

Classic Football Game Out; Conshohocken Won't Meet St. Matthew's

The classic High School football game between Conshohocken and St. Matthew's, an unbroken tradition for 20 years, has been cancelled.

Reason: PIAA regulations require Conshohocken to play only those teams whose coaches are also teachers. None of St. Matthew's three football coaches is a teacher in the school district.

"If we took the field against St. Matthew's, we'd probably be dismissed from the PIAA and we would not be allowed to participate in any other sports," Conshohocken athletic director Raymond Weaver said.

The rivalry dates back to 1925. The teams clashed again in 1926 and 1927, but their next meeting wasn't until 1944.

Since 1944, St. Matthew's has won eleven, Conshohocken six, and there were three ties. But the outcome has always been unpredictable, and the better team has not always won because of the intense rivalry.

"Players could never predict who was going to win before the game," Weaver said. "Feelings ran so high, that the regular season's records meant nothing when the two teams got together." (Most games were played on Thanksgiving Day).

Father Joseph Schnorr, athletic director at St. Matthew's agrees with Weaver.

"It was always an unpredictable game," he said. "One team could lose almost every game of the season, and still come back to win.

"It was unpredictable because they played an entirely different kind of ball when they got together. The boys got 'up' for the game. Each boy put his whole heart and soul in it, you might say, to try to win."

The coaches at St. Matthew's are John McMenamin, head coach (an insurance underwriter); assistants John Sorber and Bob Griffith, a senior at LaSalle College.

"As things stand now, we cannot play the game," Weaver said. "But I wouldn't count it out altogether. As time goes on, we might be able to work something out."

But Father Schnorr was less optimistic.

"I doubt whether the game will be played. Getting a teacher coach is impossible at the present time. I don't see how there can be any reversal in what has happened."

Neighbor Feud Results in Attack With Ax, Arrest

A 47-year-old Whitmarsh man, who allegedly struck his neighbor over the head with an ax, was released on $500 bail Sunday.

Norman L. Purnell, of Stenton Ave., will be arraigned tomorrow before Justice of the Peace Louis Hofman at the Whitmarsh Township Building, Joshua Rd. He is charged with aggravated assault and battery.

The victim, John Ford, 52, was reported in good condition at Chestnut Hill Hospital with cuts of the head.

Whitmarsh police said that the Ford and Purnell families have been feuding for years. They said Ford's son, Kenneth, 14, apparently had taunted Purnell while the older man was working in his yard at 1:30 p.m. A scuffle ensued between the boy's father and Purnell.

School Head Says No Chance For Conshohocken to Be Alone

Dr. Allen C. Harman, Montgomery County superintendent of schools, today expressed doubt that a survey by Conshohockenites to determine the feasibility of remaining an independent school district will do any good.

"Conshohocken will have no chance to remain alone, according to the standards that the State has set up for reorganization," Dr. Harman said. "This is regardless of whether a survey is conducted or not."

The Conshohocken Independents, a group opposed to school district reorganization with Plymouth-Whitmarsh under Act 299, has already collected over $2,000 to finance the school survey, and donations are still coming in. It has been estimated that the study will cost about $2,300.

"I don't see that there's any chance for Conshohocken to remain independent," Dr. Harman said. "The plan of the Montgomery County school directors has already been accepted and approved by the Department of Public Instruction and the Council of Basic Education. Apparently, these two groups feel there are valid reasons why Conshohocken should merge with Plymouth-Whitmarsh."

There's Hope ...

A leader of the Conshohocken Independents today questioned statements by Dr. Allen C. Harman, county school superintendent, that he doesn't see any chance for Conshohocken to remain an independent school district under Act 299.

"I am one of many Conshohocken residents who feel that if we show the State Board of Education that we intend to upgrade our educational system, we should have a very good chance to remain independent," Mrs. Josephine Palacio said.

"After all, why else were exceptions written into the law if not to help communities that are being financially crushed by this act?"

"Jenkintown, with a pupil population of only 691 is being allowed to remain independent. If we had the quality of education Jenkintown has, why wouldn't Conshohocken be in the same position?"

"We have been told by important people in education that Conshohocken could have a model high school, if the town wanted to work for it."

Mrs. Palacio said if the school survey sponsored by the Independents does nothing else, it "will spell out for thinking people in Conshohocken the way to help children currently attending high school classes, especially those nearing graduation."

Mrs. Palacio summed up her position this way: "Where there's life, there's hope."

The State Board of Education is now reviewing the plans.

"I don't think there is any chance that the State Board of Education will change the plan for Conshohocken," Dr. Harman said. "But the decision rests with them. We (the County School Board) did what we thought was required by the law."

Dr. Harman had some comments about the basis of the County School Board's decision.

"We believe we acted in the best educational interest of Conshohocken, and we had to do it (i.e. outline the merger) because the law required it," he said.

"We don't believe this is the finest program we can develop in some instances, but we had to subscribe to the law."

Lee Sues Former Treasurer

Lee National Corporation in Cleveland has sued a retired official of the company to recover $237,213 that was allegedly "overpaid" for pensions.

The firm made the charges against Ernest M. Ikert, former general manager and later treasurer of Lee Rubber, after 50 former salaried employees of the company sued to collect $948,100 they claim is due to them in pensions.

The Lee pension plan was revoked in December, 1962, five months after Ikert retired.

Ikert is charged with having had full knowledge of the plan, and having permitted overpayments from an unfunded pension fund amounting to $237,213 between Sept. 2, 1942 and July 1, 1962, when he retired.

Expect Naming of First Conshohocken Zoning Group

Conshohocken Borough Council will hold a special public meeting one night next week to appoint a five-man Zoning Commission. Council president Frank Zadroga said the meeting is set for the new Municipal Building, Eighth Ave. and Fayette St.

"The purpose of the Zoning Commission is to hold a series of public hearings on the adoption of a zoning ordinance for Conshohocken," Zadroga said.

"They will hold public hearings in each area of town that has been selected for a certain type of zoning. At these meetings they will try to get the views of the people who live in these areas."

Zadroga said the Zoning Commission will then draw up an ordinance to be presented to Borough Council for adoption. He said the proposal will be based on the zoning code recently approved by the Conshohocken Planning Commission.

"I expect the Zoning Commission to submit an ordinance to Borough Council within two or three months," Zadroga said. "Then the Commission will be dissolved, and we will appoint a Zoning Board of Adjustment to be a watchdog for our new zoning ordinance."

Borough Council still must decide how many persons will be appointed to the Board of Adjustment. It may consist of either three or five members, according to Zadroga.

Zadroga said Borough Council has had plenty of time to decide on the men who will be appointed to the Zoning Commission at tonight's meeting.

School Board Gives Approval To Independents Survey

Conshohocken's school board granted its stamp of approval Monday night to a proposed survey of the school system to determine the feasibility of remaining independent.

By a 5-0 vote, the board accepted the proposal of the Conshohocken Independents, a group opposed to school reorganization with Plymouth-Whitmarsh under Act 299, to hire an educational survey group to conduct a general study of the school system with the goal of providing "quality education" for borough school children.

Richard G. Webber, who had just been seated as a member of the board, abstained from voting.

The $2,500 survey, which will be wholly financed by the Independents, will place special emphasis on curriculum and faculty needs, and architectural recommendations on the soundness of the present high school building and the need for additional facilities.

The board agreed to engage a Philadelphia non-profit firm called Studies in Higher Education, headed by former Lafayette College Dean Dr. Ralph Hutchinson, to conduct the survey which is expected to be completed in two months.

The Independents hope to finance the survey through donations acquired in a "dollar drive" among 2,560 borough residents who recently signed a petition opposing the merger.

Costs for the survey will include $1,000 for the study of buildings, faculty, and curriculum, and $1,500 for architect's fees, administration costs, and other expenses.

Although Mrs. Josephine Palacio, leader of the Independents, was not able to attend, the goals and objectives of the survey were described in her report, which was (Continued on page 5)

80 Residents Protest Plan for New Motel Near Turnpike

More than 80 Plymouth Township residents stormed a public hearing Monday night to protest a zoning change that would lead to the construction of a Holiday Inn Motel on Plymouth Rd. near the Pennsylvania Turnpike interchange.

The application for a change from A-Residential to Commercial zoning was submitted by seven residents whose properties front on Plymouth Rd., between Germantown Pike and the site of the new $1 million elementary school that is being built near Johnson Highway.

Walter J. Campbell, Sr., of 430 Plymouth Rd., told the commissioners that he plans to build a motel on four acres of his seven-acre property and is about to enter negotiations with Holiday Inn Motels, Inc., to obtain a franchise.

Campbell said the motel complex, which would be located one property away from the new elementary school, would consist of 50 to 100 units in addition to a restaurant and bar.

None of the other six petitioners were present to discuss how they planned to use their land under commercial zoning.

Attorney Bernard DiGiacomo, representing all of the petitioners, used the term "unfortunate" in saying "these persons do not have plans at present." But he added that any attempt to deny them commercial zoning would be "discriminatory" because of "the commercial nature of nearby properties. "These homeowners are surrounded on three sides by non-residential zoning," DiGiacomo said, pointing out on a zoning map nearby properties that are zoned commercial, limited industrial, office laboratory, and the new school.

But the case of the petitioners was bombarded from the floor by heavy criticism for more than two and a half hours as area residents and an army of lawyers protested.

By "considerably" increasing traffic on Plymouth Rd., the motel would create a safety hazard for school children who will have to walk along the "narrow, winding, un-sidewalked" road.

If commercial zoning were approved, property owners could "turn the area into another Ridge Pike" by building bowling alleys and billiard rooms at their own discretion; and, with special exceptions, building "gasoline stations, auto repair shops, etc."

"The big, glaring lights" from the Holiday Inn signs would create "an eyesore" to nearby residential properties that are located in a valley.

The nature of a combination motel-bar-restaurant would create a threat to the "health, welfare, safety and morals" of the community.

Allowing commercial zoning would encourage "sporadic zoning," thus defeating the purpose of the comprehensive plan.

Harry Rogers, of 454 Plymouth Rd., testifying against the proposal for downzoning, warned the commissioners that "the traffic problem on Plymouth Rd. is already tremendous in the evenings and early mornings."

He said the combination of traffic created by the motel and the new school would be "a real threat" to children because school regulations require children to walk to school if they live within a mile and a half.

Describing the "hazardous" conditions, Rogers said:

"When I investigated, the State Highway Department said they didn't have a line down the middle

Drainage Problem Still Going On

Spring Mill Road's drainage problems have been extended another month.

Whitemarsh Chairman of Supervisors Jack Kendree said last week that the board is waiting for an estimate of construction costs for the Spring Mill drainage system from George Mebus, township consulting engineer.

He said it would be due in a week or two.

Kendree made the same statement at last month's meeting of the board.

He offered no explanation of why estimates were not finished or when expected.

The board plans to run a storm drain under Ridge Pike and off of the proposed Spring Mill Road drain into Sherry Lake.

Developer Harry Kravitz has been asked by the board to install a larger than usual pipe under Spring Mill Road so that the township could use the line for carrying the water off 14 acres of WIBG property.

The township needs a cost estimate to pay Kravitz the difference in price between the smaller (required) and the larger (optional) pipe.

Kravitz is Told To Tear Down Two Foundations

George Mebus, Whitemarsh consulting engineer, has sent a letter to Harry Kravitz ordering him to tear down the two controversial foundations in Whitemarsh Estates.

In the letter Mebus said this action was the only safe course for the township.

He ordered Kravitz to remove all masonry and frames from the site and demolish the two foundations.

West Conshy Alumni Banquet is Saturday

More than 200 alumni of the defunct West Conshohocken High School are expected to attend the first Alumni Association Banquet in 17 years this Saturday at the William Penn Inn, Gwynedd, at 6:30 p.m.

Two More Join Ply. Fire Substation

Two new members were accepted into the Plymouth Valley Substation of the Harmonville Fire Co. last week.

David A. Stanton, of 2911 Penn Square Rd., and William Quinley, of 10 Church Rd., were voted to contributing membership at the September meeting of the fire company.

Applications by four other Plymouth Valley residents were received at the meeting. They are now being reviewed by the Membership Investigating Committee.

Is The Pig Farm Here to Stay?

The Whitemarsh Board of Supervisors indicated last week that the pig farm on Ridge Pike, adjacent to Whitemarsh Estates, is probably here to stay.

Supervisor Richard Lownes told about 40 persons at last Thursday's meeting that the pig farm complaints had been referred to the township Sanitation Board.

"And we haven't heard from them since," Lownes explained.

"We had the State Air Pollution Board down to investigate the problem, and they said there was nothing they could do about it."

GOP Plans Monday Rally At King of Prussia

King of Prussia will be host to Republican State legislative incumbents and candidates from six counties at a regional conference this Monday, at the George Washington Motor Lodge, Route 202 below 23, at 1:15 p.m.

State Representative Edwin G. Holl, of Lansdale, chairman of the regional legislative meeting, said more than 70 Republicans, including the State chairman and two State-wide candidates, will attend.

Holl was named chairman of the regional conference by State Chairman Craig Truax.

A candidate for his third term in the House of Representatives, Holl said the purpose of the meeting is to acquaint new candidates with the accomplishments of the Scranton Administration, and with plans to wage a campaign to insure Republican control of the Senate and the House.

Holl said that Truax will be joined at the conference by W. Stuart Helm, Speaker of the House and candidate for State Auditor General; Robert B. Fleming, State Senator and nominee for State Treasurer, and State Representative Kenneth B. Lee, House majority leader.

In addition to the reception and afternoon meetings, Holl said a dinner is scheduled.

The Montgomery County delegation consists of:

Wilmot E. Fleming, Jerkintown, candidate for State Senator in a special County-wide election for the 12th Senatorial District.

Robert P. Johnson, Lower Merion, candidate for State Senator in the new 17th Senatorial District.

Lawrence Coughlin, Lower Merion, and Jeanne D. Brugger, Upper Merion, candidates for State Representatives in the new 1st Legislative District.

Robert J. Butera, Norristown, and Frank W. Jenkins, Springfield, candidates for State Representatives in the new 2nd Legislative District.

Plane Crash Errors Cited

A Plymouth Township man was accused Friday night by investigators of the Federal Aviation Agency of committing five flying errors in piloting a plane that crashed near Leighton Airport on Thursday, injuring five area residents, three of them his future in-laws.

Ronald Koehler, 21, of 1814 Graver's Road, was charged with:

1. Not having permission of the plane's owner to fly from Philadelphia to Leighton.
2. Not having permission to land on a grassy field where the plane crashed and overturned.
3. Not radioing for landing instructions from airport officers.
4. Traveling too fast and too high to make a correct landing.
5. Not having permission to carry passengers.

Injured in the crash were Koehler; his fiance, Charlotte Wolfe, 17, of 255 Flourtown Road, Plymouth Meeting; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolfe, both 54, of the same address; and Mrs. Faye Scheckler, of 131 Nancy Lane, King of Prussia, another daughter of the Wolfes.

Charles Wolfe, Jr., another passenger, was unhurt.

Investigators reported that the group was traveling from Wings Field to the Leighton Fairgrounds.

They said the plane's nose landing gear buckled when the craft touched the ground, and it went into a skid that took it to Ninth St., Leighton, where it crashed in a field between two palatial homes.

The $43,000 plane, owned by Delaware Aviation Corp., was demolished.

Koehler reportedly rented the plane for the day (at a 30 percent employe discount) for a solo flight.

Two Companies Battle Same Fire In Truck, Field

Volunteers from the Harmonville and Swedesburg Fire Companies battled two blazes side by side Thursday night when a truck loaded with furniture caught fire on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, four miles west of the Plymouth Meeting interchange.

While Harmonville fire fighters spent an hour extinguishing the truck blaze, Swedesburg volunteers battled a field fire alongside the turnpike that had been set off by the truck fire.

The truck had been rented by two college boys who were moving their furniture from Greenwich, Conn., to Pittsburgh.

A broken fuel line was the apparent cause of the fire, according to Harmonville company officials.

Profile: Must Set Goals To Individual, Educator Says

Recognizing the creative ability and individuality of the elementary school child is one of the most vital responsibilities facing educators today.

This is the conviction of 31-year-old Albert D. Erb, principal of Ridge Park Elementary School, who this month started his sixth year as a principal in the Plymouth Township school system.

"As educators, we must set our goals according to what we feel are the needs of the individual child," Erb said.

"I feel that no beliefs are more important to education than the need to understand either the limits or the extent of the child's potential."

Erb said that at Ridge Park School every effort is made to bring out the creative ability and individuality of the child.

"For example we have grouping within the classrooms," he said. "In this way we are able to group children according to their levels of strength or weakness."

Through a continued program of curriculum reevaluation and revision, Erb believes Ridge Park School has been able to attain a flexible curriculum within each classroom.

"We also encourage individuality through an after school program for talented children, and special education classes for slower learning children," Erb said.

"And we try to bring out the most in each child by the utilization of special teachers in such areas as reading, art, music, and physical education."

Erb said that a new program for teaching reading has been introduced at the fifth and sixth grade level where children are sectioned according to their particular abilities in reading.

All this wouldn't be possible if it weren't for the "excellent" school system in Plymouth Township, according to Erb.

"I feel that the children and parents in Plymouth Township have shown that they are strongly interested in their schools," Erb said.

"Both the teachers and top administrators, as well as our school directors, have also shown that they are interested in presenting a positive and stimulating school program."

Erb comes from a long line of teachers.

"My mother, Mildred Knecht, was an elementary school teacher," he said. "My uncle Horace Erb is principal at Eddystone High School, and my uncle George is a math teacher at Abington High School. Several of my aunts are teachers, and my sister is a teacher in the Pottstown elementary schools."

Erb wanted to become an educator ever since his high school days when he was encouraged by some of his teachers to enter the field.

Born in Pottstown, Erb is a 1954 graduate of Kutztown State Teachers College. He received his masters degree in elementary education at Temple University in 1960, and he is currently working for his doctorate in school administration.

Erb taught five years at Plymouth Consolidated School before he was appointed principal of the Plymouth Consolidated and Black Horse Elementary Schools. Three years later he was appointed principal of the newly opened Ridge Park School.

"Coming to Ridge Park School was my greatest thrill as an educator," Erb said. "We have an

Webber Gets Board Seat

Richard G. Webber, of 118 E. Fourth Ave., was seated Monday night as the newest member of the Conshohocken School Board at its first regular meeting since July.

Webber was named Friday by the Montgomery County Court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former board president Victor J. Montemayor, who recently moved from the borough.

The only applicant for the post, Webber was appointed by court action because the Conshohocken School Board failed to reach a majority vote in naming him to the seat in August.

Former borough councilman John E. Boyle, who had been the only other applicant for the post, recently withdrew his name from consideration after conferring with Webber.

The new school director, who has lived in Conshohocken all his life, is employed in the personnel department at Univac. He is a graduate of Conshohocken High School, and a 1949 graduate of Temple University.

Webber and his wife, Elizabeth, have two children, Scott, three, and Suzanne, four months old.

Registration for the newly organized Whitemarsh Community Art Center will be held Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Township Building, Joshua Rd., Lafayette Hill.

Opening day for classes is Oct. 3 at the Twp. Bldg.

Initially, the center will offer a program in dance and art for children between the ages of 5 and 12. Mrs. Muriel Tatcher and Mrs. Dena Sher are co-chairmen of the organizing committee.

Residents of Whitemarsh have priority at registration. However, applications by residents of other communities will be accepted, and they will be notified if enrollment is not filled by Whitemarsh residents.

outstanding staff, and a very functional building. Place a good teacher in a building such as this, and you have the epitome of education."

Erb and his wife, the former Sylvia Reese, live at 5016 Butler Pike, Plymouth Meeting. They have three sons, Albert, Jr., six, David, five, and Jeffrey, two.

A member of the Grace Lutheran Church, Norristown, Erb has been a coin collector for ten years and is particularly interested in American history.

"Most of my reading for enjoyment is either historical novels or true history," Erb said. "I am particularly interested in the Civil War era.

"If I had not gone into elementary education, I would have become a history teacher."

read by Rev. Marshall W. Lee, pastor of St. Paul's Baptist Church.

According to Dr. Hutchinson, the letter said, Conshohocken could have a "model high school" if residents "wanted it badly enough to back the program with a continuing interest."

"The 'donation' which we would be asked to make would be about $2,500, including the architect's inspection of the high school building, the curriculum and faculty needs study and the architect's sketches of proposed changes or additions to the building.

"At this time we wish to remind all of our people that any improvements in curriculum made as a result of this survey, will greatly benefit the classes of 1965 and 1966, if we are forced to merge."

Colonial Football Tickets on Sale

Adult season football tickets are on sale in the Activities Office, Plymouth-Whitemarsh High School. The Colonials open their home season with Penncrest on October 3, at 2 p.m.

every councilman and every borough official to come up with names so we can pick the best possible people," Zadroga said.

"One member of the Commission must be from the Borough Planning Commission. No member of Borough Council will be allowed on the Commission."

Approval of a zoning code for Conshohocken will leave only nine of the county's 62 municipalities without zoning regulations.

Based on the findings of the recently completed comprehensive plan for Conshohocken, it will be the first zoning code in the 114-year history of the borough.

Conshy Art League Sets Registration

Alan Wood Steel Loses Zone Plea

The Plymouth Township Board of Commissioners unanimously denied a request by Alan Wood Steel Co. to change the zoning of two tracts near the site where Conshohocken Rd. is being re-located.

Commissioner Earle E. Craley made the motion to deny the change from B Residential zoning to Heavy Industrial at the public meeting on Monday. Paul Callahan seconded the motion.

One tract is the former Ivy Rock School at Conshohocken Rd. and Craven St. The other consists of six dwellings in the Old Elm St. area, up to, but not including, the Mansion House Inn.

The commissioners also voted 4-1 against an Alan Wood request for a use and occupancy permit to use a building in a residential area, off Fulton St., for office use.

Upper Merion
Is Called a Hodgepodge

A Plymouth Township attorney called Upper Merion a "hodgepodge" of commercialism and warned the Plymouth Board of Commissioners not to follow the "bad example" of Upper Merion by allowing a Holiday Inn Motel to be built at the Plymouth Meeting interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Atty. Richard Gerber told the commissioners at a zoning hearing Monday night that "creeping commercialism" has reached the point where it is beyond control in Upper Merion.

"Ask police chief Donald Beacraft in Upper Merion, and he will tell you he doesn't have enough men to handle all the problems there," Gerber said.

"Ask the fire departments there. They'll tell you the same thing."

Gerber was referring to a large concentration of inns, restaurants, and motor lodges at the intersection of Rts. 202 and 23, and the Schuylkill Expressway and Pennsylvania Turnpike interchanges in Upper Merion; in addition to two large shopping centers nearby and other smaller centers and businesses near Swedesford Rd. and Rt. 23.

Jack A. Rounick, Esq., of 301 Blue Ridge Road, Plymouth Meeting, has been named as the first Finance Director of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania.

His appointment was announced by John T. Acton, YR Chairman.

Previously, the YR received funds from the GOP State Committee.

Rounick, 29, formerly served as a Republican committeeman in Plymouth Township and as chairman of the Greater Norristown YR Club.

A member of the Plymouth-Whitemarsh Junior Chamber of Commerce, he previously was chairman of the Plymouth Township Industrial Development Committee.

Rounick and his wife, Phyllis, have two children, Ellen, five, and Eric Scott, three.

New Hope Meeting Is 'Satisfactory'

Plymouth commissioner chief Bernard J. Hoffman has reported that a meeting last Thursday with the County Department of Bridges and Highways and East Norriton Township on the expansion of New Hope St. was "very satisfactory."

He said the three bodies have agreed to meet again to make a study of building a bridge over Saw Mill Run creek, which crosses New Hope St.

The cost of the project may run as high as $100,000. Officials from the townships are seeking to have the County build the bridge and pay one-third the costs of the road.

$5000 Is Set For Study of Incinerator

The Whitmarsh Township Board of Supervisors plans to spend $5,000 for a study of alternative plans for the reconstruction of the township's incinerator to show their "sincerity to the authority."

Supervisor Jesse Beeghley said last week the board will probably enter in a joint-agreement with the Authority paying the other half of the $10,000 study, although the board is not required by law to pay anything.

Beeghley said the board may also set up a side agreement that would have the authority pay the total $10,000 to Metcalf and Eddy, of Boston, with the township later responsible to reimburse half the cost.

Why does the board want this study?

Beeghley said the supervisors are not satisfied with present plans, especially since the lowest bids for reconstruction were more than $700,000.

He explained that the Metcalf and Eddy study would limit itself to an overall cost of $450,000, and bidding on present plans would continue until Oct. 15. The original deadline was Aug. 31.

Beeghley said the board plans to pay part of the cost to "show its sincerity to the Authority." He indicated that otherwise the Authority would be hesitant to make the study.

Metcalf and Eddy are the consulting engineers for the Authority and have made other studies of the incinerator.

Beeghley said the engineering firm has already started work on the study even though no money has been appropriated. He said a formal agreement will probably be drawn up this week.

Plymouth Growth Forces Study of Fire Equipment

The population explosion in Plymouth Township was cited this week as the major reason for plans to purchase a new fire truck for the Harmonville Fire Co.

Plans to acquire the new apparatus were disclosed at the September meeting of the fire company when a five-man committee was established to draw up specifications for bidders.

Fire chief J. Donald Tarbutton was appointed chairman of the committee. Other members selected were Howard Foster, Robert Wells, Charles Wells, and William Leopold.

"This is part of our program of keeping up with the growth of the township," Tarbutton said after the meeting. "We are doing this in preparation for the population growth and increased building activity that we expect in the next few years."

Tarbutton added that "a major factor" in the decision to initiate a study was the $30 million Plymouth Meeting Shopping Center, which is expected to be open for business by the Fall of 1965.

The Harmonville Co. already owns five pieces of apparatus. They include two pumpers, a fire police truck, a heavy-duty rescue truck, and a utility truck.

"Right now the committee is making a study whether we will need a new pumper or another kind of apparatus," Tarbutton said.

"I hope to report the findings of the committee at the October business meeting of the fire company. I don't expect the first bids to be submitted until possibly the November 2 meeting."

Tarbutton said this won't be the apparatus for the new Plymouth Valley substation of the Harmon-ville Co. Although he was ordered by the township commissioners to look for a fire engine for the substation earlier this year, Tarbutton said he is not looking for an apparatus for the substation at present.

"We have different plans," he said. "But I can't disclose them at the moment."

State Study Asked On Plymouth Rd.

The Plymouth Board of Commissioners passed a resolution Monday night to request the State Highway Department to study the need to widen Plymouth rd. because "it is a traffic bottleneck" and "especially because of the new school being there."

Robert L. Townsend, township secretary, was directed by the board to send a letter to Harrisburg to that effect.

The resolution was passed prior to a hearing to change the zoning of seven properties on Plymouth rd. from A-Residential to commercial.

of the road because it wasn't wide enough."

The protests of residents at the meeting were matched by two letters read to the commissioners by Robert L. Townsend, secretary of the board.

In the first letter, the Plymouth Township School Board informed the commissioners that they had passed an advisory motion opposing the downzoning because of "safety problems" it would create for pupils at the new elementary school.

The second letter, from the Plymouth Hill Civic Association, informed the board that a motion had been passed at a civic association meeting opposing the zoning change. It was accompanied by a petition signed by 259 residents of Plymouth Hill.

Another letter was received from Norbert J. Zeimes, of 522 Plymouth Rd., who requested that his 13.5 acre tract be included in the request for downzoning.

The Board of Commissioners announced that they will study a summary of Monday night's hearing.
