W. S. POORMAN GIVES THERMOMETER

One of the most unique and at the same time sensible advertising schemes ever heard of in Palmyra or vicinity can be credited to W. S. Poorman, real estate and insurance man of this place, and is in the shape of a monster steel thermometer.

The instrument is twelve feet high and two feet wide. The glass tube containing the mercury is eight feet in height. As is usual in these instruments all the necessary numbers appear on the face, and in addition clever advertising calling attention to Mr. Poorman's business.

The thermometer is placed at Main and Railroad streets.

PALMYRA TO GET SILK MILL

Palmyra Citizens Are Asked to Subscribe $10,000 to Get Plant

Representatives of the Hass Realty Company, of Reading, were in Palmyra conferring with some of the business men in the interests of a company who propose erecting a silk mill in Palmyra, provided sufficient inducements are granted.

The company have invested $20,000.00 in machinery and materials, and ask the citizens of that place to guarantee them $10,000.00, upon which they are willing to pay a low rate of interest, to be paid back at a time to be stated.

The company will require between one and two acres of ground suitably located upon which to erect the mill.

A roll of dollar bills pulled out of the pocket with a flourish looks richer than a modest purse lined with hundreds, and that's why so many people flash a roll.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

In spite of the rain the Derry Presbyterian Church was filled on Sabbath evening when the annual Children's Day program was rendered. The church was beautifully decorated, by a committee appointed for that purpose, with peonies, daisies, clover and other flowers. The service was in charge of Irving L. Reist, superintendent of the school. There was special music by the school, and the children rendered several special recitations and songs. A brief address was made by Mr. Gee on the subject of Sabbath School Missions and the Silver Anniversary of the organization of Sabbath School Missions. An offering was made to the work of the Board of Publication and Sabbath School Work. Those who were not present on Sabbath evening and have not presented their offering may do so next Sabbath afternoon.

HAY FEEDING PEN.

May Be Used in Supplying Fodder to Stock in the Fields.

A great many farmers turn their stock into fields in the spring and feed them hay from the stack. Often they haul out the hay and throw it on the ground. While the stock may get a good deal of it, they will necessarily trample a lot of it into the ground or so befoul it by running over it that they will refuse to eat it. Here is a good plan for making a hay pen into which the hay may be thrown: Set four posts into the ground, one at each corner of a parallelogram 6 by 8 feet. Nail strong 2 by 4's to these posts every foot from the ground to the height of three feet. Leave a space wide enough for stock to get their heads through easily and nail another 2 by 4 or attach strong barbed wire in its place. This will keep the stock from jumping into the pen. If 2 by 4 pieces cannot be obtained strong poles secured from the timber and trimmed at ends so they can be nailed may be used instead.—Iowa Homestead.

GOOD HAY PEN.

HOUSEFLIES AS CARRIERS OF DISEASE

Flies spread tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, summer complaint and fevers of babies by carrying disease from one to another.

Keep everything clean and there will be no flies.

Don't let flies have a place to lay their eggs.

Keep covered all places where young flies may be hatched.

Put screens at windows and doors. Where dirt is, there are flies.

A college professor, noted for strict discipline, entered the classroom one day and noticed a girl student sitting with her feet in the aisle, and chewing gum.

"Mary," exclaimed the indignant professor, "take that gum out of your mouth, and put your feet in."
