

Siren Pole Stymies Giant Game Of Pick-Up-Sticks For Borough

huddle of workmen and borough manager David J. Bauer. Second Levi Zenger's crew prepares to hoist the pole using the boom of a steam shovel. Third the shovel proves inadequate and Levi's crew returns with a crane. Tight quarters prevented swinging the pole sufficiently to get it up at a spot just alongside the fire company. Pole is returned to earth and finally Councilman Roy Reidenbaugh and fire company member Theodore Stauffer Jr., examine a possible site on the school grounds. Since then this site was ruled out the siren pole will be put up just adjacent to the rear of the Record-Express. Now, in addition to sounding fire alarms, it will serve to awaken the employes in time for dinner.

Zoners Split, Deny Industry Expansion

An industrialist whose expansion plans were halted by the Zoning Board of Adjustments plans to test the ruling in court.

William A. Miller, who sought to expand an aluminum foundry on N. Locust St., said he would seek a court ruling after a split verdict of the zoners denied him a building permit by a 2-1 vote.

Miller's factory has been zoned as not conforming to the residential nature of the area in which it is located, Warwick Acres.

Members of the zoning group said they too hoped Miller would test the case in court, since they were not in agreement on the decision.

Miller told the group he wanted to use his present plant for storage and transfer manufacturing equipment to the new structure. He had been issued a building permit four days before the Zoning Ordinance went into effect but it expired before construction was begun.

Wallace Hofferth who favored the request, felt that expansion had already taken place and that the building inspector had erred in saying the 30-day period had expired. He said the property was all on one lot, that Miller had hired a contractor and surveyor and that some landscaping had been done. Therefore, Hofferth stated, he felt it was not actually for the board to decide since expansion had already begun.

Board member Russell Markert disagreed. He felt no construction had been started since no actual building had been done by a contractor. He said the permit is void unless actual construction is begun and felt the real issue was contained in Section 33.1 which read that expansion would cause "increased detrimental effect on the surrounding properties."

Siding with Markert was Leon deFernelmont, chairman of the board who stated he also felt there was a possibility of increased detrimental effect.

The second case heard was the request from Henry Tyson, local contractor, to erect a dwelling at 432 S. Cedar St., the property of James Mummert which was recently purchased from John Newcomer. The lot is 10-feet narrower than that required by the zoning ordinance and there is just 15 feet available (Continued on page 3)

Concert Is Free, Open To Public

The Lititz Woman's Club will present the Milton Hershey Glee Club in concert at its next meeting, Monday, November 16, in the Lititz Elementary school auditorium, according to Mrs. Frank Longenecker, president.

The local appearance of the popular singing group will precede the regular business of the Club, and will be in the form of an open concert to which the public is invited without charge according to Mrs. V. Scott Garman, program chairman. Concert time is 8:00 p.m.

The Milton Hershey Glee Club, under the direction of Virgil L. Alexander, has earned a growing reputation as one of central Pennsylvania's finest entertaining groups. They are known for the mature quality of tone and impeccable musicianship which has won them repeated "superior" ratings in state music contests and often finds them favorably compared to college groups.

Especially acclaimed by critics and audiences alike is the unique and effective interpretation the boys bring to their music. Moving with ease about the stage, they physically interpret each song, according to its own character, adding to the vocal presentation a refreshingly interesting visual aspect.

The Glee Club makes about 40 concert appearances each school year for such varied occasions as churches, schools, civic concerts, TV, service clubs, professional meetings and state and national conventions.

The group will climax its current season when it sings for the opening session of the White House Conference on Youth in Washington, D.C. in March, 1960.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Abram Beck, Mrs. Robert L. Bomberger, Mrs. William Light, Mrs. Paul Hess, Mrs. Howard Minnick, and Mrs. J. Wilbur Wolf.

Delivery Expedited On 3 Borough Mail Routes

Mail delivery on six streets has been transferred to the mounted route of Lititz Post Office to expedite service, Postmaster Richard C. Rader announced yesterday.

The change in delivery service came after a recent inspection of the three foot delivery routes by Arthur Badorf, superintendent of mails, the postmaster said.

Added to the existing mounted route were deliveries in these sections:

- Second Avenue east from Cherry Street,
- Cherry Street north from Second Avenue,
- Marion Street east from Cherry Street,
- Locust Street south from Main Street,
- and all of Forney drive and Plum Street.

The auxiliary mounted route has been serving Sutter Circle and the Kissel Hill Road area.

Patrons living on the above streets will have their mail delivered between the hours of 10 A.M. and noon daily. For many this will mean as much as three hours earlier service. Postmaster Rader also pointed out that on this enlarged mounted route all parcels will be delivered along with the regular letter mail necessitating only one trip into the area daily.

Some indication of the tremendous work done by foot carriers in Lititz was revealed by the inspection. In one six day period each of the three carriers delivered daily 1300 pieces of letter mail and 700 pieces of newspapers and magazines in addition to registered, C.O.D., insured and other assorted items. All pieces carried by all carriers in this period totaled 36,000.

Editorial

Over-Regulation Handcuffs Growth

Lititz is suffering from an epidemic of over-regulation!

At least this is the impression many of us received this week when the borough board of zoning appeal flatly refused to permit a thriving local industry to enlarge its plant—and invited the owner to take the matter to court.

The case which serves to point out just how building and zoning regulations are being applied locally is that in which W. A. Miller was denied permission to enlarge his aluminum foundry on North Locust Street.

The fact that Miller planned to landscape and improve the general appearance of his foundry as a part of his expansion program appears to have made little impression upon the borough or the board of zoning appeal.

Nor does the fact that most communities are seeking new and bigger industrial installations to help them meet mounting tax loads appear to have gotten through to the zoning group, none of whom are businessmen or face the task of meeting weekly pay-rolls.

As for the practice of making confusing regulations and then inviting applicants for permits to take the matter to court, we can't imagine how a municipality could possibly be less friendly to one of its taxpayers.

Business in Lititz today is the cause of concern among many local businessmen—and if you have any doubts of the truth of this statement, just go to the trouble of asking a few of the downtown retailers.

We would be a lot better off if we would spend our time and effort to seeking more and more industries than in over-regulating the ones we have.

Add to the decisions of the zoning and planning groups, the borough building ordinance which contains quite a few controversial rules, and one can quickly see a threat to the future expansion of our borough.

Our building ordinance, for example, makes it practically impossible for many downtown places of business to expand—merely because they cannot provide off-the-street parking. And off-the-street parking, incidentally, is more of a borough problem than the problem of the individual property owner.

Over-regulation has caused many persons to build homes outside the borough limits. And over-regulation could easily drive new industries outside the borough—or completely out of our district, if we continue in the direction we now are headed.

It's about time the whole borough policy was re-examined.

Senior Play Linden Hall Nov. 20, 21 At School

The Senior Class of Warwick High School will present "Midnight", a three-act mystery-comedy, on Friday and Saturday, November 20 and 21 at 8:00 P.M. in the Warwick High School Auditorium. The admission will be $7.00 per person.

The story takes place in the old, deserted Greenwood Mansion on New Year's Eve. Before long the house begins to take on all the aspects of Grand Central Station; more people walk in and out of the place—appear and disappear, sometimes mysteriously, and sometimes for perfectly logical reasons. Many mysterious and hilarious antics lead up to a surprise ending.

The romantic leads are portrayed by Janet Messner as Claire Greenwood, and her fiancé Bob Morris, played by Glenn Dussinger.

Linden Hall Jr. College To Close

An expansion of Linden Hall Academy and the elimination of the two-year junior college, which opened in 1935, was announced this week.

Dr. Byron K. Horne, headmaster, said the board of trustees made the decision to eliminate the junior college because expansion of it would involve expenditures of some $3.5 million.

He said the board has been pondering the question for some time. Linden Hall Junior College has 45 girls. These girls will complete their courses but no new junior college students will be admitted.

Members of the board said they envisioned that within the near future there will be a number of junior colleges financed by the State out of tax monies.

Linden Hall Academy, 213-years old, would be expanded to include more dining and dormitory space and a student service building, according to Dr. Horne.

While the junior college will go out of existence as a formal school, girls who wish to take post-graduate of extra-curricular studies on the level it offers will be able to do so.

Dr. Horne said that the staff, (Continued on Page 6)

Foundation Proposes Museum For Lititz, Seek Public Opinion

Bicentennial Group Recalls Displays of Local Lore

Should Lititz preserve its history with tangible objects? This question is of much concern to the officers and members of the still existing and active Lititz Bicentennial Foundation Inc.

At its annual meeting in October, members of the State chartered organization, voiced opinions favoring the sponsorship of a local historical museum.

Ever since the summer days of 1956, when store windows displayed antiques which proclaimed the rich local lore, individuals, groups and organizations have discussed the possibility of a museum for Lititz.

It was thought this organization, "dedicated to the restoration and preservation of historical landmarks, documents and lore of Lititz," should be instrumental in its founding.

Suggestions presented at the meeting included the possibility of purchasing one of the older dwellings or building in the town. This would then be furnished with the early residents of our community.

Persons furnishing a complete room or the major portion would be recognized with a plaque.

Officers of the Foundation said no details have been decided and no official action has appeared on the minutes but that every possibility will be thoroughly investigated.

Alfred L. Douple, president of the Foundation stated "In no better way could this organization serve the public and future generations. This too, would help to better unite the citizens of the community and justify the existence of the Lititz Bicentennial Foundation, Inc. for generations to come."

Boro Seeks Wheel To Leaf Loader

The borough has lost the front wheel of its leaf loader and appealed to anyone finding same to please return it.

The wheel, six inches in diameter and two inches thick, is used to jack up the leaf loader while the borough truck is dumping a load. Borough workmen said the wheel apparently fell off while they were working yesterday.

The loader was being used in the vicinity of Cedar, Front Streets and Lincoln Avenue and North Alley.

Water Pollution Meeting Subject

A discussion on water pollution problems will be heard by members of the Lititz Sportsmen's Assn. at a meeting at the Lititz Legion at 8 p.m. Monday, November 16.

John Durr, a member of the State Sanitary Water Board, Reading, will be present. Invited to attend were Robert Bielo and Robert Betts, members of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Sportsmen have been concerned with water pollution problems for some time, but a recent pollution of Hammer Creek has spurred additional interest in it.

Pa. Silent On Main St. Rebuilding

Lititz Borough still has not received any word from the State Highways Department in regard to the start of reconstruction work on Main Street.

Several months ago the boro was informed that the State will rebuild Main Street. The Department of Highways said the street was on the approved list for construction this year. Since then, the borough said, it has heard nothing.

Meanwhile, Lititz Borough has gone ahead with its program for lowering the Main St. water lines. It was necessary because plans shown to the borough by the state would lower the roadbed, leaving existing lines too close to the surface of the street.

Work on the lines this week had extended to nearly the end of the block between Cedar and Church Avenue.

Lititz Machine Co. installed a new 12 inch line at the intersection of Main and Cedar Streets, and the intersection will be opened to Cedar Street traffic. Work on Completing tap-ins in the first block to East Main Street is nearing completion.

The job at the Cedar and Main Street intersection was complicated by the relocation of a valve which had to be moved for storm sewers.

Morgan Whistle Serves As Fire Alarm System

Lititz will use the Morgan Paper Co. whistle as a fire alarm for several days while the saga of the fire siren goes into another act which should close the curtain on a performance dating back to August.

The final act, the borough hopes, will be the raising of a 55-foot utilities pole on the municipal parking lot at the rear of the Record Printing Co.

This is expected to be done sometime this week. However, instead of mounting the old fire siren which the fire company had repaired, the borough now will move the new siren it had erected at the athletic field and mount it on the pole.

If the fire company gives its permission, the old siren will be offered as a trade on the new one which will cost $750. Firemen, who claimed they couldn't hear the new siren, had just paid $60 to have the old one repaired and had intended to put it back into service.

Last Thursday efforts to raise the pole and install it just to the rear of the fire house failed.

The siren story dates back to August when the old one became in need of a motor rewinding job. Borough council said it had been told that it wasn't feasible to rewind the siren motor and secured a temporary siren which it mounted at the Water Works.

Firemen said it wasn't high enough and leaves on the trees muffled the noise so the borough, with the permission of the school board, erected a siren pole on the athletic field.

This too, was inaudible, firemen claimed, and they called a meeting and decided to have the old siren motor rewound. Council said it would call a meeting within (Continued on Page 3)

Learn To Laugh Pastor Tells Rotary Club

If you want to avoid "blowing your top," learn to laugh. Rev. Albert J. Brinker, of Peryn, informed members of the Lititz Rotary Club Tuesday evening.

"Laughter is the safety valve which helps us keep from building up more tension than our bodies can stand," he asserted. "But laughter, too, can be vicious and damaging—it is important that we laugh with folks and not at them."

Rev. Brinker analyzed various types of humor and illustrated each point with an assortment of jokes which kept local Rotarians in a merry mood. He was introduced by Joseph Gearhart, program chairman for the meeting. Local Rotarians also voted to have dinner at Hershey and to attend an ice hockey game in January as a ladies night program. A joint meeting with the Lancaster Northeast and Manheim Rotary clubs also is being planned for next month.

Progress In Prescriptions
Do you know that most prescriptions filled today contain drugs totally unknown ten years ago? These new drugs reduce the cost of illness in many ways. They cut down costly medical and hospital bills because they bring about cures more quickly. And they most certainly cut down loss of income due to days spent away from employment.

They have increased life expectancy by several years and all in all, constitute the greatest return for your dollar in history—better health.

SENIOR PLAY

24 hours after the siren was fixed in order to have it installed.

The meeting was held but council stuck to its previous decision not to put the siren back on the siren tower on top of the fire house. The tower is in a state of disrepair and council feared damage to the roof.

It was estimated that repairs to the tower would cost about $1,000 which council felt was too much.

There followed the attempt to raise the pole and then a decision to discard the old siren because there was no indication of how long it would be serviceable.

Now the new siren will be mounted on the pole with the S. S. Bertz Co., Lancaster riggers, installing the pole.

The cost of the new siren plus the costs of installation will now bring the total bill to nearly $2,000.

for a side yard, rather than the required 10-feet on each side.

The request was unanimously approved because by selling off the lot it would not reduce the yard and lot requirements below the minimum for the existing structure. The board requested that the dwelling be built in the center of the lot, permitting seven and one half feet on each side which would abide with the average already existing in that area.

Another request came from the Hershey-Leaman lumber and building materials firm seeking interpretation of one section of the ordinance. The request asked "Can you take a single family dwelling in an industrial area and turn it into a multi-family dwelling?"

All three members voted no, stating that the purpose of the ordinance is to decrease residential expansion in an industrial area.

Early Mail Urged For Christmas

Lititz Postmaster Richard C. Ruder reminded residents that overseas Christmas mail must be posted by November 20 to insure delivery for the holiday.

He also announced the annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign and outlined plans for insuring delivery of all Christmas gifts and cards by Christmas Eve.

"We've found from past experience," the postmaster said, "that the two biggest factors in successfully handling the Christmas mail rush are first, to get our Post Office facilities into high gear from every standpoint, and second, and most important, to have the full cooperation of the mailing public."

He then offered some helpful suggestions by stating, "It's not too soon to start checking your Christmas gift and card lists very carefully — making sure that each address includes full name, street and number, city, zone and state."

Predicting that this year's Christmas mail will set a new, all time record, exceeding mail handled here in the pre-holiday season of 1958, the postmaster especially directed his appeal to "the lady of the house" for cooperation on his "Mail Early for Christmas" Campaign. She's the one that usually selects the Christmas cards, buys most of the gifts, and sees to it that the Christmas mailing lists are up-to-date.

The Post Office also provides free labels which read, "ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY" and "ALL FOR OUT OF TOWN DELIVERY," so that you can sort your Christmas cards into two groups before you mail them, with the address all facing one way, thus hastening their handling and delivery.

It is not only socially correct, but extremely helpful to both the Post Office and those on your mailing lists, to include your return name and address on every Christmas card envelope.

The postmaster emphasized the importance of planning your Christmas mailings so that those Christmas cards and gifts for most distant points are mailed first. Special effort should be made to get all of your out-of-town packages and cards into the Post Office before December 10th. Those for nearby points will arrive before Christmas Eve if they are mailed by December 15th.

LINDEN HALL

and trustees and representatives of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which accredits Linden Hall, had been studying it for several years.

"We are two departments under one institution," he said. "This is an awkward situation. For the last four years, we have felt we ought to expand in both directions. But we haven't the facilities to expand in both. So we selected grades 9 through 19, which is historically the area in which Linden Hall works."

"To expand the junior college and to make it what it ought to be, would take about $3.5 million. We have no such money in sight. Yet the elementary area can be expanded or less. We are eliminating practically no subjects; we are eliminating no faculty; we are expanding the academy."

"Girls now admitted to college from Linden Hall take exams for advanced standing. The more we can offer in grades 9 through 12, the better their standing in college will be, both in admission and in progress. Some now go so far as third year in language when they enter college. Their college degrees are richer as a result."

"Eventually — we think in the next five years — the state will establish junior colleges all over."

"The State Department of Public Instruction would like a minimum enrollment of 200 as a goal. That would compel us to be what we never intended to be. We'd have to keep that goal in mind. It would cost $12,000 to $15,000 a pupil to expand the junior college. The academy cost won't be as great."

The Good Samaritan...

A unique sect of about 200 Samaritan Jews still live peacefully in the Biblical town of Nablus, 40 miles north of Jerusalem, Jordan. Samaritans are strict adherents to the concept of one God, believe only in the first five books of the Old Testament, and make three pilgrimages a year to sacred Mt. Gerizim for sacrificial rites. The Patriarch of the Samaritans, dressed in red turban and flowing white surplice, is shown here pointing to the words of the Torah or Law of Moses. The Good Samaritan who came to the rescue of the stranger on the road to Jericho, as recounted in the Book of Luke, was a member of this sect.

A Breath of Life

By Rev. Joel A. Hartman
Pastor, St. Luke's United Church of Christ

I'm always amazed at how much children carry away from a Sunday morning sermon. As I write sermons I have always tried to keep in mind to include a few thoughts within the range of the "younger set". However, no one knows better than I that many times I am unsuccessful in this. And yet, at those times when I am sure I'm feeding only the giraffes, along comes some little tyke to demonstrate that he's been listening, and absorbing too!

Usually we don't expect five-year-olds to even look up at the preacher from his crayon sketching inside the back cover of the hymnal, or to take a breather from sniping Indians off all the ladies' outlandish millinery with his "silent" .32 cal. finger-gun. But to the consternation of all, and to my delight, they do. In fact, they even pay attention, and carry home tidbits which really can upset family life.

In particular, I remember a certain five-year-old who one day asked his father to play with him. The father naturally began to elaborate how much work he had to do, but before he was half finished the little fellow walked away with the stinging remark: "Boy, I wish Rev. Hartman was my father; he has time to play with his children!"

Jolted, to say the least, that little boy's father experienced a slight rise in both temperature and blood pressure. However, after the whole matter had been put through the washer a few times and ironed out, so to speak, it became apparent that little Alan had been listening to one of my sermons on family life in which I had implored parents, especially fathers, to get down on their hands and knees more often and play with their children. Such are some of the hazards of the ministry!

During my short five years in the parish ministry, I have come to the conclusion that we sell our children short—especially in the area of religion. And sometimes I feel it is for no other reason than that we adults are too lazy to exert ourselves with the calibre of effort that will challenge children.

In this respect we could take a tip from the early Hebrews. Perhaps one of the shortcomings of our advanced civilization is that we have our entire tradition and culture down in black and white. We shrug off suggestions that we spend time instructing children, and this is particularly true in the matter of sex and Christian family life, with the remark: "Oh, when they get old enough to understand they can read it for themselves."

Consider the ancient Hebrew parent. He had neither book, nor scroll, nor TV. Yet he passed on to his children volumes of tradition, faith, and history. How? By spending hour upon hour telling his children those things that were of value, and relating them with such enthusiasm and vividness that his children were inspired to remember them. As a result, when a child was 12 or 14, he could recite for hours on end the religion and traditions and history of his people.

I'm aware that this isn't any insurance that all those children accepted the faith passed on to them. But history is its own witness. That voluminous record was relayed by word of mouth for over 500 years until all of it was written down, and preserved for us today in the first half of the Old Testament.

If all of the records of our churches and denominations, our Christian history, and our Bible were to be completely destroyed today, how many of our children would be able to pass it on to their children?

Before you answer that so optimistically in the affirmative, just ask your children if they can tell you the maiden names of their two grandmothers, and you'll know where to begin.

We Must Build Our Own Fence

Until the day comes when the "Lion and the Lamb shall lie down together" there must be a fence between them. Also there must be a fence between good and evil, between those who live in darkness and those who live in the light.

Each one of us must build our own fence but it isn't always easy to choose between the good and the evil especially if in our fence there are some weak spots. The Church is an authority on such building plans. If you have a church that is a definite part in your life you have a counselor to help you know good from evil and to help you strengthen the weak spots in your fence.

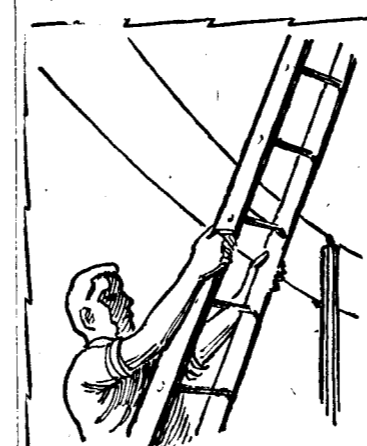

Water Vending Device Built At Pool Site

An automatic water vending machine is being placed into operation along Route 501 near the United Zion Home by two local men.

The men, Levi H. Yerger, 319 N. Cedar St., and his son, Jacob, have built and installed their vending machine at a site once intended for a public swimming pool.

Water, fresh from a 221-foot well, costs five cents for two quarts, a dime for a gallon and a quarter for three gallons. The vending machine, housed in a concrete block building, has five taps. Yerger originally sought to build a swimming pool, to be known as Hilltop Pool, at the site. He drilled for water, found plenty, but then various circumstances prohibited the pool idea.

With a good water supply he felt it was a shame to let it go to waste and hit upon the water vending idea, building a machine for dispensing the water when the cost of one was found to be $3,000.

Dangerous Situation

A dangerous situation exists at the Lititz Elementary School which should be brought to the attention of school officials.

The danger involves grade school children using the macadam playing area to the west side of the school during recess periods. Children several times a day play either baseball or a variation, called kick ball, on the lot.

Normally the batter or the "kicker" whichever the case may be, is positioned near the northern limit of the playground and just a few feet from the alley which has now become a main traffic artery because of Main Street detours.

Several times during the course of a day, a ball bounds across the alley when it eludes the catcher. Twice we have observed this, and, fortunately, both times the children in chase of the ball had the presence of mind to look for vehicle traffic, before dashing across the alley.

Normally, the alley is used primarily by local traffic, but now with the detour, large trucks and other transient traffic has made the alley a main thoroughfare. Some drivers, either with little regard for children playing there or, perhaps, with no knowledge that a playground exists there, have been observed traveling the alley at an alarming rate of speed.

We shudder to think what might happen if an unthinking child darts after a loose ball about the same time one of these drivers comes by the playground. We urge the school to either ban playing on this portion of the lot or to erect a fence or a backstop device to eliminate a serious hazard to children before it is too late.

Annual Park Fund Drive?

The Lititz Springs Park Trustees have requested that the Borough of Lititz increase its appropriation to them by more than 300 per cent, from $900 per year to $3,000 per year.

Borough Council, in discussing the matter, has indicated it will go along with a $900 appropriation again in 1960. The trustees, in requesting more money from the borough, cited a deficit of some $2,400 last year.

Their request poses the question of whether the borough has more of a responsibility for park maintenance than it has been assuming. The park, a rare spot of beauty, which we sometimes take too much for granted, is definitely an asset to Lititz.

Since the area has been placed under the operation of the park trustees, however, it doesn't come under the direct supervision of council, and under the terms of the trust made with the former owner, the Lititz Moravian Church, probably never will.

Instead, direct supervision lies with the trustees, and park committee and therefore it would seem, direct responsibility for maintaining the park also lies with them. The only major fund-raising project the park puts on is the Fourth of July Celebration, the balance of the income coming from rentals of facilities.

Maybe, instead of running to council for more money, trustees should figure out projects to provide more funds. One of them could be an annual drive for funds for the park.

Citizens of Lititz responded magnificently to the only drive the park ever held, so why not make it an annual affair for operating expenses, and designate the money collected thereby to be used for maintaining the park in the style which its physical assets deserve.

It would be worth the effort and at the same time would make the entire town conscious of the moral obligation it has toward maintaining what is one of the finest natural recreation areas of its type anywhere.

Last Chance

This Saturday Warwick High's football team plays its final game of the 1959 season, traveling to Ephrata to meet an old and distinguished rival.

For those of you who haven't yet taken the time to see this year's football team, we strongly advise that you take a trip down to Ephrata. For this year's team is one which truly exemplifies the best traditions of team play and spirit.

As its 6-3 record would indicate, this unity of purpose on behalf of the squad has produced victorious results on the field which have gained Warwick new respect in local football circles.

"Mid the Turmoil"

Saw Amos Yerger down at the Post Office last week and one of the things which the retired rural mail carrier told us in no uncertain terms is that we'll be hearing from him one of these days.

Amos also tried to tell us we were wrong on a stand we took editorially on the recent school Bible reading controversy in Pennsylvania and cited Tom Paine and Tom Jefferson to prove it. Only trouble is we don't ever remember writing anything about the subject at all.

We advised Amos to wear his hat after this when he goes out in that hot Florida sun.

You've heard about the busman's holiday, the bus driver who had a day off and decided to take the family for a drive. Add Mrs. Russ Erb to that category.

She had a day off from John Keller's gift shop and where does she spend it? Behind a table selling gift items at the Moravian women's bazaar, that's where.

Also hear Ike Adair kept his record intact. Another vacation and another week of rain.

The legend of Santa Claus may be as old as time, but it took some modern contrivances to keep him going here last Thursday.

Floyd Hagy down at Western Auto got the idea to have an open house, complete with Santa, for pre-Christmas layaways. Santa came and so did some unseasonably warm weather if you recall, last Thursday.

The result was that S. Claus, attired in his heavy red suit, got so uncomfortably warm they had to turn on the air conditioning to keep him going.

Miss Mildred Young, who was browsing among some old items, presented us with a copy of a cook book, apparently printed around the turn of the century, which indicated that in those days too, local merchants were faced with a battle for community loyalty.

Miss Young said she felt "The New Ten Commandments" as carried in a portion of the book, would be of interest to readers for application to this day and age. So here goes.

1. Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy shopping, nor thy wife, nor thy sons, nor thy daughters.

2. Thou shalt patronize thine own merchants; that they shall not be driven from their homes to find food for their children.

3. Thou shalt patronize thine own merchants and they shall patronize thee.

4. Thou shalt pay thy bills promptly, that thy credit may be good in the land where thou dwellest, and thy neighbors greet thee gladly, then deposit thy surplus in home banks.

5. Thou shalt not knock the props from under thine own town in order to be revenged upon thine enemy lest thou perish with him.

6. Thou shalt not incline thine ear to the voice of pride, nor permit vanity to overcome thy heart.

7. Thou shalt spend thine earnings at home, that they may return whence they came and give nourishment to such as come after thee.

8. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwellest, but speak well of it in the ears of all men.

9. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's seed wheat, nor his meat hog, nor the cow, nor the corn which is in the crib, but whatsoever thou desirest thou shalt buy of him and thou shalt pay the price thereof in the coin of the realm.

10. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children unto the third and fourth generation that they may be made to flourish and wax rich while thou art laid to rest with thy fathers.

There they are, and one thing's certain. We won't get in dutch with any of the advertisers over that one.

Did you see where some New York city policemen led the life of beatniks for the purpose of breaking up a dope ring. A case of if you can't beatnik 'em, join 'em.

Ephrata, although having one of its less successful seasons, is always a dangerous opponent and in this renewal of a football series which is among the oldest in the county, should not be taken lightly.

So we urge your support of the Warriors on Saturday, both for your own enjoyment and for the purpose of boosting a football team which literally came off the floor to put together a highly creditable season.

Just a Thought

An interesting trend in education circles had been started in the community of Newton, Mass., where the prosperous suburb of Boston chopped its giant 3,000 student high school into six units, each with an enrollment of 500.

This breaking up or decentralization contrasts to the other extreme of consolidating small high schools into large ones.

Maybe there wasn't so much wrong with the old Buch schoolhouse after all.

Seek Participants In Cancer Research

At this time one half million families from coast to coast are participating in a massive Cancer Prevention Study to be conducted by the American Cancer Society over the next six years.

How Americans live, their occupations, personal habits, family background and medical histories, these and other factors will be thoroughly explored and analyzed for clues as to why some people may be more likely to get cancer than others. When and if such relationships are found, then the possibility of preventing cancer can be greatly improved.

The importance of this major study does not end with cancer. It should give new knowledge about Heart Attacks, Tuberculosis and other health conditions in which the way of life is believed to play a substantial role.

If there is anyone who would like to participate in this research study by filling out a questionnaire, contact Mrs. Hiram Biberly, 411 Linden St., Lititz.

SEWER AUTHORITY ACCEPTS NEW LINES

The Sewer Authority has accepted new lines on Second Ave., Marion St. and Locust St.

The action cleared the way for the borough to notify owners of about 20 homes which will be served that they must hook up to these lines within 90 days. Each property owner must pay a $100 connection fee, $1 for a permit and an operating charge of about $40 a year. The latter charge is equal to one and one-third times the annual water bill, which for residential customers is about $30 a year.

The authority approved a final payment of $723.18 to the Lititz Machine Co., one of two contractors on the $12,400 project which got under way last July.

than they did a year ago, the State Department of Agriculture said.

State Crop Reporting Service figures show that as of October 1, growers expected to keep 24 per cent more heavy breeds and 10 per cent fewer Beltville and other light breeds.

Within the heavy breed classification there was a 40 per cent increase in heavy whites, but a 4 per cent decline in bronze and other heavy breeds.

Penna. Stocks Of Corn Hit October High

Harrisburg — Total stocks of corn in Pennsylvania on October 1 at 13 million bushels were the largest of record and 62 per cent greater than last year, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture says.

According to Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service tabulations, of farm stocks were only slightly above last year while the farm stocks were more than double those of a year ago and the second highest of record for October 1.

Stocks of oats were slightly above a year earlier while all other grains were down. Stocks of barley were less than half of last October 1 and were the lowest since 1948. Wheat stocks were one-fifth below a year earlier and about the same as October 1, 1957.

However, nationally stocks of corn, sorghum grain and soybeans have set new October records. Oats stocks are a quarter lower than last year and the smallest since 1944. Barley stocks totaled 448 million bushels, lowest in the last three years.

Selecting a Snowsuit
Look for features that mean freedom of action and protection from cold when buying a snowsuit, suggests Miss Thelma Baierl, Penn State extension clothing specialist. While two-piece snowsuits are popular in the three-to-six-year-old sizes, a one-piece, unbelted, loose-fitting snowsuit may be a wiser choice. Two-piece snowsuits with short jackets may separate at the waist. Suits with long jackets are sometimes balky around the waist and hips.

BRITISH BRONCO BUSTERS

Bill Jack, Bob Leduc and Colin Beatty, better known as the Three Scarcrows, are in their eighth starring season with Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies of 1960. The Scarcrows and 20 other internationally known ice comics with Ice Follies, 24th all-new edition, at the Sports Arena, Hershey, November 24th through December 5th.

Check the Glass
When buying glass diffusing bowls or reflectors, check the size, shape, and density of the glass, advises Miss Sanna Black, Penn State extension home management specialist. The glass should improve the quality of light and reduce reflection from shiny surfaces. Blown glass bowls are superior to pressed glass as they let more light come through.

Cheese Buying Tip
Soft, unripened cheeses, such as cottage & cream, are perishable, says Miss Catherine B. Love, Penn State extension consumer education specialist. Buy only the amount of unripened cheese the family will use in a few days and keep it refrigerated in a tightly covered container.

Types of Paint
The correct type of paint to use often depends on the room, states Miss Erma L. Langford, Penn State extension home furnishings specialist. Flat paints are usually good for living and sleeping rooms. Gloss and semi-gloss paints are fine for hard duty use in kitchens, bathrooms, and play areas. In general, the higher the gloss the more washable a paint will be.

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
University of Wisconsin

What Salt Starvation Really Means

We know that cows, pigs, sheep and other farm animals show their own distress symptoms when deprived of salt in their diet. They fail to digest their feed as well as they should. Consequently they run down in body condition and in production; meanwhile showing a depraved appetite for dirt, manure, and other material—anything that would even remotely give them a salty taste.

These symptoms are uncomfortable for the livestock and are costly to the livestock producer, often resulting in greatly reduced efficiency.

It sometimes takes the precise and painstaking work of a biochemist to present a more scientific picture of just what havoc is raised in animals deprived of salt.

Here is what Dr. E. V. McCollum and his staff, eminent biochemists and nutritionists of Johns Hopkins University, found out about the function of salt in the animal body, and what happened when laboratory rats were starved for salt.

The scientists stated that salt, particularly the sodium part of salt, influences many properties and functions of living cells, including water secretion and excretion and general metabolism. Among their many tests was one in which a diet was fed which was complete in all respects except that it was practically devoid of sodium, having only 0.002 per cent sodium. That is the equivalent of only 0.005 per cent salt in the ration, instead of the more common and adequate 0.5 per cent salt, which is 100 times as much.

They found these abnormalities in the salt-starved animals:
1. Eye afflictions: thickening and bluish-gray cornea with the fore part of the eye sometimes ulcerated. Edema of the eyelids, abscess of the anterior portion of the eye, and loss of hair on the lids and lashes was also noted.
2. Sterility, both male and female.
3. Shrinkage of the testes.
4. Lung infection.
5. Retarded bone growth.

In discussion of these results, attention was called to the part that the sodium of the salt plays in the utilization of protein in the diet. It was reported that by the 6th week on the experimental diet, the animals were in a negative nitrogen balance. This meant that the body lost more protein than it was able to absorb from the feed.

These laboratory observations demonstrate the fact that salt is essential in the animal diet, and practical experiments show that the general recommendation of 0.5 to 1.0 per cent salt added in the grain part of the rations, along with constant availability of free choice salt is best for most all classes of livestock.

Question: Where salt has been used for stopping cannibalism in chickens, just how was the salt provided?

Answer: In the Wisconsin test that proved successful, a tablespoonful of salt was dissolved per gallon of water, and the birds were confined to this as their only drinking water for 24 hours.

Dr. Bohstedt

Farm Calendar

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture

To Cooperate With Census Takers

An Act of Congress calls for a Census of Agriculture every five years; the last one was taken in 1954 and the next one will soon get underway throughout the country. Information gathered will be useful to farm planning for the next five years. Farmers are urged to cooperate.

To Test Farm Grown Seeds

All seeds offered for sale in Penna. must be labeled as to variety, kind of seed, purity, germination percentage, and noxious weed count. Contact the Seed Laboratory, Bureau of Plant Industry, State Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, Pa. They will furnish the proper blanks and give testing procedure.

To Provide Dairy Calves With Quality Hay

All dairy calves should have free access to high quality hay at all times. From a few weeks of age the average calf will eat hay and should have liberal amounts each day. Quality alfalfa or clover hay are excellent sources of feed nutrients and will develop depth of body and a large feed capacity.

To Ventilate Dairy Barns

Most barns are filled to capacity and need some means of forced air ventilation; the manual control of doors and windows is not satisfactory in most instances. The use of an electric fan exhaust system is recommended in order to keep the air more fresh, to add to cow comfort, and increase the quality of the milk produced. Pamphlet on Dairy Barn Ventilation is available at the Extension Office.

Mr. Lutz reported that work will be completed in good time before the winter sets in. This will give a dam of large dimensions for skating and conveniently located will undoubtedly prove the center of attraction this winter, provided the weather is favorable.

Not any part of the dam will be deep so that there will be no danger of drowning. Electric lights will be placed along the bank. There will be a heated room and a restaurant for the convenience of the skaters.

American Companies Benefiting From European Markets
In recent months, the Western European economy has taken an almost unprecedented upturn. Reversing a pattern which has existed almost continually since World War I and for the first time since World War II Western Europe is selling more to the United States than it is buying. The Common Market comprises Belgium, France, Holland, Italy, Luxembourg and West Germany and offers a very promising pattern for strengthening the economies of the six countries involved.

The recent overwhelming political victory of the Conservatives in the United Kingdom should lend further strength to the British economy as industrialists become more confident of the future political atmosphere of their country and expand their operations accordingly.

Surprisingly enough this rapidly growing prosperity of our friendly neighbors across the Atlantic Ocean finds a different situation here in the United States. At the moment, the steel industry is battling to hold costs in line by limiting labor payments to a level that can be offset by greater productivity and thus prevent an increase in the price of steel that would make our domestic operations vulnerable to foreign competition. It appears now that the battle may be a losing one. The present lengthy steel strike has reached a point where it is causing shortages that might seriously impair the current upturn of the economy over the near to intermediate term. Any major concessions by the steel industry to the labor union could easily result in a continuing upward spiral of the inflation cycle with a resultant damaging effect on the price of American goods. Further increases in such prices precludes any possibility of increasing our overseas markets.

Many American corporations have long recognized the dynamic growth of the Western European economy and have entered this area years ago and are currently still doing so either through the acquisition of European subsidiaries or through establishing subsidiaries of their own companies abroad. The most successful operations have been accomplished by Parents should give attention to the whereabouts of their sons and daughters after nightfall. Especially should they prohibit, in a very emphatic and determined manner, anything which savors of "street running." Every young man and woman ought to be in the family circle at night, unless there are good reasons for not being there, and they will find nothing so attractive and profitable as the home circle if they are once determined to make it so. Great harm comes to those who are careless in this matter. See to it.

Last Friday Phares Frederick came home from a gunning trip with a loaded gun. While in the kitchen he undertook to clean the gun, when by some means or other he came in contact with the hammer, causing the weapon to discharge its load, which luckily took an upward course through the ceiling without injury to anyone.

It is whispered that some of the teachers are having a genuine good time in old Lancaster this week and will be likely to forget the good intent of the Institute. . . . It is also whispered that some people are determined to be late entering church, in order to be seen.

Which Are You?

There are two kinds of people on earth today; Just two kinds of people, no more, I say.

Not the sinner and saint, for it's well understood, The good are half bad, and the bad are half good.

Not the rich and the poor, for to rate a man's wealth, You must first know the state of his conscience and health.

Not the humble and proud, for in life's little span, Who puts on vain airs, is not counted a man.

Not the happy and sad, for the swift flying years Bring each man his laughter and each man his tears.

No; the two kind of people on earth I mean, Are the people who lift, and the people who lean.

Wherever you go, you will find the earth's masses Are always divided in just these two classes.

And oddly enough! You will find too, I ween, There's only one lifter to twenty who lean.

In which class are you? Are you easing the load Of overtaxed lifters, who toil down the road?

Or are you a leaner, who lets other share Your portion of labor and worry and care?

Letter Writer Seen Confused Reader Claims

Dear Sir:

I've read with avid interest the controversy over the issue of building a swimming pool. Until the publication of a letter by Sheila Fox, I thought to let well enough alone but now I do desire to enter the discussion.

Miss Fox is to be commended for being so deeply religious, but I'm inclined to believe she is somewhat confused to do away with the belief of Santa Claus, Easter Bunny and the like is not the answer. All children 2 to 82 must have a certain element of make belief in life. Destroying this would be ridiculous.

Furthermore, during Biblical times the people often took to rivers and streams to cleanse themselves. Who is to distinguish the gesture as not being swimming. A pool to a certain extent will help with a potential delinquency problem. Insofar as swimming, I do not believe to harbor a sense of immorality. Much of the clothing worn in Biblical times was often times more scant than of today. Swimming need not necessarily be done on Sunday, but otherwise it is of no harm. During my younger years I spent all summer vacations at Lititz. I like Lititz and look forward to each visit. If a town or Borough wants to please its citizens it must think as the people think. If for nothing else than further the progress of Lititz, I say build the swimming pool.

Such an issue is not one that can be discarded because of a few. The matter should be dealt with successfully and the majority should be the recipient of the decision. By all means be of a religious belief, but do not mix religion as being a thesis to offer an excuse to do away with the minds of men.

Letter Box Says Only Issue In Pool Issue Should Be Pool

Dear Editor,

I have read the letters published in the Record-Express on the subject of the swimming pool with much interest. I might add with much amusement likewise as some of these letters, both pro and con, are a bit ridiculous. They quote scripture, they become abusive, try to make us believe there are opposing classes of people in Lititz and to build up a form of class hatred.

There is only one thing to decide, do we or do we not want a public swimming pool. And the fact that a small group of the electorate voted in favor of the question a year or so ago, does not mean that this is an order that must not be altered or changed. As Theodore Roosevelt, the greatest ever to bear that name, once pointed out "The majority in a democracy has no more right to tyrannize over a minority than, under a different system, the latter, would have to oppress the former." He also said: and we all surely must agree that "the saying that the voice of the people is the voice of God may be quite untrue, and do quite as much mischief, as the old theory of the divine right of kings."

It is to be regretted that when the vote on the public pool question was placed before he voters, such a small percentage of qualified electors took the trouble to register their opinions. Not withstanding, many of us who did vote for the pool at that time did not realize the dire need for money on the part of our borough government for facilities much more important and vital than a swimming pool.

A visit to Main St. today will serve to show everyone that our water system is lacking in much. In order to and before we can have Main street rebuilt, it is necessary to replace mains put in nearly three-quarters of a century ago. And our borough manager tells us we will need a reservoir at Kissel Hill to provide more pressure. If Main street mains must be replaced to re-build a street how many more will have to be replaced once the present pressure is increased? I am not arguing for or against the pool in pointing

"I've hung my guns." — Menno Good, 111 E. Lincoln Ave., who quit hunting.

"Annie, A-n-n-i-e, as old fashioned as you can make it." — Mrs. Annie Summy, spelling out her first name.

"Now that's off of our mind again." — Mrs. Frank Gibbit, Lititz R3, paying subscription.

"What did you do Max, feed him raw meat?" — Charley Rincer to Max Hooster after Max's son Jeff returned kickoff 76 yards against Mannheim Twp. last week.

"That's what you call grinding one out." — Rich Zartman, after Warriors slashing running game defeated Township, 20-7.

"That'll stand for a long time. Long after we can't hear the siren anymore." — Harold Adams, PP&L lineman, speaking of pole borough got to install the fire siren.

"It's quite a privilege." — Elias Eby, commenting on the celebration of his and Mrs. Eby's 50th wedding anniversary.

"If I didn't have the nerve to sign my name, I wouldn't write one." — Marty Kutz, commenting on recent letters to the editor.

This out. I merely want to emphasize that if our borough councilmen need hundreds of thousands of dollars more to give us an adequate water system and if this expenditure impairs our financial status, as it seemingly does, then those same councilmen have a duty and that duty is to spend money where it is needed the most, no matter what. If we can have a decent water system, which we do not seem to have now, and still can build a swimming pool without piling one bond issue upon another until our taxes are taken out of sight, then they should go ahead and build the pool forthwith. If not, they should time the building of a pool until it can be done without wrecking our borough's financial position. A Businessman.
