past year were: Cecil Cleveland, president; Wilbur Ritter, first vice president; Kenneth Brungard, second vice president; William Caldwell, secretary; Richard Hinebaugh, treasurer; Henry Lucas, sentinel; Bruce Starr, conductor; Richard I Iinkleman, chaplain; Warren Artley, historian; Michael Pace and Theodore Preun, Inter-Fraternity Council representatives; and Paul Arney, student government representative.

With the return of twenty eight active members this year, the social season was inaugurated by pledge parties and dances.

Zeta Tau Beta

Zeta Tau Beta was organized in May of 1948. This honorary business fratemity boasts of being the only professional organization at the college.

Installed in the principal offices for this year were: Andrew Lauw Zecha, president; William Devaney, vice president; Thomas Dunkleberger, treasurer; Robert Moyer, secretary; LeRoy Edwards, Jr., sergeant-at-arms; and the Rev. I Ierbert C. Picht, chaplain.

This fratemity sponsored the highly successful Harvest Ball held on the campus last October. Aso in this month, twenty business majors, chosen from upper-classmen. were accepted as pledges.

Listed on Zeta Tau Beta's honorary member roll are the following men: Leo C. Williamson, Mayor of Williamsport; the Rev. Herbert C. Picht, college chaplain and instructor of religion; Frederick U. Wells of the college business department; Harold 1. Hinkleman, accounting professor; Robert G. Wharton, Ir., college busincss manager; and LeRoy Edwards, Sr., local alderman.

Inter-Fraternity Council

The Inter-fraternity Council was organized this year to establish the principles of co-operation, justice and fellowship, and to promote and encourage an altruistic spirit among the fraternities of Lycoming College.

Officially, the IFC constitution was approved in December by Dr. John W. Long, president of Lycoming College, and was ratified by the member fraternities in February.

The objective of this organization is to discuss questions of mutual interest and present to its members recommendations that will best further campus fraternities.

Each fraternity is represented in the IFC by an elected member as an aid both to the IFC in accomplishing its aims and to the individual fraternities in forming resolute policies.

Officers elected for the 1948-49 term were: John Skoog, president; William King, vice president; and Paul E. Arncy, secretary-treasurer.

Climaxing the year's activities was the frrst IFC Ball held at the Lycoming 1 lotel in May when an IFC Queen, I lelen Troisi, was chosen.

FOOTBALL

Lycoming 0 . . . Ithaca 25

A fast moving Ithaca College eleven defeated the injury-riddled forces of Lycoming. A third period razzle-dazzle passing attack was Lycoming's outstanding offensive bid for a score.

Lycoming 6 . . Brockport S. T. C. 12
The Warriors dropped their second successive game of the young season at Brockport, New York, as they were edged 12-6. Brockport's edge in the running attack decided this contest.

Lycoming 7 . . Kings 12

A last minute bid for victory by Lycoming College failed, and Kings won a hard fought football game. Coach Baer's men led in the final period, but Kings came from behind for the victory.

Lycoming 6 . . . Wyoning Seminary 13

In the final meeting between these two schools, Lycoming absorbed its fourth straight defeat. Wyoming Seminary displayed an unusually good passing attack on a very muddy field to win this one.

A powerful and aggressive Wilkes eleven proved too much for the Warriors of Lycoming to handle. Again, the only shining light in Lycoming's offensive bids was its passing attack.

The Bloomsburg eleven, which finished the season undefeated, drubbed the smaller eleven from Lycoming College to the tune of $\mathbf{4 7 - 0}$. The heavier Bloomsburg tean won as they pleased.

Lycoming 6 . . . Western Maryland J. V. If
Lycoming finished a winless campaign as Western Maryland rallied in the last half to give the Lycoming team its seventh straight loss. Lycoming's only bid for victory was a 6 -0 half-time lead.
