Fast Team After Travelers Scalp on Friday Evening

On Friday evening the fast basketball quintet representing the Scranton Lace quintet representing the Scranton Lace Company, of Scranton, will be the attraction at the Hershey-Men's Club, playing the Hershey Men's Club, playing the Hershey Travelers. The game will be called at 8 o'clock. The admission will be 35 cents. The proceeds will be donated to the treasury of the 1925 Hershey baseball team.

The Scranton basketball team have a string of victories to their credit and will make the Travelers step a leg to win the victory.

The Scranton team is composed of young men about 20 years old, and are employed by the Scranton Lace Company.

Hershey was chosen.

Let's pack the gymnasium on Friday evening and give the boys from Scranton a royal welcome. We'll see a good game, and we'll help fatten the treasury of the boys who hope to "hit them where they ain't", when the blue birds warble in Hershey Park this Summer.

See the Total Eclipse at Hershey Central Theatre Tonight

As an added feature on Thursday (tonight) at the Hershey Central Theatre Fox News will show pictures taken during the recent total eclipse of the sun.

These pictures vividly depict the total eclipse. Scores of cameramen covered the event of the centuries from all possible angles. Leading scientists co-operated with the new's cameramen to produce complete, accurate and beautiful pictures of this most rare of celestial phenomena.

Cameramen were sent above the clouds in aeroplanes in order to make striking in aeroplanes in order to make striking

The results attained were marvelous, astounding and awe-inspiring.

Don't fail to see this picture—an opportunity of a life time.

See how the sun's corona looks from the air! See the skyline of New York growing darker and darker! See what the people and animals did when the moon blotted out the rays of the sun! See how famous astronomers worked during the eclipse! See how the eclipse was caused!

Travelers Nosed Out by Two Points

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 28th, the Berks team, of Lebanon, defeated the Hershey Travelers by the score of 29 to 31, in the most sensational game played on the Men's Club floor this season. It was a nip and tuck affair throughout, first one and then the other team being in the lead. At no time during the entire game were the teams separated by more than four points. From the first tip off the fans were on their feet cheering the sensational shots of both teams, the excitement becoming more intense as the game progressed. With one minute to play the Lebanonians were leading by one point. A foul was called on the Travelers which their opponents converted into a point. The Travelers then tried long shots but were unable to come across with the winning marker.

At half time, Benny Reigle and Sam Curry indulged in a most interesting scrap, which was stopped in the second round, when one of the laces on Curry's glove cut "Benny" on the bridge of the nose. Benny was game and continued to fight in spite of the flow of blood, but referee Douglass very wisely decided to stop the bout so that Reigle could receive

We are, "The Smoke Stack."

Which one? The smokiest one, of course. We were pretty cheeky to choose such an elevated name. The smoke stack is one of the most elevated subjects of the town. We shall have to burn, we fear, a great deal of midnight oil to live up to our lofty appellation, but we hope that, in one respect at least, this cloumn will prove to be a real smoke stack. We hope it will have HERSHEY written all over it.

Now if you will imagine someone breaking a bottle of Cocoa Milk over "The Smoke Stack," thereby christening it, we shall consider it named and ready to take up its functions (if it has any) in our town.

We will now be favored with a song and dance by the Neapolitan Quartet entitled,

"I Saw Her First in Hershey." I saw her first in Hershey Store, She was a comely lass, And all the girls I'd seen before Weren't even in her class.

She beat them all in ev'ry weigh. Then, too, her thoughts had weight The scales revealed when she weighed in Two hundred thirty-eight.

She looked at us so sauer kraut, And tears were in her eyes,
"I guess I'll diet me," she quoth,
"And take some exercise.

Alas! alass had made resolve To diet and get thin,
Divide her waist by three and to Erase her double chin.

She did her daily doesn't while She ate her mayonnaise. She kept the treatment up they say, For six or seven days.

But she is eating onions now And other solid food, For she declares her sacrifice Did not a bit of good.

So far this year the girl in the galoshes has not complained about not getting her money's worth out of her zippers.

Out in Chicago they assign a reason for increased electric bills. They say, blame the radio and the cross-word puzzle, the radio because it uses current when it is recharged, the cross-word puzzle because everyone goes by himself to work out a solution and to beat the rest of the family. This keeps more lights in use. Then too, with so much entertainment in the home more and more people are becoming stay-at-homes and are keeping the home fires,

They think because the pool rooms and the burlesque shows are not running overtime, and be-cause the streets are not full of loafers, that life in such a place would be unlivable. But, believe me, brother, this is just the kind of a town I like. Everyone here has a job, there is little discontent and crime, there is lots of money, and consequently, from such a community, I am able to send in big orders to my firm.

"They also serve who only stand and wait."
Thus wrote John Milton, the Puritan

poet. But most people, after waiting about so long for something to turn up, lose faith in this great truth and start rustling for a job. Last Friday morning, when the trolleys

There are still a few unenlightened souls, in this otherwise intellectual nation of ours, who do not even secretly believe that the Ground Hog is always right.

Badlands Lauded by Teddy Roosevelt

It was Theodore Roosevelt who first sang the praises of the beauty of the Bad-lands of Dakota. In his various books of his early life the beloved Colonel often spoke of the Paradise of the West, where he had trailed bear and bison in their native haunts.

Tom Mix, who fought with Roosevelt's troops in the Spanish-American war, idolized the celebrated leader of the Rough Riders and in later years was an ardent reader of the Colonel's books of the West. When William Fox decided to make a motion picture from Clarence E. Mulford's fied Mix. The latter already had read the story and realized that here was an opportunity to stage a picture in the actual locations so highly praised by Colonel Research

In the past all so-called "Western" screen plays were made in California and the public now recognizes most of the "select" locations the moment they are flashed on the silver sheet. This was another reason Tom Mix desired to stage "The Deadwood Coach" in the actual pitfalls of life.

As a result, the entire company, including supporting players the director, technical directors, cameramen and studio workers traveled to the Bad Lands to make the exteriors. The result is a triumph of picturesque photography. Everything that the beloved T. R. ever said about the beauty of the Dakota Bad Lands is visualized.

Doris May is seen opposite Mix in "The Deadwood Coach," which was directed by Lynn Reynolds. It will be given its initial local presentation at the Hershey Central Theatre on Tuesday evening, Feb 10th, at 7.30 o'clock.

A Sphinx, in ancient Greek legend, was a monster, which appeared in Boeotia, and killed all the inhabitants who could not solve a riddle which she propounded to them. The riddle was "What animal is it that has four feet, and two feet, and three that has four feet, and two feet, and three feet, and only one voice; yet its feet vary, and when it has most it is weakest?"
Oedipus answered rightly, "Man; for he crawls on all fours as an infant, and in old age moves on his feet and a staff." Upon this the Sphinx slew herself.

|Hershey Beats Annville | Hersheyites Interview Brer Groundhog

Out into the stubble fields, across the icy wastes, Roy Lloyd, "Pabst" Zentmeyer, Wm. Geiling and Bill Curtis fared forth on Groundhog Day that to obtain information from Brer Groundhog himself. The rain dripped down thru the bare branches. The ground was soggy, when it wasn't mucky with rusty snow. The rain dripped down the necks of these stalwart Hersheyites. But, they won, altho their quest was much delayed.

Tripping with a certain quaint manner came a small, dark, furry form. A squeaky voice reached the ears of our rapt observers.

"How much wood would a woodchuck chuck;

'Ave, how much wood would---' "Fe, fi, fo, fum, I smell the blood of a Dutchman", said the groundhog, inter-rupting himself, "what do you want out here on Joe Clark's farm, do you want to scare his rabbits?"

"Please, sir"—said they, we want to interview you about Groundhog day." "Great squeaking Zalamdodongs!" said the ground hog, "are you fellows at it again."
"This is February 2", explained Wm.

Jackie Coogan in "A Boy of Flanders" Saturday Evening

ISSUED EVERY THURSDAY

Jackie Coogan as a little Belgian boy clumsy, clattering wooden shoes and patched jacket with large buttons of assorted shapes and sizes—Jackie Coogan as little Nello, the immortal hero of Oulda's story, will be seen at the Hershey Central Theatre on Saturday evening, Feb. 7th, at 6.30 o'clock and 8.30 o'clock.

Another triumph is scored by this mysteriously gitted child in a story as different from "Long Live the King" as the latter is different from "Oliver Twist." Jackie's medium in this, his second Metro picture, is "A Boy of Flanders," adapted from Ouida's story, "A Dog of Flanders," and the adaptation has been made with the greatest skill. The story is reproduced on the screen with a fidelity rarely to be observed and not a single

Never has Jackie appeared more effectively, and it is safe to say that in "A Boy of Flanders" he touches tragic heights never before revealed in any Jackie Coogan cold and the snow with his dead compan-ion, the noble-hearted dog Petrasche as his only solace? Such an ending would be too harrowing.

As it is, the hearts of all who see this As it is, the hearts of all who see this picture are sufficiently wrung and there is a sigh of relief and then the joy of a great delight when—but you must see "A Boy of Flanders" for yourself. It is like fine music—it cannot be described. It is played with strokes that words cannot define nor explain. It is Jackie at his best, and it will add even to the fame that is already his.

and it will add even to the fame that is already his.

Victor Schertzinger's direction of the picture brings out the genius of the gifted boy while the supervision of details as cared for by Jackie Coogan, Sr., discloses him as one of the most effective producers in the motion picture industry.

Free Toxin-Antitoxin Treatments at Hershey

Not so many years ago diphtheria was the black enemy of childhood. All over the world it claimed a frightful toil. And the tragedy was that three-quarters of its victims were little tots under six-hardly more than babies. Swiftly it struck with a deadly result—without warning, and there was no sure way to combat it. Then came antitoxin. Children who received this treatment at once enjoyed a Antitoxin is effective only after diph Sphinx is represented as a lion without wings, with a human head; while the Greek Sphinx is a winged lion with a woman's head.

Antitoxin is effective only after diphtheria develops. It checks the progress of the disease, but it does not give lasting protection.

Now comes a great triumph of medical spinals and Geo. Feeser.

Today, eminent specialists state posi-tively and definitely that through modern preventive treatment diphtheria can be stamped out! Some children are able to resist the germs of diphtheria. Others are not. This treatment consists of three injections of toxin-antitoxin, one injection each week for a period of three weeks. Authorities agree that the toxin-anti-toxin treatment makes the child immune. Experience shows that the test and the treatments are painless and harmless. If you love your children, and you do, of course-make them safe. Protect them from this deadly scourge by means of the toxin-antitoxin treatment.

Parents are urged to take advantage of the free treatment given at the Red Cross rooms. Parents must obtain slips from Miss Elizabeth High, the community nurse, for the free treatments will be given only to those children whose parents have only to those children whose parents have given their written consent. Free treat-ment will be given only to children from 6 months up to and including 6 years. Children 7 years and over will be charged 30 cents for the three treatments. Diphtheria is especially prevalent at this time of the year. Don't neglect this important matter, now is the time to see Miss High.

Diphtheria is caused by a germ that lodges in the throat, and later forms a membrane. It is extremely contageous. Thirty years ago, 115 out of every 100,-000 persons died of diphtheria each year. In recent years, the number has been reduced to 15 out of every 100,000 deaths. But even at this low figure there are more than 15,000 deaths from diphtheria annually in the United States.
In November, 1923, the first treatments were given at the Hershev Red Cross rooms, at which time more than 100 children were immunized, and this number has greatly increased since that time. All parents interested in these innocula-tions should secure and sign slips indicating their willingness to have their children so treated on or before Monday, Feb. 16th. The innoculations will be administered at the Red Cross Rooms.

RED CROSS SEWS FOR BLIND

On Monday afternoons, ffrom 2 to 4, the Hershey Chapter of the Red Cross hold their weekly carpet-rag party in the Red Cross rooms. This sewing is being done for the benefit of the blind, who weave them into rugs.

This is a worthy cause and it is hoped hat a large number of ladies will be there on Monday afternoons, with their needles and thread. It is only necessary to bring your needle and thread, there is plenty of rags to keep all quite busy.
