WORLDS LARGEST BATTLESHIP

With the launching of the Texas the United States navy counts as its proud possession the biggest and the most powerful battleship the world has ever seen.

The Texas, with all of her stores aboard will displace 28,367 tons, or 1000 tons more than the great Arkansas, now about ready for commission. She is 573 feet long, 95 feet 2½ inches beam, so that she will have almost fifteen feet to spare in passing through the Panama canal locks. Her draft will be 28 feet 6 inches and her speed 21 knots, which would have been high speed for a cruiser a few years ago.

In the second place, the Texas will be the first ship in the world to carry fourteen-inch guns. She will have ten of them distributed in five turrets arranged on a central line from stem to stern. The biggest guns now afloat in the American navy are the thirteen-inch rifles of the famous old Oregon type, while the best that the British navy can do is to point to their 13.5 inch guns on their latest battleships.

In addition to these great guns, the new American ship will carry no fewer than sixteen five-inch rifles, in place of the little three and four inch guns that were formerly regarded as sufficient for the secondary battery.

DEPTH OF THE OCEANS

The ocean has been sounded in nearly all directions with modern appliances, and these soundings show that the floor of the ocean consists of vast undulating plains lying at an average depth of about two and a half miles beneath the surface of the waves. In some places huge ridges and cones rise from these submerged plains to within a few hundred fathoms of the sea surface, or they may rise above the surface as volcanic islands and coral atolls.

The greatest depth in the North Pacific is 5269 fathoms. The greatest depth in the Atlantic is between the West Indies and Bermuda, 4662 fathoms. The greatest depth in the Indian Ocean is 3828 fathoms. We now know fifty-six points where the depth exceeds three geographical miles, ten areas where the depth exceeds four miles and four places where it exceeds five miles.

THE LITTLE SUFFRAGETTE

She wouldn't know a ballot if she saw one,

She doesn't care for Roosevelt or Taft;

She couldn't tell a "crooked" poll from a raw one,

And never dreamed of Senatorial graft.

She never prates of woman's real position

And, up to date, has never cared for strife.

She hasn't much to say about ambition—

She couldn't make a speech to save her life.

She's dainty as a morning-glory petal,
She's sunny as the brightest morn in May.

She leaves the votes to folk of sterner metal

Because she's only two years old today.

If stubborn men could catch her dimpled greeting

And get one chance her curly head to pet;

They'd sanction women's voting—yes, repeating!

Everyone loves a baby suffragette.
