Money and Lights Topics For Council

West Side Has Received Greater Part of Tax Duplicate.—Economy Urged

BREAK LAMPS
Large Number of Street Lamps Maliciously Broken.—New Payments

The regular meeting of West Conshohocken town council, postponed from last Wednesday evening, was held last evening. Finance and the large number of street lights that are being broken being the chief topics for discussion.

Orders were granted for $3000 covering current bills and the sinking fund to care for the old bond issue. A rate for $2000 was paid earlier in the month. The Collector Browne has already turned in more than $10,000 of the 1931 duplicate and Mr. Hallock of the finance committee, warned council of the great necessity for practicing economy in their expenditures. Enough money must still be set aside for the sinking fund to care for the new loan. He warned that from now on the monthly receipt of taxes will be low.

William Davis, Jr., & Company submitted a bill to council for $94 covering the cost of labor for laying the cement walk in front of their office at the curb. Front street was repaired. According to an agreement between the borough and the Davis Company the company would take care of the sidewalk, provided council paid for raising part of the curb. The secretary was instructed to notify the Davis Company that in accordance of the agreement council is not obligated to pay the bill.

The report of the light committee, in which was included a large amount of outrage along Balliga road and particularly one light which was out for ten successive nights was the cause of a long discussion. Every month there are more lights out in this particular section than all the rest of the borough. This has been the case for several years.

Two half barrels of beer were found at an alleged speakeasy at Elm and Harvey streets and the proprietor escaped. An investigation is being made of the ownership, however, and Deputy Simon stated yesterday a warrant for the arrest of James Rath, alleged proprietor, will be issued.

Mr. Carter reported that Irwin Nece desires to curb, pave and gutter in front of his property at Ford and Wilson streets but that a drain pipe running across Ford street is in the way. He requests that council advise him now to proceed with the work. The street committee was instructed to comply with the request. Mr. Carter reported two new concrete sidewalks had been installed in the 800 block on Ford street and about the same number in the 1000 block.

Awarded Damages

The county of Montgomery must pay the $2800 damages decided upon by a jury of view headed by George K. Brecht, to John A. Wiley, owner of land taken in the opening of Eleventh avenue, Conshohocken. This decision was reached in the second report of the jury of view, in response to a decree of Judge Williams, when the first report was returned when objections were made by Solicitor Henry M. Brownback, for the county, in which it was not stated, it was claimed, whether the borough was acting under its special charter or that of the borough code when the land was taken.

The jury found, after taking testimony, that the borough was operating under the special charter, and that the county was subjected to the damages. Wiley claimed damages because of fruit and other trees taken when a portion of the land was taken for the improvement.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The regular mid-week meeting in the First Baptist church tomorrow evening will be in the form of a special service conducted under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, with Wilbur Wayne as leader. Mr. Charles Detwiler, of Norristown, will be the guest speaker. Following the devotional service a social period will be held.

Baby Coaches repaired and retired. Anderson's, 217 Hector street.

Asks Compensation For Injury to Eye

Compensation for injury to his eye was asked, this morning, before Compensation Referee T. D. Just at Norristown, by Donald Burnheiser, 442 East Hector street, this borough.

Burnheiser was injured while employed at the plant of the Electric Service Supply Company, at Ernest station, by a piece of wire flying from a buffing wheel, which he was operating, which struck him in the eye causing serious injury.

Officers Raid Seven Places

A wholesale raid by Federal Prohibition agents and State Police was staged in this borough and West Conshohocken Saturday afternoon when seven places were raided simultaneously and quantities of alleged beer, wine and whiskey were seized. Five men and one woman were arrested and warrants will be issued for the arrest of the proprietors of two places where liquor was found. The raids were directed by E. J. Simon, deputy administrator of the Federal Prohibition Bureau, of Philadelphia, and were made on evidence secured on bottle buys made by Federal agents over a period of four days.

Twenty-seven agents and state troopers arrived at Conshohocken at 4:30 in nine cars. The course of procedure had been mapped out by the leader before the party left Philadelphia and after arriving in the town, the cars dispersed in various directions. This method of conducting the raid was highly successful, the agents arriving at each alleged speakeasy at the same moment.

Two half barrels of beer were found at an alleged speakeasy at Elm and Harvey streets and the proprietor escaped. An investigation is being made of the ownership, however, and Deputy Simon stated yesterday a warrant for the arrest of James Rath, alleged proprietor, will be issued.

The maximum quantity of contraband liquor was found at an alleged speakeasy on Elm street near Harry said to be operated by George Marwood where two barrels of beer, five quarts of sherry wine, 14 pints of alleged whiskey and a half pint bottle half filled were seized. No arrest was made as the proprietor was not caught up a warrant will be issued.

Edward Durczynski, East Elm street, was placed under $1000 bail. Two quarts of wine and three quarts of whiskey and four quarts of gin were seized at his place.

Seven barrels of wine were found at the home of Nero and Anna Simencin, West Third avenue. They were placed under $500 bail each by Magistrate White to appear before U. S. Commissioner Patterson tomorrow morning. The woman was arrested at the time of the raid but as her husband did not return from work until 6, he was brought before White later. Owing to his tardy arrest, he and his wife were not taken to Philadelphia for hearings Saturday.

Irwin Williams, 839 Ford street, West Conshohocken, was placed under $1000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Patterson. Two barrels of beer, three quarts of wine and one pint of whiskey were found at his place.

John Young, West Fourth avenue, was arrested at a Maple street address and placed under $1000 bail. Three barrels of beer, one and a half gallons of wine, and one gallon of gin and a pint of whiskey were seized there.

Elwood Harry, Maple street, was placed under $1000 bail. Two pints of liquor, 1 quart of wine and three barrels of beer were seized at his alleged speakeasy.

All beer was destroyed on the premises. Two Federal trucks were summoned to Philadelphia to carry in the liquor and wine seized.

Asks Receiver for Jenkintown Paper

A petition was filed in court, at Norristown, this morning before Judge Knight, by attorneys for Theodore Delaney, of Jenkintown, to force an accounting of the finances of Harry Bird and the Jenkintown Times-Chronicle and asking a receiver be appointed for the Times-Chronicle.

The petitioner claimed that the Times-Chronicle was a loan made to Bird, who purchased the newspaper and real estate from Mrs. Harry B. Heywood; that he paid $10,000 on account of the real estate purchase and the real estate to be taken back by Mrs. Heywood; that Bird borrowed other funds to buy the business and to construct a building.

The petitioner asked the appointment of Harry Bird as receiver, co-receiver T. Yeakle Miller, counsel for the Citizens National Bank said that Bird was indebted to the bank in the amount of $30,000 and asked the appointment of a co-receiver.

Other creditors are Joshua Wilday $10,000 and Mrs. H. B. Heywood, $19,000.

Judge Knight stated the important feature of the newspaper going and decreed that all attorneys in the case file briefs. This morning, Mr. Bird filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy in Philadelphia.

First Returns For Relief

A. B. Fairbairn's Committee Reports Pledges For $360 for Relief Funds.—Other Committees to Report Later.

A. B. Fairbairn, chairman of the committee to solicit contributions from these not in group employment in the borough, is the first to make a report of pledges for relief work here this winter. The report was made to Howard Wood, Jr., chairman of the Conshohocken Relief Association, recently formed to extend relief to the unemployed during the present depression.

Mr. Fairbairn and his aides have been courteously received by a great majority of the persons solicited and it is the aim of the committee to secure pledges in the amount of $2000 in a period of six months, payments to be made weekly or monthly.

It is the aim of the general committee to obtain $10,000 for the six months period as it is believed this sum will be needed.

The collection of food and clothing and financial assistance were urgently needed to protect families afflicted with illness and to keep children in school, will be made after thorough investigation in conjunction with the Civilian Relief Association and the Society of St. Vincent de Paul.

Chairman Fairbairn has reported the following residents have pledged to contribute $360:

Charles D. Conroy, Miss Annie M. Heller, Archie Hyde, Michael Bosco, Francis A. Blake, Frank Jacquet, Miss Margaret R. Tracy, George B. Tracy, Matthew A. Tracy, A. E. Fairbairn, Harry Walter, H. D. Herbert, Daniel Donovan, Thomas J. Nevins, Raymond H. Erdly, Harry Williams, Walter H. Paul, Leonard A. Talone, Louis J. Ehlinger, Mr. and Mrs. George M. S. Light, William F. Meyers, Nicholas Talone, Frank E. Morarty, V. S. Hannon, John B. Pollock, Mrs. George Wright, Harry Dewalt, Lillian M. Nicoll, D. W. Kirkpatrick.

No Ticket For Council in Two Wards

Commissioners May Leave Spaces on November Ticket Blank

BALLOTS WERE WRONG
County Solicitor Gives Opinion That Error Could No Election

An error made by the county commissioners in the printing of the ballots for the primary elections in the Second and Fourth wards of this borough will result in the ballots for the November election having no names of candidates for town council in either ward, if the opinion of the county solicitor is accepted.

Before the primary elections, the borough clerk certified to the county commissioners the number of councilmen with other borough officers to be elected. This was seven councilmen to be elected in the five wards. The commissioners made an error in the Second ward ballots by having printed thereon in the space for town council "Vote for two." It should have read "Vote for one."

In each ward, the election officers carried the voters' names for and it is claimed in order to aid the voter, a correction was made in the printed instructions on the ballot.

Borough Manager Herbert reported the error to the county commissioners at a meeting and it was found that the commissioners instead of checking the form for the ballot with the borough office, a local resident, employed in the court house supplied the information as to the number of vacancies in council to be filled and gave wrong information.

Despite the error in the ballots, the voters placed in nomination candidates for one seat in council from the Second ward and two from the Fourth.

County Solicitor, Henry M. Brownback, in a letter to Manager Herbert gives it as his opinion that no names for town council should appear on the ballot in either the Second or Fourth wards, as by changing the instructions, the ballots were nullified, hence making the election void. He advises that the voters make their choice for town council in the November elections.

Fashion Show Opens At Norristown

Patrons of the Norris Theatre, Norristown, shall give a great treat in the presentation of a show being billed as the "Attraction Extraordinary" which is to be offered for three nights this week, beginning with the Wednesday evening performance.

In conjunction with the regular talking picture to be shown on the screen the Messrs. Sablosky announce that there shall also be a great stage production which is to be participated in by twenty-two of the city stars and will embrace the latest fashions, songs, orchestration and various other feature novelties, all combined in one big review which will be efficiently directed and produced by Harry Elben, of Philadelphia, the well-known and popular theatrical magnet and musical comedy director.

According to the big program scheduled, the stage show will follow immediately after the first show on the screen which is to be entitled "The Great Love" and a motion picture performance that has played to large well pleased audiences in big cities wherever it has been shown.

Doubtlessly this stage show can be very appropriately termed a Fashion Review Classic as it will no doubt embrace more pleasing novelties and favorite presentations than any previous review and is to be staged at a great expense to the management of the theatre and owner of the local ladies wearing apparel store under whose supervision it is to be held.

Continue Hearing in Liberal Party Case

Argument is to be heard this afternoon in the county courts, in the action of the Liberal Party to prevent candidates in the November elections to use the name of the party.

A hearing was to be held this morning and Judge Knight stated that due to the fact that Judge Williams before the primary campaign asked that he and Judge Corcoran act as an election court as he, Judge Williams, had a relative as a candidate, Judge Knight advised that Judge Corson sit with him and hear the case. He stated the argument would be heard this afternoon and an opinion given quickly as the last day for correcting the ballots in the hands of the printers is October 20.

P. M. Churches In Conference

Sessions Opened This Morning in West Side Church.—Fourteen Churches Are Represented at This Conference.

The Primitive Methodist church of West Conshohocken is today host to the Schuylkill District of the Primitive Methodist Church of Pennsylvania at the semi-annual conference. Fourteen of the twenty-five churches in the district were represented when the morning business session opened at 10:00.

Rev. J. C. Keller, pastor of the West Side church, welcomed the visiting pastors. The address of welcome was followed by the singing of a hymn.

Rev. Mr. Eley, of the Wesleyan Primitive Church, Philadelphia, was elected president of the conference. Revs. George Powell, of Tamaqua, secretary of the Pennsylvania Conference, is also secretary of the semi-annual conference.

The election of the president was followed by prayer by Rev. Herbert Hayes and Rev. James Kelly.

Reports from the various churches in the district were read by the respective pastors as follows: Tamaqua, Rev. George Powell; St. Clair and Wade, Rev. J. Elvin Cook; Charville, Rev. Isaac Davies; Mahony City, Rev. John Stevens; Mount Carmel, Rev. William B. Hargrave; Shamokin, Rev. Wesley Boyd; Shamokin, Rev. W. C. Hall; Coaldale, Rev. Herbert Hayes; Philadelphia, First Church, Rev. W. J. Walters; Wesleyan Primitive Methodist Church, Philadelphia, Rev. James Kelly; West Conshohocken, read by Albert V. Rhoads; Philadelphia Primitive Methodist Mission, Rev. J. C. Keller.

All of the reports showed an increase both in membership and financially.

At the conclusion of the reports, the morning session was closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. John Stevens.

The visitors were entertained at lunch served in the annex by the Ladies Aid society.

Immediately following lunch the visitors were taken on a sight-seeing trip through Norristown and Valley Forge, returning in time for the afternoon session commencing at 7:30, at which plans for the annual Pennsylvania Conference will be discussed.

Asks Removal of Padlocks on Hotels

Owing to a change in ownership of three hotels in the county which are under padlock, a hearing was held before Judge Williams in the county courts, this morning, on a petition to have the padlocks removed.

The hotels are: Swedesburg hotel, Stanislaw Ciemak, owner; Sanatoga Inn, James Carroll, owner; and Robert Fulton hotel, Roslyn, John Papamano, owner.

Assistant District Attorney Emery informed the Court that the hotels are no longer a menace to the public and there is no evidence to show that bootlegging or other illegal trade is being carried on in the places. He asked that no pressure be brought to bear to sustain the padlocks. Judge Williams said that action in the matter would be deferred.

The regular monthly meeting of the Maple Wood Sewing Commission was held Friday evening at the Park House.

The Park Manager was instructed to prepare a plan for a driveway to be made from the main highway to the front porch, and to have prices covering the work at the next meeting of the commission. The laying of Ansonite from Harry street to the main entrance and between the sidewalk and the terrace was authorized.

Orders were granted for current bills properly approved. All members present, and Mr. Charles Cauvel presided.

Gangsters Kill Gambler In Sight of Witnesses at Fayette and Marble Streets

Accused Killer Holds Friend of Victim at Point of Gun For Several Minutes and Bystanders Look on and Fail to Give Alarm.—Victim Shot in Cold Blood.—Four Men Committed to Jail Charged With Homicide.—Crowd Stands at Police Station all Day.—Big "Jake" Lehman Accused of Firing the Fatal Shot

Racketeer bullets flashed quick death here Sunday night.

In their wake, Ralph Spanish, 24-year-old gambling devotee, of 140 West First avenue, lays dead.

A bullet in his abdomen, one of three pumped at him in rapid succession shortly before 10, Sunday night, in front of Cardamone's bakery, at Fayette and Marble street, by "Big Jake" Lehman, small-time racketeer and former pugilist, caused his death less than two hours afterward in Bryn Mawr hospital.

Lehman, "trigger man" in the shooting, and three associates, were committed to Montgomery County jail last night at 9:30, by Magistrate Thomas White, to await trial for homicide. The trio is as follows: George Steiner, 45, of 232 East Marshall street, alleged operator of a gambling house here; Michael Gallagher, 30, of Groce street, Devon, and James DiNeno, 28, of Poplar avenue, Devon.

"Big Jake" who fought under the name of Dutch Brant, is 31, a resident on Circle avenue, Paoli. He is married and has two children, and is said, on good authority, to be a member of a prominent Main Line family. He is of Pennsylvania German extraction.

"I'm Not a Gangster"

The dead youth denied with his last breath that he was a member of a gang.

"I'm not a gangster. I didn't do anything wrong, but I got to die a gangster's death."

His last message to the world was sent through Corporal Paul Wagner and Officer Riley, of the Pennsylvania state police, who visited Spanish in an attempt to secure a statement about the shooting.

The piteous sentences seemed to touch a last lament that a youth had turned from honest living to the ways of crime.

Shot in Cold Blood

According to eye-witnesses, the Italian youth was shot in cold blood. Driving down Fayette street, he parked his car on Marble street, near Forrester, and walked toward the Cardamone bakery.

Witnesses heard no words exchanged between "Big Jake" and his youthful victim. As Spanish approached the racketeer, Lehman aimed his revolver. Three shots rang out. Two went wild, it is said, narrowly missing passers-by. The third shot found its mark. Spanish staggered toward his parked car, and collapsed on the running board. Hardly had five minutes elapsed before the news of the "gun shooting" spread like fire and dozens of curious collected at Fayette and Marble street.

Spanish was rushed to the office of Dr. John D. Perkins, who ordered his immediate removal to the Bryn Mawr hospital. The No. 2 Fire Company ambulance conveyed him there.

A few hours of terrific pain, Spanish passed away, without telling who shot him. State police, present at the time, state that he was unable, because of his condition, to make any statement.

Midget Fox Threatened

Lehman and his associates appeared to have staged an "orgy of blood" before the killing.

Several hours before the shooting, it is reported, they were cruising about the borough, apparently in quest of "whom they would devour."

Their first minor victim was James Dempsey, of Hector and Harry street. Several times, it is stated, Lehman punched Dempsey and then pulled a gun, for no reason stated.

MURDER VICTIM

RALPH SPANISH

Federal Thursday

The funeral of the murder victim will be held from his mother's residence, 140 West First avenue, on Thursday morning. High mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Matthew's church at 10. Interment will be made in St. Matthew's cemetery.

GET-AWAY FOILED

That "Big Jake" Lehman made a bold attempt to get out of the state, and his jurisdiction, immediately after the killing of Ralph Spanish, was revealed in a statement made by Samuel Weinstein, a friend of the small-time racketeer.

According to Weinstein, Lehman and his associates, who were enroute for Laurel, Maryland, when their automobile crashed into a pole, Lehman was injured, and their plans were abandoned.

Spanish Dies Saying 'I Am Not a Gangster'

Ralph Spanish, 24 years, 140 West First avenue, who was laid cold in death by a slug from a gun of a gangster, Sunday night, had a host of friends who believe he was an innocent victim. The last words he spoke as he was dying in Bryn Mawr hospital were to Corporal Wagner, of the State Police. They were: "I did not do anything. I am not a gangster, but I have to die the death of a gangster."

Spanish was the main support of his widowed mother and several young brothers and sisters since the death of his step-father a few months ago. He was a victim of an accident in a local iron mill a few years ago in which he lost part of a hand. This deprived him the full use of the member. He took a course in telegraphy but did not follow this vocation.

He opened a gambling place in the building at Marble and Fayette streets about three months ago. The place was not known to the general public until the fatal shooting on Sunday night. The place was in operation at the time Lehman and his gang, all outside residents, knew of the joint.

At the hospital where Spanish was taken, a blood transfusion was necessary before any attempt could be made to locate the bullet. Brother Fox (John Ross), his brother Charles and John Spariamo, all offered blood and submitted to test before the injured man could be prepared for the blood transfusion operation he died. Dipped with the declaration on his lips, "I am not a gangster."

apparent reason.

Anthony Rossi, 24, of 150 West First avenue, better known as Midget Fox, light weight boxer of some renown, was the next object of their attack.

Rossi was approached by Lehman, Steiner and a third man, whom he did not know, about a half hour before the shooting took place in front of Cardamone's. Lehman questioned him about Spanish.

"What kind of a fellow is this Spanish?" Lehman queried.

"He's a very good fellow, and a good friend of mine," Rossi replied. "Simultaneously," with Rossi's statement, Lehman sunk a gun against his ribs, he states.

"Spanish stole our slot machine and we're out to get him," Lehman told Spanish. He sunk the gun into his ribs. Rossi again stood up for his friend. "Spanish is a good fellow. I run around with him," he said.

With that statement, Rossi felt the gun more poignantly. Lehman's companion edged closer.

"I thought it was all up with me, then," Rossi stated later. "I thought I was being put on the spot." Just at this juncture, Rossi's brother, James, happened along in his car. "If I'm killed, see who did it," Rossi called to his brother, and wheeled about so that the latter could get a view of the gun in Lehman's hand.

Rossi remonstrated with "Big Jake." "For God's sake, Jake, use your head. If you want to beat me, give me a good beating with your hands, but put that gun away," Rossi urged. Steiner then remonstrated with Jake, as did Di Neno, sitting in the car.

Jake listened to them and seemed to change his mind. "All right, I'll use my head. I got two kids at home."

Rossi Gets Away

Rossi and his brother then drove off. Rossi went to Marby's cigar store, stayed there about ten minutes, then started down Fayette street. It was then that he saw the crowd, and soon learned of his "pal's" condition.

He accompanied him to the hospital, and watched at his bedside until Spanish breathed his last.

Gallant to the Last

Spanish's gallantry may have been one factor that was responsible for his death.

He was good-looking. His clothing was carefully chosen, although invariably brown. The girls like him.

A friend, learning that "Big Jake" and his accomplices were cruising about the borough streets and were said to be looking for him, begged him to get out of the town Sunday night.

"Get out, Ralphie," he urged "Don't stay around here tonight. I look as though there is trouble brewing." But Spanish had a date. "No, I can't stand a girl friend up, he said.

Whether the girl with whom he had the date, which he would not break, was with him as he drove to the death spot is a matter of debate. Witnesses at the hearing testified there was no one in the car when Ralph returned to it later after the shooting. Several persons in the neighborhood at the time, state there was no one there.

Police Looking for Girl

Sergeant Jacquot is busy today uncovering new evidence in the shooting. A number of witnesses are being sought, especially the girl who is supposed to have been with Spanish on Sunday night. The name of a West Conshohocken girl has been mentioned and she will be questioned by Sergeant Jacquot.

Yesterday afternoon representative of the RECORDER questioned a West Conshohocken girl at her home but she denied being with Spanish, saying she was at home at the time of the shooting. Members of the household also testified the girl was not out of the house at that time. The girl admitted she knew Spanish.

Q. What did he say?
A. That he was with them in the early evening, had met Gallagher afterwards in a store at Devon—a restaurant—after he had left Conshohocken. He was with Jake and Steiner but had left when they argued with Fox, and walked down Elm street and got a crowd back.

Q. Did he tell you what he came here for?
A. They picked him up, he said. They came to Conshohocken for two of three different reasons. He mentioned a crap game. They were talking about Ralphie. They weren't going to let me go. My brother James came along. Di Neno was not there. Just Steiner, Jake and myself.

Q. What happened?
A. Jake had me there with the gun. Steiner was edging close, holding my arm. The other fellow was coming closer. I thought, "What the devil, are they going to shoot me?" I seen my brother was there. I didn't want him to know anything was wrong, but he noticed the argument and stayed there and said, "If I get shot, see who done it." I let him see who had the gun. Jake says, "Who'd you let it be?" I said, "My brother." He says, "Let's go over and talk to him, we're only fooling." We went over. Just then, Jimmy DiNeno comes. He was sitting in a parked roadster 2 feet away. I recognized him. I says "Jim, for God's sake tell Jake to put that gun in his pocket. He has me scared to death." Jimmie says, "Yes, put the gun away Jake. Use your head." I got in the car and I said, "Use your head Jake, give us a good beating with your hands, but not with that gun." He says, "Yes, I'll use my head. I got two kids at home."

Q. What else?
A. Just before we pulled out, Steiner says, "Don't you go," and he says, "Jake, he's going," but Jake said, "Let him go," and we pulled around and were going up the street. Just before we got to Cardamone's, I saw five or six minutes before his death. Father O'Neil also was there, but he was unable to say any more.

Q. Did you try to get him to talk?

REVOLVER FOUND

The revolver, believed to have been used by "Big Jake" Lehman to kill Ralph Spanish, was found last night at 12:05, near Devon, by Officer Frank Jacquot. Corporal Paul Wagner of the state police, and county detectives Stevenson and Bougher, Michael Gallagher, one of the four held for Spanish's death, pointed out the spot earlier in the evening, when he was taken there by the authorities after he had told them that he threw the revolver from the car, after Lehman had handed it to him.

Q. Did you see where he was shot?
A. Yes, in the stomach. Right in the center of the belly.

Q. Did you see any powder marks?
A. No, but his shirt looked as though there was a burn on it, like a black mark on a bullet hole. On his chest, it didn't look like a burn.

Q. Was there more than one wound?
A. Only one, I seen.

Aaron S. Swartz, Jr., well known attorney of the Montgomery county, was the guest speaker on Sunday at the Plymouth church, when Boys' Day was observed.

Mr. Swartz spoke on "The Greatest trial in history—Christ Before Pilate." The speaker asserted that no charge was given against Christ, no warrant issued for his arrest, no time was permitted for preparation of a defense and the defendant was not permitted counsel.

Oppose Woman's Claim on Estate If Judge Holland grants the claim of Mrs. Lillian Beard against the estate of the late Benjamin P. Davis, Upper Merion, there will be but $2.45 to divide among a number of heirs.

A hearing was held yesterday morning in Orphans Court on the petition filed by Attorney A. Clarence Emery, in behalf of A. Charles Emery, executor of the estate of Benjamin P. Davis, deceased, for working for deceased from March 19, 1926, until April 21, 1928, at the rate of $5 per week. The residuary estate amounted to $548.45, with a number of nephews and nieces as heirs.

It was admitted in the petition of Mrs. Beard that she had no contract in writing, but that she did have a claim in merit. The woman said she had kept house for him for a long time without compensation, and in the last year of his life there was much work which the woman was compelled to do which was out of the ordinary line as a housekeeper. She claimed her only compensation was feeding her and her husband and children. She claimed the bulk of the food was furnished by her husband.

Parties May Join to Elect 2 Candidates Liberals and Democrats will join in the next election in an effort to elect a district attorney and a county commissioner. This was stated Saturday when L. D. Evans, Trappe, and other promoters of the Liberal party ballot to have the names of the two candidate stricken from the ballot as Liberal nominees. They both were nominated to both the Democratic and Liberal tickets September 15 at the Primaries.

Agent Injured in Averting Collision

Albert C. Wells, of Broad Ave., an assistant to C. P. Wells, county agent for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, received three fractured ribs Saturday when the organization's auto, which he was operating, overturned three times on Butler Pike.

The injured man also received sprained wrist, crushed hand and multiple cuts and bruises. He is bedfast at home.

The auto, provided by the S. P. C. A. headquarters at Harmanville, was wrecked.

Officer Harry Steinmetz of Barren Hill conducted an investigation. Wells' sixteen-year old son escaped with laceration. Both accident victims were treated at Chestnut Hill hospital.

The officer declined to be admitted. Police learned that Wells swerved his auto sharply to the left side of the pipe when he observed an auto approaching the road from a highway on the Catnall property. The agent, believing the other machine would proceed in the path of his auto, prepared to avert a collision.

EVERYDAY PEOPLE SEEN IN "THREE WHO LOVED"

According to George Archibald, who directed Radio Pictures' drama, "Three Who Loved," coming to the Ritz theatre, it is an intense, true to life play. It knocks thousands right into the old-fashioned hat.

It features the type of people one daily rubs elbows with. The play bares thoughts and emotions heretofore kept hidden within human hearts.

"The plot is from an original story by Martin Flavin, famous playwright. It deals with the rivalry of two men for the love of a beautiful Swedish emigrant Betty Compton. I believe, gives the most vivid portrayal of her career in the part, Conrad Nagel and Robert Anna play opposite."

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1931.

Several thousand workmen have been assured they will be able to provide for their families this winter even should the depression continue. The General Electric Company has guaranteed that all its employees will be given at least half-time work for the next six months. The company also gave assurance that should the relief fund of the employees be insufficient to meet all the demands it should, the company stands ready to supply funds up to $1,000,000. Many other large companies are dividing work among all the regular employees that a pay envelope may come regularly.

Much aid has been given to Europe by this country in endeavoring to stabilize business conditions and while the peoples of the European nations are suffering severely, some of the nations are spending great sums for military purposes forcing other nations to do the same. President Hoover is opposed to this country giving aid to this policy, and no doubt, he will be supported by the nation should he refuse to recommend further aid unless the assistance will be properly used in restoring economic conditions for the benefit of the peoples. Now is a good time to force the curtailment of armaments and a naval holiday.

Public hysteria is given as the cause for closing two banks, this morning. One in Manayunk and one in Roxborough. Runs on both decided the directors to take steps to protect the depositors and save the assets from being sacrificed. The closing of the two banks, which the directors and State Banking Department believe to be solvent, leaves but one bank remaining open to serve the business interests of a large territory. A panicky public is unnecessarily making it more difficult to revive business and relieve the unemployment situation and are hampering President Hoover's plans, which are being so rapidly worked out that the National Credit Association with a half billion dollars, organized to loan to banks on their "frozen" assets, will be functioning within a few days.

Directors have been chosen from each Federal Reserve District and they will meet for organization on Saturday. The Association will then be ready to function which should allay the fear of the public as member banks of the Federal Reserve will have strong assistance when needed.

Gangs Start War Here

What is evidently a gambler's feud resulted in a murder, in cold blood, in the main street of the town, Sunday night. It is common knowledge that gamblers have been openly plying their trade in many sections of the county maintaining slot machines in many places. This town has been such a profitable field for gambling, that has been permitted to operate unmolested, as to attract outsiders to operate their racket here. It is expected investigation of Sunday's murder will show that gambling in this section and in adjacent places in Chester county is under organized control.

Gang methods have been given their first trial here. It can be made the last. The man charged with the shooting and two of his companions are in jail. The crime gives the police a fine opportunity to clean out every gambling establishment in the borough and should the investigation be thorough, it should result in ridding the county of professional gamblers, who operate slot machines which produce large profits for the establishments. The beginning should be made here and every gambling place closed. This must be done. The murder has revealed the existence of two gambling places and it is the duty of the borough authorities to investigate these places, ascertain their owners and why they have operated so long without molestation.

An Ordinance Unenforced

Town Council enacted an ordinance, approved April 10, 1901, forbidding the depositing of waste paper, advertising circulars and refuse matter in the gutters and highways of the borough. Council also provided protection for the homes by prohibiting the deposit of any sample drugs, medicines and medicated preparations and any advertising matter excepting newspapers, on private premises without the consent of an adult occupant thereof. It is also forbidden to deposit in the highways or public places any advertisement, hand-bills, waste paper or refuse of any kind. The penalty for violation of the ordinance is a fine of not exceeding ten dollars and costs and in addition thereto, the offender shall be required to remove forthwith any continuing cause of offense under a penalty of a further fine not exceeding ten dollars and costs.

Each week hundreds of advertising circulars are distributed throughout the town in violation of the ordinance. The violations have been reported to the police but no arrests have been made. The borough loses the fines, the residents suffer annoyance and the offenders must have little respect for law enforcement here as they know they are violating the law and no real effort is being made to stop them.

When it is decided to not enforce ordinances, then they should be repealed but only for cause.

FALLING STAR

by Arthur Hoerl

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Irma Gladden, famous film star, is found murdered in her own car which is parked on the grounds of her Beverly Hill home. The star's boudoir is completely ransacked.

CHAPTER TWO

At this point the medical examiner drove in. Robin Dale remained near the car while he made his examination. The reporter was also initiating a careful study of his own while the gruesome work of the doctor proceeded. Dale found a number of details that interested him considerably and which, peculiarly enough, frustrated an early, if questionable solution of the mystery.

He noted that the window beside the driving seat was raised to within three inches of the top; a cigarette had been smoked out on the floor beside the body of Irma Gladden; her silk evening bag lay on the vacant seat beside her; the could translate itself from love to hate from adoration to bitter jealousy, from passion to possessive into passion to destroy.

Robin Dale felt himself fascinated by the deep problem it presented, sensing that it would lead into unexpected avenues. He had gone to the window and was gazing out into the beautiful patio at the rear of the dwelling. Graceful palms nodded in the gentle breeze; flowers of every hue raised their colored crowns from innumerable beds; in one corner stood a large hammock with an immense sunshade over the top. Dale noticed that a manuscript of some sort, open and face down, lay on the hammock seat.

A disturbance near the door attracted him and he turned to discover that a police officer had brought in a stranger, a swarthy-complexioned young man, very slight and small of stature. "You're Mindino, the house-boy Miss Gladden discharged for stealing?" he heard Captain Sommers say.

"Me Mindino, yes, sir," answered the Filipino. The lad was greatly frightened, trembling from head to foot.

"And we found these in his room on San Pedro Street," stated the officer, who had brought Mindino in. He held two rings which Captain Sommers took and inspected. "The maid said Miss Gladden telephoned you yesterday," continued Sommers addressing the Filipino house-boy, "when she missed these rings and said she was going to have you arrested."

"Yes, sir, Miss Gladden she speak me, yes, sir. I sorry I take so last night I come bring back but no can find somebody. Dat 'leven clock. I me come back one clock but somebody not home. Me go den walk home come sometimes again today."

"You mean you were around this house last night from eleven to one?"

"Yes, sir, me sorry; bring back ring, yes sir."

"What time did you get home . . . to San Pedro Street, I mean?"

"Me walk . . . nice, cool, yest'day too much hot . . . me walk, yes, sir, get late home, bout 'tree, four 'clock mebbe."

"About four o'clock? Well I'm going to arrest you for the murder of Irma Gladden!"

SOLUTION TO THE FATAL RENDEZVOUS BY ARTHUR HOERL.

Shortly thereafter the six week-end guests, Alan Knight and Mrs. Nash were gathered in the main room. Dale stood across a table from them and beside him were Police Chief Westervelt and Prosecutor Bennett. County detectives and village policemen guarded all the exits.

"First, I'd like to explain the crime," Dale began. "It is not as mysterious as it appears. It was impossible for Jack Sharon to have been killed on the beach. To believe that either the lad or Mr. Milburn, the murderer carried the body to the beach, wearing Sharon's shoes. After throwing him face down he took off the shoes and put them back on the dead man's feet. Then, in stocking feet, walked carefully backward, stepping only in the already-made footprints. Remember, the load that made them was the combined weight of two men . . . only one stepped into them, and which shoeless feet, on the way out. That accounts for the lack of signs."

"The murderer crossed to the cabin in a canoe and on the way back deliberately dropped the shotgun into the water knowing it would point to someone else when it was recovered, someone who had that day brought shells."

"The killer knew who Alan Knight really was, for it was he who placed Sharon's note to Miss Knight in the lad's possession knowing that either the lad or Mr. Milburn, who is the lady's fiancé, would follow her after reading the note."

"Returning to the lodge the murderer found still another shot-gun missing. This complicated matters so when Mr. Milburn did not bring it back the killer found it and restored it next morning."

"It was a guess on my part that Mrs. Nash knew anything about the affair, but she was so agitated that I hazarded the guess. She unquestionably must have seen something and as the killer had no other way to get into the cabin than by canoe, because he would run into Miss Knight by land I assumed that Mrs. Nash had seen the canoe on the lake. I believe now she saw more than she admitted to us. She knew who the guilty one was and because of that knowledge she is now dead!"

"She spoke of voices in the garden. That was Mrs. Warren for he afterwards admitted as much to me. Who the lady was is of no importance. Sufficient to say, his presence in the garden directly prior to Mrs. Nash seeing the murder came on the lake, vindicated Mr. Warren as far as the murderer was concerned."

"The man who committed the crime was one who planned carefully, who was willing to take a chance, a gambler who gambled with other people's lives as he did with their money. He gambled when he sent either Alan Knight or James Milburn to the scene of the crime, giving himself merely enough time to commit it. But their presence there was the one thing which would keep him from any suspicion! He gambled on the fact that the most won."

"Today I sent a telegram to my newspaper in New York. I wanted to find out whether a certain note, due by Jack Sharon at the Harvard National Bank, had been paid. I received a reply that it had been paid. I had reason to believe the note was a forgery. Its payment proved that it was. The man who signed Jack Sharon had been guilty of forging his name. Before he committed the crime he made Sharon sign a check for the amount of the note and mailed it to the bank. The banker knew that it was his last day, on Monday the truth of his fraudulent dealings would become known. He therefore told Sharon himself, made him sign the check and then shot him to death. The man you want, sir, and he turned to Westervelt, "is Kenneth Nash!"

Nash sprang to his feet with a snarl. The accusation left everyone for a moment speechless. Nash was the only one to act. He drew a revolver, pointed it at Dale and pulled the trigger. But there was no report.

"I expected something like that," by this time Nash found himself pincioned, his own action having acknowledged his guilt.

"Rather a neat trick in the closet, Nash," Dale went on, "but you forgot one thing. You overlooked turning out the lights. Only a person who felt safe would have left the burning and you were the only one who would have felt safe in that room. After you had locked yourself in the closet you probably remembered the key, but it was too late. Even for the key was already on the table. Rather easy, wasn't it, looping the wire around the light bracket, locking the door and then sliding the key out, pulling the wire into the closet and then, after the key dropped to the table, using the wire to bind yourself? Hooked as it was you only had to revolve about it, after binding your legs, and you were done. As you revolved about it the wire twisted . . . clever, Nash, all except the light."

Lives of Two Babies Saved by Bryn Mawr Hospital's Respirator

A respirator, that has already saved the lives of two infants since its recent installation, is now included in the fine, modern equipment of Bryn Mawr hospital. The device is the gift of a Main line woman, who prefers to remain anonymous. The respirator is apparently a simple, little box-like contrivance. Yet, within are intricate tubes and wires, which create a near-vacuum in which a pair of artificial lungs move gently to and fro.

In the case of a new-born infant, whose tender lungs are too weak to function, this small machine means life to them. The infant is placed in the box-like respirator, with the tiny head remaining outside, resting on a cushion, while a flexible rubber disk, slipped over the neck, maintains the near-vacuum condition inside. The mechanism is set in motion, the artificial lungs move up and down, and the baby's lungs, by sympathetic impulse, move up and down in unison with them. Once the tiny human bellows begin to expand and contract, nature takes charge, and normal respiration begins. The child breathes naturally, the blood begins to circulate, there is no further need for the "mechanical nurse."

The respirator is but one of the many articles of scientific, modern equipment at Bryn Mawr hospital. Recognized as one of the finest and most efficiently operated hospitals in the country, it claims for itself the glory of being maintained by the voluntary contributions of residents of its immediate community, and neighboring communities. Bryn Mawr hospital receives no state financial aid, whatever.

Wed in Ardmore

William Weaver Lukens and Miss Dorothy E. Lyon Principals in a Society Wedding

A wedding of interest here took place yesterday afternoon, at 3:30 in St. Mary's church, Ardmore, when Miss Eleanor Clay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Livingston Clay, of Valley Road, Ardmore, became the bride of William Weaver Lukens, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver Lukens of Havertown, and a grandson of Mrs. Charles Lukens, of 8th, avenue and Fayette street. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory-tone satin, fashioned on a long close-fitting lines, with a collar of old family lace finishing the neck of the bodice. Her veil of tulle, arranged in cap shape, of old lace and tulle, fell over her long train. She carried gardenias and a bouquet of white flowers. Her sister, Mrs. Dorothy E. Lyon, who attended her sister as maid of honor, wore a close-fitting model of beige velvet, with long flowing sleeves. The square neck was edged with lace, and the bodice was finished with a braided grille of the velvet, the streamers falling in front to the bottom of the skirt. Her train was of velvet, in a matching shade, with small curling feathers of flame color. Her shoes were also of auburn shades.

The Valley Forge Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, will meet tomorrow evening at 7 in the K. of P. hall.

Socially Correct

The eating card of the matron—the married woman—carries her husband's full name prefixed by "Mrs."

In America it is not correct for a woman to share the name of her husband. The wife of a major, for example, is never "Mrs. Franklin Dean Smith," but of a physician, "Mrs. George Washington Smith."

A widow never retains her husband's full name, but she may use her maiden name, and her husband's surname, unless she has arranged to take back her maiden name, in which case she uses the prefix, "Mrs." (Next week: The calling card of the man.)

Dear "Socially Correct":

It is really necessary for a girl—a young woman—who is employed, and decidedly not of the leisure or society class, to have calling cards?

Some girls feel that such things are only for "debs" or women of wealth. Perplexedly (signed) Beatrice B.

Dear Beatrice B.:

The calling card is essential to all young women who wish to be "correct" in social matters. It is social "good grooming," and is no more the exclusive accessory of a "deb" or the woman of wealth than is a good perfume or a lipstick. There are innumerable instances, not only social but business ones, where the calling card is a most valuable and graceful aid. The "lady" finds just as important a place for her card in her handbag, as she does for her compact.

Have you an etiquette problem? Send it to "Socially Correct," care of the RECORDER, and the answer will be published, without revealing the sender's identity, in a subsequent issue.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The RECORDER offers, for a limited time, 100 calling cards, genuine talc, lotions, conforming to current social demands, for only $1.35. White or the smart new ivory shade. The new panelled style, $1.35. Mail or phone orders to RECORDER, telephone 50. Adv.

Two Conshocken brothers were principals in wedding ceremonies just a week apart, it was learned today.

They are George Koch and Harold Christian Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Koch, 143 East Seventh avenue.

On Saturday, October 3, George Koch was united in marriage to Miss Barbara Boston, daughter of the late Dr. Napoleon Boston and Mrs. Boston, of South 21st street, Philadelphia.

Harold Christian Koch, a student at Boston Theological Seminary, Boston, Mass., was married to Miss Violet Blouch, of Highspire, Pa., daughter of Robert Blouch, of Lebanon, Pa., last Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

The first wedding took place at the home of the bride, at one in the afternoon, and was marked by extreme quiet and simplicity. There were no attendants. The bride wore an attractive afternoon frock of the new Spanish tile hue, in silk crepe, made on long, moulded lines. Her slippers were of black suede, worn with atmosphere nose, and a corsage of tan orchids was a lovely touch.

The groom's parents, and his brother, Carl attended the ceremony, and the wedding supper which followed at the home of the bride. The couple will live in Trenton, N. J. The groom is employed at the Western Electric Company, Carney, near Jersey City.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Ursinus College, where the romance began. Harold graduated from Conshocken High School also, and for a time, was engaged in boys' work at the Community Center.

Koch Blouch

The second of the two marriages took place in the chapel of the Boston Theological Seminary at 3:30 in the afternoon, with Rev. Mr. Wayne, a former pastor of the chapel, officiating. The attendants were Miss Margaret Farr, of Boston, and Donald Law, a classmate of the groom at the seminary.

Following a small wedding supper in Boston, the couple left for a weekend honeymoon, and are now residing in Boston.

Mr. Koch is a graduate of the Conshocken High School and of Dickinson College. During his student days there, he preached weekly at a church in Highspire, Pa., where he first met his bride. He has also filled the pulpit of the Methodist church here, on several occasions. He will complete his course in Boston in February.

CHARLES FARRELL HAS MANY HOBBIES

Ordinarily the public doesn't think of a screen actor as doing much of anything but worrying over his work and his next part in a bigger and better contract for next year and so on.

Still less does it visualize a player deeply engrossed in forbidding volumes about behaviorism or the functions of the sub-conscious and an hour later talking on all-comers with eight-ounce gloves at a Hollywood gymnasium, and an hour after that, strolling westerly into the helm of a slim 45 foot yawl, with the green Pacific farrel.

Charles Farrell, however does these things, does them well. Farrell's latest screen appearance, in which he is starred with the eighth Janet Gaynor for the little time, is in 'Merely Mary Ann' now playing at the Rialto Theatre.

In this delightful Fox Film version of Israel Zangwill's play, a unique romance of a little English servant girl and a brilliant but temperamental composer both of these screen favorites give what the critics have termed their finest performances.

Proud Parent—I hope you appreciate the fact, sir, that in marrying my daughter you marry a large-hearted, generous girl.

Youth—I do sir, and I hope the inherits these qualities from her father.

William Weaver Lukens and Miss Eleanor Clark Principals at a Society Wedding

A wedding of interest here took place yesterday afternoon, at 3:30 in St. Mary's church, Ardmore, when Miss Eleanor Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Livingston Clark, of Valley Road, Ardmore, became the bride of William Weaver Lukens, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver Lukens of Haverford, and a grandson of Mrs. Charles Lukens, of 8th, avenue and Fayette street. The ceremony was one of the important events of the fall social calendar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory-toned satin, fashioned on long close-fitting lines, with a collar of old family lace finishing the neck of the bodice. Her bridesmaid, Miss Dorothy Clay, who attended her sister as maid of honor, wore a close-fitting model of beige velvet, with long flowing sleeves. The square neck was edged with lace, and the bodice was finished with a braided girdle of the velvet, the streamers falling in front to the bottom of the skirt. Her turban was of velvet, in a matching shade, with small curling feathers of flame color. Her shoes were also of flame. She carried dahlias of autumn shades.

The bridesmaids, in frocks of flame, corresponded in color to the maid of honor's, wore flame turbans, with beige feathers, and their shoes were also flame-colored, and they carried dahlias. They included Miss Tabella R. B. Lukens, Miss Dorothy E. Lyon, Miss Mary Harris, Miss Eleanor Houston, Miss Elizabeth Newhall, Miss Louise B. Phillips, Miss Eleanor L. Woodruff, Miss Elizabeth D. W. Malta Dames Meeting

The Valley Forge Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, will meet tomorrow evening at 7 in the K. of P. hall.

Socially Correct

The calling card of the matron—the married woman—carries her husband's full name prefixed by "Mrs."

In America it is not correct for a woman to share the title of her husband. The title of a major, for example, is merely "Mrs. Franklin Dean Smith," not of a physician, "Mrs. George Washington Smith." A widow generally retains her husband's full name, but she may use her maiden name, and her husband's surname. Some authorities concede this latter usage only for business matters, and not for social matters.

A divorcee uses her maiden name and her husband's surname, unless she has arranged to take back her maiden name, in which case she uses the prefix, "Mrs." (Next week: The calling card of the man.)

Q. Dear "Socially Correct": Is it really necessary for a girl—a young woman—who is employed, and decidedly not of the leisure or society class, to have calling cards? Some girls feel that such things are only for "dolls" or some of wealth. Properly signed) Beatrice B.

A. Dear Beatrice B.: The calling card is essential to all young women who wish to be "correct" in social matters. It is social "good grooming," and is no more the exclusive accessory of the "dolls" or the woman of wealth than is a good perfume or a lipstick. There are innumerable instances, not only social but business ones, where the calling card is a most valuable and graceful aid. The "lady" finds just as important a place for her card in her handbag, as she does for her compact.

Have your etiquette problem? Send it to "Socially Correct," care of the RECORDER, and the answer will be published, without revealing the sender's identity, in a subsequent issue.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The RECORDER offers, for a limited time, 100 calling cards, containing raised lettering, conforming to current social demands, for only $1.35. White or the smart new ivory shade. The new panelled style, $1.35. Mail or phone orders to RECORDER, telephone No. Adv.

George and Harold Koch Married One Week Apart

sons of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Koch Wed Quietly, One in Boston and Other in Philadelphia—Harold a Student Minister

Two Conshohocken brothers were principals in wedding ceremonies, just a week apart, it was learned today.

They are George Koch and Harold Christian Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Koch, 143 East Seventh avenue.

On Saturday, October 3, George Koch was united in marriage to Miss Barbara Boston, daughter of the late Dr. Napoleon Boston and Mrs. Boston, of South 21st street, Philadelphia.

Harold Christian Koch, a student at Boston Theological Seminary, Boston, Mass., was married to Miss Violet Blouch, of Highspire, Pa., daughter of Robert Blouch, of Lebanon, Pa., last Saturday afternoon at 3:30.

The first wedding took place at the home of the bride, at one in the afternoon, and was marked by extreme quietness and simplicity. There were no attendants. The bride wore an attractive afternoon frock of the new Spanish tile hue, in silk crepe, made on long, moulded lines. Her slippers were of black suede, worn with atmosphere hose, and a corsage of tan orchids was a lovely touch.

The groom's parents, and his brother, Carl attended the ceremony, and the wedding supper.

YOUR hot-water, steam or warm-air system needs attention NOW

DURING the Summer, while your furnace is at peace with Jack Frost, you have a fine opportunity for the inspection of your heating system.
Now is the time for dust removal, cementing of cracks and replacement of worn parts. Dust insulates the heating surfaces and valuable heat is lost. Cracks cause drafts that cannot be controlled.
We would be glad to have our expert pass upon the condition of your heating system.
