GULF MILLS

Mr. and Mrs. T. Truxton Hare, of Limehouse, Radnor, have gone to Winter Harbor, Maine, for the remainder of the summer.

The electrical storms which visited this section on Saturday night and Sunday are the termination, we hope, of the oppressive weather conditions which we have experienced for some time. Telephones were put out of commission roads damaged and other things followed in the wake of the storms.

Miss Mary McFarland, of Gulf Mills a former member of the corps of teachers in the Conshohocken public schools, who last term taught in the schools at Ocean Grove, N. J. has been re-elected by the board there, and will return to her duties in September. Miss McFarland is passing a portion of the summer at her home here.

Miss Elaine S. Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Francis Sullivan, of "The Woods," Radnor, was the guest of honor at a dinner given on Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Burrall Hoffman, of New York, at their place at Southampton, L. I. Miss Sullivan is the guest for a week of Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman.

Miss Mary Gaffney, of Bryn Mawr who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Bryn Mawr hospital has been discharged from the institution, and is now recuperating at the seashore residence of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Casey, Stone Harbor, N. J. Miss Gaffney is a well known resident of the Main Line.

The dispensing with the Sunday evening services in the Gulf Christian church during the months of July and August is a departure from other years. When the plan was advocated it met with the approval of pastor and members who believed the hot weather had a tendency to decrease the attendance at church services and that the morning worship would be suitable during the heated term. The evening services will be resumed the first Sunday in September.

The attractive colors of green and white which prevailed for painting purposes on dwellings a number of years ago are again coming into style and from observations at different places it is noted that quite a number of the residences bear the green and white cast on their exterior aspect. The shades of green are varied some of them conspicuously bright. It is apparent that the dull colors will probably become obsolete for outside decorating purposes.

The registry assessor in Upper Merion, Lower District, will sit at the polling place in said district two consecutive days in July, sixty-days before the primary election in September for the purpose of securing the party affiliations of voters who have not as yet declared such preferences. It is necessary for an elector to designate his party choice in order to vote at a primary election for all candidates.

Oil has been applied to the surface of the road on Montgomery avenue through Gulf Mills, thereby overcoming the dust nuisance and bringing relief to the householders along that thoroughfare whose dwellings previously were enveloped in volumes of dust, particularly during the time of heavy vehicular traffic. The present day method of alaying the dust with an application of oil is a very practicable plan out persons who walk in the oil when it is freshly applied and bring the greasy substance into dwellings where it comes into contact with carpets rugs and matting, are open to rebuke from the housewife as the oil is hard to efface.

William Edwards an electrician of Bryn Mawr, was overcome by the heat while working at the plant of the Counties Gas and Electric Company at Ardmore on Friday night and electrocuted when he fell against a dynamo. Frank Bowden of Ardmore who was working with Edwards, was also overcome, but did not touch the dynamo in falling to the ground. Bowden is in a critical condition in the Bryn Mawr hospital. Both men were working in a pit where they were found by other workmen, who shut off the power and sent Edwards and Bowden to the hospital.

The names of the young men from Gulf Mills and vicinity who were soldiers in the world war will be among the large number to be inscribed on the Memorial marker to be erected at the West Conshohocken approach of the handsome new bridge now being built over the Schuylkill river connecting the Conshohockens. The names of the soldiers from this locality will be taken from the marker now occupying a site near the Gulf station of the Philadelphia and Western railway and erected there while the war was in progress. None of the soldiers from herabouts lost their lives in the great conflict, but some were wounded.

The members of the Girls' Friend Society of Trinity Mission, an organization started in the spring, are taking much interest in the movement. Mrs. John F. Morton, acting branch secretary is much pleased with the success already achieved by the society, which organized with a membership of about fifteen, but which has greatly increased since its inception. Meetings are held in the parish house of the Mission on Thursday evenings. The members of the Society are discussing different activities which will infuse interest in the work of the Mission.

Hirst and McMullen have affected settlement for Meadowcroft, the country estate of Gurnee Munn, at Radnor, Upper Merion township, purchased by Alexander Sellers. The property consists of a mansion house, gardeners and chauffeur's cottages, stables, greenhouses and outbuildings, on a forty-six acre tract. The place one of the finest in the Radnor valley, was held for sale at $165,000. Meadowcroft was owned by the late Frederick Heasley for a number of years. The place is an historical one and two of the buildings on it, which have been modernized are built of Radnor gray stone and are century old structures. They include the dwelling occupied by Benjamin Fisher, superintendent, and a small barn nearby Meadowcroft adjoins the properties of Henry F. Mitchell, Amelia Fletcher and H. F. Bearmount and is near "Sunnybrook" the country estate of Isaac H. Clothier, Jr.

Rev. Albert Loucks, pastor of the Gulf Christian church, will go to Tullytown, N. J., this week to take part in services in the Christian church there in the interest of Home Mission work, plans for which as well as for similar services at other Christian churches embraced in the New Jersey Conference, have been arranged by Rev. L. F. Johnson, pastor of the Vanderveer Christian church in Brooklyn, N. Y. The 100th anniversary of the institution of the Tullytown church will be celebrated at the same time. The local church is not included in this program of Home Mission activities but quite a number of churches in Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey are. Ministers of the conference will be the speakers and it is expected that the services will be largely attended and of an interesting nature. Rev. Mr. Loucks will be absent from his charge on Sunday and a supply minister will fill the pulpit.

Under the caption of a Rural Fourth the Philadelphia evening Bulletin of Tuesday, describes the proceedings of a harvest home of Montgomery and Chester counties held at the Valley Forge encampment ground on July 26, 1828. Among other things the article says "that the gathering which doubtless had its parallel in other years and in other parts of the State, came together to commemorate the anniversary of American Independence the postponement of the celebration to so late a date being explained by the fact that on or about the Fourth of July the farmers are so much occupied with their harvests that they cannot conveniently give to the National festival that attention which it may claim from every citizen and especially those so truly patriotic as the yeomanry of Pennsylvania. The Committee on arrangements for the occasion included: David Townsend, Nathaniel Brooke, Maurice Richardson, Townsend Haines, David Wilson, Jr., Daniel Abrahams, Matthew Roberts, Abraham Brower, Philip Kendall and Thomas Reed, and so successful were their efforts that by noon free and independent citizens to the number of four thousand had assembled and others continued to arrive during the whole of the afternoon. The event was featured by the firing of cannon from the fortified heights the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Dr. William Harris, of Chester county, the rendering of national airs by a band, and an oration by Colonel John G. Watinough, a distinguished soldier in the war of 1812. A cold collation was served which Abigail T. Woodman, of Valley Forge had the contract to provide, and for the purpose thirteen tables each 164 feet long and seating more than sixteen hundred persons were used Jonathan Roberts presided over the dinner and in addition to the toasts that had been regularly scheduled the enthusiasm of the crowd could not be restrained and there were many volunteer sentiments offered by the crowd gathered at and about the tables which had by this time been cleared of their enormous piles of beef, ham and potatoes. It will be noted that the descendants of some of those who took part in the celebration are prominent residents of Montgomery and Chester Counties to-day, namely the Wilsons, Roberts, Abrahams, Kendall, Brooke, and others. A man named Jonathan Roberts founded the village of Bird-in-Hand in Montgomery County and created an inn there which is still standing History does not tell us whether this was the same man who presided over the gigantic repast at Valley Forge in 1828. Members of the Wilson family became prominent railroad officials William B. Roberts was a political light and held State and National positions, the Abrahams, Kendalls, and Brooke families were prominent agriculturists.

FORD OWNERS

Your trouble with fouling plugs is now avoidable. Bring your car to any garage and have a King Oil Deflector installed. The fouling of plugs is prevented permanently.

Fully Guaranteed by King Oil Deflector Corp.

Charles Mullen, A. H. Plummer, Joseph Rakosky

THE UNIVERSAL CAR'S UNIVERSAL TROUBLE

One of the greatest troubles experienced by Ford owners—a source of endless bother and expense—the fouling of spark-plugs by oil, is now preventable.

Since the Ford first sprang into popularity, one of its weakest points lay in the failure to insulate the spark-plugs from cylinder oils. It is safe to say that 60 per cent. of the "misses" are caused by this reason alone. Let us look at the results.

When a plug becomes fouled, the cylinder ceases to function, but it still consumes its full share of gas. The burden is thrown upon three cylinders, and the delicate balance of the motor is lost. Neither speed nor power can be developed, but the cost per mile of operating automatically jumps from 30 to 50 per cent., due to increased gas consumption, abnormal wear and tear on the mechanism, and the necessity of using low gear when high would answer, if the car were in order.

Various methods of overcoming this evil have been tried with little or no success, until necessity led to the invention of

King Oil Deflector

This device is a simple baffleplate, so arranged that oil cannot possibly reach the spark-plugs. It fits snugly under the cylinder-head gasket, and prevents 100 per cent. of ignition trouble due to oil-fouled plugs.

With the King Oil Deflector you are not only sure of your engine, but its economy is so great that the cost is often saved in the first five hundred miles. It takes only a few minutes for your garage man to install one. Or you can put it on yourself, and keep your engine hitting on all four indefinitely.

Your satisfaction is fully guaranteed—money back without question, if you want it.

Price, $2.50, at garages where service counts. Anyone can install it, or your garage will do it for a mere trifle.

It is a son and came to bless the household on Saturday morning. Mother and son are doing nicely. John Whitton and family, Mrs. William Longacre and family constituted a party who picnicked along the Perkiomen Creek at Spring Mount on Sunday. The work of erecting the new porch in the front of the residence of John Thompson, 318 Harry street, has been completed. The addition adds greatly to the appearance and comfort of the dwelling. Mr. and Mrs. Herman T. Butcher, of Lykens, Pa., who were recently married, are visiting at the home of Mr. Butcher's father, Thomas Butcher, Seventh avenue and Harry street. The funeral of Miss Esther Smith, sister of Magistrate William F. Smith, was held yesterday afternoon from her brother's residence, East Seventh avenue. The interment was at Plymouth Friends' burying ground. Charles W. Jones, a member of the firm of Joseph C. Jones' Sons, lumber merchants with yards at the corner of Hector and Cherry streets, resumed his duties yesterday morning after being absent part of last week on account of illness. "Hoarding the lemon" may have to find a substitute if the price continues to soar. Some vendors of the standby refreshment fruit have been asking seven cents apiece for them. However, they haven't sold quantities at the price they "asked." Edward Strickle, of 310 East Sixth avenue, who has been undergoing treatment in the Government institution in the Pocono Mountains, visited his home a few days last week and on his return was accompanied by his family. Charles Moore, of East Tenth avenue, Harry Murray, of Spring Mill avenue and Howard and William Koch, of upper Fayette street, were at Cape May on a fishing trip on Sunday. By the time the fishermen were ready to cast their lines a heavy storm of rain, hail and wind broke and as a result the trip was unsuccessful. Gallagher's Beach is the name given to a portion of the Schuylkill river bank near the lower locks which has been fitted up for bathing. The bank has been cleared off and an excellent bathing site has been established. The place has been arranged purely for sport and no charge is made for the use of the quarters which is used as bath houses. The place is in full swing and is furnishing amusement to large crowds. William Swemmer, driver for Conshohocken Fire Company No. 2 and his family returned on Sunday evening from a week's vacation spent at Kennsburg, N. J. He resumed his duties yesterday morning, relieving Stanley Pearson, who has been substitute driver during his absence. Mrs. Emma Swemmer, who accompanied the party, remained in New Brunswick, where she will be the guest this week of her son, George Swemmer. A number of residents from the Spring Mill avenue section conducted a picnic to Valley Park on Sunday and enjoyed themselves immensely in games and other amusements until during the afternoon a storm arose and from the black murky clouds above there descended a heavy shower, wetting all hands. The discomfort and inconvenience incurred by the drenching was deplored by every one of the party save Cormick McCall, who chuckled within himself. Earlier in the day Cormick while engaged in sports got too near the brink of the water and fell overboard. With nary a dry stitch on him it was little wonder that he found consolation when the remainder of the party was drenched by the downpour. Christopher Farrell and family, John Ronnan and family, Benjamin Kay and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ristine, Miss Mary Head and Helen Plover formed a party which picnicked along the Perkiomen at Collegeville on Sunday. The trip was made in the auto truck of William Heald, Jr.

Carl Faust of Spring Mill avenue is spending a vacation with relatives at Zeiglersville, Pa. Fifty members of the Joan d. Arc Society enjoyed an outing at Willow Grove, Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley Jr. and daughter Sue of Philadelphia were week-end visitors in Conshohocken. Block parties enlivening our town Saturday evenings, giving much pleasure to our people, as well as adding to the financial interests of the various organizations and churches giving them. The block party conducted on First avenue on Friday and Saturday evenings under the auspices of the Loyal Order of Moose was largely attended and well patronized. A large amount of money was realized. Miss Lida Pierson has returned to her home at the corner of Ninth avenue and Harry street, from Childs, Md., where she spent last week as the guest of relatives. William Powers, of the U. S. Navy who was visiting Elizabeth Prior, left today for New York. He will sail for China. The regular monthly meeting of town council will be held tomorrow evening. The Ladies Auxiliary will assist the firemen and endeavor to make the affair a grand success. New and novel features for the amusement and entertainment of all who attend will be provided. The proceeds of the party will be added to the apparatus fund of the company. DR. ADOLPH STERN DENTIST Rakosky's Dept. Store 2nd Floor 73 Fayette Street

PLYMOUTH Benjamin Sprague, of Cold Point lost a valuable hunting dog on Sunday. The dog was not agile enough to escape an oncoming automobile and was killed. Samuel Sands Jr., while turning off the Germantown Pike toward the Magnesia plant on Sunday morning, failed to sufficiently reduce the speed of his Ford for a safe turn and M. Ford turned turtle injuring one leg of Samuel and causing some slight damage to the machine. Yesterday the families residing in the Lavino row were treated to a real scare. Several of the little folks whose homes are in the row, started across the fields toward Harmonville in search of the blackberries to be found there. It happened that some of the little folks became separated from the main party and when they could not locate their fellow berries, they hastily returned home and reported that kidnappers had carried off one little girl. This report caused an excitement that became intense when another report was circulated to the effect that three of the little girls had been spirited away in an automobile, the auto going down the Ridge pike toward the City. The Lavino force made a quick dash for the fields, one man, in haste to secure his gun, fell up the steps leading to his home but came out unharmed and with the trusty weapon joined the searching party. Those having autos took to the roads in hope of overtaking the machine containing the girls but all the scare and excitement fell flat when the little folks were found in the field unmolested and quietly gathering the berries that had turned black. Trouble does not appear to be a "respector of persons" nor does it respect old age a fact discovered by Mr. Lemuel Rodebaugh, gate keeper at the Magnesia plant yesterday morning when he arrived at the plant and began the duty of opening up the various gateways. The night man had forgotten to leave the proper keys for unlocking the upper gates and a shifting crew must get in the yard to place cars, so Lemuel was somewhat perplexed until Thomas Casey came to his relief with a bunch of keys one of which supplied the missing link. THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

TUESDAY, JULY 12, 1921.

The Methodist Central Sabbath Crusade Committee, representing twelve southern conferences, will petition Congress to adopt a law promoting the operation of interstate railroad trains on Sunday and the transportation of Sunday newspapers through the mails.

The British Ambassador, in a recent speech, predicted that we are nearing an age when there will be no wars. Wars will be ended, he said, when the people become educated to the uselessness of war and the universities are doing this great work.

The thought of the Ambassador was that the constant teaching of all the people of the costliness and uselessness of wars would prevent the few from dominating the many and the universities are fitting a great army of young men and women each year to do their own thinking.

Before the age of no war arrives there must be a vast amount of teaching in the public and private schools. The school histories must be rearranged. The glory must be taken out of war. The generals who conducted great campaigns and won great battles should not be idolized and full credit should be given the men responsible for great deeds in times of peace which have made governments stable and brought prosperity and happiness.

When the people recognize the rights they have in their citizenship and the terrible costs in money, property and life they are compelled to pay in the preparation for and the carrying on of war, then the warless age will have arrived and the differences among nations will be adjusted as are the differences among civilized men.

Band Concerts.

The first of a series of band concerts will be given in the Mary H. Wood Park tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Community Center assisted by various organizations of the town. It is the purpose to give a series of six concerts on Wednesday evenings.

The series will cost about $600 and this money will be raised by popular subscriptions. The Community Center will bear the large share and an appeal is made to the various organizations to follow the lead of the American Legion which has offered to contribute $5 per concert.

Weekly band concerts will increase interest in the park and will supply the kind of recreation that will be appreciated by the people. There is nothing that so appeals to all people as does music and the recent concerts given in the park show the people are enthusiastic for such entertainment.

The Conshohocken band is a most efficient organization. Its programs have been made up of the works of the best composers and the people have shown a decided preference for the good music over the modern jazz, and with a series of concerts, the band will be enabled to prepare more ambitious programs.

It has been suggested that the concerts are too costly for these times and that the expense should be kept down by decreasing the size of the band. This would be a serious mistake as a smaller band would be unable to do justice to the music and the concerts would fail.

The people desire the concerts and it is hoped that by next year a band stand will be erected and provisions to make the concerts annual features for the summer vacation.

Need For a Swimming Pool

To complete the town's welfare and recreation facilities a swimming pool is needed. A pool would be expensive to build and to maintain and no hopes are held out that the park commission can provide one for years to come unless a large amount of money is unexpectedly received.

The necessity for a swimming pool is apparent as owing to pollution, the river and canal are unfit for bathing purposes. The local people have solved their own outdoor bathing problems by going out of town and Potts' quarry has become a most popular bathing place. This place could be made a very satisfactory one could it be taken under control of one of the local welfare organizations. Inquiries might be made as to whether the quarry holes might be leased at a nominal rental and then proper facilities could be arranged for bathing and an instructor in swimming placed in charge to teach swimming and supervise the bathing. The plan might be worked out under a swimming club to which every person would be eligible to membership and a small fee charged for the bathing privilege.

The present conditions are very undesirable. There is no supervision over the bathers or the crowds attracted to the place; there are no bath house facilities and no protection for the many young girls who frequent the place.

The old quarry hole could be made a very attractive and useful place with the expenditure of a small amount of money. It is easy of access and with proper supervision and facilities, enough patronage would be gained to make the venture self supporting providing a lease at fair terms could be arranged.

TOD BROWNING HOLDS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP BURIAL RECORD

From Paul E. Perez, Department of Publicity, Universal Film Mfg Co., 1069 Broadway, New York City.

That he was buried alive in virtually every town along the banks of the Mississippi is the boast of Tod Browning, chosen to direct the film version of Edna Ferber's "Fanny Herself." Browning has been newsboy, jockey, industrialist—his most thrilling experience occurred as an "underground man" in a weekly burlesque staged by an itinerant medicine show—but it is as a director of motion pictures that he has attained particular prominence.

Browning was born in Louisville, Kentucky. When sixteen, he fell in love with a dancer in a street fair playing there. When the show left, so did Tod. The next his parents heard from him, he was a baihuo artist with the fair.

He next joined a "river show" as an entertainer. One of his jobs was to play the gruesome role of a corpse for an entire day at a time. Browning's job was to "die" and buried with much ceremony one day and, twenty-four hours later, be revived by some wonderful nostrum. This "resurrection" was staged at each town at which the show stopped.

At Madison, Ind., the smash came. Saturday afternoon Tod was "buried." Sunday morning the authorities arrested the entire company for violating the Sabbath, made them refund the receipts of the previous day and, adding insult to injury, fined them $14.00—every cent its members possessed.

The troupe protested and the officials permitted the Sunday performance to proceed for a time. While the manager was making his "spiel" preparatory to opening the coffin, one of the policemen found a series of air apertures in the side of Browning's coffin. Further investigation revealed a box containing malted milk tablets, Tod's diet during the performance, concealed in the coffin.

COLLEGEVILLE ASSEMBLY

The Collegeville Summer Assembly, through its Director, Dr. George L. Onwaka, has issued a letter to ministers of all denominations inviting their active participation and emphasizing the inter-denominational character of the Assembly. The letter expresses the belief that denominational loyalty is important for practical purposes but that common understanding and co-operation among the churches is no less important. The program will include six lectures by Dr. William E. Doughty of New York, five lectures by Frank M. Sheldon of Boston, five sermons to children by Dr. James M. Farrar of Brooklyn, five sermons and addresses each by Dr. J. R. Fleming of Edinburgh, Scotland, and Dr. James I. Vance of Nashville, and two sermons by Dr. John Wat- chorn of Philadelphia. Seven leading denominations are represented in the staff of officers and speakers. Doctor J. R. Fleming will deliver the opening sermon on Monday evening August 1.

SABBATH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The Montgomery County Sabbath School Association is stressing more than ever before complete District Organization. In a recent letter sent out from the County President's Office there was emphasized the need for the organization of every District in the County with a complete set of officers.

The summer slump, so-called in many Sunday Schools is being met this year by means of Daily Vacation Bible Schools and the use of the stereopticon. Slides for the use of Sunday Schools of the County may be secured from the President Rev. Walter L. Ritter, Wyncote, Pa., only a slight rental being charged. The County Association officers are always ready to help any school which needs methods or materials of any kind.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—In a New York jewelry store Philip Severn, United States consular agent, notices a small box which attracts him. He purchases it. Later he discovers in a secret compartment a writing giving a clue to a revolutionary movement in this country seeking to overthrow the Chilean government. The writing mentions a rendezvous, and Severn decides to investigate.

through the dingy windows. The man behind the bar was unmistakably Polish, and of no high type, and at first I saw no other occupants of the place except two roughly dressed men at a table just inside, who were playing cards silently. The room was clean enough, and quiet, yet I felt no inclination to enter. Those were not fellows it would be safe to question, and I would have turned away, but at that instant I perceived the indistinct figure of a young woman in the further corner, sitting beside a table alone.

Her presence stimulated my curiosity. She appeared to be young, not badly dressed, and her being in such a place unattended rendered her of some interest. It surely could do no harm if I dropped in for a sandwich and a glass of beer. I crossed to the bar, furtively watchful, but no one except the proprietor apparently paid the slightest attention to my entrance. The two men never glanced up from their cards, and the girl—for she was scarcely more—merely turned her head and stared at me without interest. I spoke to the barman in English. We exchanged a few words—his own speech very broken—while he prepared the sandwich, and the only thing unusual I noticed was the passage of a slight signal between him and the woman across the room. I could not be sure even as to that, but gained the impression that he shook his head negatively, as though to some mute question.

Unless it might be the intense brunette blackness of hair and an extremely clear complexion, there was nothing typically Spanish in her appearance. Indeed she impressed me as thoroughly American in features, dress and manner, somewhere in the twenties I should judge, with brown eyes, and a face decidedly pleasant to look upon, although with a firmness to it, expressed by mouth and chin, not to be mistaken. I noted these things hurriedly, never venturing to stare at her, though she apparently gave me no attention whatever. Somehow the girl seemed strangely out of place in that dingy saloon—she did not in any sense belong. She was evidently not there seeking company, nor was she drinking; and yet there must surely be some meaning to her presence.

The proprietor approached me, leaning one hand on the table. "There is nothing more?" he asked. "No, this will answer very well." He lingered, tempted to question me. "You have not been in before? Perhaps you do not live near?" "I do not," I replied frankly. "I travel out of Boston, and sell lumber. I have been doing some business with the yard down below."

"I see. You are not from New York, I make it?" "No; Boston has always been my home." "Once I live there, too; when I first come north from Rio. What you think about this war? We lick Germany—hey?" "Oh, I don't know; she seems to be more than holding her own."

"Ach, yes. But now this country go in; what then?" I looked up quickly into his face, with a swift desire to test his real sentiment.

"This country! Why should it go in? There are Germans enough over here to stop that." "Not Germans—no. But Internationals, revolutionaries. They are more than you think. 'Tis time for them to strike a great blow."

"You are Polish, are you not?" "Yah, from Warsaw. I come over six years."

"Naturalized?" "I have first papers—why you ask?" suspiciously. "I merely questioned from curiosity." My eyes wandered once more to the girl across the room, and he noticed the glance.

"You wonder what she do in here?" he asked. "I tell you. She was my niece, an' sit here to wait for a friend to walk home with her. It is not a good neighborhood, this, for a woman alone in the dark."

"Her home is some distance?" "Five—six blocks. It is a dark, bad way."

He moved back toward the bar, apparently satisfied with his examination of me, as well as his explanation. I wondered grimly why he had taken the trouble to tell me all this, and ordered another glass of beer as an excuse to linger there a while longer. What was the party like who was to call for the girl? I did not have to finger long to gratify my curiosity. The side door opened silently, and a man stepped briskly inside, shaking the raindrops from his coat as he greeted the barman cheerily.

"A dirty night, Jans," he said, glancing swiftly about, his eyes sweeping over me sharply. "Business not very good, I suppose?"

"Dead. It's no good now any more, with all the factories closing up because of the war. Just some salesman trips in for a beer. That makes me nothing!"

The newcomer laughed, evidently not quite at ease by this quick explanation. I was watching him. A rather thick-set fellow with a turned-up mustache and a disfiguring scar on one cheek, which gave to his eye a peculiar expression. Watching the fellow I must have missed some signal, for he whirled about suddenly and confronted the girl, who had already risen to her feet and stood expectantly, one hand yet resting on the table.

"Ah, senorita! You were waiting for me to come," he exclaimed. "Yet I have not kept you long."

"Oh, no," she answered quietly in Spanish, her voice so low the words barely carried to where I sat. "You were delayed?"

"A car blockade at the wharf. No, thank you, Jans, nothing tonight. You would go, senorita?"

"There can be nothing to remain longer here for, surely."

I watched them disappear through the side door, marking his grasp on her arm and her quick glance aside into his face. There had been something wrong about this meeting, something undeniably awkward and constrained. These two were not what they pretended to be—old-time friends meeting incidentally to walk home together. They were strangers, coming together there for the first time by appointment. Neither had previously known the other. I had even detected fear, doubt, in the expression of the girl's face.

Yet I dare not move, or attempt to follow them. I could only sit quietly, my eyes on the window fronting the street. I watched intently, but no shadows passed that way—the two had not turned down Gans street.

My mind worked rapidly as I sat there motionless, afraid to make the slightest move lest it arouse suspicion. Whatever the object of the meeting might be, Jans was more or less involved. He had glanced to the girl twice, and his words, however innocent they may have sounded, must have brought a warning to the man. Beyond doubt he had questioned me with the distinct purpose of this discovering why I had drifted into the place. I dismissed utterly his statement that the young woman was his niece—her very appearance gave that lie.

Something was wrong, perhaps not criminal, perhaps in no way associated with the affair which had brought me into that neighborhood, and yet suspiciously wrong, and I felt inexorably driven to find out what it all meant. I finished my beer slowly, and then selected a cigar from the case and lit it deliberately. Jans leaned over the bar, speaking confidentially, and I had to restrain, although I cursed inwardly at the delay. Yet I broke away at last.

assured that I had finally lulled every suspicion to rest and passed out through the front door.

The street was deserted and rain-swept, the few lights showing mere pin-pricks in the darkness. I plunged straight across the street, as though headed for the nearest car line, and then, in the shade of darkness, retraced my steps, passing the corner, until I attained the side entrance. Here, assured that I was safely beyond observation, I paused to gain some conception of my surroundings. Across from where I stood appeared the dim outlines of a long, ramshackle building, apparently a shed of some kind, while beyond the saloon was a row of one-story dwelling houses, seemingly exactly alike, and exhibiting no evidence of being occupied.

In which direction had the couple turned after their exit through the side door of the saloon—to right, or left?

Jans had unconsciously pointed in this direction when he told of where the girl lived, and, although that was doubtless a lie intended to deceive, it was no more than natural for him to have thoughtlessly designated the proper point of the compass.

NEW BUTLER DISAPPEARS AS JEWELS ARE MISSING

Jewels estimated to be worth from $2500 to $5000 disappeared from the Eryn Mawr home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Griffith last Saturday. At the same time, the new butler left the premises for his day off and has not yet returned, giving the police of Lower Merion township every reason to suspect that he knows something about the missing valuables.

According to Chief Donaghy, of the Lower Merion force, the butler, Alexander Roux, had been in the home for only two weeks, and as he had come from an employment agency near the Griffiths moved from their town house to the suburbs, the family knew little of him. Donaghy refused to attach any mystery to the robbery but was convinced that the new butler's disappearance on the same day that the jewelry was found missing tells the whole story.

Mrs. Griffith looked for a pearl necklace Saturday evening and finding it gone, continued her search for other gems which were not in the boxes in which they had been kept. The pearl necklace is the most valuable of the pieces, containing 122 pearls and fastening with a platinum clasp in which are set an opal and seven small diamonds. Other pieces include an open-face gold watch, a Chinese jade pendant several small pins set with pearls, two platinum rings set with diamonds and pearls and a wedding ring.

Chief Donaghy yesterday notified Captain Souder of the Philadelphia detective force, to make a search in the pawnshops of Philadelphia for the missing valuables.

BLACKBERRY SEASON AT HAND

Blackberry season is with us once again. But, we who know the wild blackberry so well, and know that only a walk in the open to where the blackberry vines grow, and a few hours picking, would guarantee a winter's supply of jellies and jams and blackberry pies, feel like sighing.—We feel like asking, "Oh where are the days of my youth," when we contrast the quantities and prices of those days, with the present scarcity and high market prices. Is the blackberry passing too, as so many things have passed in the line of that "Progress" that marks the spirit of the age; or is it that our youth has gotten beyond the old-time happy hours of blackberry picking?

FARMYARD PARTY.

"In the farmyard," said Daddy, "there was a party yesterday, because the day was so hot. And that party was a swimming party, as you may be able to guess."

"Anyway, Sir David Duck was the one who got up the party. "Quack, quack," he said, "this is mighty hot weather. I must do something about getting cool and I must invite the other animals to get cool, too, for I do not want to be selfish."

"Quack, quack, I do not want to be selfish." "So Sir David Duck invited all the other animals to his swimming party. "He asked the Cows, and the Cows said, "Yes, Sir David, we'll go wading. We're not so strong for swimming as we are for wading. Moo, moo, that is the truth."

"He asked the hens, and the hens said, "Cackle, cackle, we thank you just the same, but we cannot accept. Swimming parties aren't parties that we care for, though we are grateful to you for thinking of us."

"He asked the roosters, and they said, "Cock-a-doodle-do. We can't be with you." "He asked the chickens, and their mothers called out quite excitedly, "The little dears cannot go. They are too young. But it is good of you to think of them."

"He asked Porky Pig and Pinky Pig and Sammy Sausage and Brother Bacon, but they all said, "Grunt, grunt, squeal, squeal, we don't care to be clean, and we will become cool if we take a nap in some cool mud which we have in our yard."

"If there are going to be refreshments, though, we will come in time for them." "Well, you'd better come around later, then," said Sir David, "for there is no telling whether we'll have refreshments or not."

"It's worth a little walk to find out," said the pigs. "We will be on hand or rather on foot, or rather on all feet, in plenty of time. And we will do justice to your food, so you had better have some."

"He asked Sir William Goat, but Sir William Goat said, "Sorry, old chap, but I have an engagement with a linen waist that is hanging down too far from the clothes line."

IS THE OLD GULF ROAD SOLD

From the fact that Valley Forge is an historic shrine and the number of persons who visit the place is constantly increasing the Gulf Mills correspondent of the recorder predicted some time ago, that handsome boulevards would eventually be built connecting Philadelphia and places with this cherished heritage of American liberty. The report that the Valley Forge Park Commission had purchased the Gulf road, a highway which practically connects Philadelphia with the marine, and which was commented on by writers in the Philadelphia newspapers, was the first move to substantiate the prediction of the Recorder correspondent. The report of the purchase of the Gulf road by the commission brought a storm of protests, especially from rev. Herbert Burk, rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel at valley forge, who in warm sentiments, favored the protection of this famous old highway over which, tradition says, Washington and his army marched to valley forge, as those soldiers rev. Burke says by their deeds dedicated to America this ancient highway that it should remain intact, and that its sale would mar its synoptic meaning and remove the patriotic influence for which it is intended and cherished.

Wife Withdraws Charge. Mrs. Mary Boyer, of Conshohocken, had a warrant sworn out before Magistrate Clark of Norristown charging her husband John Boyer, with surety of the peace. Boyer was arraigned on Saturday evening. His wife agreed to withdraw the charge providing Boyer would promise to do better in the future. The case was then settled.

GO NO FURTHER. The Evidence is at Your Door. Conshohocken proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt. Charles W. Gaysler, 826 Maple Street, says: "About eight years ago I had quite an attack of kidney trouble. I suffered severely from backache and these attacks would strike me with such force that many times I couldn't stand up. When I did get down I could hardly straighten and several times I was in bed for short periods, not able to keep about. When I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills, I began to use them. The first box of Doan's which I got at McCoy's Drug Store brought relief and a few boxes cured me entirely. Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Gaysler had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. —Advertisement.

LOCALS LOSE GAME AT SOUDERTON

In the Only Montgomery County League Contest on Saturday, Souderton Defeats Conshohocken 10 to 4.—Poor Work by Umpires Favored Winners.—Other Base Ball Gossip.

The postponed game between Conshohocken and Souderton played on the grounds of the latter team was the only contest in the Montgomery County League last Saturday and resulted in a victory for Souderton by the score of 10 to 4.

Hasselbecker essayed to do the pitching for the locals and in the very first inning had the heart taken out of him by poor umpiring. When George saw that it was useless for him to try and win the game he eased up and as a result he was hit hard.

Silverman, formerly with Doylestown, who has been signed up by the locals, played his first game at short stop and was unfortunately enough to commit two errors.

The batting of Heath, and McGuckin for Souderton and of Drennan, Ellis and Love for Conshohocken, were the outstanding features of the game.

The Conshohocken team will not be seen in action at home in a league contest until Saturday, July 23, when Lansdale will be their opponents. Next Saturday the team will make its final appearance of the season at Ambler.

The postponed game of Saturday July 2, with Chestnut Hill will be played in this borough on Saturday August 6th.

St. Gertrude's team journey to Philadelphia on Friday and in a twilight encounter defeated the 48th Ward team by the score of 3 to 2. The game was an interesting contest and was witnessed by a large crowd of enthusiasts. Had it not been for a number of damaging errors on the part of St. Gertrude's players the team would have scored a shut out.

The rain on Sunday dispelled all thoughts of base ball games in this vicinity.

BALL GAME POSTPONED

TO ORGANIZE JUNIOR LEAGUE

Six teams have made application for membership in the Conshohocken Junior Base Ball League and a meeting will be held at the cigar store of Robert J. Crawford this evening for the purpose of forming an organization and appointing a schedule committee.

It is the intention to permit the teams in the Junior League play their games on the new athletic field as twilight engagements. The first game will be played tomorrow evening, but the contesting teams will not be known until after the meeting this evening. It is possible that a selection will be made by putting the names of all the teams in a hat and picking out two teams for the opener.

The league will comprise six teams and it is requested that the managers and captains of each of the teams be present at the organization meeting this evening.

Y. M. A. A. HOLD PICNIC AT SPRING MOUNT

The Y. M. A. A. held the first of a series of picnics at Spring Mount on Sunday last, when fifty of their members, escorted by their lady friends, journeyed to that place.

The out-standing feature of the picnic was the ball game between the thin men and the fat men. The fat men won the contest by the score of 20 to 15. Bernard Corrigan twirled for the fat men while Ed O'Brien twirled for the thin men. John Deudon and Gerald Cronin were the heavy hitters for the fat men, having two homers apiece.

Gerald Kehoe carried off honors in the 850 yard dash, with James Mellon second, and Leo Hickey third. James Mellon won the 220 yard dash, with Gerald Cronin second, and Ed O'Neill third.

MARKETING A LOCAL INVENTION FOR FORDS

No more need the "flivver" hit on "three" take the bill on low and pile up gas bills while not producing speed and power. Three local men have come to the aid of "flivver" owners and by their genius have made the Ford engine as obedient as the Rolls-Royce. Every "flivver" can be made to do its full duty in speed, hill climbing and consumption of gas while the engine is kept in tune and every piston taking its beat in its turn.

Operators of Ford cars have always experienced much trouble with the spark plugs fouling, the fouling being caused by splashes of oil from the engine. A. H. Plummer, proprietor of the Harmonville garage and Charles Mullen, a Ford owner and a tinsmith of this borough, together tackled the problem of making their Ford engines to fall dry at all times and the result of their experiments is the King Oil Deflector, a steel gasket placed in the engine cover to keep oil and other foreign substances from the spark plugs. They gave their invention severe tests and all proved successful.

Joseph Rakosky, 73 Fayette street became interested in the invention and a patent was applied for and obtained. A machine shop was given a contract to manufacture the invention and costly dies were made and the deflectors are now being made in large quantities. Moore's garage has been given the local agency for the invention and agencies are now being established in eastern cities and towns and it is the intention of the patentees to place agencies throughout the United States.

LUMBER ARRIVES FOR STAND

The lumber to be used in the construction of the grand stand at the athletic field arrived here yesterday. The shipment had been transferred from the car in which was originally shipped and the transfer caused the shipment to be lost for many days.

Work will now be rushed on the stand to have it completed as quickly as possible.
