Cosie M. Hickey, Walter E. Shank, On Honeymoon

Miss Doris Mae Hickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hickey, 135 West Tenth avenue, and Walter E. Shank, son of Mrs. Louise Schand, 1208 Fayette street, and the late Walter E. Shank, Sr., were united in marriage at a nuptial mass, Saturday morning at 10 in St. Matthew's R. C. Church.

Rev. William A. O'Donnell, rector of the church, officiated. Miss Rose A. Hoy presided at the organ and Robert Jones was the vocal soloist. White flowers adorned the altars.

Miss Marie Rowe, 329 Spring Mill avenue, was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Anne Fondolis, 118 West Seventh avenue, and Miss Catherine Hayes, 115 East Hector street. Little Miss Alice Ann Parker, Philadelphia, was the flower girl.

John Schank, brother of the bridegroom, was the groomsmen and ushers were Walter Burns, 125 West Third avenue, cousin of the bridegroom and Joseph Schank, brother of the bridegroom.

White dotted organdy, made in tulle effect with bouffant skirt and Peter Pan collar, formed the bride's picturesque gown. Baby Irish lace and small mother-of-pearl buttons trimmed it. Her fingertip veil was held with orange blossoms and she carried a semi-circular bouquet of gardenias, bouvardia and baby breath, with a lavender-lipped white orchid forming the center.

Gowns of pastel dotted swiss were worn by the attendants. Miss Worn wore pale yellow, Miss Hayes, pale green and Miss Fondolis, pale pink. All their frocks were made similar to the bride's gown. White sandals were worn. Heart-shaped bows, matching their gowns, were worn, flowers effectively trimming them.

The maid of honor carried yellow roses, bronze snapdragons, yellow daisies and baby breath, tied with yellow marquisette. Miss Hayes carried tallisman roses, yellow snapdragons and panicles in lavender and blue tones, and with green marquisette. Miss Fondolis' bouquet was of pink roses, pink snapdragons and blue delphinium, tied with pink marquisette. All were semi-arm in style.

The blue dotted swiss was worn by the flower girl, a poke bonnet matching her gown, and her bouquet a miniature of the bride's attendants, in style, blending their flowers.

The bride's mother wore flowered white silk jersey with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The mother of the bridegroom wore grey blue silk in ensemble style, with navy blue accessories and a corsage of pink roses, blue delphinium and striped pink carnations.

The bride's traveling attire was a two-piece suit of blue wool crepe with accessories of luggage tan and white.

A reception for 150 guests followed at the home of the bride, pink and white flowers adorning the table. After a wedding trip the couple will reside at 13 East First avenue.

River Pollution

Flood stage in the Schuylkill river gave a striking demonstration of pollution of the river. The river was filled with debris, which is expected when the river overflows its banks and washes into the stream materials along the banks. Pollution from the mines, which can and should be eliminated, contaminated the river more than from any other source.

The Schuylkill river, during the high water, was a stream of inky blackness, and this is the water supply for Norristown and Philadelphia, water which cannot be used in periods of high water.

For years there has been an organized effort to have the State prohibit pollution of the river and its tributaries. The Schuylkill river, which should be a useful and beautiful river is an open sewer. Few varieties of fish are now found in the river, where once there were many varieties of edible game fish.

The river, years ago, was popular for boating, bathing and fishing. Contamination has denied the people of this pleasure.

What the present flood conditions has shown should be an incentive for more people to become interested in and support the organization devoting its efforts to restoring the river to its former beauty and usefulness and demand legislation that will stop pollution and contamination. But the legislature has refused to act against the mine owners.

The Health Department has stopped some pollution by stopping the disposal of industrial waste into the river. This is but a small source of pollution and were it the only source, the river would be quickly cleaned and remain clean and useful to the people.

The great source of pollution of the river is the coal mines. Water, containing large amounts of acids and clum is drained from the mines into the river. Thousands of tons of fine coal is carried down the river each year and forms deposits which must be dredged.

Need For Recreation

Rationing of gasoline and tires is gradually removing automobiles from the highways and changing social life. The people will have to revive old customs of finding their entertainment at home and will also have to provide it.

There will be fewer picnics and family outings and the schools will close for the summer vacations next month. Hundreds of children will be dependent upon the home recreation facilities.

The two playgrounds will care for many of the younger children. There should be at least two more playgrounds open for the summer, as present playgrounds are too far away for many children to walk from their homes and return.

The older children will not have the advantage of directed play. These children will have to depend upon their own resources and in search of entertainment, they may trespass and unthinkingly do damage.

There is great need for directed play for the older children. It would be a good investment to employ a supervisor of play for these children and have the activities in Sutcliffe park. Families should be encouraged to use the park for picnics. At slight expense tables and benches could be provided that families may have lunch and supper in the park.

Public recreation is a necessity and money spent intelligently for that purpose is a good investment bringing returns in good citizenship.

Government Censorship

President Roosevelt deprecates the wave of optimism that swept the country when news was given out of successes of the Allies in the South Pacific and in Russia. He warned the nation that this is going to be a long war.

The President deprecates the fact the people rejoiced over news given out by himself, the Secretary of State and the Army and Navy. All the statements were passed by the Washington officials before the newspapers were permitted to print them.

Despite the faulty censorship at Washington, the newspapers have handled war news conservatively and give the people all the information possible.

The newspapers have not "played up" minor successes as decisive victories. They have printed the successes and reverses in Europe, Africa and Asia and have not accepted any one government's statement as authoritative.

Washington has not taken the people into its confidence. The truth has not been given them. Every American is anxious to do his and her part toward winning the war. The young men of the nation have cheerfully gone into the armed forces. Millions of persons are daily giving of their time and energy as air raid wardens, auxiliary police and firemen, volunteer medical service, canteen work and many other activities to protect the home community and to encourage and support the forces in the field, in camps and at sea.

The American people are not soft. They can be depended upon in any emergency and they can meet the facts. Let us have the truth of conditions and the might of the nation will meet and overcome adverse conditions.

WPA Workers For Farm Work

Release for farm labor when need arises is required — Workers must accept farm job, if assigned — Pay will be at prevailing rate.

Prompt release of WPA workers for farm labor, when and as a need arises, is required in every county of the State. Richard Irvin, Work Projects Administrator, emphasized today in instructions to the district managers. And no worker may refuse to take a farm job, he pointed out, if he is referred for such employment and is offered in compensation the equivalent of the prevailing rate for work of the kind.

The district managers, through their representatives, are required to keep in constant touch with the various chairmen of the U. S. Department of Agriculture County War Boards. These boards are composed of county farm agents, vocational education supervisors, and representative local farmers.

Since these chairmen are familiar with the farm problems peculiar to their region, they are in the best position, Mr. Irvin pointed out, to advise in the matter of referrals of workers.

Whenever possible or practicable the county chairmen and the farmers in need of labor should depend on the U. S. Employment Service to select the prospective farm workers. In any emergency, however, it is correct procedure to take short cuts and apply direct to the supervisory personnel of any project operating in the vicinity.

In any emergency, the maximum number of men and women and qualified will be released at once, Mr. Irvin said, to the extent that local projects can meet the need.

WPA workers are available not only for harvesting purposes, but also for planting and cultivation. Once the plan is better understood by farmers, Mr. Irvin thinks, it will rapidly become workable, and will relieve the uneasiness generally felt over shortage of labor now when farmers are striving for bumper crops.

Those eligible to WPA employment, but unassigned, are likewise liable for farm service, and the same compulsion to accept jobs offered them holds true of their status.

Some farmers have made the objection, when informed of this plan, that not all WPA workers are of the age and in the good health desirable. Such objection should be removed, in Mr. Irvin's opinion, through the facilities provided by the Agriculture Farm Boards and the care shown by the U. S. Employment Service, as the case may be, project supervisors, in making referrals to prospective employers.

- Know Your State -

The occupation of every American is today a matter of national importance. There is no time now for driving square pegs into round holes. The pegs and the holes must fit. Manpower in industry, just as much as on the battlefield, is a national resource which, above all others, has to be conserved. This fact is fully realized by those who have filled out questionnaires under the Selective Service Act, as well as by those who are applying for positions in war industries.

The following analysis of U. S. Census data on employment made by the State Planning Board of the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce gives a few outstanding facts as to Pennsylvania's peacetime labor resources which are at this hour being transformed into wartime labor resources through the greatest mass changes of occupation ever witnessed in our country's history.

What is this reservoir of occupations from which we must now draw the manpower for a total industrial war?

Nearly five million skilled male workers (craftsmen, foremen and kindred workers) were employed in the United States during the last week of March 1940 and half of these were located in eight states, namely: Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. From this group the most immediately useful for the war production program in this group were 418,176 Pennsylvanians.

In these eight states were also located nearly half of the employed workers in the United States, a group which includes technical engineers, chemists, physicians, dentists, trained nurses, etc., who are also in great demand in the war effort. Of this professional group, 205,628 were located in Pennsylvania.

In 1940, Pennsylvanians numbering 657,437 were employed as operators, attendants or helpers in connection with motor cars and trucks, store deliveries, stationary engines, street cars, mines, etc. Of these, 184,418 were employed as mine operators and laborers and 108,212 as chauffeurs, truck drivers and delivery men. Nearly 100,000 in all this operator group were unemployed at that time, so that Pennsylvania had then available more than 750,000 persons trained in the operation or maintenance of various forms of motor equipment or engines. This class, like that of skilled workers, can be rapidly adapted to present day needs.

Women numbering 231,962 were employed as clerical workers, salespersons and kindred workers, which included 69,228 stenographers, typists and secretaries and 62,884 saleswomen. In addition 21,571, or more, seeking work at these occupations in March 1940, added to the total of our resource of women clerical workers who will be called on to assume a large place in maintaining our machinery of distribution, as well as to provide a reserve force of more than the number of men should be added the 210,226 women employed in the manufacturing industries and the additional 20,263 seeking work in these industries in 1940, all of whom may be employed in plants manufacturing textiles or other products for the armed force.

Other occupations in 1940 in Pennsylvania included 10,144 employed clergymen, 8,169 male and 138 female lawyers and judges and 12,218 male and 682 female physicians and surgeons. Trained and student nurses numbered 575 male and 27,549 female. A male group having a very small proportion unemployed were 1,000 farm and farm managers which totaled 109,950 persons employed with only 1,009 seeking work. Among the female farmers and farm managers, there were 2,575 employed and but 12 seeking work.

The 1940 labor force of Pennsylvania totaled nearly 3,750,000 persons engaged in hundreds of occupations. Today in the midst of our war effort, the number of the State's workers will doubtless greatly increase, but the immediate need is for every man or woman in the Commonwealth to find that occupation in which his training and experience enable him to do his utmost to ensure for our Nation a swift and decisive victory.

PENNSYLVANIA CONTRASTS Pennsylvania is the typical American state. It represents the

TREND OF EVENTS

BY
CONGRESSMAN J. WILLIAM DITTER

The confusions and conflicts existing in Washington have been brought home very pointedly to the people, as a result of the controversies between the bureaucrats over rubber and gasoline. By far the vast majority of Americans are willing to readjust themselves to the requirements of an all-out war effort and are ready to accept ungrudgingly limitations which they feel are necessary to further the vigorous and successful prosecution of the war. But their devotion is not deepened by the tug-of-war tactics which have developed over the rationing program effecting the use of automobiles, particularly in those instances where such use is not for pleasure but for essential business needs.

Committees of the Congress have sought to clarify the uncertainties of the State's population is today greater than that of India, China, Russia, Spain, France, Scotland or Ireland.

Pennsylvania's 189,027 farms occupy 14,584,134 acres of land and the State's more than 9,000,000 acres of improved farm land is nearly twice the area of arable land in Austria, and is more than that of Ireland or Sweden or of England and Wales. The percentage of land in farms rises from a low of 6% in one of our forest counties to a high of 84.2% in Greene. It is interesting to note that three counties in the State have a smaller percentage of land in farms than does the City of Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania's 1941 registration of motor cars, 1,199,868, is greater than that of all Central and South America, eleven times that of Germany and twenty times greater than that of Japan. There is great variation in the distribution of Pennsylvania's cars. In one county, the one least dense in population, more than twenty-three times as many cars are registered as in the most densely populated, there is a car for only every 7.4 persons while the average is one car for each 5.17 persons in the Commonwealth.

Just as there is a very wide variation among Pennsylvania's counties in the density of population, there is also a wide variation in birth rates. In one Pennsylvania county more than three times as many babies were born in 1940 among residents of the county for every thousand persons; in another, less than seven per thousand. Thus there are sections of Pennsylvania with a birth rate as high as Spain or Bulgaria and nearly as high as Rumania, the most prolific nation in Europe, and far exceeding that of Italy, and there are other sections of the State where the birth rate is lower than the average of any nation in the world.

One curious feature in this contrast lies in the fact that both the highest and lowest birth rates are found in counties with a very high percentage of land in American farms in their population.

In one county of our State, in 1940, over a billion dollars was invested in manufactures. In one county that investment was only $193,200, yet that latter county is fifth in the value of real estate per capita, while the former is fourth in that same value. These striking contrasts emphasize the fact, well known to Pennsylvanians but perhaps not so well known as it deserves to be by everyone else, that for every type of American living, Pennsylvania provides a variety of opportunities perhaps unobtainable anywhere else on our continent.

Sugar Ration for Home Canning

New amended sugar rationing regulations were received by the Montgomery County Commodities Board today providing for distribution of sugar for home canning and preserving, details of which are contained in an announcement by Chairman A. B. Detwiler of the County Commodities Board.

Under the amendment the board may permit a consumer who has registered in conformity with sugar rationing to obtain sugar for the purpose of canning and preserving fresh fruits to be consumed by him or by the family unit of which he is a member, in an amount not to exceed one pound per four quarts of finished canned fruit and one pound per annum per person for use in preparing preserves, jams, jellies or fruit butters, provided, however, that in no event shall the individual or family unit be permitted more sugar than is necessary to can the quantity of fruit which the board deems to be reasonable giving due consideration to the period within which the fruit will be consumed. The past practice of the individual or family unit with respect to home canning, the prevailing home canning practice in the locality among individuals and families in circumstances similar to those of the applicant, the number of quarts previously canned at home remaining in the possession of the individual or family units applying, and such other circumstances as the board deems pertinent to the particular request.

Applications for sugar in accordance with this plan shall be made to the board by one adult member of a family for all members of the unit or if there is no adult member, by the oldest member or by a responsible person, or by a consumer not a member of a family unit for himself, or if a minor, not self supporting, by his parent or guardian, or by a responsible adult.

The RECORDER will be mailed twice each week to any U. S. Army Camp for $1.50 a year.

THUMBS UP, AMERICA!

Thumbs Up, America . . . Flung out the Banner—fly it high above the grasp of human hands that would besmirch it. A flag won with pain and suffering and bloodshed . . . preserved by men strong enough, courageous enough to keep it alive—men who believe in it . . .

Thumbs Up, America . . . And We the People of the United States are again at war . . . protecting those stars and stripes on a bit of bunting—Civilization . . . free civilization . . . American civilization. And again men who believe in it are fighting to keep it free—to keep that Banner flying high.

Thumbs Up, America . . .

Flag Day Program At Valley Forge
The Philadelphia Flag Day Association will celebrate Flag Day at Valley Forge, Sunday.
Exercises will be held at the War-timer Monument at 3:00 P. M. The State Fencibles Infantry of Philadelphia will act as Honorary Guard. A wreath will be placed on the Monument and address and presentation of Colors will follow.
At 4:00 P. M. exercises will be held in the Chapel, where the principal speaker will be Honorable Leopold C. Glass, President of the Flag Day Association.
Many States of the Union have made Flag Day, June 14th, a legal holiday—among others is Pennsylvania, and it is, therefore, fitting that, in this State, where Old Glory had its birth, the day should be properly observed.
On the occasion of the early and interesting observance connected with the Flag was instituted in Philadelphia in 1893 by Dr. Edward Brooks, who was at that time Superintendent of the schools of the City. He directed that on the 14th of June, the Anniversary of the day on which the Flag Resolution was passed by the Continental Congress, should be observed as Flag Day and marked by appropriate exercises.
For several years the Philadelphia Flag Day Committee has arranged an appropriate ceremony, but this year, when most of the world is torn by war and strife, the committee decided to enlarge its celebration by bringing home to all the people the importance of showing publicly their patriotism and allegiance to the Flag.
The Committee has arranged an interesting program for Flag Day Week and the public is invited to participate.
A Military Parade, including Units of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and all Veteran Commands, will parade on Saturday, June 13th, at 6:00 P. M. from 20th and Park-way to Independence Hall, where Honorable Paul V. McNutt will be the principal speaker. Major General Claude V. Birkhead will be the Marshal.
