Huge Tax Loss Seen If Quarry Plan's OKd

A Whitemarsh Twp. resident and member of the Philadelphia Planning Commission has pointed out to township supervisors that a large slice of tax revenue would be lost if the G. & W.H. Corson Co. wins its fight to rezone 49 acres at Joshua and Flourtown Rds.

Bernard Tatcher, of 422 Phesant Lane, Lafayette Hill, said the township would stand to lose "almost $8,000 per year in taxes" if the property in question is converted into a quarry instead of being developed residentially.

The Corson firm desires to have the Joshua and Flourtown Rd. plot rezoned from residential to industrial so it can dig a new quarry for limestone.

In the public hearing that continued for two nights over a period of a week last month, the supervisors heard many residents speak out against the proposal. Most cited increased dangers to school children in the area and danger to homes from blasting.

In his statement, Tatcher said the tax loss "would undoubtably be even greater if the land were quarried rather than used for research and development or other attractive, campus-type light indistrial use."

"In order to fully evaluate the effect of the Corson proposal, it is necessary to understand what taxes are now being paid by Corson from their two major quarrying operations.

"These two quarries, together with all manufacturing plant and equipment comprise a total of 105.44 acres, and are assessed for a total of $225,400. or $2; 138 per acre. Any addition to these figures of acreage or assessed value of other Corson quarries now in operation in this area, would reduce the assessed-value-per-acre figure substantially as these areas do not contain manufacturing or processing plant.

"To give more meaning to these figures, the Corson assessment averaged at $2,138. per acre may be compared with other uses: For example, the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club and golf course is assessed higher at $2,209. per acre; McNeil Laboratories Inc. is six times as high, at $13,890. per acre!"

"When the present average assessment on the two quarries and plant of $2,138. per acre is applied to the new proposed quarry area of 45 acres, the result in actual tax dollars would amount to $4.714. as school taxes and $914. as township taxes."

"As you can see," continued Tatcher, "a mere 15 houses assessed at $6,650 each would pay as much in actual taxes. If we were to imagine 140 of these houses on the same 45 acres, we would have a total assessment of $931,000, paying $45,619. in school taxes, and $8,844. for township purposes -- nime times as much as the $914 that may be derived from this proposed new quarry!"

"In addition, any costs to the township for municipal services, road maintenance and repair, and most important, the probable total loss in the future productive use of the land. (when there is nothing left to quarry), must be weighed against whatever tax income may be derived from the site.

"On the basis of these figures alone, it is immediately apparent that quarrying is certainly neither the highest, best, nor most productive use of this land, and if permitted, could adversely affect a great many people for the benefit of a few."

Phil Sheridan to Start Races at Hatfield Oval

Phil Sheridan, of WFIL radio, is coming to the Hatfield Hi-Speedway.

Sheridan will "start" the modified and strictly stock auto races, which resume Saturday night after a week's layoff on the Montgomery County oval. The first race is slated for 8 p.m.

He'll be waving the green, white and checkered flags at such as the Old Desperado (Mose Moore), who is the leading driver on the 1/3 mile, high-banked motordome, Johnny Bright, Freddie Adam and Georgie Sleight.

Cut Weeds or Pay!

West Conshohocken property owners are reminded to have weeds cut on their property or face a fine of $10 to $25. This applies to all properties, occupied or not, or vacant lots.

Blind Vets to Get Bigger Pensions

Three Montgomery County blind veterans will receive additional $50 monthly pensions provided in a new law signed by Gov. Scranton.

Eugene V. Hartley, director of veterans' affairs in the County, said payment of the additional pension started on July 1. The pension is to be provided in addition to any other compensation the veterans are presently receiving from the state or federal government.

Hartley said applications for the pensions must have been made to the Department of Military Affairs.

The law stipulates those eligible are "persons who served in the military or naval forces of the United States, or any women's organization officially connected therewith, during any war or armed conflict in which the United States was engaged, and who gave the State of Pennsylvania, or any specific place in the Common-

Pastor to Speak At Special Service

The assistant pastor at Ss. Cosmas and Damian Church, Conshohocken, the Rev. Louis A. De-Simone, will deliver a sermon in Italian during the traditional observance of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel in Bridgeport this weekend.

Father DeSimone will speak during the 10:30 a.m. Mass on Sunday. A procession in the church area will follow with Loreto Marsella's Verdi Band of Norristown providing music. Sunday evening, the band will present a concert.

Father DeSimone is a native of Bridgeport.

Mrs. Patricia A. Bradley of 278 Barren Hill Rd., Conshohocken, a medical marketing service representative for Johnson & Johnson, has returned home after attending the first national meeting of her department at the company's headquarters in New Brunswick, N. J. Mrs. Bradley is a service representative in Philadelphia and the Camden and Trenton areas.

Residents Hit Council With List of Complaints

Two angry groups of residents complained to Conshohocken Borough Council last night.

The first group, 14 women and six men, demanded the paving and cleaning up of an alley that runs between Wood and Freedley Sts. at Sutcliffe Park.

The residents, from the W. 10th Ave. section, charged that the alley has become a highway, because of one-way restrictions on 10th and 11th Aves. They said trucks and cars are speeding up

UF Goal Set At $324,223

A goal of $324,223 has been set for the 1963 Central Montgomery County United Fund drive, according to Robert I, McCracken, chairman.

Agency allocations include:

Arthritis & Rheumatism Foundation, $1,650; Boy Scouts, $19,600; Children's Aid Society, $5,500; Defender Association, $1,200; Family Counselling Service, $13,700; Geo. Washington Carver Community Center, $3,000; Girl Scouts, $15,700.

Also Health & Welfare Council, $2,500; Jewish Community Center, $4,250; Mental Health Assn. of S. E. Pa., $2,500; Mont. Co. Assn. Physi. Handi. Children, $11,250; Mont. Co. Also Pennsylvania United Fund, $1,500; Pennsylvania Citizens Council, $75; Red Cross, $50,500; Sacred Heart Hospital, $10,000; Salvation Army, $33,300; Social Health Assn., $300; United Cerebral Palsy, $1,000.

Mrs. Carrie Coscia said that if Council does not act "we're not going to pay our taxes and we're not going to vote."

Councilman suggested several alternatives, including partial paving. They said a Committee of the Whole meeting will discuss the situation next week. Three residents will be present at the meeting.

The second group, from the W. Fourth Ave. section, complained about an industry at the end of the street.

Mrs. John M. Sofko, a spokesman, brought a petition signed by residents in which they demanded "something be done" about conditions at the Charles Davis firm, a trucking business.

She said that huge equipment is breaking roads and tearing up curbs, engines are raced at all hours, dust is kicked up, dynamite blasted and other nuisances.

Mrs. Sofko said police were called many times.

Further argument ensued when it was revealed a building permit had been issued the firm to construct a warehouse.

Councilman James DeGideo, who represents the area, told the residents that he was informed the structure was to be an office building.

Councilmen and borough officials will inspect the construction at 7 tonight. It was indicated the permit may be withdrawn if violations are found.

The AMA was founded in Philadelphia in 1847 by 250 physicians from 22 states to promote the art and science of medicine and the betterment of public health. Today, 116 years later, its 200,000 members are in all parts of the world practicing some 37 medical specialties. Just over 18,000 of these physicians are in government or military service.

Important Business

It looks as if the important business of reapportionment will be put off until this Fall.

Legislative leaders and the Governor have indicated that other measures must be passed before reapportionment can be accomplished. The Fall session would be a special one.

One of the reasons for the delay is to get legislation passed before the touchy reapportionment issue is approached and a number of legislators offended.

In the case of Montgomery County, we stand to gain three more State Representatives and another State Senator. This would bring the total to nine in the House and two in the Senate.

The County's population spurt accounts for the substantial hike. In sections of the State where population has decreased, the reapportionment is equally meaningful. Thus, from both sides of the coin, there are bound to be unhappy legislators.

The County case finds bills submitted both by the Republicans and Democrats. The narrow GOP margin in the legislature, if it holds to the Fall, will mean adoption of the GOP plan.

Upper Merion, Conshohocken, West Conshohocken and Bridgeport could be placed in a State Representative district with Lower Merion and Narberth. This district plus the proposed new 4th District would comprise a Senatorial district.

To the politically-astute, the changes are obviously designed to benefit the Republicans. This perrogative has been claimed by the Democrats when in power and given the reapportionment opportunity.

Despite the pros and cons on the make-up of the districts, the citizens of the County will be the winners in the long run. Their representative voice will be strengthened in the chambers at Harrisburg.

Besides, there'll be three more State Representatives and another State Senator at whom to fog complaints.

Facts First

When a control failed to operate in Major Cooper's Faith 7 Spacecraft, devices flashed the news to the astronaut and to the ground. It was a delicate and urgent matter, but one that had been anticipated. The astronaut now had to perform manually a vital task that would otherwise have been performed automatically. It had to do with the craft's posture -- unless this was exact, the enormous heatgenerated by re-entry into the earth's atmosphere could literally cremate it.

As part of the landing procedure, Major Cooper was ordered to take a "Drexedrine" to make sure that his reflexes would be at their keenest. "Drexedrine" a central nervous system stimulant, belongs to a group of drugs called amwhich have been phetamines, widely prescribed by physicians since 1935. These are versatile drugs, and medical opinion holds them in high repute as useful and safe medicaments when, of course, they are properly taken, under careful professional direction.

But informed opinion sometimes conflicts with popular beliefs. This seems to have happened in this case. Stories concerning the abuse of amphetamines, often called "pep pills," have been making the There's been enough rounds. smoke, if not fire, to bring about official investigations. But researchers have come on little factual data, and have reported a critical lack of accurate statistical information about the problem. A special Advisory Commission appointed by President Kennedy to study the problem was "impressed by the repeated descriptions of the lack of accurate information" concerning abuse.

The danger is that we will hurriedly pass unwise and unneeded legislation which might hamper legitimate medical use of the drugs concerned. The President's Commission has made it plain that much more research remains to be conducted before the extent and nature of the problem can be determined. In drug research, development and use of "let's pass a law" attitude can be disastrous. The full facts must bw gathered, weighed and evaluated with the utmost care before we can know if we need new laws or revised laws, and of what kind. Otherwise, legitimate medical use may be impaired -- at heavy and needless cost.

by Mitchell A. Rosenfeld

I was walking along the other day when I bumped into a goateed gentleman emerging from a store. "Excuse me," I said.

"What do you mean by that?" he rejoined.

It was then that I recognized Hymie Fenster, an old school chum. Hymie was a big man in psychology back in our early college day.

After exchanging perfunctory greetings, we started discussing events of the past decade.

Hymie had gone on to medical school, studied psychiatry and raised a goatee. Not necessarily in that order.

"So you're a genuine head shrinker," I said.

Hymie's right cheek twitched.

"Please," he said, "such an attitude on the part of public certainly is not conducive to our work. You don't realize how tough it is to be a psychiatrist nowadays.

"Now, at our new clinic, we've come up with a most difficult case. And we're expecting many more of them. It's a salesman who's suffering from digitphrenia."

"Digit-what?" I asked.

"It's a personality split-up caused by too many numbers. You know how everything is becoming numbers. Phone numbers, account numbers, credit cards. But, the thing that pushed him over the brink was the post office ZIP code."

Hymie reached into his jacket pocket and took out a little notebook to which he referred.

"You see, his ZIP code is 19191. He had to address all his mailing pieces with the code. As a salesman, he had to call his home office every morning. This number was 939-1199.

"To top that off, the phone company changed his home phone number to 393-9919. He had to call home at least three times a day to check to see if there were any

"Well, this would have been bad enough, but he had several credit cards which complicated matters. His gasoline credit card was numbered 933-191-939. He saw the number every time he pulled into a gas station.

"Through some unfortunate quirk of fate, his credit card for dining was numbered 139-991-119. He took customers to lunch frequently and used his credit card, of course.

"The poor man began referring to his children by numbers. His work started to suffer. He took to playing the numbers.

"His pay check came every two weeks. He'd go to the bank and cash it and make a deposit. And he'd stare at his account number which he had to place on each slip. It was 991-339-1.

"Now if someone had recommended him to us at this stage we could have saved the man lots of grief. But, no one recognized the symptoms of what obviously is a very new mental ailment.

"The man was in a confused state. Often, he could not recognize friends. He'd ask people what number they were and other odd questions.

"Then, one Friday afternoon he stopped at the post office to pick up stamps. The post office was crowded. He was hot, tired and slightly confused.

"When his turn came, the clerk told him, 'Don't torget to include your ZIP code on all your return addresses. Your ZIP code is 19 ... 'The clerk never finished the sentence. The man hit him nine times on the right eye and one time on the left.

"Well, I've got to be going. If you're ever up town, stop in to our clinic and see me."

"O K, Hymie. What's the address?"

"It's ABCD North GAth Street."

around that Fred Peters felt mighty blue over having lost the fight for County Commissioner to a his successor. couple of "upstarts," Bill Vogel and Russ Parkhouse.

ON TOP OF THIS rumor came the report that Peters would probably crawl into a hole and get lost. Predictions were made that he was "through" and nothing more would be heard from him at the County political level.

WHOEVER IT was that hopefully originated these erroneous predictions showed without a doubt that he doesn't know Peters very well. He neglected to take into account that Ol' Fred has a few pet hates stored away and will not rest until the string runs out.

ONE OF PETERS' favorite targets, of course, is Attorney Fred Smillie, who got on Peters' blacklist while he was District Attorney.

AT THAT TIME, Peters was the Republican leader and County Commissioner. His word was regarded as law by everybody in the Court House except Smillie. He refused to follow orders when it came to hiring help for his office, and the battle has been raging ever DOWN THROUGH the years Peters has never lost an opportunity to scuttle Smillie's ambitions to become a judge. And losing the election to Vogel and Parkhouse hasn't taken any of the steam out of that campaign.

AS A MATTER OF fact Peters, rumors to the contrary, tossed his latest dose of poison after the Primary. It is reported that he contacted State Sen. Henry Propert and "suggested" that the County is well supplied with judges and doesn't need any more.

NEVERTHELESS, PROPERT went right ahead and submitted a bill in the Legislature for one additional judgeship. He announced later that the measure has a "very good" chance of going through in spite of anything that Peters might cook up to stop it.

A LOOK AT the expense account that Peters filed after the Primary showed some interesting contribu-

ONE OF THE $100 donations was credited to former County Commissioner J. Walter Hammonds, who threw in the towel and moved to Florida some three years ago.

MANY OF THE Court House crowd can't understand why Hammonds, from so far away, would side with Peters in such a bitter battle since the former Commissioner was always regarded as an "Organization" Republican.

WHAT THEY FAIL to recall is that it was Peters who "made" Almost everything Hammonds. worthwhile he got from politics had the blessing of the Lower Merion treasurer.

Coscia Takes Part In Fund Concert

Marine Pfc. Ronald B. Coscia, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Anthony Coscia of 113 Spring Mill Ave., a member of the Second Marine Division Band at Camp Lejeune, N.C., recently took part in a benefit concert at the Camp theatre, the proceeds of which went to the Navy Relief fund.

Another recent appearance of the band was at the North Carolina Trade Fair earlier in May.

The Second Division Band and its sister organization, the Drum and Bugle Corps at Camp Lejune, provided concerts and military exhibitions as well as playing for the troops at noon meals.

> SO, PERHAPS WALT'S conscience bothered him a little, seeing as how his old buddy had his back to the wall, thus the $100.

> ANOTHER DONATION to the Peters cause that caught the eye was listed as coming from Harry Sablosky. It was for $200.

> HARRY SABLOSKY is a Norristown attorney who officially operates as an independent, but is in the same office as Attorney Max Strawbridge.

> ALTHOUGH MAX was not put down for a contribution in the Peters account, he might have been. Ol' Fred took real good care of Max during the 20 years he was Commissioner.

> THROUGHOUT THAT period, Max served as County Solicitor and was so close to the scene that he became commonly known among the Court House crowd as the "fourth Commissioner."

BUT PETERS suffered a setback from which he never recovered when he tried to make a judge out of Max.

SO MUCH OPPOSITION cropped up that Gov. John S. Fine refused to appoint Peters' protege to a vacancy on the Orphans Court bench. And when Fred refused to submit another name, Fine gave the post to Judge Taxis.

ANOTHER REASON that Max should be down for a contribution is that he, too, is anti-Smillie.

BUT PERHAPS Max expected Peters to win and was waiting for the November election to make his donation.

THAT'S WHAT he once told another candidate for office who solicited him for some cash.

"I NEVER GIVE in the Primary," was Max's way out.

Republicans Inherit Jobs In Tax Bureau

The appointment of seven Republicans to jobs formerly held by Democrats in the Norristown office of the State Inheritance Tax Bureau were announced today by the Department of Revenue.

All of the new jobholders were recommended to the Scranton Administration by GOP County Chairman James E. Staudinger. Three are to work part-time and four full-time.

Three of the four permanent employes will fill existing vacancies and the fourth is a replacement for a Democratic appointee who served as investigator.

Named as investigators are John Griffin, of Abington, and Fred Hardy, of Glenside. Both formerly served as auditors and investigators under a Republican Auditor General.

Named to clerk positions were Mrs. Evelyn K. Bucher, of Lansdale, and Mrs. Eleanor C. Becker, of Lower Providence.

In addition to one vacancy existing in the investigator staff,

Longest Day' Goes Into Third Week

"The Longest Day," acclaimed motion picture of the D-Day Invasion, is continuing for its third week at The King, Upper Merion's first indoor movie.

The Darryl Zanuck production started at The King when the 1200seat theater opened on June 26.

Manager Mickey Bernstein said that the star-studded attraction had drawn large crowds to The King which is located in the Valley Forge Center, Route 202, a halfmile north of Route 23.

Famous persons, including Brig. Gen. Norman D. Cota, of Bryn Mawr, are portrayed in the film.

there was a need to replace John J. Moriarity, of Conshohocken, who quit last week.

The three temporary employes, all college students, were hired to help process a backlog of work in the office, Staudinger said. They are: James M. Parella, of Norristown; Gerald B. Bell, of Bryn Mawr, and Geraldine Sperat, of Pottstown.

The new employes join other Republican members of the staff who started work last month. They are: Chief Appraiser Joseph P. Phelps, Jr., of Springfield Twp., and investigators, John J. Newett, of Upper Providence, and Carl Craig, of Pottstown.

Alan Wood Says Revenue Is Up For 2nd Quarter

Alan Wood Steel Co. today reported net sales and operating revenues amounting to $19,401,000 for the second quarter of 1968, considerably above first quarter revenues of $14,545,000. Net income for the second quarter amounted to $849,000 or $1.13 per common share after preferred dividend requirements. This compares with $218,000 or $.23 per common share for the first three months of the year.

For the first half net sales and operating revenues amounted to $33,946,000, which is very close to the comparable figure of $33,-856,000 for the fir half of 1962. Net income for the nirst six months of 1963 amounted to $1,068,000 or $1.36 per common share. This compares with a loss of $518,000 or $.92 per common share for the same period of last year.

Harleston R. Wood, chairman and president, said that the improved performance during the quarter was in part due to a high rate of operations, but also reflected continuing improvements in cost control and in the performance of the company's new mills and the effect of the recent limited price increase.

'Washies' Seek 6th Jersey Title

The sixth grand prize in nine years will be the object of the Washington Fire Co. in September when the Conshohocken fire fighters take part in the New Jersey State Firemen's Assoc. parade in Atlantic City.

The Washies have won the Jersey state championship in 1954, 1957, 1958, 1960 and 1961. In 1956 and 1959, the locals took second prize. They failed to win in 1955 and did not make the trip last year.

This year's program, as usual, will be held in Atlantic City on Sept. 14.

36 Foreign Students Set to Visit Twin Townships for July Weekend

As part of their program to sponsor a foreign student in their school system during the coming school year, Plymouth and Whitemarsh Townships and the Plymouth-Whitemarsh High School Student Congress will be weekend hosts to a group of 36 foreign students representing 22 countries next month.

The students will be arriving on Friday, July 12 and leaving Sunday July 14. During their stay, they will tour the area, visit Valley Forge and be entertained at a Ply-Mar Swim Club party. Residents of Plymouth and Whitemarsh will furnish accommodations.

The students are enroute to Washington after having spent a year as high school students and as family house guests in various American communities. In Washington, they will be received by President Kennedy and then leave for a final meeting of all this year's American Field Service students before returning to their home countries.

The American Field Service is sponsoring 2,560 students from 56 countries in over 2,000 communities throughout the U.S. during 1962-63. In return, AFS is sending more than 1,000 young Americans abroad. Since the beginning of the AFS international scholarship program in 1947, when 50 students from 10 European countries came to the U. S., more than 20,000 young people have received AFS scholarships. Director General Stephen Gallatti estimates that approximately 3,000 students from more than 60 countries will arrive in August for the 1963-64 year.

The end-of-stay bus trips are designed by AFS to introduce the students to communities and regions of the United States other than those where they have lived for the preceding year. The trips also give an estimated 100,000 Americans a chance to meet boys and girls from all over the world.

A committee consisting of Mrs. Edith Butler, guidance counselor at Plymouth-Whitemarsh High, John Kilpatrick, social studies teacher, Miss E. Loretta Daly, principal of Highfield Elementary School, Charles Lord, C. Rush Barr, Jr., Walter H. Flamm, Mrs. Eric Lagrecrantz, Mrs. Bernard

STRIKE ZONE
No man minds practicing economy unless it causes him to skimp on his pet vices.

Whitemarsh Twp. police are still | cers have conferred with Philaying to solve the $11,000 robbery | delphia police in an effort to crack Green Valley Country Club, the case.

The burglars made their haul while a number of club employes were working in a nearby kitchen, after a party which broke up around 3 a.m.

The watchman, Vincent Maioriello, 47, was beaten when he surprised the burglars on his return from taking a fellow employe to a trolley stop in Chestnut Hill.

The thieves had approximately 30 minutes to do their work and make their haul. When Maioriello returned to the clubhouse, he saw one of the thieves in the lobby and grappled with him.

Club manager, Maxwell Nimchek, said the other two apparently were trying to break into a liquor closet in an adjoining barroom at the time.

According to police, the two came to the aid of their crony and one struck Maioriello's head with a blunt instrument. The kitchen crew heard the scuffle and came running after the thieves.

The burglars disappeared through the barroom door leading to the golf course. The door through which the burglars allegedly entered, was forced open, apparently with a punch bar.

70 Acres of Parking Are Planned for Open

Golf fans attending the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open will have no problem finding a place to park during the week long play, Sept. 30—Oct. 6, at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

More than 70 acres adjacent to the golf course have been made available for parking by George D. Widener, honorary chairman of the Open, and Eugenia Hospital.

Widener, long-time benefactor of crippled children, is taking a deep interest in the tournament which will benefit the Child Development Center for the Handicapped.

Most of the land which will be used for parking is part of Widener's famed estate which skirts the boundaries of Whitemarsh Valley, loacted in the northwestern suburbs of Philadelphia.

"We couldn't have a more ideal parking situation for the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open", observed Tournament Director Frank B. Meador.

He stated that the Widener and Eugenia land "ive us the equivalent of 60 football filds to park cars on, more than enough space by far."

Meador continued, "the parking area is situated just a wedge shot from the course, much closer than the usual parking arrangement at a major sports event."

Professional parking personned will man the lots, according to the Golf fans attending the $125,000 tournament director, to assure the quickest and safest traffic flow in and out of them.

He added that admission tickets will be readily available in the parking area to avoid any bottlenecking delays for fans at course entrances.

Meador pointed out the preferred parking positions within the country club grounds are also available to those who purchase season badges which provide admission throughout the entire tournament.

Meador revealed that road signs, maps and information posts will be spread throughout the Delaware Valley to help direct golf fans to the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open.

Full scale preparations are also underway by local and State police and automobile associations to assure smooth traffic flow in the tournament area.

The $125,000 Whitemarsh Open, which will be played for the greatest purse in golf history, is attracting the finest golfers in the world. Among the early entries are: Julius Boros, Gene Littler, Sam Snead, Tony Lema, Cary Middlecoff, Jacky Cupit, Jay and Lionel Hebert, Paul Harney and Jack Fleck.

Boy, 17, Wins Contest for Borough Flag

Raymond Maslanka, 17, of 226 E. Fifth Ave., Conshohocken, is the winner of a contest sponsored by Conshohocken Jaycees for the design of the first official borough flag.

Charles Gillespie, Jaycee committee chairman, announced the winner last night at a meeting of Conshohocken Borough Council.

Mayor James H. (Pat) Mellon presented Maslanka, 1963 graduate of St. Matthew's High School, with a $50 U. S. savings bond.

The flag design is of a white background with a shield in the center. On the shield's top half is a "pleasant valley" scene. A plow taken from the State flag is on the shield, a hand from the County flag, gear and helmet for industry. Two red feathers, representing Lenni Lenape Indians, are on sides of the Shield. The third color is silver.

The motto, in Latin, is "Pax et Commercum," which means peace and commerce.

Council adopted a resolution officially accepting the flag design.

Acceptance

"All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people."—Isaih 65:2

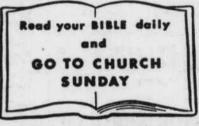

Do we in these modern times also turn away? Do we content ourselves with the fact that each Sunday we make our weekly visit and thus fulfill our obligation?

Do our friends and neighbors consider us Christians just because they see us in church once a week? Can we really convince ourselves that this is enough?

Christianity and belief in God is rightfully a part of our lives every step of the way. If we welcome God in our hearts each Sunday, it just isn't possible for us to turn away the other six days of the week.

There is time to remember the goodness of God and to appreciate the blessings of Christianity in every day of our lives, where-ever we may be, whatever we may be doing.

We will find this time with the realization that the thing to do when we do not have time to visit God's house is to ask God to come to us.

The lights have been on blinker this week, mainly to get motorists accustomed to the lights.

The installation of the lights was done by the John S. Garchinsky company of Aldan, Delaware County. Total cost of $8,100 was borne by the county.

Another much-needed improvement -- new lighting on the Matsonford Bridge -- is due to be accomplished next month.

Campman said the Philadelphia Electric Co. is now finishing up circuit work on the lights. With that over, Campman said, the county will be able to ask bids on the project with the job being finished by Aug. 15.

The new lights will all be mercury vapor. The state will pay 75 percent of the expected $21,000 cost, with the Reading Railroad and Conshohocken and West Con-
