ANOTHER PATRIOTIC RECORD FOR TOWN

Town Subscribes Over $100 For Each Inhabitant to the Second Liberty Loan

GREAT RECORD FOR BANK

The second Liberty loan has given Conshohocken another opportunity to practically express her patriotism and the grand total of subscriptions made through the two local banks amounts to $801,550 or a few cents over $100 for each man, women, and child re sident in the borough

The Tracesmen's bank reported subscriptions in the amount of $275, 150, while the First National had $526,400 having the distinction of re porting the second largest amount of any bank or trust company within the county. The honors for the largest amount goes to the Merion Title and Trust Company, of Ardmore which last night had $552,800 with small applications still coming in which will increase the amount to $555,000. The nearest approach of any of the banks of Norristown to the leaders was made by the Penn Trust company whose figures are reported as being a half million

The officers and directors of the First National are very much elated at the showing of the town's oldest banking institution as its subscriptions not culy include a number of large ones from manufacturing establishments but several hundred single bond buyers and numerous subscriptions from patrons in amounts ranging from $1000 to $5000.

The town is proud of its record and proud of its banks. The record of the First National is particularly fine as taking second place among the strong banking institutions of Montgomery county is an honor strongly desired.

During the hours the banks were open on Saturday, there was a big rush to buy Liberty bonds. The Tradesmen's bank believed it had more than a sufficient supply of cards on hand but early in the morning the supply was exhausted and 2 additional lots had to be secured. The both banks have issued ovdr 700 cards to subscribrs on the easy payment plan.

The employees of the Alan Wood Iron & Steel Company made subscriptions in the amount of $107,050 as fol-

Schuylki:1 Iron Works ...$33,250 J. Wood Bros. Dep't. .... 8,650 Swede's Furnace ..... 4,250 Steel Works ..... 60,900

Many of the men paid for their bonds outright and others took them on the casy payment plan. The subscriptions for these bonds were divided among the banks of Norristown and Conshchocken and $7500 to West Conshohocken. The Company subscribed for $100,000 through the Norristown banks. The total subscriptions of the company through the local banks amounted to $604,900. In this amount was included the company's own subscriptoins, the subscriptions of the employees and the subscriptions of the local stockholders. The funds representing Conshohocken industry.

Other subscriptions placed through the local banks were:

John Wood Mfg. C. and employees ..... $25,000 St. Matthew's Church .... 10,000

Conshohocken School Board ..... 5,000 First National Bank .... 50,000 Tradesmen's Bank ..... 15,000

Fritz Lodge of Masons .... 1,400 Both banks report many subscriptions from individuals ranging from $1000 to $5000.

Many $50 and $100 bonds were bought by parents for their children. In many families each child is now the owner of a $50 bond.

The Liberty Loan campaign ended most successfully in West Conshohocken on Saturday. In order that everybody who so desired could purchase a bond, the People's National Bank remained opened until 5 o'clock. The amount subscribed amounted to $26,200. Of this amount Division No. 6, A. O. H. placed $500 and the em-$2050. As was expected the amount subscribed through the bank was more than double the amount of the first loan. In accordance with the population the amount nets about $10.40 per capita.

High School Entertainment

The first entertainment in the High School Entertainment Course will be a ncert by the Kuehn Concert Comhe auditorium of the Conshohocken Hgih School on Wednesday evening, October 31, at 8.15.

The Kuehn Concert Company is a ompany of transcendent importance; company of finished artists whose programs represent the best of all that is good in real music. A concert by Bruno Kuchn and assisting artists is musical event in every place given. It is a concert without regrets; one completely satisfying to music lovers and music critics as well.

Bruno Kuehn for many years presided at the first desk of the celebrated Theodore Thomas Orchestra Company of Chicago. Rare indeed is it that one has the opportunity of hearing a pianist who is the equal of Mme. Kuehn. Miss Bergh possesses a beautiful and unusual soprano voice.

The Musical Courier says: "The last of the University of Chicago concerts proved to be the most satisfying. Mr. and Mrs. Kuehn are artists of true musical worth. It, was in their ensemble work that they revealed their most notable achievement."

Mrs. Harry M. Williams and John Harvey Are Supposed to Have Eloped Last Night Taking Williams' Automobile .-Harvey Left Wife and Two Children.

Flossic Williams, wife of Harry M. Williams, 945 Ford street, West Conshohocken, and John Harvey, of East Sixth avenue, this borough, are missing from home and it is supposed that both left town together last night in the Ford car belonging to Mrs. William's husband.

Harvey abandoned his wife and two small children while the woman left her husband and a son 7 years old.

Mr. Williams stated that last evening he asked his wife to come to Conshohocken to get him some postage stamps. She left home at 7 o'clock in the automobile, which she drove herself, and she has not been seen or heard from since.

This morning, Mrs. Harvey, who is a young woman wiht two children, came to Mr. Williams' home and said her husband had gone away last night. She came to confirm her suspicions that Mrs. Williams had also gone away.

It was stated that Harvey and the woman were seen together here last evening and left town together shortly before nine o'clock

Mrs. Harvey stated that she had written two letters to Mrs. Williams warning her to keep away from her husband, and this information came to Mr. Williams this morning.

Mr. Williams has been quietly gathering information and has found that his wife and Harvey have been meeting secretly for some time past.

Mrs. Williams is a comely young woman about 25 years of age, black hair, brown eyes, a fresh complexion and is rather stout. Harvey is about the same age and was employed by his father at the of the Harvey Ice Cream Companyl

It is believed the couple wen to Philadelphia and the police of that city have been asked to look for them.

BRIDE ACTIVE IN CHARITIES

A wedding of much interest here and in Philadelphia occurred in St. Matthew's church at 8.30 o'clock this morning, when Miss Kathryn E. Tracy, daughter of Mrs. James Tracy, of Seventh avenue and Fayette street, became the bride of Mr. Franklin S Horn, of Philadelphia.

The ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families of the couple and was performed by Rev. James P. Parker, rector of St. Matthew's, assisted by Rey Joseph McCullough rector of Holy Cross church, Mount Airy.

Immediately after the marriage cer emony a low mass was celebrated with Rev. Father McCullough as celebrant. After the church ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother and was attended only by the immediate families of the bride and groom. After a wedding tour, Mr. and Mrs Horn will reside at 433 Mt. Pleasan avenue, Sedgwick. The bride is one of Conshohocken's best known young women. She has always been active in the charitable work of St. Matthew's parish and is one of the leading spirits in the local branch of the Needlework Guild, being an officer of the Guild and one of its most active workers. The groom is a leading figure in the business world of Philadelphia, being the head of the Horn & Hardart Baking Company and also the chain of restaurants operated by the company.

being covered with crushed stone washed from the street onto the rails. There were few passengers in the car and Josph Wilkinson, of Spring Mill avenue, accompanied by Jonathan Rogers, were seated in the front end of the car. When the car left the and who will leave Camp Meade Satrails, it swerved suddenly and almost turned around. Mr. Wilkinson was thrown with force across the car and njured his legs. He was assisted from the car and Officer Campbell, who was nearby when the accident happened, aided him to his home. None of the other passengers were injured. At the point where the accident happened, the rails are several inches lower than the street level and each storm fills the tracks with dirt. The ears usually run along that stretch at good speed and several times there have been derailments there.

The car was replaced on the tracks by the wrecking crew which was summoned from Norristown.

GARRICK THEATRE

Another big dramatic event is booked to appear as the leader of the vaudeville bill at The Garrick during the first half of the week of October 29. This feature is Lawrence Grant, the well known star and a strong company in the dramatic playlet, "The Final Arbiter." The play is intense ly tramatic and the interesting and well balanced story is well told by a most competent producing company. Both the actors and the play will be found to compare-favorably with anything on the legitimate stage today.

Frank La Dent is a juggler of the first water. It is a long time since an act of this character has appeared here, and this one will be therefore especially welcome, not only because of the variety it will afford but because "Annie for Spite," starring that fascinating little actress, Mary Miles Minter, will be the photoplay feature during the first two days of the week. It is considered one of the cleverest bits of picture construction ever achieved by James Kirkwood, Miss Minter's clever director.

The play was built from a story by Fred Jackson which appeared in the Popular Magazine a year ago. "Annie for Spite" is an orphan whose meager living, derived from work in a department store is suplemented by board and room for her services in looking after the small children of her landlady, Mrs. Cadogan, in the evenings.

Always in the back of Annie's mind is the idea that some day a kind rich lady will adopt her and leave her lots of money. Annie's dream comes true. She is adopted "for spit" by a rich old woman who hates her relatives, but Annie's aweet disposition disarms the old lady's Litterness and she marries the grindson of her benefactor, realizing outh wealth and happiness.

Wallace Reid, supported by Anita King, will appear Wednesday in connection with the same vaudeville bill in a presentation of "The Squaw Man's Son." This is a great picture blending strangely the tang and snap of the American west and the pomp and ceremony of the ancestral halls of old England.

COAL SHORTAGE AT ASYLUM

State Institution at Norristown Practically Without Fuel.

A Serious shortage of coal exists at the Pennsylvania State Asylum for the Insana at Norristown. This institution, which harbors 3000 inmates, has been unable to secure an adequate supply of coal for the rigorous winter weather now fast coming on, and its scanty stock already are prac tically exhausted. Unless relief is quickly furnished by the National Coal Administration it is not unlikely that the inmates will be subjected to real hardship.

This disclosure was made to Coal Administrator Garfield by Commonwealth Administrators William Potter, of Pennsylvania, during the conference of State fuel administrators re cently. Mr. Potter had learned that because of the conditions of the great majority of the inmates at Norris town it 's impossible to remove them from the State institution to private homes or other places in the city where they might be quartered.

in the face of these conditions State Administrator Potter took hur ried action with the hearty approval of the national officials. He has announced that he had arranged for an expeditious shipment of coal to the asylum and that within a week he fully expected to have enough fuel in the hands of the asylum authorities to enable them to start their furnaces again.

Mr. Potter was without detailed information as to how the shortage had arisen. He did not attempt to fix the blame for it because he has not had time to make an investigation personally or through his agents nor to inquire of the asylum head as to the difficulties which had prevented him from stocking his coal cellars in time for the fall weather.

The national authorities are somewhat puzzled by thedisclosure on conditions at Norristown, especially in view of the fact that Pennsylvania perhaps mere than any other State in the Union is generally well supplied with fuel.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1917.

Planked whale steak has been tested and found palatable and nutritious. We do not believe any of the local fishermen will be induced to give up the sport of bass fishing to go after whales no matter how tasty the meat may be.

The West Conshohocken Chapter of the Red Cross in decid ing to knit sweaters for the soldiers in the army from this district have found out that which is necessary and pleasing to the soldiers. The thing to do now is to hurry along the knitting and get the sweaters into the hands of the soldiers before cold weather sets in.

This is becoming a war de luxe. It is reported in the silk trade that the soldiers of the Entente Allies are now wearing silk underwear. This seems like extravagance but the object is to protect the soldiers, suffering from wounds, from blood poisoning. If silk underwear accomplishes that purpose, every soldier should be so equipped. No expense is great that will save our soldiers from injury and death.

The Coal Administrator.

John C. Tracy has been appointed coal administrator for this borough, and it will be his duty to supervise the sale and distribution of coal that industries may be kept in operation, the people George McFarland and myself, quite trained men are headed toward Berkept in comfort, the dealers get their proportionate supply and lonesome. We are being treated fine. Itn. that neither dealer nor consumer may suffer extortion.

Mr. Tracy gives his services as a patriotic duty, and the selection of him for the important post is pleasing to the people as they have every confidence in him and his ability to fairly adjust controversies that may arise.

Mr. Tracy was engaged in the coal business for many years and is thoroughly conversant with the practices of the business. In his first work, he has found conditions in Conshohocken not to send me the sweater as I sure do good. There is little coal in the yards, and some sizes are com- need one and will appreciate it very pletely exhausted. Many families have been unable to secure much. their winter's supply and are anxious for the future.

Mr. Tracy's many years of experience in the coal businses will be of great benefit to his townspeople as he may be depended upon to see that the local dealers will get their proportionate share of coal.

Colored Troops.

Pennsylvania is now sending into the army the colored men drafted for service.

During the Civil War many negroes were anxious to fight on the side of the North but the military authorities were afraid to use such an unknown fighting quantity as the colored man. They feared he would give way under stress and that he had not the intelligence to become a good soldier.

General Butler championed the negroes cause and believed the colored man would not only make a good soldier but an excellent one. He asked for and was given command of colored troops and the heroism and great service of these troops is now a matter of history and a credit to the race.

The colored race has greatly improved since the Civil war. There are thousands of the race in business and professional life and the whole race in the North has benefited by education.

In the Spanish-American war, the colored race again gave a great account of its soldierly qualities and one of the crack cavalry regiments of the regular army is composed entirely of colored No - No Indiana troops.

The military experience of the United States has been that colored troops commanded by officers who know the negro character and have strong sympathies for the men, have always proven to be good, loyal soldiers, who readily accept the strict discipline of the army and are fearless in action.

There is no doubt the colored troops of today will show their loyalty and valor in this war to the great credit of the race.

Conshohocken Fulfilled Expectations.

Just as was expected Conshohocken made another record in her patriotic support of the Government. The people at home are backing those patriotic boys, who answered the first call for volunteers and those who willingly accepted the draft, with sentiment only; they are backing them with their dollars.

Conshohocken gave 200 volunteers and will have given 100 men in the first draft. For these 300 men, Conshohocken people and institutions have subscribed $801,550 in the second Liberty loan, or $2671.83 for each local man in the service. This is not all: $505,000 were subscribed to the first Liberty loan or $1683.33 for each local soldier and sailor making a grand total of $4355.16 for each local man in the various military services.

Conshohocken is surely backing its soldiers and sailors with my back and at times, I went around its dollars and should each community throughout the country do all doubled up and I couldn't stoop or one-half as well, there will be no doubt as to the issue of the war. straighten without taking hold of

The subscriptions to the loan here were not forced. There something for support. The kicney were no parades, public meetings and personal holdups. The secretions passed too freely and I people recognized the necessity of vast amounts of money to equip was obliged to get up several times and protect our military establishment and to make it fit. During the Civil war Conshohocken was steadfast and loyal year or more now I have been free to the Government. In those dark days she gave liberally of men from kidney complaint." and money. 1917 has found her patriotism and loyalty just as true and steadfast.

LOCAL BOYS CHARGED WITH LARCENY

Thirteen local boys, ranging in years from 9 to 13, were arraigned before Magistrate Clark on Friday afternoon, at Norristown, charged with breaking open a freight car in this borough stealing a quantity of cigars, cigarettes, candy and chewing gum.

Their arraignment followed the arrest, several days ago, of Theodore Gardosky, aged 12, of 823 East Elm street, this borough, who was accused of being the ringleader of the "gang" and who peached on his companions. When confronted by the others, Theodore again told his story of the theft and implicated seven of those present. He was positive in his statements and said that the "gang" had planned the theft at a curbstone meeting, held near the railroad tracks.

As a result of his story, the justice decided to hold the following, in addition to Gardosky, for trial at the next session of Juvenile Court: Mike Rakosky, Morgan Mason, Adam Vysz-Ettman and Harry Gallagher. These seven were sent home in the custody of their parents, who promised to produce them before the Court, when wanted. The other defendants were discharged, and Gardosky, who is now on parole of the local JuvenileCourt. was sent back to the House of Detention, to await trial.

John Rodenbaugh, Charles Russell, William Ettman and Frank Merkle, who had also been charged with the theft, were discharged, it having been proved that they had nothing to do with the larceny.

The engines stopped. The submarine glided in. The single boat seemed empty. No! There was a woman aboard, and a man pulling wildly upon one oar.

Donald took in the situation instantly. He turned to his aid, Davies, a little, keen-faced middy who was making his first voyage in command of "Tow us, or run for Fair island!" he cried. Then, flinging off his coat, he leaped.

A few strokes carried him to the whirling boat. And now he realized that he had known all along that the girl in it was Ida, miraculously saved out of the great company of those who had died. His heart beat a pean of joy; at the sight of her his love awakened, and he knew that this was no transfent passion, but an enduring one.

But just as he reached the boat he saw the sailor at the oar stagger blind- | toward the water. Donald felt the ly toward the edge. It seemed as if he were being dragged overboard against his will! He whirled his arms and plunged into the deep with a hoarse cry that rang out far above the waters.

CHAPTER V—Paget swims to the boat and attempts to reach the submarine. His progress through the water is strangely impeded and he discovers that a horde of the creatures which Masterman had discovered had surrounded the boat. They are invisible while alive. One invades the boat and Paget kills it. At death the creature becomes visible. Paget and Ida are picked up by the submarine.

CHAPTER V.

The Sea of Jelly.

He sank like a stone. No glimpse of him could be had. No rescue was possible.

Donald clung to the edge of the boat and scrambled in. He saw the amazed recognition flame out on Ida's face. He knew then that she loved him, and his impulse to seize her in his arms was almost ungovernable.

But at the same instant, looking past her into the sea, he experienced the same illusion that had beset him within the house in Baltimore, and again outside it-that of a woman's misty form outlined upon the water!

Donald made a cup of his hands, "Davies, fling out a rope!" he

But the submarine was some distance away, and in a moment a wall of fog came down, blotting her out.

Ida Kennedy watched Donald with approval. She had always liked him; shaken as she was now, his advent seemed the work of Providence. She had questioned her heart before she sailed, for she had known that her future was of her own choosing, whether it was to be spent with him

Donald continued to call loudly, but the F55 was drifting in the mist and quite invisible. It was in fear of this sudden happening that Donald had told Davies to make for Fair island if he could not get a rope to the boat.

Fair island, less than six miles away, was the secret rendezvous where the oil-ship and biplane were to await the F55, the former to replenish her fuel supply, the latter to accompany her back to the mother

Donald picked up a pair of oars from the bottom. He realized that he would have to pull toward Fair island alone as soon as he got an inkling of its direction, with the chance of being picked up by the submarine when the fog cleared. But it was approaching sundown, and the probabilities of their spending the night in the boat seemed

"He sat with the oars in the rowlocks. As he allowed one to through the water he discovered, to his surprise, that it was apparently plunged into a mass of some jellylike substance. He dipped his hand into it and scooped some of it up.

The water was apparently curdled, like thickened milk, and on both sides of the boat, which rolled in it heavily and high in the viscous medium.

As he withdrew the oar Donald had the sensation of pulling it from between the clinging fingers of a child. He looked down. It occurred to him that he might have got the blade entangled in some marine growth; but the water was clear, almost black, and ency everywhere. Then, to his amazement, he realized that the boat was moving!

It was not like the pull of a towand diminuendo, of starts and jerks, ternately. It was a constant impulse. It was an intelligent impulse.

It was beginning to grow dark, and to row seemed useless until the fog and to pull with it might have led to unexpected difficulties.

Donald backed water in experiment.

Instantly he felt the force increase. It was an effortless, persistent push, stronger than his own powers, and Donald realized that he could not re-

Suddenly he felt a stinging sensation on the back of his hand. He pulled in the oar. Five small, red spots had sprung out on his wrist, and the flesh seemed to have been cupped. Donald clapped his other hand down on it, and encountered something clammy and cool, which seemed to slip away. It was like the flipper of a little seal, or, again, like the hand of a child or monkey.

At the same instant Ida screamed. Donald saw that she seemed to be struggling with some invisible adversary. The boat was tipping dangerously. Donald flung his weight over, and he heard the thud of a soft body against the bottom.

The thing-whatever it was-was in the boat! Donald leaped forward and clasped Ida about the waist. She writhed in the clutch of the monster, and there was a look of intense horror upon her face. She seemed to be lifted bodily slippery fingers of the invisible being elude his grasp. His hands moved up and down over a smooth, blubbery body.

And then he knew what it was. It was such a creature as he had seen in the glass tank in Masterman's the body of the girl, who had rehouse, but larger and more powerful.

colors upon the edge of its leathery yielding, blubbery form, and the same hide. He saw it dimly, as one sees the full moon in the arms of the new.

two eyes, seemingly poised in the air, pery flesh. two pupils of the size of currants, and animated by a diabolical intelligence.

The sun dipped down, and in an instant the fog, only partly dispersed, closed in again. And as Donald watched, he saw the pupils slowly dilate in the dim light until they became as large as saucers. The stony glare between the unwinking lids, which fringed them like a shadow, the monstrous expansion of the pupils sent the blood through Donald's heart in icy jets.

Then, regaining courage, he dashed his fist into the monster's face, and the struggle began. He felt the impact of his knuckles on flesh, and it gave him new heart. At least he was fighting a thing of flesh and blood, and

Ida lay swooning across the seat, where the monster had dropped her as it turned to face its new adversary. And in the rocking boat Donald fought for his own life and that of the girl

For the first time he understood that Masterman's story was not the dream of a disordered brain, but the experience of one who had striven to warn a skeptical world.

And afterward he understood why the boat had spun so dizzily long after the vortex created by the sinking of the Beotia had subsided. Even then the swarm of monsters must have discovered their prey. Perhaps it was the plankton in the water, the jellylike infusion on which they fed, that had brought them there; perhaps the presence of drowning men. Perhaps they had brought the plankton with them, equipped for some dreadful journey. Donald tried to lock his arms about the slimy thing, but he could get no firm grasp of it. And each touch of the flippers drew the blood to the surface of his skin by suction, bringing out rows of reddening spots that stung. He was fighting a devil fish with the intelligence of a man, armed with invisibility, creating overwhelming horror by its presence alone.

He felt his strength failing him. He was dragged toward the edge of the rocking boat. He stumbled and fell. He felt himself held fast; he felt his ribs were compressed in a stinging vise.

But as he fell his hand grasped one of the oars. Donald snatched it up and, with a last effort of desperation, freed himself for an instant. He reised the oar and sent the sharp edge of the blade crasning forward. He heard the sound as of a torn balloon. The squirming flippers uncolled. The boat tipped to the edge and righted itself. A splash followed, Donald sank down upon the seat. Then gradually a milky cloud began to diffuse itself upon the face of the waters, till it acquired the shape of a dwarflike body, supine upon the ing in the webbed hands, budding at obtuse angles to the trunk.

Donald sprang toward Ida, to shield her from the sight of it. He knew that if she awoke and looked she would go mad. But she lay unconsclous across the seat and did not stir.

The boat stopped. There was a confused splashing in the water. The dead sea-beast was rent asunder under Donald's horrified eyes; torn limb from limb by that abominable swarm. of the same strange, jellylike consist- A mottled, pinkish ichor spread itself upon the face of the sea.

Donald plunged in his oars and began to pull with all his might, driving the heavy boat through the water. The line, which is a sequence of crescendo plankton gave place to clean ocean again. The sun had set, and it was as the rope grows tight and slack al- growing dark; with the fall of night a gentle wind came up that began to dissipate the fog.

Through the drifting mist wraiths appeared a jutting cape that reared dispersed. It was impossible to gauge itself toward the spangled clouds. the direction. Besides, to pull against Donald pulled for an hour. Then he that force would have been arduous, fell forward over his oars. He was incapable of another stroke, but he believed that he had left the sea devils behind.

turned toward Ida. As he bent over her her eyes opened. She looked at him intently and sighed. The horrors of that day seemed temporarily to have benumbed her mind and robbed her of memory. And Donald did what he had never dared to do

He raised her in his arms and kissed

"I love you, dear," he said. "If we come out of this as we shall-I want you always. Will you have me, Ida?" She raised her lips to his for answer. And in the happiness of that moment, which atoned for all that they had endured. Donald perceived that the boat had begun to move again. The respite had been of brief duration. Incredibly pertinacious, and cruel beyond belier, the monsters had once more taken up the chase. But in the unhuman forms were minds as shrewd as his, organizing them for one supreme purpose, the elemental one of

They were swimming beside the boat. Donald could see the agitated churnings of the water. Were they pushing or pulling? Taking the oar in his hand, Donald went to the bow and drove it down into the sea. But he struck only the jellylike medium in which the boat was traveling.

He went to the stern, stepping over lapsed into unconsciousness. This He saw the rays deflected from the time, as he thrust, there was a scurry creature's body, dancing in prismatic among the waves, and he felt the sensation of a burst balloon. The boat stopped. SECRETARY OF MINERS' UNION NOW FEELS O. K.

Declares Tanlac Drove the Impurities Out of His System.

Paul P. Bugler, 211 South Beech street, Mt. Carmel, Pa., who for the past ten years has been employed at the Alaska Colliery, and who is secretary of the Alaska Local, No. 579, Miners' Union, nas been in poor health until he found Tanlac, but today he rays he feels like a new man.

"My troubles," he said, "were indigestion and a sluggish liver. No matter what I ate it simply lodged in my stomach and fermented, causing me to belon gas, feel bloated and suffer pains in the pit of my stomach. My appetite finally left me, and I was steadily growing weaker. Gas would seem to gather around my heart, causing me terrible distress. My nerves were always on an edge. I seemed to lose all energy and 'pep',

"A friend recommended Tanlac and I finally decided to try a bottle. I sleep like a top now, and say, you should see me eat! Yes, and my food digests, too. Those pains about my heart have ceased, my bowels are in excellent condition nowadays .Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world-that's what I think about it." Tanlac is being sold here by T. F.

Firemen Sent on Fruitless Run

M Coy. -Adv.

An alarm of fire was sent to the two local fire companies and the Geo. Clay company, of West Conshohocken at 10.30 o'clock Saturday night, calling the firemen to Barren Hill. The Conshohocken, No. 2, comp ny and the Geo. Clay company esponded with their motor apparatus. Both companies made a quick run to Barren Hill and upon arriving at Barren Hill church could not find any trace of a fire nor could any of the residents there give them any information as to a fire. The firemen returned from their long run very much disgusted with the manner in which alarms are handled here.

CAMP MEADE GAME A SCORELESS TIE

Neither Team Able to Score in Game With Camp Meade Officers' Team

LOCAL PLAYERS INJURED

Norristown is being served with collegiate football this season in most liberal portions. The latest dish of School field, when the officers' team of Camp Meade, Md., and the strong Yebsley ... right halfback ... Welsh Conehohocken eleven battled to a Kelly ......fullback...... Tighe scoreless tie.

It was a sensational, stirring, exciting, thrilling spectacular game. College stars, whose names have time it was a battle of gladiators with of P. 12-minute periods. neither side able to demonstrate sufficient superiority to win.

The Camp Meade eleven gained the most ground, but several times when they had the ball within the shadow of Conshy's goal, failed to deliver the "winning punch."

Conshy played a wonderful defense game at critical moments and deserves great credit for holding the service team scoreless. The result was practically a moral victory for the irontowners.

Conshohocken went into the game without the services of three of their best players. Potteiger, who was badly hurt last Saturday; Bechtel, the giant guar d,and Bergey. The latter was unable to play owing to the death of a brother, while Bechtel has a fractured rib.

The stars in the game for the visitors were Barry, formerly of Penn State; Dick Diamond, Lafayette, Mylin, Franklin and Marshall; Weish, Carlisle, and Tighe, U. of P.

The game was the greatest exhibition of foot ball ever staged in this county, and the only thing to mar the game was the unnecessary roughness that cropped out at different intervals by the soldiers. The team was penalized several times for this offense which was responsible for the injuries suffered by both Campbell and Pyguet, who will probably be out of the game for at least two weeks. The former was badly cut about the head and the latter received a badly sprained ankle. Yebsley was also injured but was able to resume playing and finished the game. Barry, the former local player, was one of the chief offenders and while he played a great game his brilliant work was more than offset by his rough tactics. While Conshohocken failed to win the game and Camp Meade gained the greater amount of ground, in the eyes of the supporters of the local team, the contest was looked upon as being equal to a Conshohocken victory. With of the game Conshohocken fought the enemy to the last and while they were unable to cross the coveted goal line of the soldiers they prevented thir own goal line from being crossed. On a number of occasions Camp Meade threatened to cross the line but each time the line braced and held like a forced to surrender the ball. The soldiers made two attempts to boot the went wide of the mark. Conshohockattempt to score in this manner.

Odd Fellows Gaining Strength

Odd Fellowism is again gaining strength in Conshohocken. At one time old Gratitude Lodge was one of the strongest of the secret organizations but as the members became old, new blood was not sought and the Lodge gave up its charter and sold its building at Second avenue and Harry

The local lodge was reorganized March 11, 1916 by Gulf Lodge, of West Conshohocken, removing to this borough and taking the number of old Gratitude lodge, No. 525, and retaining the name of Gulf. The Lodge took quarters in the P. O. S. of A. hall and olds regular meetings on Saturday

Since the removal to this borough, the membership has more than doubled and a number of applications for membership are now in hand.

Saturday evening three new mempers were taken into th lodge and after the ceremonies a lunch was served.

Representative George Wills is aranging for a visitation of the lodge to the Orphans' home, at Philadelphia, on December 9, when the local lodge will inspect the home and conduct religlous services. Rev. Thomas A. Armour, of the M. E. church will make an address.

COAL COMMANDEERED FOR STATE HOSPITAL

The first official act on the part of the Fuel Commission of Montgomery County, of which Harry B. Tyson, of Norristown, is the chairman, was to commen leer a car of coal for the immediate reeds of the Norristown State Hospital.

The Commission is now actively engaged in securing fuel for some of the industries of the borough and vicinity, where the supply has become so low that unless immediate relief is had the operations of the plants must be suspended.

The Commission is also looking to Joseph Salbatino, 9 Fraley street, the increase of the supply for household needs, and in this every consideration is being given so that the distribution may be made as equitable

Mr. Tyson has named W. W. Finn as the Secretary for the Commission, and to him should be addressed all matters pertaining to the fuel question in this county. His office is in the Miller Building, Norristown.

These other Commissioners for the various districts, have been appointed by Mr. Tyron, to act with him in reference to fuel conditions in their respective districts.

$3,000,000 FROM MAIN LINE

Some of its Loan Subscriptions Credited to City Banks

Main Liners gave a good $750,000 for the Liberty Loan that would probably not have been subscribed at all, as a result of the activities of the splendidly organized Main Line Campaign Committee, which is headed by David S. Ludlam, of the Autocar Company, at Ardmore. The district quota of $750,000 was oversubscribed locally more than $1,000,000 and the work of the Main Line solicitors produced a half million more in subscriptions that were eventually credited to Philadelphia bank, but actually came from Main Line people.

from Main Line people.

The total Main Line credits, if, they had been placed through Main Line banks, would have been well over $3,000,000, and Mr. Ludlam remarked that Boy Scouts alone gained $400,000 to $500,900 in the Main Line section and a total of nearly $800,000 in Montgomery and Delaware countles.

IN HOSPITAL

No Relief-Mrs. Brown Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio. - "For years I suffered so sometimes it seemed as though I could not stand it any longer. It was all in my lower organs. At times I could hardly walk. for if I stepped on a little stone I would almost faint. One day I did faint and my husband was sent for and the doctor came. I was taken to the hospital and stayed four weeks but when I came home I would faint just the same and had the same pains.

A friend who is a nurse asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking it that very day for I was suffering a great deal. It has aiready done me more good than the hospital. To anyone who is suffering as I was my advice is to stop in the first drug-store and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before you go home."—Mrs. W. C.
