Feds: Wilbur charges unfounded

STEPHEN SEEBER

Unfair labor charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board against Wilbur Chocolate were deemed "without merit" last week by a regional NLRB agency.

The charges were brought forth in June by the Local 464 of the Bakery, Confectionery and Tobacco Workers International in an attempt to involve a federal mediator in the ongoing contract dispute between labor and management at the Lititz plant.

Since the Aug. 30 decision, disgruntled union officials have appealed to the NLRB General Council in Washington, D.C.

Two hundred workers at the Lititz chocolate factory, owned by Cargill Inc. of Minneapolis, have been working without a contract since last October. With questions about the company's future in the borough and the possibility of a strike looming, both sides are eager to agree on a comprehensive proposal.

According to Wilbur management, a significant amount of money has been invested in the plant in recent years.

Wilbur President William Shaughnessy said Tuesday that negotiations have been conducted in good faith all along, in hopes of resolving the problem and returning to normal operations as soon as possible. He said that the NLRB decision should end all doubt as to how the company is participating.

"We got notification from NLRB that they had reviewed the charges and found them to be without merit," said Shaughnessy. "We've never done anything to violate fair labor practices, we've made proposals all along and there is no evidence of wrong doing."

Shaughnessy said the company reworked its comprehensive contract proposal in August, offering across-the-board wage increases, special wage adjustments, cash payment in lieu of retroactive wages, more paid time off, an improved pension plan with better early retirement options, more life insurance, and a tax deferred savings plan that comes with a company contribution. Shaughnessy said the company is asking that employees contribute to health care premiums, which would make available a plan with more options and minimized costs.

The contract also includes a six day per week operation for a limited number of departments, which management has recently been criticized for. But according to Shaughnessy,

"the plan was a union proposal which we accepted."

"We had requested a seven day operation with a broader number of departments, but accepted the unions proposal instead," he added.

Union officials and employees will go over the new proposal this Sunday, giving Wilbur management an answer by Monday.

"We requested a Sept. 2 response to our Aug. 11 proposal, but agreed to extend it until next week," (See Wilbur, Page 26)

Scott Warfel, Barb Hess, and Craig Davis form the creative team behind First Stage Theater.

Entertainment comes to life at family-friendly First Stage

What twist of fate led a musical director and actor from New England to team up at a theatre in Lititz with a New York City actor who had performed in 28 states? Well...

First Stage Theater owners Scott Warfel from New England and Craig Davis, who lived in New York City for four years, met while performing at the Dutch Apple Dinner Theater, and over the course of one year, decided to start their own theater.

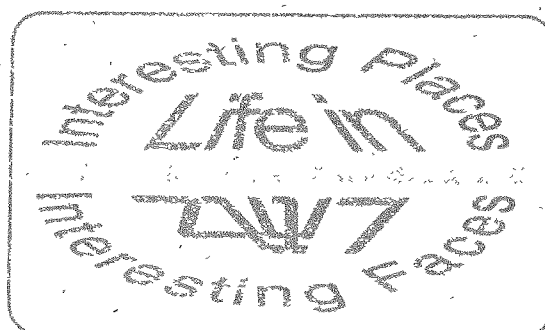

"We decided on family theater because we thought it was a niche that Lancaster County needed," said Warfel.

According to Warfel, their first production, "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown," was performed at the Lancaster YWCA in March 1990. Warfel remembers Davis calling him to say that now they have to do it because "we just sold our first ticket."

It was also during "Charlie Brown" that the duo met their current theater manager, Barb Hess.

"I saw an article that they needed help, and I wrote Craig a letter," said Hess.

"I still have it," added Davis, who is originally from North Carolina.

Hess said that she hesitated calling because she had a bad experience with another theater, but she thought that she would give this new one a try. Hess said that after the initial shock of walking in to her first rehearsal, where she says she "met a crazy group of people," she is having a lot of fun.

Hess started by running spotlight and has worked her way up through the box office and backstage to her current position as theater manager.

According to Warfel, their next several performances were held at various locations in Lancaster, and as a result of not having a permanent home, the

Aug. 28 saw the end of a Lititz landmark when William B. Fry's Pontiac Inc. was forced by court order to close shop.

A boys against girls, four-sibling rivalry, built up over several years after father William B. Fry died in 1981 and left 25 percent of the family shares to each child.

The four owners: Ruth Fry-McKennon, Gladys J. Crowl, Lee B. Fry and William D. could not agree on the management of their father's 67-year-old dealership, which culminated in a 1992 law suit and the eventual court order from Lancaster County Judge Lawrence E. Stengel to liquidate assets.

Chalk up another highly successful summertime event in the Lititz Springs Park.

Once again the weather was gorgeous, and once again the crowds converged upon the many vendors selling their goods in the park right in the heart of Lititz.

This time it was the Lititz Springs Park Antique Show, an annual fundraising event to benefit programs and projects for the park.

Tom Sexton, vice-president of the board and organizer for the show, said about 170 antique vendors, a few more than last year, brought their historic gems to this historic town.

"It was an extraordinary success. Much larger than last year," Sexton said. He added that the vendors were very pleased with the sales results.

Can you 'bear' it?

6th annual Teddy Bear Festival returns to Lititz Springs Park

Saturday, Sept. 9 should be more than just a "bear"-able day in Lititz Springs Park.

Lititz Women of Today are planning their sixth annual Teddy Bear Festival in the park, featuring a day of teddy bear-themed games, face-painting, entertainment and crafts from 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

There will be a story time, as well as pony rides and great food provided by local service organizations.

The annual teddy bear contest will be held at 3 p.m., with registration beginning at 1 p.m. Participants can enter in one or more of the following categories: Most Loved Bear, Most Famous Bear, and Bear Float Division. Entry fee is $1.

For children up to age 10, there is a coloring contest, with three age groups each competing for a top prize of a $10 gift certificate to the Teddy Bear Emporium on Broad Street in Lititz.

Entry forms can be found at Bob's Market, the Lititz Community Center, the Lititz Library or the Teddy Bear Emporium. Contestants then (See Teddy Bear, Page 26)

Personal touches have the power to change the entire mood and outlook of a funeral. Small reminders of who people really were -- their crafts and hobbies, their pictures, their songs, even the way they looked at life -- can shift the focus from the ritual to the person. From the death to the life. From all that's lost to all that's been gained.

Our Viewpoint

Be aware...Drive with care

It's that time of year when youngsters arise bright 'n early, pack their books and lunches, then load up on buses or lace up their walking shoes and head to school.

Excitement is in the air as classmates reunite to share summertime stories, and students are becoming acquainted with their new teachers and more challenging classes.

There is a lot for them to think about during these coming months. Motorists also have a lot to think about.

You've heard it all before, and you will no doubt hear it again. Be alert and aware when driving during school hours.

If you are running late for work, it is not worth the risk — or the fine — to pass by a stopped school bus to arrive on time. Be late, and just remember to leave a few minutes earlier next time.

Children can appear at any moment in any location, so don't take a clear road for granted. Keep your eyes on the road, not the radio, vanity mirror or your cup of coffee.

Parents and their children must also take nothing for granted. Even with safe bus drivers and able crossing guards, there may still be that careless motorist who will disobey the law and create a hazardous and potentially deadly situation.

Make sure children are aware of the rules of the road, and that not everybody always follows them. Teach them how to report the offenders so that they realize they cannot get away with that type of driving.

If everyone uses their head and remains alert, we should all have a successful, accident-free school year. The kids in the Warwick and Manheim Central school districts deserve it.

Advanced Tech Program was too costly to continue

The Advanced Technology Program (ATP) of the Department of Commerce was created by the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act (P.L. 100-418) to encourage the transfer and development of pre-competitive technologies with broad application across industries. The current ATP was first funded in 1989 with a budget of $10 million. In six years, the annual budget for ATP swelled by 4,300 percent. The Science Committee, which I chair, recently eliminated funding for any future ATP program.

While the intention of the Administration's technology policy is to increase the conversion of advanced technology to commercial applications, the result places government in the position of picking technology "winners and losers," a task normally reserved for the marketplace.

We should be as concerned about corporate welfare as we are about our broken welfare system. The ATP is a corporate subsidy program. All businesses invest capital with the understanding that they may never fully recoup all of the original investment. The question is whether having government as a silent partner enhances product development or simply assures that one company gets a taxpayer-paid benefit over its competitors. There are programs within ATP that deserve capital investment, but that investment is not necessarily a public treasury responsibility.

The ATP program is too costly. At a time when we are looking at ways to cut the budget deficit, Congress should question a program that has increased 4,284 percent faster than the rate of inflation over the past six years. With that growth in spending, there is a real cost-effectiveness issue.

Risk-takers should be rewarded. Unfortunately, in today's business environment, those who invest capital and hard work in an endeavor are paid back with over-regulation and over-taxation. The fundamental problems facing our high technologies are not addressed by ATP. If there was affordable capital, and disincentives were removed, products would be pulled onto the market by consumer pressure rather than pushed on the public by government intervention.

There are several economic steps that can be taken to encourage technology development in all industries. First, reduce the national debt to lower the costs incurred by interest rates. Second, provide investment tax incentives to further enhance private capital formation. Third, modernize antitrust laws to recognize global market competition and remove outdated barriers. Fourth, provide litigation reform to take some of the cost of lawsuits out of new technological development. Fifth, apply risk assessment and cost benefit tests to government regulations.

Cutting corporate subsidies like ATP will never be easy. But many good programs are being trimmed simply because it is impossible to fund every worthwhile cause. ATP is not a worthwhile cause. It hinders economic growth and fosters private sector dependency. Therefore, ATP does not foster American technological leadership in a global economy; it simply puts government where government ought not be.

Bookmobile fall schedule begins

For many people checking out a library book isn't as easy as walking to the nearest public library. For this reason, the Lancaster County Library Bookmobile strives to meet the needs of people in communities which have no public library or whose access to a library is limited.

The Bookmobile carries a collection of adult and children's fiction, non-fiction, paperbacks, records, books-on-tape cassettes, along with current best sellers and large-print books.

Each year the Bookmobile revises its schedule. The new schedule for 1995-1996 is now in effect. A brochure is available that lists the complete schedule of Bookmobile stops with locations, plus arrival and departure times.

For a complete schedule visit your local public library or call Alton Imboden at the Bookmobile office at the Lancaster County Library at 396-9313, extension 135.

Letters to the Editor

Changes are needed in state dog law enforcement

Editor, Lititz Record:

Is the Department of Agriculture sincere about cleaning up the "puppy mills" in Lancaster County? It appears, that with the appointment of Mr. Dick Hess, a county resident as the new Director of the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement the answer to this question is a resounding no.

For many years the Department has paid lip service to all parties concerned, when they have been questioned about the problems presented by these mass breeding facilities, and why they have not been put out of business. The questions have persisted, but no answers have been given.

It seems conceivable to assume that Mr. Hess's appointment as Dog Law Director signals business as usual from the Bureau, and the Department of Agriculture with respect to aggressive enforcement of the State Dog Law. For the record, the Deputy Secretary for Regulatory Programs, who oversees the Bureau, Mr. Christian Herr, is also a resident of Lancaster County.

As a matter of record, the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, on October 17, 1991 held a public hearing on the puppy mill controversy, and called for the formation of a special Task Force to investigate this issue and to provide recommendations to the Legislature. The Task Force was empaneled, but the issue of the Lancaster County puppy mills was never seriously considered or discussed. A significant question to ask is: Why? Another prudent question would be why is the Department of Agriculture opposed to thoroughly pursuing these facilities, many of which are unlicensed and permanently shut them down? Again, there are many questions but few answers.

Perhaps it is time to consider removing the Bureau of Dog Law Enforcement from the control of the Department of Agriculture, and establishing it as an autonomous Commission, outside the domain of the Executive Branch of Government. Just a speculation.

Vote for new tax structure 'hypocritical' for Wenger

Editor, Lititz Record:

I was reluctant to send this letter concerning my dissatisfaction with our political process, however, I was listening to Newt Gingrich responding to a comment at a town meeting and was compelled to voice my concerns. Newt was asked by an individual, "Why should I trust you?" He responded that she should not trust him. He explained that it was the responsibility of every citizen in a Democratic society to write, call, and constantly remind legislators of the promises they made and whether they have been kept.

In view of that suggestion, I am upset by a newsletter I received, as well as an article printed in the local newspaper concerning Senator Noah Wenger's position on the budget passed by the legislature in June. Senator Wenger's newsletter reads, "I voted for the package because I believe that we must make our taxing structure more competitive to attract and retain jobs."

This statement can be viewed as hypocritical due to the fact that Senator Wenger and a handful of Republican senators voted for the Casey budget in the early 1990's which raised taxes on the businesses and citizens of Pennsylvania at a time when the state and country were entering a serious recession. Many jobs were taken out of Pennsylvania as a result of Senator Wenger's support and lost forever.

I am not suggesting that individuals cannot change their minds on issues, but there is a flaw in leadership when an individual continues to discredit the former administration's taxing programs which, without his support, would never have passed the legislature.

Recently, Governor Ridge was in the county lamenting the conditions of the highway system and considering an increase in the gasoline tax in order to fund construction. I suggest that if a senior senator such as Senator Wenger would take the initiative to encourage his colleagues to repeal the Prevailing Wage Act, perhaps this increase would not be needed. Instead, perhaps, the amount of construction could be increased.

The bill to reform the Prevailing Wage Act was to be acted on this past spring. To date, no action has been taken, yet the most likely bill to pass would be a watered-down version allowing each governing body to determine whether subsidized wages are required for construction projects. That would not help the taxpayers of Pennsylvania, who are bound by the decisions made in Harrisburg which relate to construction where special interests prevail.

In Lancaster county, we allow our leaders to take us for granted at times, without being challenged, yet we continually re-elect them. This also must change if we want good government that is responsive and not simply interested in the "status quo."

Perhaps it is time that all of us follow Newt's advice and if promises are not kept, or special interest groups have more influence than the citizens, the time might be right for a revolution in Harrisburg similar to the one that took place in Washington last November. The "Old Boy Network" that has established itself in both political parties must go if we ever expect to recapture the idealism that brings hope and pride in our government.

Warwick junior Tim Leidig recently returned from the Governor's School for the Arts.

Leidig makes noise at Governor's School

JILL IVEY

Record Express Staff

What started as a mistake ended up as a summer playing the tuba at the Governor's School for the Arts for Warwick High School junior Tim Leidig.

Leidig said he started playing the tuba while a sixth grader in Florida. He said he really wanted to play the saxophone, but the band had no one to play the tuba.

"The director sort of forced me into it," he said. "I got to like it after a while."

When he moved to Lititz, he immediately got involved in Warwick's music program. Currently, he is involved with the marching and symphonic bands, orchestra, and chorus.

For the past two years, he went to county and district band. Outside of school, he is active in the Ephrata band and has been a member of the Lancaster Youth Symphony for four years.

According to Leidig, he became interested in the Governor's school after he was encouraged by the two Warwick students who attended last year.

Leidig said that he had to send an audition tape to the school to get to the semi-final auditions in Harrisburg. After getting a place, Leidig had to go to Harrisburg for a live audition.

He said that for the audition he had to pick out two contrasting solo pieces of music to play. He also had to sight read and improvise a piece.

"The sight reading and improvisation were hard for me, but I guess I did alright," he said.

The school was held at Mercyhurst College in Erie from July 9 to Aug. 12. Students can only apply for the school if they are going into their junior or senior years, and they can only attend the school once.

Leidig said that the school was a great experience, but that it was a lot different than he thought it would be.

"I thought everyone would be out for self, but everyone worked together and helped each other," said Leidig.

According to Leidig, students took four classes in the morning and three classes in the afternoon with concerts and other activities in the evenings.

Leidig took classes in theory, improvisation, and jazz improvisation in addition to performing in the large ensemble and a smaller ensemble.

Leidig said that other than theory and improvisation, which are mandatory, the students could pick their own classes. He said that in his spare time he would practice.

"I actually enjoyed practice for the first time in my life," he said.

Leidig said that he would recommend the Governor's school to anyone because he got a lot more out of it than just learning music.

"It taught me to be more a part of a group and how to work better with people," he said.

He gave this advice to future Governor's school candidates:

"You might think you're good before going in, but once you're there you realize how middle-of-the-pack you are," he said. "You realize you have a lot to learn."

Warwick to consider library plan Sept. 19

RICHARD REITZ

Record Express Editor

The question of whether or not the Warwick School District will permit the Lititz Public Library to construct a new facility could be determined as early as Sept. 19.

Or a decision may have to wait until October.

At the Warwick School Board's committee-of-the-whole meeting on Tuesday, board members discussed the plans being considered for the new library, including the initial proposal for the site on the athletic practice field and a recent suggestion on the site of the old tennis courts.

School board member Arthur Sell, who proposed the latter suggestion at August's building and property committee meeting, said the board is not opposed to a new library, but must determine whether the district could be harmed if it leased or sold land that it may need in the future.

The matter will be discussed in further detail at the building and property committee's Monday, Sept. 11 meeting, set to begin at 7 p.m., and may likely be ready to present a recommendation to the entire school board at the Sept. 19 meeting.

Whether a recommendation is ready or not, some board members would rather a decision be delayed until the board's October meeting in order to analyze the committee's findings.

Madelyn Buckwalter said that she would like more information than what would be provided in the minutes from the committee meeting.

"On an issue this important as this, there is more detail to review," she said.

Sell said the library board needs to know "sooner rather than later" in order to begin planning for the construction.

He added that the board is divided into committees so that each can analyze the issues in detail, then present the findings to the board for approval or denial.

"I think you ought to let the building and property committee do its duty," he said.

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Daniel Doremus, who also serves on the library board, said postponing a decision for another month "from our perspective will be fine."

Lititz librarian Donna Hammond agreed that one month will not hinder the library's planning.

Board President Wallace Hoffferth said he opposed deliberately delaying a vote, and said if it is presented at the September meeting and the board has no problems, a vote should be taken.

If there are questions at that time, the board can then table the issue until October.

The Spotted Owl is the rarest species of all owls found in the United States.

And it is this that the Warwick Corn Maze Committee has focused on in constructing a maze in a corn field along Kissel Hill Road. The outline of the maze is in the shape of a Spotted Owl.

The public is invited to go through the corn maze from Friday through Sunday, Sept. 8-10 or Friday through Sunday, Sept. 15-17. Hours for the maze are: Sept. 8 and 15, 4-7 p.m.; Sept. 9 and 16, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Sept. 10 and 17, 1-5 p.m. Rain dates are Sept. 22-24.

Admission is $3 (kids 4-12 are $1) and all proceeds benefit the Lititz Community Center.

The intent of the project was for it to be a fun, family activity. Each participant will receive a sheet of paper with six questions based on facts about the Spotted Owl, designed to provide public awareness about one of many endangered species in the United States.

The answers will be located at six different stations inside the maze, which maze-goers will have to find using a map. The paths through the maze are bordered by 15-foot high corn stalks.

"We hope to (make it an annual event), we'd like to," said committee co-chairperson Katy Clair. "We'll see how it goes this year."

Missy Deibler is also a co-chairperson on the committee. Other committee members include Debbie Miller, Barb Schober and LCC Executive Director Diane Lokey.

Wayne Siegrist agreed to allow the maze to be designed in his field, and the project got started last Fall after his offer. Siegrist suggested the idea of using an endangered species as the theme of the maze, and three Warwick High School students — Eugene Eshbach, Andy Albert, and Josh Turner — designed the Spotted Owl Maze. The Corn Maze Committee chose that one from about 20 other designs.

The skills of Phillip Trimble and his assistants from Trimble Surveyors, of Lititz, were a big help in making the design a reality. A total of 175 stakes connected by lines were positioned in the field, and then committee members spent about five hours stumping and cutting the corn to complete the borders of the one-mile labyrinth. The dimensions of the maze are 660-by-280 feet.

"It wasn't easy to make it a round-ed look, but they did it," Clair said. Scaffolding will be erected to look over the maze in case anyone gets lost.

Refreshments will be available and hay wagon rides will be offered at selected hours.

An oil print, drawn by Steven Leed, will be raffled off to a lucky winner. The print is now on display at the Lititz Community Center.

Everyone who participates in the activity will receive a coupon for a free family visit to the Lititz Community Center.

Adult education courses offered

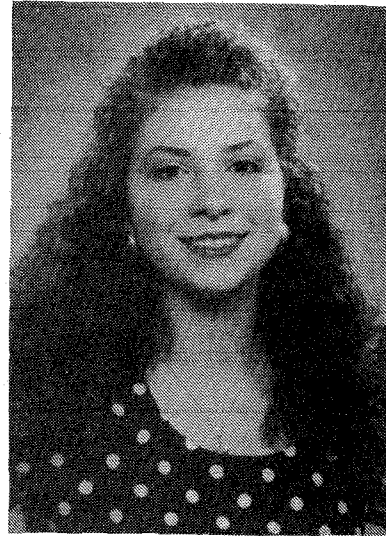

Registration and orientation for basic skills instruction and GED preparation will be held from 9:30 - 11 a.m. Friday, Sept. 8. Classes will be held from 9 a.m. - noon and 1 - 3 p.m. Monday - Thursday beginning Sept. 11.

Evening GED and ESL classes are offered at the following sites:

All classes are available to adults free of charge. New students will be welcomed into all classes throughout the year. Phone: 293-7636 for additional information.

Jami Lynn Krause

Krause is 1995 E-town Fair Queen

JILL IVEY

Record Express Staff

A 1994 Warwick High School graduate was recently named the Elizabethtown Fair Queen.

Jami Lynn Krause, daughter of Thomas and Carol Krause, is a sophomore Biology/Pre-Med major at Elizabethtown College, where she is active in the dance, biology, and pre-med clubs. She also works as a lab assistant and volunteers through a group called "Smile".

Krause has been active in 4-H with sewing and craft projects so fairs are nothing new to her.

"Living in Lititz, everyone knows about the fair," said Krause. "I knew they had a fair queen pageant with scholarship money."

In order to participate, each contestant had to write an essay on what the fair means to them. According to Strause, she then had to go through a 20-minute interview with three judges and a five-minute speech expanding on the theme of the essay. Each contestant then had to answer an impromptu question on stage.

As the winner, Strause received a $750 scholarship and coupons from many local businesses, hairdressers, and restaurants.

"I will get to go to the State Fair Queen Pageant held during the farm show this January in Harrisburg," she said.

After graduation, Krause plans to attend medical school to specialize in pediatrics or something in primary care.

Burkett lifts Warwick in rout over Panthers

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

Warwick Football Coach Clever Daihl thought the Warriors were a little too predictable on offense and defense last year.

This year, he wants to keep their opponents more off balance. Last Friday night in York, in the Warriors' season opener, they did that, as tailback Russell Burkett darted for 177 yards and quarterback Matt Becker threw two touchdown passes to lead Warwick to a 47-12 rout of the Central York Panthers in non-league action.

It was the most points Warwick has scored in a single game in recent years.

Overall, the Warriors (1-0) gained 371 yards in total offense, including 239 yards on the ground and 132 behind Becker's right throwing arm.

"We just ran our game plan, we did a lot of different things and tried to keep them off balance," Daihl said.

Mostly everything clicked for Warwick on this night, although it took a little time before they got things going.

The Panthers stopped the Warriors on three plays on their first two series and then had them facing third-and-5 on their own 5 in their next series, but an 18-yard Becker-to-Zach Bolich completion got Warwick breathing room, and nine plays later, Burkett scooted around right end for 34 yards and the season's first touchdown.

Andy Derr booted the extra-point and Warwick led 7-0 with :04 left in the first quarter.

Later, Daihl said Central York was overshifting on the strong side of Warwick's offense, so the Warriors adjusted their attack to take advantage of the Panthers' weakness.

"We didn't see it right away in the first series," he said, "and then in the (third series), we were down there close, and we made the adjustment right away, so then we ran a power, which was a fullback lead to the tight end side, and they had overshifted their defense, so we just sealed it off and Russell was gone."

"That picked everybody up and the running attack was working real well, so we just kinda stuck with it," he said. "And then we looked at what they were doing to us as far as taking away the pass was concerned and Matt got a couple of good reads and he made some great audibles from the line. Everything just seemed to be working for us once we figured out their overshifted defense."

In fact, on the Warriors' next offensive series, Becker completed a 30-yard pass to Joel Darras to put the ball on the Panthers' 30, and then Becker capped a five-play scoring drive with a 15-yard strike to Alex Daecher in the endzone. Derr was on target with the PAT and Warwick increased its lead to 14-0.

Becker finished the night completing 5-of-10 passes with no interceptions.

With 1:16 to go before intermission, the Warriors got the ball on their own 14 for the final time in the first half. Fifteen seconds later, Burkett was again in the Panthers' endzone following an 86-yard touchdown run. Derr's extra-point made it 21-0 at halftime.

"He's fast — we haven't had that kind of speed and that kind of quickness and ability to cut on the run like he does," Daihl said of Burkett. "His attribute is the fact that he can cut going left and right at full speed. We have a lot of fast kids, but they're fast in a straight line. Russell is fast from the get-go and he can change directions in a blink and never lose anything. And once you get him in the open... he's exciting. He's not very fast when you time him by the clock, but when he gets out there running scared, he just goes. He's like a scared rabbit going down there, he just pops it in a different gear." A three-yard TD plunge by Bolich, set up by a 40-yard pass completion from Becker to Mark Reidenbaugh, and Derr's PAT with 6:51 left in the third gave the Warriors a 28-0 lead.

The only area which Daihl may not have been happy with on Friday was the Warriors' special teams.

Central York got its first points of the night on special teams, as Ryan Warady took a kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown with 6:36 to go in the third, cutting the score to 28-6.

The Warriors' lead was never threatened though, because their defense came up big on back-to-back series late in the period. A fumble recovery on the Panthers' 30 set up a Becker-to-Burkett 29-yard touchdown pass, and then on Central York's next offensive play, Daecher scooped up a fumble and returned it 32 yards for yet another score. That made the score 41-6 and removed all doubt.

Warwick's defense also got an interception from sophomore Steve Berkey in the game.

The Panthers finished the game with 125 rushing yards and 91 passing yards.

"We went into this season with the idea that we were going to create some movement and do different things and have our ends and tackles moving on the ball and linebackers... because we don't have the size to match up with people," Daihl said. "We have to go after them and sometimes that's going to hurt us. It will hurt us because people will take advantage of us, but we're just hoping it won't hurt us too much. Hey, the defense saved us. That third quarter, they came out and our offense was putrid, they were terrible. And we told them, they were number 2's there during the first six, seven minutes of that third period, but the defense came through for us."

Russell Burkett (21) follows the lead blocking of fullback Zach Bolich to turn the corner and gain yardage. Burkett rushed for 177 yards to spark the Warriors to a 47-12 season-opening win over Central York on Friday.

Central York scored its final points on Matt Debes' two-yard touchdown run with 7:47 left in the game.

Warwick's second-team offense then completed the scoring with a 12-play drive, capped by Berkey's six-yard touchdown run with 1:19 to go.

"It's nice to have a win, but it's even better to see that the guys can effectively play offense and defense," Daihl said. "Special teams now, that's a different story."

The Warriors go for two in a row this Friday when they host Elizabethtown in their home opener on Grosh Field at 7:30 p.m.

Offensive outburst keys Warwick in tournament

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

If the Lady Warriors' field hockey team sent a message to future opponents with their offensive outburst in the Conrad Weiser Tournament last Friday and Saturday, then that would be fine with Warwick Coach Bob Derr.

Warwick won the tournament championship by beating Allentown-Allen 5-1 in the semi-finals on Friday and then pouncing Kutztown 7-0 in the finals on Saturday.

The way Derr figures, teams will either look at that message and go on the defensive when they face Warwick, or they will step up their level of play.

If their opponents use it as motivation to play better, then hopefully, that should also challenge the Lady Warriors to play better.

"It's definitely a good start, no doubt about it," Derr said. "It puts us on the offensive and makes people step up and beware."

Derr knows that Conrad Weiser and Kutztown probably weren't as strong as other teams they will meet this year, so he's looking forward to seeing if his team can come back and continue to score goals and play well when the competition gets better.

Going into this season, scoring was a concern of Derr's, but he now believes they're further ahead of schedule in that area than they were last year.

In last year's Conrad Weiser Tournament, the Lady Warriors went to overtime to win both their games.

"We're way ahead of last year's goal performance," he said. "But until you do it against a very competitive foe, you don't know how good you are."

In their game against Allentown-Allen, Warwick just missed on several early chances. But with 15:38 left in the first half, Carrie Wiles put Warwick on top 1-0.

Janelle Long then scored back-to-back goals, at 17:10 and 19:49, to make the score 3-0.

With only 1:14 left before half-time, Wiles scored her second goal and it was 4-0 at the intermission.

Erica Widder quickly made it 5-0 just :35 into the second half, and the Lady Warriors coasted from there.

Allentown-Allen broke the shut-out with a goal at the 15:01 mark to complete the scoring.

The Lady Warriors outshot Allentown-Allen 23-4 and they had a 10-3 advantage in corners.

Warwick's defense wasn't tested much in the game, but their defensive backs did have to make some adjustments against Allentown-Allen's forwards.

"Our backs weren't stepping up and denying the ball as much as they should have," Derr said. "Once I got the message out to them, they were able to take charge, but they have to recognize that themselves without me telling them."

Six different players had goals for Warwick in its win over Kutztown. Long again scored twice and surpassed her goal total from all of last year.

"That was definitely a good sign that more than one person is going to step up and score," Derr said. "I like that."

It only took 52 seconds into the game for Long to get her first goal and give Warwick a 1-0 lead. She made it 2-0 with a goal just 3:16 later.

"She's doing the job, which is what I hoped she would do — her and Erica," Derr said. "She's putting the ball in the net and that's what I want."

Caroline Nuffort connected at the 14:55 mark of the first half, and then Maria Smith followed at 17:20 and Kati VanKirk scored with 7:42 to go in the first half to build the lead to 5-0 at halftime.

Erika Lauris and Melissa Mull chipped in with second-half goals to wrap things up.

The Lady Warriors outshot Kutztown 28-5 and they led in corners, 14-1. Warwick goalkeeper Kati Oakes stopped all five shots she faced.

Widder, who was suffering from inflammation in her chest, played in both games and appears to be on her way back to full strength.

"She's getting there, she's soon ready to go a full game," Derr said. "I don't know if she has her fitness back yet. She says she feels good, so it's a matter now of just stepping her up and putting her under stress a little bit and see what happens."

Lady Warriors warm-up at Cent. Dauphin Tourney

BRUCE MORGAN
Record Express Staff

Warwick's girls' volleyball team got a tune-up for the season by competing in the Central Dauphin Tournament last Saturday.

After starting slowly, the Lady Warriors came on to place third in their pool, compiling a record of 3-5.

Coach Lori Moul said she was more concerned with some of her underclassmen getting experience and the team having an opportunity to work on its consistency than she was with wins and losses.

"(The tournament) gives us an opportunity to get the bugs out,"

Moul said. "There were first-grade jitters for a lot of underclassmen and consistency problems, but that's what you do, you work them out."
"I feel we got a chance to see what we really need to work on — I still think there's a lot of potential there, we just need to get more consistent," she said.

The Thursday Evening Quarterback

Week One of the football season is in the books, and all of the panelists on The Thursday Evening Quarterback had a successful debut last week, as each finished with a winning record.

Steve Seeber and Bruce Morgan had the best record last week (7-2), but it's a long season and the race is sure to be close the whole way.

The Penn State Nittany Lions get underway this weekend, hosting Texas Tech in their season opener. Lititz's Kevin Ranck was the first to respond with the correct answer to the trivia question last week, so he will be this week's guest. Last week's answer was the Oakland Raiders, who, as a wild-card team, defeated the Philadelphia Eagles in the 1980 Super Bowl.

If you know the answer to this week's trivia question, send it to Bruce Morgan at the Lititz Record Express, 22 E. Main St., Lititz, PA 17543 or call 626-2191.

This week's trivia question is: Name the last Penn State grad to rush for more than 1,000 yards in the NFL.

Local youth spends memorable day at Little League WS

The 49th annual Little League World Series was held in Williamsport, PA on Saturday, August 26, as approximately 50,000 spectators watched the Chinese, Taipei team take its 16th championship with a 17-3 win over the U.S. South team.

Among those in attendance were Lititz's Kevin and Cherre Ranck, along with their son Tim and daughter Erika, of 10 Hallmark Drive.

Fans got a quick preview of things to come when two of the first three Far East batters hit home runs. But for Tim, the fourth batter of the game created the most excitement.

Chih Wei Chang drilled a foul ball down the first base line into the crowd. Out of the mob popped a surprised Tim with ball in hand.

In addition to the foul ball, Tim collected league pins from people all over the world (always a big event in Williamsport), autographs of the Far East team, whom he ran into at the Little League Museum, and autograph of former pitching great Tommy John.

When asked for comment on the exciting weekend, Tim's only reply was, "I can't wait for next season." Tim is a member of the Major League Twins in Warwick Little League.

Warwick Little League to host coaching clinic

A Warwick Little League Baseball Coaching Clinic will be held on four successive Sundays, beginning September 17 and ending October 8, from 5-7 p.m. at the Wilbur Field complex.

All current and future Warwick Little League managers and coaches are encouraged and invited to bring a player along for instruction and to assist with coaching drills.

All participants must pre-register no later than this Sunday, Sept. 10. Call to register at 626-5925 or 626-1803. There is no fee.

Instructors will include Larry Wagner, long-time Lititz Legion college baseball coach, and Jerry Wagner, Boyertown Area Legion baseball coach. The three of them have a combined total of more than 50 years of experience.

Coaches will be shown how to drill players on defense, how to run efficient practices, batting instruction, and how to teach other specific areas of the game, such as base running and stealing.

WHS Senior Fall League team loses doubleheader

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

Warwick's Senior Fall League baseball team dropped a doubleheader to Reamstown on Saturday, Aug. 26 and fell to 2-2.

In the first game of the doubleheader, Reamstown scored four runs in both the first and second innings and went on to win 11-6. Reamstown outhit Warwick 16-5.

Warwick got one run in the top of the second on an RBI triple by Rick Neidermyer and it added four more in the fifth, with Josh Turner hitting a key-two run double. Justin Carper's solo home run in the sixth inning completed Warwick's scoring.

For the game, Turner was 2-for-3 and Carper went 1-for-2 with two runs scored.

In the second game, Reamstown scored one run in the second and three in the fourth and held on for a 4-1 win.

Warwick scored its only run in the bottom of the fourth, as Eric Rossi tripled and scored on Jon Thomas' sacrifice fly.

Rossi went 3-for-3 to lead the team's offense. He also pitched a complete game and suffered the loss.

On Saturday, Aug. 19, Warwick scored 32 runs in two games and swept a doubleheader from Pequea Valley.

They won the first game 17-0 and then came back to take the second one 15-0. Both games were shortened by the ten-run rule.

Pitchers Drew Kirchner and Chris Bushong were the beneficiaries of the team's offensive onslaught. Kirchner started and picked up the win, and Bushong pitched in relief.

T.J. Hensel went 3-for-3 with two runs scored and John Ritchie was 3-for-3 to lead Warwick's 14-hit attack. Rossi, Neidermyer and Turner each also had two hits, with Rossi adding a home run.

In game two, Warwick scored six runs in the first inning, one in the second and eight in the fourth to put it away.

Carper, Eric Wolfe, Bushong and Geoff Gensemer all had two hits to lead Warwick.

Carper and Rossi combined on a one-hitter, as Carper got the win with three innings of work. The two pitchers struck out 13 and walked three.

Senior members of Warwick's boys' and girls' cross country teams are Andy Babcock, Allison Crable, Jon Conville, Erin Reinhold, and Corey Carvell.

Lady Warriors fall to A-C

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

Warwick's girls' tennis team (1-1) suffered a 5-2 loss to Annville-Cleona in a non-league match last Tuesday, Aug. 29.

The Lady Warriors' only singles win came from Brienne Peiffer (2-0) at number one, as she defeated

Kristin Martin 6-0, 6-2.

Annville-Cleona won the four remaining singles matches and clinched the win. Eliska Kovarik defeated Liz Moyer (1-1) 7-5, 6-0 at number two, Karyn Miller defeated Jessica Weinstein (1-1) in three sets, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5 at number three, Danielle Peiffer defeated Jenny Haines (1-1) 6-0, 6-0 at number four, and Eileen Bell defeated Amanda Christman (1-1) 6-1, 7-6 (8-6) in the fifth singles match.

Peiffer and Moyer teamed up in doubles to record an 8-2 win over Martin and Kovarik, and then Annville's Bell and Steph Kish defeated Kate Geesey and Vicki Steward 8-2 in the other doubles match.

Linksmen to strive for improvement this season

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

Warwick Golf Coach John Sukenik has already said that this is his final year of teaching and his final year of coaching.

He is currently in his third year as the Warriors' golf coach, and prior to that, he spent 20-plus years in the football coaching ranks.

After all that time, he just figures he has paid his dues long enough.

So does he have any special goals for the Warriors' golf team in this his final season as a coach?

His answer is that as long as his players try their best and strive to make improvements throughout the season, then that's all that matters.

"I'm not concerned so much with wins and losses — I'm a realist and I have an idea of what we can shoot, and as long as we improve as the year goes on, that's all I can ask," he said.

The Warriors played a Section match last Monday, Aug. 28 at Crossgates and shot a 459 to finish 0-5. Hempfield and Manheim Township were one-two with a 393 and 394, respectively.

For Warwick, Kevin Hicks led the way with an 83. Jon Thomas was second with a 90, Eric Rossi finished with a 91, Mike Thorn had a 93, and Shane Weaver recorded a 102.

"I was a little disappointed with the score — I thought we'd shoot about 450," Sukenik said. "The kids are trying hard, but we just don't have the skill people that Hempfield and Manheim Township do."

In a tri-meet last Thursday, Warwick defeated Ephrata, but lost to Lancaster Country Day.

The Warriors entered this season without Chad Wettig and Brian Wenger, who both graduated last year. Still, Sukenik was expecting to be in good shape this year with five of his top seven golfers due back from last year.

They peaked at the end of the season in 1994, finishing third with a 412 at their final league meet and then placing fourth at the League Championship Meet.

But Jason Valudes, a two-year starter, and Jason Hoenich, who came on strong at the end of the year, elected not to golf this season because of personal reasons.

"Just losing (Chad and Brian), I figured we'd be pretty strong, but it didn't work out that way," Sukenik said. "I can't fault the kids. I wish they were out, but there's nothing I can do about it."

Hicks and Thomas, who both qualified for Districts last year, are Warwick's top two golfers, although Thomas is suffering from a severe case of sun poisoning on his hands and probably won't be available to the team this week.

Others in the top seven are Rossi, Thorn, Weaver, Mike Foley, Ryan Martin, and Keith Mather. Martin joins Hicks and Thomas as the squad's three seniors.

Six golfers compete in each match, with only the top five scores counting toward the final team score.

Sukenik would like to see both Hicks and Thomas, if not the whole team, get to Districts again this season. In order to do that, they will have to battle a lot of good competition in the L-L League this season.

"Kevin is struggling a little bit right now trying to get his game squared away, but he's put a lot of time in and I'd like to see him qualify for Districts," Sukenik said. "Jon's hand injury is a setback for him. I have my fingers crossed that things work well for them, but it's hard to say what's going to happen. In terms of quality, there's some outstanding people in the League."

Sukenik extended his appreciation to Warwick alumnus Jeff Hibshman, who is serving as a volunteer assistant with the team this season.

"He's giving his time up working with the kids and he's been a big help," Sukenik said.

He also thanked the school and the grounds crew of Ken Longenecker, Jack Hevener, and Dale Kline for creating a sand trap at the school for the golfers.

"I can't thank them enough for their help," Sukenik said. "In the future, I think it can only help the program."

The Warriors play their next match today (Thursday) at Fairview Golf Course.

WHS booters top Mules with balanced scoring

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

The Warriors' soccer team used a balanced scoring attack to earn their first win of the season on Tuesday, shutting out Solanco 6-0 in a Section One game in Lititz.

Six different players scored in the game for Warwick, as it dominated the action. The Warriors outshot the Golden Mules 28-0 and they had a 6-0 edge in corners.

Dwight Brubaker got the scoring started with a goal at 8:06 of the second quarter. Brian Gassman recorded an assist on the play, his first of three in the game, and George Camera picked up the other.

About six minutes later, Chad Miller scored to make it 2-0, with Gassman and Brubaker assisting.

Then Ryan Zepp, with an assist from Ryan Abel, got into the act with a goal at the 19:40 mark of the second, giving the Warriors a 3-0 lead at halftime.

"The kids moved the ball around well, they moved it around nice," Warwick Coach John Fellenbaum said. "We took advantage of some defensive mistakes and we worked hard to capitalize on the opportunities. The kids put a lot of pressure on them."

Warwick put it away in the second half on third-quarter goals by Keith Montgomery and Camera, and a fourth-period goal from Joe Mitchell, his second of the season. Gassman, Zepp and Montgomery all had assists.

"It's a good way to get started and it's nice to have your first game and get a result like that, but we can't feel complacent because we won this 6-0," Fellenbaum said. "It's nice the kids did so well after (last weekend's Wyomissing Tournament), but we have to keep things in perspective and work hard to improve."

There were mixed results at the Wyomissing Tournament for the Warriors.

In the first game against Wyomissing (the defending District and State Double-A champions), Warwick played a solid game, keeping the score tied 0-0 at halftime.

Wyomissing then took a 1-0 lead early in the second half, but it stayed that way until they added an insurance goal with only about 2:00 left in the game.

Warwick goalkeeper Dan Weinelick made 12 saves to keep the game close. Wyomissing outshot Warwick 24-5 and they had a 5-3 advantage in corners.

"I think that was good for our kids to get that kind of exposure," Fellenbaum said. "Wyomissing is quick with the ball and they did play very well. Even though there was no question they were the better team, our kids played well to stay in there. With those teams, it really takes a lot out of you to chase the ball, and they moved the ball so well."

In the consolation game against Conrad Weiser, last year's District Double-A runner-up, the Warriors didn't play as well and they suffered a 5-1 loss.

Conrad Weiser outshot Warwick 18-6 and each team had three corners. Weinelick and John Wagaman combined to make 10 saves for the Warriors.

Mitchell scored Warwick's only goal with an assist from Troy Cochran.

"(Conrad Weiser) took us to task, they pretty much put a clinic on, but hopefully we did learn from it," Fellenbaum said.

Controversial race places Booth second at speedway

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

Kevin Booth of Lititz Swedish Racing Team fame nearly brought home gold after a close Friday night Thundercar feature at Linda's Speedway in Lebanon.

After failing to place in the heat races, Booth and teammate Lynn Hyle finished first and second place respectively in the consolation race.

Starting deep in the pack for the evening's main event, the 15-lap feature, Booth made an early B-line for the checkered flag, but could not manage to steal the first place slot from Bill Sherwood.

"Both cars (Booth's and Sherwood's) were impounded for tech inspection to determine the legality of the cars," Booth said. "There was a heated debate as to the legality of the first place car's fuel content, but he was awarded first."

Booth took second place and Hyle finished 14th.

In the wake of serious car problems, Lititz' third man Tim Brown failed to qualify for the feature.

"I flipped for racing at Linda's and joined the rollover club," Brown said after the race.

During the heat race, another driver sandwiched Brown's Saab Thundercar against the rails. After a replaced radiator, reentered the track for the consolation and was running in a qualifying position when a flattened outside tire prompted the black flag, which means off the track.

"It's been three rough weeks, but next week I'll be ready. I'm ready to take the place by storm," said an eager Brown. "I'm tired of watching, next week is pay day."

With a couple nights of TLC, he expects to be in top form this Friday.

Sponsors for Team Lititz are the Deli-L, Bob's Market, Wayne Anthony and Michael Palasz Orthodontics, Subway, Lititz Auto Service, Kelsey Distributors, Sharky's Pizza, Action Tire, Interstate Batteries, B.G. Products, N.A.P.A., Bower Products and MAC Tools.

Racing will begin again this Friday night at Linda's. Booth is currently holding 2nd place in total points on the season, Hyle is in 7th, and Brown remains at 14th.

For race times and other details, call the track at 865-5330.

Lititz Sportsmen to sponsor course

The Lititz Sportsmen's Association will be sponsoring a Hunter/Trapper Education Course on September 9-10 at the Lititz Fire Hall.

Students must attend both sessions to meet the ten-hour requirement. There is no charge for the class and all are welcome.

Lunch will be provided by the club on Saturday. Class size is limited, so pre-registration is necessary.

LCC day camp raises money

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

Kids in day camp at the Lititz Community Center lended a helping hand to others their same age who are less fortunate than them.

Recently holding three fundraisers, the youngsters raised $142.30 which they recently presented to the Make-A-Wish Foundation at the LCC. Receiving the check for the Foundation were Make-A-Wish Board of Directors Ed Warfel and Corinne Easton.

Make-A-Wish grants wishes to terminally-ill children who are between the ages of 2-18.

Older Kids Club (OKC) counselor Ryan Landis said the original goal was to raise $100, but they surpassed that by quite a bit. Some of the kids know people who have benefitted from this charity, he said.

"The kids seemed real excited about helping out which was neat," Landis said. "It's a great charity in which kids can help kids their own age."

The fundraisers consisted of putting a money can at different locations to solicit donations and holding a yard sale and an exercise-a-thon. All kids in day camp participated in the exercise-a-thon, as they raised money by obtaining sponsors and exercising for a half hour the day of the event.

The money donated to Make-A-Wish goes directly to granting kids' wishes. The majority of their wishes are for trips to Disney World, but they also range from wanting to meet a celebrity to just wanting a puppy dog.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation of Lancaster County serves Lancaster, Lebanon, Dauphin, Perry and Cumberland counties. It's governed by a volunteer 19-member board.

Since February of 1986, the local chapter has granted more than 260 wishes. There are currently nine wishes pending.

The Lancaster County Foundation is a member of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of America. There are 125 chapters and divisions in 46 states. Since 1980, all chapters have granted more than 23,000 wishes.

Anyone can refer a child to Make-A-Wish. Just call the office at 392-3840.

If anyone is interested in support Make-A-Wish, donations can be sent to the Make-A-Wish Foundation, 2938 Columbia Ave., Lancaster, PA 17603.

He is employed by New Holland North America, Inc. in New Holland.

Pa. Dutch storyteller to weave tales at Sept. 14 AARP meeting

AARP Chapter 4918, Northeast Lancaster County, will open its 1995-96 Chapter year at its meeting on Sept. 14 at 1:30 p.m. in the Doneckers Memorial Chapel, Ephrata Manor, Bethany Road, Ephrata Township.

The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy the program and social hour following the program.

Dorothy Fry, story-teller, will provide the entertainment. Mrs. Fry is well-known in this area for her stories, some amusing, some hilarious, some heart-warming.

She regularly appears on the Allen Musser Show on Blue Ridge Cable TV, Channel 11. That program airs on Mondays at 6:30 p.m., with a repeat on Tuesday mornings at 10 a.m.

Her stories for children are truly entertaining, and told in Pennsylvania Dutch! Mrs. Fry has entertained many civic and Church groups in the area for years.

A brief business meeting will precede the entertainment. Following Mrs. Fry's program, refreshments will be served.

Andy Smith to exhibit art at special Artworks gallery

Andy Smith of Lititz has joined the more than 30 artists and craftspeople exhibiting their work at The Artworks at Doneckers, 100 North State Street, Ephrata during a special two-month exhibit at Gallery 200 on the second floor of The Artworks.

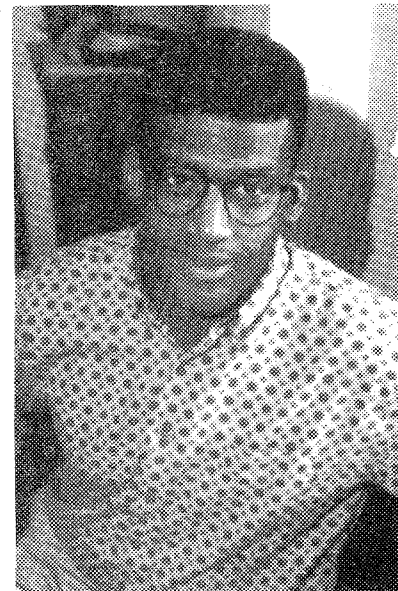

Smith's style has been compared to the American realist Andrew Wyeth because of the similarity in his choice of rich, pure colors and his use of light and shadow, but according to the self-taught Lititz artist, "I paint what I see and I try to capture the mood of each scene I paint."

Smith has been painting professionally for more than 16 years, exhibiting his work throughout the east coast at more than 40 shows.

He recently was awarded at the Lititz Outdoor Art Show for his watercolors. The subjects of this accomplished artist range from a Lancaster County barn to waterlilies in a pond to a tattered homeless man on the streets of Philadelphia.

"I choose subjects that mean something to me and express something to others," Smith said, whose work will be on display until Sept. 30 at The Artworks.

The Artworks at Doneckers is a four-story marketplace of more than 30 working artisans' galleries and craftsmen's studios filled with paintings, sculptures, photography, fine crafts, jewelry, handcrafted furniture, quilts, kaleidoscopes, and more in a renovated historic former shoe factory.

Hours are Monday, Tuesday, Thursday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday noon to 4 p.m., closed Wednesday.

THEATRE

'Anne of Green Gables'
First Stage Theatre, 15 North Lane, Lititz, kicks off its Fall Season with the return of "Anne of Green Gables" with performances on Friday-Sunday from Sept. 15 through Oct. 8. Performances of this critically acclaimed adaptation of L.M. Montgomery's book by Craig Davis will be held Fridays at 7 p.m., Saturdays at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m., and Sundays at 2 p.m. Tickets are $8 per person and can be ordered by calling 626-7848. Other First Stage productions planned this fall include "Little Men" and "Cinderella." Two and three show packages are available.

'Some Like It Hot'
The Dutch Apple Theatre, 510 Center-ville Road, Lancaster, will present the David Merrick's musical "Some Like It Hot," based on the Billy Wilder movie starring Marilyn Monroe, through Sept. 30, with performances Tuesday-Saturday evening and selected matinee and twilight shows. Dinner and show prices range from $24-30, and show only seats are $15. For reservations, call 898-1900.

'Harmony on the High C's'
The 40-member chorus of the Red Rose City Sweet Adelines, under the direction of Lori Jo Whithaus, embark on an evening of song, fun, romance and entertainment as they sail to exotic ports of call aboard the Harmony Princess cruise ship in "Harmony on the High C's," the 21st annual musical comedy production of this women's barbershop chorus. The show will be performed Saturday, Oct. 7 at 8 p.m. at Centerville Middle School in Lancaster. Tickets are $8 in advance, $9 at the door, and $4 for children 12-under. A portion of the proceeds benefit the Lancaster Shelter for Abused Women. For more information or tickets, call Anna Mae Reed at 738-4146 or Gloria Hoelzel at 569-1074.

PICKLES

CD's release party is based on a true story

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

It's the major milestone for every band worth its weight in guitars, drums and amps — the first album. The Lititz-based power trio known as The Mad Hatters recently hurdled that milestone, and to celebrate the achievement, the band is inviting every fan, coast to coast, to their CD release party at the Butcher Block Bar & Grille, 2363 Oregon Pike, Lancaster, this Friday, 6-10 p.m. Performing cuts from the new album, "Based on a True Story," the Lititz band plans to get personal with rock fans throughout the evening. Free hot dogs and plenty of drink specials are also on the party agenda. The trio is comprised of East Lampeter guitarist James Gottshall, Lititz bassist Curtis Earth and Keith Moon-inspired drummer Steve Good of Lititz.

The Mad Hatters — drummer Steve Good, guitarist James Gottshall and bassist Curtis Earth will celebrate the release of their new CD, "Based on a True Story," this Friday at the Butcher Block Bar & Grille.

They've been together for a mere nine months, practicing in Earth's Brookfield Road basement when not at their full-time jobs, and have already built a huge following in the Lancaster circuit. According to Earth, if things go well with the debut album, the band will become a full-time occupation. With recent airplay on FM 97 and Y-102, the word on the Hatters is getting around. "It's nice to have air time," said Good. "Can't Find A Reason," seems to be the band's first single and most requested song. Earth added that the record was a month-long project at Raintree Studios in Lebanon. "The breaks just keep coming," Earth said. "There is a definite vibe." Gottshall sings five of the tracks on "Based on..." Earth sings lead on three and Good on one.

Russ Diamond, Raintree owner and producer of the Hatter debut,

Easter Seals plans relay

Registration is now underway for the first annual "24 Hour Relay for Easter Seals," which will take place from 10 a.m. Saturday, September 9 through 10 a.m. Sunday, September 10 at Hersheypark Stadium. According to Nevin Hollinger, president of the Easter Seal Society of South Central Pennsylvania, proceeds from the event will help fund such services as speech therapy, physical therapy, recreational therapy and assistive technology for children and adults with disabilities. To register, contact the Easter Seal Society of South Central PA: Capital Area, 939-7801; Lebanon, 273-7351, or York, 741-3891.

never heard the band play live and based his decision to produce solely on the bands noted influences. "I rate these guys pretty high because they have a real sense of where a song should come from," Diamond said. "Their style is reminiscent of George Harrison and Pete Townshend. It's really refreshing to find something other than the pop song of the week or a 'louder the better' type of release. The progress of the recording was very smooth and the finished product came out like I had hoped — organic." As far as a future for The Mad Hatters, Diamond said, "They have the songwriting that it takes to make it on a regional or national level. They just need to keep doing what they're doing now."

Mad Hatter Manager Justin Shiffer said the CD release means that "A lot of hard work and dedication has finally come to a head. Not to many bands release a CD, and this one is really a payback to fans for last nine months." The new CD is now available at Ken's Music Store and Dennis Michael's Studio in Lititz; Record Connection in Ephrata; BBC, Stans Record Bar and XYZed in Lancaster; For Every Ear in Elizabeth-town; and Young One's Records and Tapes in Millersville. The Hatters will also be playing at Club Pipeline on Sept. 12 and Quips' Pub on the 14th. Until then, meet the band and their jam to your heart's content at the Butcher Block this Friday. It's working man's guitar at its best.

Aden Ward

Lititz Moravian Church

The experiences we have had which bring the presence of God closest to our hearts and minds are likely as varied as we are. The birth of a child, the warm embrace of two former enemies, a Christmas vigil service when all the candles are held high, the setting sun mingling through a haze of dust and rain, the ceiling of the stars, brilliant beyond belief on an exceptionally clear night, clear thoughts coming through a time of personal silence and reflection, two friends conversing and sharing, a child's exuberance and spontaneity during play ... all these and many more experiences have been shared as moments when God's presence is visibly brighter and clearer than much of the rest of the time.

Many centuries ago on a mountaintop half-way around the world from here God's presence took on far-reaching implications for its brilliance and clarity. We are indebted to Hollywood and Charleton Heston for giving us a visual picture of that scene. But what remains in the memory of those who watched Heston as Moses, converse with a God in a burning bush not consumed by flames, can only be a bare facsimile of the actual event now remembered through the clouds of time. The giving of the Decalogue, or the Ten Commandments as we know them, is one of the best known stories in Judeo-Christian literature and is central to the understanding of both faiths.

The first commandment was the commandment par excellence, the most important for the Hebrews, for in this short commandment we find the clearest statement of the character of this Old Testament God, "You shall have no other gods before me." We are over 3,000 years removed from this event and with almost 2,000 years of Christian tradition, we might find it difficult to visualize a time when belief in more than one god was automatic. The Hebrews of the Exodus lived in such a time. Yahweh was a tribal god, a god of the mountain, of desert and thunder and storm. Yahweh made Himself known to Moses and the Hebrews and declared that He would not share the worship He was due with other gods. As the Hebrews came out of the mountains and desert on to the lowlands of Canaan they came also into the territory of gods of an agricultural society, of fields and plowing and sowing, olives and vineyards. For the gifts of the earth the Canaanites offered thanks to the Baals, the deities who presided over particular areas of the land, each Baal being regarded as the owner of the region with which he was associated. As the Hebrews settled the land they came increasingly under the influence of the Baals and other gods.

It was a time of poly-theism, of belief in many gods and an easy-going tolerance. Devotees of one god were on easy terms with others and sought to ensure blessings for themselves from other gods as well. The phrasing of the first commandment acknowledges the existence of those gods, "You shall have no other gods before me," and also introduces the claim to exclusivity. This god of the Hebrews, Yahweh, Jehovah, Adonai as he was at various times known, was furthermore a god of history. Yahweh didn't simply or only exist in and through the cycles of the natural year, but was in Israel's history ... "I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery." And it was through His actions in history that Yahweh proved to the Hebrews that He was the one God to be worshipped.

The power of "other gods" to seduce Israel from the covenant loyalty was demonstrated before they reached the promised land. Deuteronomy (9:13FF) records that even while Moses was on the mountain receiving the commandments, the Hebrews below were making the image of a calf to worship. God didn't have a problem with the Hebrews simply because they danced around a golden calf, but because what the calf represented so easily overshadowed the attention and recognition that was due God. The history of Israel is one of continuous struggle to worship God alone.

"You shall have no other gods before me" is a call to obedience and exclusive worship. Worship in this sense is not simply what we do regu-

Drug and alcohol program planned

A New Creation, a team from Teen Challenge Training Center, Rehrersburg, Pa., will give a program at Lititz Mennonite Church on Sunday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m. The church is located on the corner of Front and Water Streets. The public is cordially invited.

Teen Challenge Training Center is government documented as America's largest and most successful drug and alcohol program. The Center began in the early 1960s with eight men in a farmhouse on a dairy farm in Rehrersburg, 35 miles east of Harrisburg. Today the Training Center has grown to 300 students and the facilities include an educational wing, dormitory areas, a library, offices, a print shop, auto body and mechanic shops, industrial shops and greenhouses.

Trinity E.C. hosts fall kickoff

Jeff Peiffer, executive director of Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor, will be guest speaker for the Fall Youth Kick-off at Trinity E.C. Church, Lititz, on Sept. 10.

He will address "Life in the 90s" at the 8 and 10:15 a.m. worship services, and also share with the combined youth during the 9:05 a.m. Sunday School session.

Youth Director T. J. Brosius and young people from the congregation will participate in all aspects of the morning and provide special music.

The day concludes with a 7 p.m. program featuring the REACH work team which served in western New York this summer.

The six youth and two advisors who spent a week repairing homes were Justin Bucher, Teresa Diehl, David Fry, Dawn Ortega, Tammy Rettew, Joe Shelly, T. J. Brosius, and Mrs. Connie Fry. They will show pictures and talk about their experience.

works with men who have had life controlling problems with drugs, alcohol or crime. It introduces them to a rehabilitative process wherein they are able to learn to function as productive members of society.

Men come to the Center from inner-city programs all across the United States, Puerto Rico and the Bahamas.

The Training Center Program combines Bible instruction to build Christian character, academic subjects to upgrade their schooling, and vocational skills to help to earn high school diplomas. Students pay nothing for the training so that the program can be made available to those who need it most.

A New Creation will share their experiences through testimonies and music. Everyone is invited to this challenging program.

The Singin' Rodgers, a southern-style gospel quartet will perform at Shiloh Christian Fellowship this Saturday.

Southern gospel sings for Shiloh

Shiloh Concerts, a new outreach of Shiloh Christian Fellowship, will be hosting a southern-style gospel quartet on Saturday, Sept. 9, starting at 7 p.m. at Lititz Springs Park.

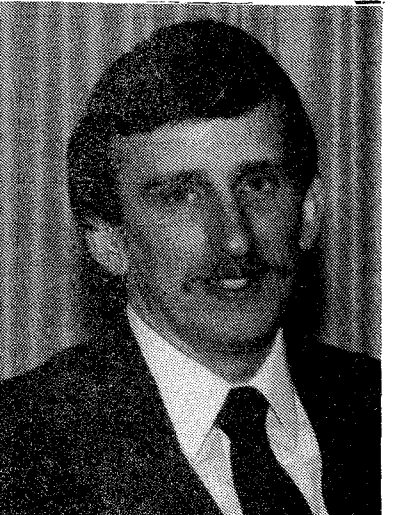

The Singin' Rodgers, a Lancaster County family who has ministered in many churches and concert halls since 1981, will be featured. This spirit-led family has sung with such groups as Mullins and Company, and others.

A freewill offering will be taken to support this family in their ministry.

In the event of rain, the concert will be held at Shiloh Christian Fellowship on Willow Street in Lititz.

Background Scripture: Acts 2
Devotional Reading: Acts 2:16-24

My wife went to a store yesterday and, when she got home, she found in the paper bag containing the things she had purchased a Christian tract.

It purposed to outline and explain "God's Plan of Salvation." The author claimed to have discovered a system comprising the grace of God. It read pretty much like a corporation's organizational chart or a detailed legal document. The writer implied that, if the reader understood the tract, they also understood the grace of God.

This reminded me of the little girl who was busy with crayons and paper and, when her father asked what she was doing, replied, "I'm drawing a picture of God." "But no one knows what he looks like," the father protested. "They will when I'm finished," she snapped.

SURELY YOU KNOW!

Lots of us are sure we can cut through all the mystery and transcendence of God and serve Him up in a nice little system. But all these systems come from human minds rather than from God. They make simplistic what is beyond full human comprehension. Whenever we think that we have captured God in one of our human systems, we need to remember what God said to Job: "Where were you when I laid the foundation of the earth? Tell me if you have understanding. Who determined its measurements—surely you know!" (Job 38:4, 5).

Yet, although we should never assume we have reduced God and His grace to a formula, neither should we make difficult and complex what is deceptively simple. In Acts 2, Peter preaches movingly at Pentecost. "Now when they heard this they were cut to the heart, and said to Peter and the rest of the Apostles, 'Brethren, what shall we do?' And Peter said to them, 'Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins'" (2:37, 38).

I wouldn't pretend that the length and breadth, height and depth of the grace of God can be reduced to a system, but the question of "What shall we do...?" can be answered, not with arrogance, but humility.

When we hear the Good News of Jesus Christ, most of us will be "cut to the heart" with a sense of our own moral failure. In a sense, the Good News starts with what may seem to be the Bad News—our need to repent. "What shall we do?" In simple language: "Repent..." To respond to God's Good News in Jesus Christ we need to acknowledge that we have not done what He wants or been what He has created us to be. We need to realize our need for His forgiveness. Nothing complicated about that.

A GIFT TO ALL

"Repent and be baptized..." Baptism symbolizes the grace of God that is poured out upon us when we acknowledge our need for him. It is the sign of our commitment to Him and His kingdom. It is a public avowal that we have received God's grace and what we intend to do about it. Nothing complicated about that either.

Now, we are ready and able to receive God's empowerment: "...and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit" (2:38). Lots of people would prefer to argue about the Holy Spirit than let it be channeled through their lives. But the Holy Spirit is not some rare gift to the few, but the common legacy of all who surrender themselves to God's grace. You don't have to understand an elaborate system in order for the Holy Spirit to be alive and well in your life.

"Brethren, what shall we do?" The answer is simple, but never simplistic: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of sins, and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit •Mary Hyer and Howard Hackman are getting married Sept. 14. Like all couples, there are the last minute details to be worked out... picking up the marriage license, getting their future apartment in order, and for Mary and Howard, shopping for a double bed.

 Pretty ordinary, unless you know that Mary is 82, and Howard is 81, and for both it is their third marriage. They met at Audubon Villa, 125 S. Broad St., where both are residents.
 •A 55-year-old scarlet oak tree, located on the front lawn of the Robert Bomberger residence, 604 S. Broad St., was struck by a bolt of lightning on Sunday, Sept. 9, about mid-morning, while its owners were safely in church.

The bolt may have deflected off an electrical pole, said Mrs. Bomberger, who noted that the tree was scheduled for surgery on Thursday afternoon.

The bolt struck the tree and exploded into a "huge, horrible flame of red and orange," according to eyewitness Dr. Arthur Griswold. "I thought I was back in World War II."
 •Employees of Parke-Davis division of Warner-Lambert Co. were informed that their plant at 600 W. Lincoln Ave., had been selected as one of the first 10 Warner-Lambert manufacturing facilities around the world to receive the company's award for excellence.

The Lititz plant is one of 107 Warner-Lambert operations located in various parts of the world.

•The Warriors finally opened their football season despite a number of changes in the date. Playing under lights at the Lebanon High Stadium, Warwick downed Lebanon Catholic 20-12.

•Larry Stoner of 315 Erb's Quarry Road has a couple of friends that he calls "Jimmy" and "Rosalynd." They hail from Georgia — Plains, Georgia, and used to live in the White House.

Stoner and former president Carter are on the board of Habitat for Humanity, a non-profit Christian housing ministry.

Carter's involvement has been fairly well publicized, especially his recent week in New York on a work crew, which included Stoner, who has been involved with the organization since 1972.

 •After learning last week of the Lititz Public Library's loss of 56 National Geographic magazines stolen from the files, some many people immediately responded to help out that the library has not only been able to replace the missing, but also to compile a second set of the magazines to keep in storage.

"We're so grateful to the public for its response to our loss," Mrs. Martha Cartwright, head librarian, said.

•Rosey's Ice Cream Plant and Cone Shop, at the rear of 527 Front St., which had practically become an institution in Lititz before it closed last year, is in the process of being sold, and will be replaced by a heating, air conditioning, plumbing and sheet metal shop.

Charles W. Tolley, 63 Front St., is buying the property and expects to move his business in "within the month," he said.

The Lititz Zoning Hearing Board granted Tolley a special exception Monday night to substitute his business for the former ice cream plant.

Because the plant is in a residential R1 District, and as the plant was an existing non-conforming use when zoning districts were established, zoning board action was necessary before the new shop could open.

•The remains of a once proud and useful smokestack that towered over Rothsville now lies fallen like an old Greek column. The stack was once a part of the vital pipeline operation that carried oil from West Virginia to New Jersey and the East.

The old pumping station has been purchased by developer Ronald Whitcraft, who recently gave orders for the demolition of the old chimney, estimated to have been about 130 feet high.

•C. David Kramer, Lititz, has been selected for Outstanding Young Man of America for 1975, and will appear in the annual biographical compilation. He lives with his wife Carol and son Chad at 116 W. Orange St.

 •Warwick Union School pupils returned to school on Wednesday morning, and there were more of them than estimated about a week ago.

Supervising Principal G. Marlin Spaid said he couldn't give definite enrollment figures as they were still registering pupils late yesterday, but said figures would be available at the end of the week.

•Building permits with a total value of $55,200 were issued in Warwick Township during August, it was reported by Ruth Wetzel, building permit clerk.

•The Lititz Public Library will reopen on Tuesday, Sept. 14, at its new location at 3 E. Orange St., after having been closed for eight months.

•The 218th anniversary service of Old Zion Church, Brickerville, will be held Sunday, Sept. 13 at 2:30 p.m. Rev. David Dunn, professor emeritus of the Lancaster Theological Seminary, will be the guest speaker.

 •A man suspected of having committed the daring holdup attempt at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Withers last Friday night was being held by Lancaster Police Friday.

Chief of Police Lloyd Hoffman last night declared that the suspect has not as yet been identified by the elderly couple. He was described as a former resident of Kissel Hill.

Brandishing a revolver, the man entered the Withers home at 413 South Broad Street, last Friday night and brusquely demanded money. Withers repeated several times that he did not have any money in the house, but this merely seemed to infuriate the gun-waving intruder.

The man was picked up by Lancaster police when his description closely fit that provided police by Mr. and Mrs. Withers.

•Approximately 1,500 eligible voters, or one out of every three in Lititz, were not registered to vote in the coming general election in November.

Workers for both major parties launched efforts to encourage them to register at the special registration day in the Lititz Fire House.

•The decision to purchase a new 1,000 gallon pumper at a cost of between $15,000 and $20,000 was made this week by the Lititz Fire Company.

Purchase of the equipment will bring the local company up to date by replacing the 1931 pumper now in use, it was explained.

•Dr. Charles E. Eshelman, local dentist, was elected president of the Lititz Community Chest at its reorganization meeting held here last week.

Of the funds raised in the annual Community Chest drive here, the Recreation Center received $1,500 and the Lititz Library $200.

•From Mid the Turmoil: Roy Rodgers is coming to Lititz to live! Yep, one of the PP&L fellows informed us this week that Roy Rodgers has purchased a home here from Ben Forney.

Oh yeh, we should add that this particular Roy Rodgers is a traveling salesman for Armstrong, not the singing cowboy!

 •Approximately $500 was cleared by members of the local Lions Club at the Labor Day celebration held in the Springs Park.

The famous Ringgold Band of Reading played before a crowd of more than a thousand persons.

While members of the club declared the proceeds from the affair will be used for civic purposes, some of the members of the club favored starting a fund for the construction of a public swimming pool in the vicinity of the park.

•Several dozen persons from this borough who work in Lancaster were late for work each morning this week as the result of the bus strike which succeeded in completely tying up Lancaster transportation.

Local businessmen reported their sales increased materially the day the bus strike began, and the local theater reported somewhat larger audiences than normal.

•A total of 853 boys and girls were enrolled in Lititz Schools when they opened this week.

•Special services will be held in commemoration of the 215th anniversary of the Emanuel Lutheran Church, Brickerville, on Sunday, Sept. 9.

The present building was erected in 1807-08. A steeple was erected in 1860, and the interior was remodeled in 1921.

•Lititz' mammoth Victory Parade to be held the opening night of the Farm Show, will include six divisions and nearly a dozen well-known bands. Norman Badorf will be Chief Marshal of the parade.

Great Connections owner Terry Thompson has expanded on the successes of the former Yerger Brothers company since the June takeover.

Great Connections revitalizes Yergers

1996 should be profitable for home office furniture business

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

When Terry Thompson's Great Connections ready-to-assemble (RTA) furniture company took over Yerger Brothers on June 3, he had expansion in mind, and that's what is happening as the 520 Front St. manufacturer looks toward 1996.

Yerger Brothers, a 79-year staple in Lititz' industrial zone, had struggled with debt during the last several years, and cut 50 jobs in February as part of a corporate realignment.

Negotiations between Yerger and Thompson began in January.

A native of England, Thompson came to the U.S. in 1980 and started Trendlines Inc. in Williamsport, Md., making mainly bath and storage furniture.

As the Maryland company grew, major stockholders pushed to extend impact in the market, and just prior to the Yerger Brothers takeover, Thompson bought a laminating company in Virginia.

"Yerger Brothers' cash position was tight, which was not the reason I contacted them. They wanted to deal and the time was right," Thompson said about early negotiations.

Thompson said Yerger Brothers was already doing quality work on a product similar to Trendlines, primarily home office furniture, which made the transition in ownership easier.

As Great Connections, the company continues to make the same products that Yerger Brothers manufactured for eight decades. All employees, with the exception of senior management, were kept on board, and plans for increased production is in the works as the company returns to financial health.

According to Thompson, since the advent of superstores and the surge in home computer usage, home office supplies has become the fastest growing market in the furniture industry. Great Connections currently has accounts with Staples and Office Max, hoping to add Office Depot sometime soon.

In 1996, Great Connections' 155 employees will be working on increasing the home office customer base and expanding display accounts with companies like Armstrong and Black & Decker. They are now rearranging the factory in order to meet these new quotas, and Thompson said that $2 million was recently spent on new machinery and reorganization.

"Our intentions are to stay here," Thompson said. "We signed a 10-year lease with Yerger Brothers." Looking toward the upcoming year, Thompson said, "We should be up 50 percent from 1994. At the moment we're very very strong. Orders are coming in. It's a challenge, but a good challenge."

Thompson commutes between Lititz and his home in Hagerstown, Md., where he lives with his wife Susan, an accountant at Trendlines. He has two children, Simon, who also works at Trendlines, and Andrea, a chemical engineer in Philadelphia.

Lititz dentist awarded for continued education

Richard M. Berg, D.D.S., received the Academy of General Dentistry's (AGD) prestigious fellowship award during the conference ceremony at the Academy of General Dentistry's 43rd annual meeting, July 16, in Baltimore.

The Academy of General Dentistry is an international organization with 32,000 general dentists, who as members are dedicated to continuing dental education in order to provide the best possible care to their patients. To earn the fellowship award, AGD dentists must complete more than 500 hours of continuing education course honors within 10 years and pass the fellowship exam.

Dr. Berg graduated from the University of Maryland Dental School in 1985, and completed a general practice residency in 1986 at Veterans Administration Hospital in Baltimore. He currently maintains a full-time private practice in Lititz.

Dr. Berg is a member of the Academy of General Dentistry, the American Dental Association, the Pennsylvania Dental Association, the Lancaster County Dental Association and the Paragon Study Club.

He and his wife, Pam, have two children: Michael and Christina. Dr. Berg and his family currently reside in Lititz.

Charitable group funding is available

The Lancaster County Foundation will have in excess of $600,000 to assist charitable organizations in Lancaster County in their efforts to enhance the quality of life for Lancaster County residents.

The Lancaster County Foundation is a major source of supplemental funding to the solicitations usually planned by local non profit organizations.

Awards will be made in early February 1996 from 1995 trust income. Only grant requests that have been received by Monday, Oct. 16, will be considered.

Those organizations that plan to submit a request for funding should write for a revised brochure outlining the request procedure to: The Lancaster County Foundation, 29 East King Street, Lancaster, PA 17602.

During the first quarter of 1995 the Lancaster County Foundation approved grants of $624,271.65.

Caron promotes Lititz man to senior office

Douglas D. Tieman, president and C.E.O. of the Caron Foundation, a leading chemical dependency treatment organization headquartered in Wernersville, Pa., today announced three senior executive appointments.

David A. Murdoch, of Lititz, one of the appointments, has been named Caron's vice president and chief financial officer and will be responsible for financial control and developing the overall corporate financial direction of the foundation.

Murdoch was previously assistant vice president with the Susquehanna Valley division of Meridian Asset Management, Inc. based in Lancaster. Prior to joining Meridian, he was a senior tax manager with Ernst & Young, Philadelphia. Murdoch holds a juris doctorate from the University of Pittsburgh School of Law.

The other two promotions were Joseph K. Laughniger, Jr. and John A. Conahan.

"I'm delighted to have the Caron Foundation leadership team assembled," said Tieman, "and I'm looking forward to working with this group of outstanding individuals as Caron moves into the future."

Vandalism reported in Warwick

Several incidents of vandalism and criminal mischief have been reported in Warwick Township recently.

•Boyice J. Church, 52, of the 100 block of Mayfield Drive, reported that sometime on Aug. 15 someone struck his 1995 Kenworth truck with an unknown blunt object, causing an estimated $1,500 damage to a Vortex Air Cleaner on the truck while parked in front of his residence.

•A softball-sized dent was reported in the hood of a red 1995 Chevrolet Beretta owned by Donna K. Robertson, 38, of the 100 block of Weidler Lane, which reportedly occurred between Aug. 20-22.

An investigation is continuing. •A 1986 Ford Aerostar owned by Stephen T. McGrath, 43, of the 100 block of Ashley Drive, Lititz, was vandalized sometime on Aug. 23 while parked in front of McGrath's residence.

At 8:30 a.m., McGrath said his wife noticed a tomato on her car, and Police investigate knife incident

An investigation is continuing with a 15-year-old Warwick Township boy who chased a 10-year-old boy and 9-year-old girl with a knife in the Twin Brook Mobile Home Park, near Rothsville, on Aug. 15. Warwick police said the mother of one of the children chased reported the incident, which occurred around 2 p.m.

The 15-year-old boy admitted to police that he chased the children, but added that the knife was not opened at the time.

while checking the rest of her car, discovered that someone had "decorated" the van with soap, mustard, egg and tomato.

•The storm window of the home of James Adams, 31, 700 block of East Millport Road, was damaged by a BB pellet sometime between Aug. 26-27.

Adams said his wife was laying on the sofa at about 2:30 p.m. when she noticed a piece of glass on the arm of the sofa. They then discovered slivers of glass on the window sill and that a section of their storm window, measuring 22 inches by 22 inches, had been shattered by a BB.

Anyone with information concerning these incidents should contact Warwick Police at 626-8882.

Teen charged for drinking

A 17-year-old Lititz area man was charged with underage drinking following a party at a house along the 2000 block of Main Street in Rothsville on Aug. 21.

Police said they received a call from a neighbor that a party was occurring at that house, and that the 17-year-old suspect was outside yelling and fighting.

When police arrived they found the juvenile passed out on the porch and surrounded by four others, all over 21 years old.

The teen admitted to consuming 6-8 beers, was transported to the police station, and officers attempted to contact his juvenile probation officer. He was released to the custody of his father.

Police Log

Guilty but mentally ill plea accepted for Lititz resident charged in sex assault spree

A Lititz area man charged in the assault of two women and a teen-age girl last November will serve a 21-60 year sentence after Lancaster County Judge Lawrence F. Stengel accepted his guilty but mentally ill plea.

Luther John Hadix, 36, of 271 W. Lexington Road, Lititz, will begin serving his sentence in a state hospital until doctors determine he is better and can serve the remainder of his time in the State Correctional Institution.

Hadix was charged with raping the teen-ager at gunpoint at his home on Nov. 1. She suffered multiple bruises from his striking and choking her in the assault.

He then drove to Lancaster city to pick up a woman on South Prince Street, took her to Penn Township, assaulted her and left her nude along the road.

A third woman picked up on his next trip to the city escaped by jumping from his moving truck. Police caught him on his third trip.

Hadix received a consecutive 5-20 year sentence for aggravated assault, 6-10 years for involuntary deviate sexual intercourse, and additional sentences for simple assault and corruption of minors, terroristic threats, unlawful restraint, simple assault, reckless endangerment and a 1-5 year sentence for not having a licence for two handguns found in his truck at the time of the incident.

The assaults occurred between 6-10:30 p.m.

Pedestrian hurt in crash

A pedestrian was slightly hurt after walking in front of a car while crossing Main Street in Rothsville on Aug. 22.

At 6:02 p.m., Warwick Township police said Rosanna F. Martin, 21, 1500 block of Rothsville Road, Lititz, was travelling west along the 2100 block of Main Street in Rothsville when Shannen Pullar, first block of Twinbrook Road, Rothsville, stepped onto the roadway to cross the street.

According to witnesses, Pullar looked west when she began to cross, but didn't look east and walked into the path of Martin's 1989 Pontiac sedan and was struck.

Pullar was transported to Lancaster General Hospital for X-rays and was released.

Several Warwick thefts reported

Several thefts have been reported in Warwick Township to police recently.

•On Aug. 18, a wallet was reported missing and possibly stolen from a pick-up truck parked along the 600 block of Owl Hill Road.

Charles Hughes, 57, of Williamstown, N.J. told police he tossed his wallet into the center console of his Ford pickup and went to the home of his brother, Harry Foster, 56, of the 600 block of Owl Hill Road.

The following day, when he went to retrieve the wallet, which contained credit cards and about $200, he discovered it was missing.

Hughes said the driver's door of the pick-up was locked, but the passenger's door was not.

•On Aug. 22, John R. Kreiner, 27, of the first block of Edgewood Drive, Lititz, reported several tools and equipment stolen from his business, J&R Mobile Home Service, located at his residence.

He reported stolen: A Honda air compressor, small Honda generator, a Wide Crown staple gun, a pin gun, a Mekita cordless drill and batteries and a tool box. Estimated value of the theft is $2,580.

He last saw the items around 10 p.m. the night before, and discovered them missing from a shed located on the west side of his house about 10 a.m. the following morning. The shed was not locked, police said.

•Stereo equipment and compact discs valued at $2,200 was stolen from a vehicle owned by John Lutz, 18, on Aug. 22 while parked in front of his residence along the first block of Snyder Hill Road.

Police said the items taken included two Kenwood three-way speakers, a Sony AM/FM stereo, a Kicker 558 box, two four-inch round speakers, and about 100 compact discs.

The same window was removed from a car owned by Gary Lutz, 24, parked at the same location. Nothing was reportedly removed from the vehicle.

•Another car parked along Snyder Hill Road was broken into on Aug. 23.

A wallet containing $35, credit cards and other items was taken from a car owned by Craig E. Journey, 25, while parked in front of his residence along the 500 block of Snyder Hill Road.

Journey noticed his car door was open at about 7 a.m. that morning, and noticed his wallet was missing. He said the passenger door was unlocked.

•Sometime between Aug. 23-25, signs were reportedly stolen from the Lititz Pike Burger King parking lot. Police said someone took a speed bump sign and a handicapped parking sign, each valued at $50.

•A bicycle was stolen from outside the White Swan Hotel on Aug. 26 at about 1:50 a.m.

Police said a witness saw a white male, thin build with shoulder-length blonde hair, wearing a blue shirt and dark pants, take the bike owned by Webb L. Keath, 36, of the first block of Front Street.

The bicycle was a black Diamond Back 18-speed mountain bike. Keath said it was purchased for $300, but with accessories it is worth about $1,700. Accessories include gray saddle bags and lights. Clothing and other items were in the saddle bags at the time of the theft.

Anyone with information concerning any of these incidents should contact Warwick Police at 626-8882.

Accidents reported in Warwick Twp.

A 31-year-old Lititz man escaped serious injury following a one-car crash along Route 772 near Cinder Hill Road on Aug. 19.

Warwick Township police said Dwight David Palm, 100 block of Front Street, Lititz, was travelling west on Route 772 at 1:50 a.m. and came around a curve when he saw another vehicle partially in his lane.

Palm said he moved to the right and lightly struck a guard rail, but over-compensated and swerved to the left, crossed the roadway and struck an embankment on the south side of the road, where his 1989 Lincoln Towncar came to a rest.

The vehicle had to be pulled from the embankment, but was driven from the scene.

•On Aug. 22 at 2:42 p.m., Warwick police said Kay E. Wenrich, 60, of Reading, was travelling east along Owl Hill Road, and Patricia A. Bolbach, 29, of Lancaster, was stopped at the intersection of Owl Hill Road and Landis Valley Road.

Police said Bolbach did not see Wenrich's 1990 Mercury Sable approaching and pulled out, causing Wenrich to strike Bolbach's 1977 Ford Maverick.

Cash stolen from dry cleaner at Warwick Center

Two bank bags containing over $800 were stolen from Clean Enterprises, 30 Copperfield Drive, between Aug. 26-27.

Warwick Police Officer Rick Rhinier was on patrol at 10:15 a.m. on Aug. 27 when he observed the front door to the dry cleaning business at the Warwick Center was pryed open, with woodchips on the sidewalk.

He notified Patricia Overly, 39, an employee at the store, who arrived at the scene and said two money bags, one with $680.49 and another with $120 were missing.

Anyone with information concerning this incident should contact Warwick Police at 626-8882.

Trespass charged

Two people who violated an order from HDC on Church Street in Rothsville to stay off their property were cited for defiant trespass on July 16, police reported recently.

Warwick Township Police said at 7:50 p.m., they received a complaint that Sandra Marie Young, 52, of Stevens, was sitting in the picnic area of the property, violating an Oct. 14, 1994 notification to stay off the property or face prosecution.

After being cited by police, she informed police that William Getz, 40, of the 600 block of East Main Street, Lititz, was in the building at the time.

Getz, who police said has also been issued a warning letter, was cited for defiant trespass as well.

Versatile staff makes Shear Shoppe a cut above the rest

The friendly and versatile staff at Shear Shoppe, 3 E. Orange St., Lititz, is Mary Shelley-Weaver, Kelly Tucker, Patty Irwin, Nancy Kulp, Cindy Clawson and Bena Bucher.

With 68 years of combined experience in the hair styling and beauty field, the six stylists at Shear Shoppe, 3 E. Orange St., Lititz, are prepared to cope with any situation.

The Shear Shoppe crew is made up of owner Mary Shelley-Weaver, Kelly Tucker, Patty Irwin, Bena Bucher, Nancy Kulp and Cindy Clawson.

Mary and her team of professionals have been in business in Lititz since 1976, and believe that the warm, friendly, laid-back atmosphere at the shoppe makes it a unique place for both the customers and employees.

In addition to full hair, makeup and nail treatments that can accommodate a range of clients from the individual to entire wedding parties, Mary and the staff often enjoy a warm cup of specialty coffee with their patrons.

Mary, who is also an avid reader, frequently lends out books, which is appropriate since the shoppe served as the town's public library for a short spell in the early 1960s.

Mary said she is also proud of the broad range of clients that come to the shoppe.

"Our oldest client is 90," she said, "And we just did a 3-month-old boy."

Betty Bennetch, of Denver, has been a long time customer at the Shear Shoppe.

"I tried other places and kept coming back here," she said, "So I just quit trying the others. She (Mary) always makes sure that I'm happy."

Mary added, "We have a real concern for all our customers and we stand behind our work."

Mary also noted how tough it is to find a team of co-workers that function this well.

Tucker is known for her bubbly personality and consistently excellent results. Irwin brings high energy and a "never too much trouble to handle spur of the moment requests" attitude to the group. Kulp excels in foil highlighting, Bucher works with special occasion looks like wedding parties and proms, and Clawson is recently certified in all aspects of nail care.

"The staff is so versatile," added Mary. "In fact, I'd say at this point the shoppe feels very complete."

For ideas on everything from facials to coloring to mini-waxing, call the Shear Shoppe for an appointment at 626-2335.

The salon is open Tuesday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and limited hours on Monday.

It's the only shoppe in town where you can get a coffee, friendly conversation, a good book and a great style or beauty treatment.

Ban Quail?

Quail question leads Council to consider animal ordinance

JILL IVEY

Record Express Staff

Is Manheim Borough Council going to the birds?

One might think so after their meeting on Aug. 29.

Last month, quail belonging to the Brian Schatz family on West High Street were ordered to be removed from the property after a neighbor complained. Schatz and his family were present at last week's meeting to ask council for an amendment to the ordinance, which states that residents cannot keep the birds.

Schatz presented council with a petition containing 60 names of friends and neighbors who are in favor of the family keeping the quail. Schatz said that the neighbors he had talked to all complimented him on the cleanliness of the cages.

"The neighbors don't see why the borough is asking us to get rid of them," said Schatz.

According to Schatz, the complaint was made by a neighbor who the family has had numerous problems with in the past.

Council President Thomas Showers said the Schatz's live in a semi-detached house, and that the neighbor who made the complaint lives in the adjacent house. He added that the properties are separated by a six-foot high fence, and that the neighbor cannot see the birds. Showers had stopped by the property to look at the pens prior to the August meeting.

"There are essentially two pens that take up a space 10 feet by 10 feet," said Showers. "It was very neat and clean, and there was not much noise."

Zoning Officer Rob Stoner said the ordinance provides that domestic pets can be bought in pet stores, and are not farm animals. Stoner said he is looking at what he can do for the family and thinks that only the definition of the ordinance should be changed. He cautioned council in how they approach it.

"We must watch what we do so that we don't open the door for animals we don't want," he said.

Council member Rodger Dourte agreed that the ordinance is missing the point in defining what type of animal is considered a pet.

"Zoning should address problems with animals that are nuisances because of smell and noise," Dourte said, "not by the type of animal."

Schatz said that it is an educational experience in watching the eggs hatch, and he wishes to continue that each year. He added that they do not keep all the quail. They release some of the birds at their cabin in Perry county.

Council member Janet Kelly remembered raising a chicken as a 4-H project when she was younger, and agreed that it is great for kids to be involved in raising animals.

The council members all agreed that they would help the Schatz family as much as possible, but according to Stoner, changing the ordinance could take up to four months.

He added that the process could be expediated by going to the county before going to the Manheim Planning Commission. He also said that a public hearing must be held in order for the neighbor to voice any complaints.

The quail are currently being kept by a friend of the Schatz's who lives north of the borough. Schatz said that for now it is not a problem to keep the birds there, but when winter comes the birds require more care. He said that because the colder temperatures freeze the water, he must give the birds fresh water at least three times a day.

Stoner said that he would work with Schatz to get the wording of the ordinance changed before sending it to the planning commission.

"I apologize for the length of time," said Showers. "We will try to help you if we can."

In other council news:

•There will be no increase in water/sewer rates as of Sept. 1, according to Showers. A notice will be posted for 15 days in the Borough office.

•Council is looking at possible fines for people who the borough must repeatedly tell to clean-up their properties. Currently, the people are given notice, and then have a certain amount of time in which the property must be cleaned. If they comply, no fine is charged.

•Borough Manager James Williams would like council to review the results of the Route 72/501 Bypass survey.

According to Showers, it will be years before the proposed road becomes a reality because currently, Route 72/501 is third on the list of county roads that need help.

Route 30 is top on the list, followed by Route 23. Showers said that even though it could be years, council should keep working on the situation.

•Williams recently received information from the Lancaster County Emergency Management Agency concerning a program from the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency to look at ways to minimize flooding.

Federal funds would cover 75 percent of the cost. The remaining 25 percent would come from local monies. Williams said that he contacted the Penn Township supervisors to ask for a possible joint effort to clean out Chickies Creek.

Community News

Little pig, little pig, this pig found freedom and is wandering in and all about the Penryn area.

The 40 to 50 pound pig has been seen at Shreiner's barn, on Penryn Road (forcing the ambulance to stop) and behind the home of Paul and Barbara Rhodes. The pig is white in color and does not hurry away from human voices. Wonder if this pig escaped on his way to market?

Elm Country Fair

Marc Bolich, manager of the Elm Country Market, 656 W. Newport Road, announces a fair will be held on the premises on Friday, Sept. 8 from the hours of 4 to 8 p.m.

Featured will be a petting zoo, including a zebra. For the children a bouncing castle, games, food and a clown. Ample easy parking. Come and enjoy the many happenings in Elm on Friday, Sept. 8.

White Oak Church of the Brethren

Marvin Shenk and Caleb Kreider led Sunday morning worship with Luther Patches and Carl Goff leading worship at the Rhodes Grove Church.

The congregation welcomes Brian Hosler home from a year of service in Grenada.

Sympathy from the congregation is extended to Helen Eshleman and family on the passing of her husband, Mark Eshleman.

Sept. 9 is the date of the annual meeting of the BRF which will be held at the White Oak Church at 10 a.m.

Special note of interest: the Secret Sisters luncheon date is Oct. 8.

Congregational baby congratulations are extended to John and Joy Zimmerman on the birth of a son, Austin Cole, born on Aug. 30.

Registration has begun at Salem PREP

Salem PREP Nursery School, 140 N. Penn St., Manheim, is now accepting registrations of Gyntot, You and Me, and Kindergym.

Gyntot is a program for children (18-24 months) and a parent to experience large movement exercises, games, climbing and parachute fun.

You and Me is a program for children two years old and a parent to participate in art, music, stories, play and movement.

Both fall programs offer a special time for children and parents to have a good time with each other and meet new friends.

The Kindergym program is a one-day-a-week program for children who will be three years of age by Jan. 1, 1996. Kindergym starts in January and includes activity centers, stories, songs, fingerplays, large movement, singing games and outdoor play.

For information on times and cost of toddler and nursery school programs, call Marianne Kopp, director, at 665-5955, or pick up an application from the bulletin board at the Manheim library.

Also, remember children do not always obey the rules of safety, so please assume responsibility and think for two, the other person and you. Thank you.

Jerusalem United Church of Christ

You are invited to a Twilight Hymn Sing bonfire and fellowship time this Saturday, Sept. 9, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The location is behind the church.

Bring lawn chairs for seating comfort and a stick to roast marshmallows. Enjoy this time of singing and fellowship which is sponsored by the Spiritual Life Committee.

Sept. 17, Jerusalem church will celebrate Harvest Home.

Altar flowers honored the 4th birthday of grandson, Jared Hollinger. The flowers were presented by Jared's grandparents, Harold and Verna Grube.

Assisting in worship were: Joyce Zeigler - organist, Danielle Barnett - acolyte and consistory greeter - Betty Jo Heisey.

Special summer music was a solo sung by Ruth Ober titled, "Pass Me Not."

St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church

St. Paul enjoyed a worship in the grove this past Sunday.

Servants to volunteer are needed for record keeping for the Sunday School, flower orders and flower deliveries, and to schedule nursery aides. The Pastor, Mark T. English, will answer your questions.

The Women of St. Paul are meeting and will discuss literacy at the Sept. 19 meeting, which will be held at 7 p.m.

Assisting in worship were: Lector Brett English, Acolyte Patrick Conway, Ushers Jeff and Cindy Conway and the communion Assistant Jeff Conway.

On Sept. 10, St. Paul will celebrate Rally Day. The 4th grade students and new beginners will receive Bibles. Other students will also receive small items. Class photos will be taken.

Please remember those who need healing and strength for their comfort, not only those who are members of St. Paul, but all those of your acquaintance who need the comfort of prayer and encouragement.

VFWA honors scouts

The Manheim VFW Ladies Auxiliary Post 5956 recently honored two eagle scouts with Eagle Scout Certificates, recognizing their accomplishment in achieving the Eagle Scout rank.

Honored were Jeffrey S. Seese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Seese, 175 N. Linden St., Manheim; and Eric M. Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Steele, 576 Fruitville Pike, Manheim.

Both young men are members of Troop 307 in Manheim.

Seese has served as assistant scout master, troop guide and senior patrol leader. As a Cub Scout, he received the Arrow of Light.

His Eagle project was to renovate the basement of the Manheim Ambulance Association. The renovation included cleaning, painting and installing new lighting.

A graduate of Manheim Central and honor student, he attended summer classes at Penn State University and will become a full-time student majoring in geo-environmental engineering. He is a member of Salem United Methodist Church, Manheim.

Steele has served as assistant Scout Master, senior patrol leader and troop historian. He received the Arrow of Light as a Cub Scout and the Order of the Arrow as a Boy Scout.

His eagle project was to reopen and clean trails at the Hungry Hook Nature Conservancy, north of Manheim.

He is a recent graduate of Manheim Central and honor roll student. Attending summer classes at Penn State University, he will become a full-time student majoring in computer science. He is a member of Birmingham Friends Meeting, West Chester, and attends Salem United Methodist Church, Manheim.

Mrs. Almeda Brackbill, youth activities chairman, made the presentations under the Youth Activities Program sponsored by the National, Department of Pa., District 9 and Lancaster County Council Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary. Assisting in the presentation were Catherine Beers, community activities chairman and historian; and Anna Mary Peters, president.

Teen charged for stealing

A 17-year-old Warwick High School senior was charged with shoplifting after taking a pack of cigarettes from the Rothsville Uni-Mart on Aug. 22.

Warwick police said at 2:15 a.m. the Rothsville juvenile entered the store and took a pack of Marlboro cigarettes valued at $2.35 and left without paying when the clerk refused to sell him the pack.

After receiving a call from the clerk, police approached the suspect, who told police he was coming from a friend's house and denied taking the pack of cigarettes.

The police officer told him to come in the car to the Uni-Mart to clear up the matter and refused. He was then handcuffed and searched, and a pack of Marlboros was found.

He was taken to the store, where the clerk identified him and matched the serial number of the cigarettes with the store's records.

The juvenile was cited for retail theft and released.

Bill Saylor to host program debating Affirmative Action

The Lancaster County Association for Human Resource Management has announced its third annual Legal Update '95 program slated for Sept. 12 at the Lancaster Host Resort.

A talk show segment, starting at 1:30 p.m. and moderated by Bill Saylor, a former broadcaster with WGAL Channel 8, will present the perspectives of a panel of employees and companies affected by affirmative action in employment.

The program is intended to reveal the emotional, social and economic impact on employees and companies involved. Specific employer and employee identification will remain confidential.

The program will be a "Phil Donahue" type format, with a panel of five to seven employees and company executives; two labor attorneys interpreting the law with respect to employer and employee viewpoints; and Saylor will stimulate and elicit lively discussion based on prepared questions.

School's Open!

It's back-to-school time and those bright yellow school buses are once again on the roadways. In the interest of safety, we want to inform both motorists and school children on safety tips that could save a life. Please remember the following:

PARENTS

- ✓ Flashing amber lights are a pre-warning that a bus is preparing to stop. You also must prepare to stop. It's the law.
- ✓ Flashing red lights and/or extended stop arms mean that the bus is stopped to either load or unload school children. You must stop.
- ✓ There is only one situation in which a motorist approaching a school bus displaying flashing red lights may pass. A motorist may pass a school bus when approaching the bus from the front on the opposite side of the road if the road is divided by a physical barrier such as a fence, median strip or railing.
- ✓ Motorists approaching from behind the school bus must stop.
- ✓ You must stop at least 10 feet from the school bus when the red lights are flashing.
- ✓ You may proceed after the red lights stop flashing. Do not proceed until the children have reached a safe place.
- ✓ If you fail to stop for a school bus, you will:
 1. Get an automatic 60 day suspension of your driver's license.
 2. Accumulate 5 points on your driving record.
 3. Pay a $100 fine.
- ✓ Remember, state law also requires buses to stop at railroad crossings. Please be patient.
- ✓ Be sure to dress your child properly for inclement weather. The bus could be late and your child may have to wait longer than normal.
- ✓ If it is dark and rainy, dress your child in bright clothes so that he or she is easily seen.
- ✓ Be sure that your child leaves the house early to get to the school bus stop on time.

STUDENTS

- ✓ Leave home early enough to arrive at your bus stop on time.
- ✓ Wait for your bus in a safe place—well off the roadway.
- ✓ Enter your bus in an orderly manner, and take your seat.
- ✓ Follow the instructions of your school bus driver or bus patrol.
- ✓ Remain in your seat while the bus is in motion.
- ✓ Keep your head and arms inside the bus at all times.
- ✓ Keep the aisle clear at all times.
- ✓ Remain quiet and orderly.
- ✓ Be courteous to your school bus driver and fellow passengers.
- ✓ Be alert to traffic when leaving the bus.
- ✓ Walk to the bus stop—avoid asking your parents to drive you there.

Preacher

 larly on Sunday morning, but how we serve God the rest of the week. Worship isn't simply ceremonial but is adoring and obedient love for God shown through loving service to each other. Since worship means the service of God, every kindly act performed in God's name is an act of worship. The question then of serving other gods is not only an issue of ceremonial piety, but goes to the heart of how we conduct and live our lives.

Like the Israelites who entered a land dominated by other gods, we too live in a society which is essentially pagan. To deny that reality simply speaks to the degree in which we are immersed in culture at large. Our society is no longer sympathetic to Christian beliefs, at least to the extent it was, in say, the Middle Ages. Today there needs to be a conscious decision to become a Christian because so many other options are available. In the Middle Ages there were specific personal disciplines practiced which strengthened character, cultivated independence from physical and emotional needs, and encouraged self-control. Today, money, sex and power set the standards for achievement and excellence. The continuing saga of Harding/Kerriigan is but one current example of those standards. Instead of being formed and molded by traditional Christian disciplines centered in the Bible, we are from our earliest days formed by television; by the sports, entertainment and advertising industries; by the shopping malls and by the streets. The market forces behind these institutions are not interested in ours, or our children's, moral, social and intellectual development. Christians see power in a crucified Jesus; popular culture defines power as having the biggest weapon, or as winning in athletic and commercial combat. A Christian learns about hope from the Resurrection; our culture sees hope in the next generation of automobiles. The pagan gods around us are many and always in contention with the message of Christ.

At one point in her history, when Israel worshipped at the sanctuary at Shechem, all objects belonging to an alien cult had to be disclosed by the community and then ritually buried, in order that the first commandment might be constantly made relevant to the present. It was acknowledged that the situation in which Israel had to remain loyal to the first commandment was constantly changing. Usages which might have been regarded as innocuous in one period had to be sacrificed in another to meet the radical and severe demands made by this commandment.

There is possibly no point at which our understanding of an obedience to the first commandment is more put to the test than when we discuss America. When we label America as Christian, or infused with Christian values; when we discuss America as specially blessed by God; when we think of America as having a divinely ordained purpose; when we cannot distinguish American values and goals from Biblical or Christian ones, then America too has become a god of the land. Eugene Wehrle writes, "Instead of seeing that Christian faith is one of the sources of democratic tradition we seem to believe that democratic traditions are the basis of Christian faith. Since democracy protects and permits the freedom of religious expression in our country, therefore democracy must be preserved. Democracy is seen as the patron of Christianity. God therefore, could not get along without the American expression of the democratic way of life. God needs democracy. What has happened is that God has been made subservient to the American way of life." (end of quote)

As people of faith we will continually be challenged and prodded by God to discern the signs of other gods in our midst. Often that task will be difficult and fraught with tension. I might even suggest that when the time comes when we do not sense ourselves at tension with some aspect of what our culture calls important, we might very well already be immersed in it. The Biblical evidence is that Israel struggled throughout her whole history, and continues to struggle, with the conflict and consequences of this commandment's call. We should expect no less for ourselves.

Moravians dedicate book

Lititz Moravian Congregation will dedicate the new Moravian Book of Worship at both the 8 and 10:30 a.m. services on Sunday, Sept. 10.

Dr. Robert Burcaw, a member of the hymnal committee and husband of the Rev. Dorothy Burcaw, who recently joined the Lititz Moravian pastoral staff, will give an introduction and overview of this new worship resource.

All musical selections for the services will be taken from the hymnal. More than eight years in the planning and preparation, the Moravian Book of Worship replaces the 1969 Hymnal of the Moravian Church and will be used throughout the northern and southern provinces of the Moravian Church in North America. It contains general liturgies, topical liturgies, season liturgies for the church year, and over 600 hymns. The strong missionary emphasis of the Moravian Church worldwide is reflected in the wide variety of hymns, songs and canticles, including "Jesus Loves Me" in eight different languages.

Most of the Books of Worship have been purchased by special memorial contributions. A group of calligraphers from the congregation, coordinated by Mary Ribaud, prepared 700 dedication bookplates which have been placed in the new hymnals, naming those who have donated funds and those who are honored or memorialized by the donations.

Also on Sunday, the Christian Education Committee will observe Promotion Sunday during the 9 a.m. Sunday School hour. Bibles will be presented to all third grade students. The worship program, "Stepping Out with Jesus," will be led by the recently organized sixth and seventh grade dance and drama youth group.

Moravian Manor schedules seminar

The Joy of Hearing will be the seminar topic at Moravian Manor on Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 10 a.m. in Steinman Hall.

William Gardner, audioprosthologist, will address various issues about hearing including how to communicate with people who are hearing impaired.

This program is open to the public and registration is not necessary. For additional information contact Diane Ford at 626-0214.

First Stage

theater used the Mountville VFW for their office and storage space. Then, in November 1990 the whole operation moved into the Mulberry Art Studios, on Mulberry Street in Lancaster.

They opened with "Little Women" which was the first of many on a long list of original adaptations.

"Craig wrote it on a typewriter," said Warfel. "We didn't even have a computer."

It was at the Mulberry Studios that the theater really came into its own. In December 1991, they staged their first show with original music, "The Littlest Angel." Then in 1992, their first full musical, "Rumpelstiltskin" was performed. According to Warfel, he and fellow musician Mark Smith wrote the music for the famous fairy tale.

It was that same year that the duo wrote their first collaborative effort, "James and the Giant Peach."

"Scott wrote the music and lyrics," said Davis. "And I wrote the script."

According to Warfel, Davis has written about 80 percent of what they have done.

"I just realized that at one time, I wrote 17 consecutive shows," said a somewhat surprised Davis.

According to Davis, he started writing his own shows because the shows he saw in catalogs were not the quality he wanted for the theater.

"They had weak dialogue, the shows ran 20 minutes, or they were disjointed," said Davis. "The only option was to do our own."

As the theater grew, the trio realized they would need a larger space. According to Davis, they could not implement all the programs they wanted to because of scheduling problems. So when their three-year lease expired, they started their search.

Warfel said that they had several criteria for the new theater to meet. First, they wanted a building that was exclusively theirs. Second, they really wanted a location in the suburbs where the majority of their audiences come from, and third, they wanted a building with plenty of parking.

"We looked at well over 100 locations in a search that lasted two and a half years," said Warfel.

It was then that they stumbled across the lease sign for their current building, which used to be office space for Farmer's First Bank.

"We contacted Farmer's First and negotiated a 10-year contract," said Warfel.

"Our realtor, Doris Moyer, was a huge help," added Davis.

According to Warfel, their last show at Mulberry Street was "The Continuing Adventures of Amelia Bedelia" in June 1994. They had their zoning hearing in September 1994, and two months later, opened their first show in Lititz, "Little House on the Prairie."

According to Warfel, the grand opening did not go quite as smoothly as they had hoped.

"The curtain time was 7 p.m., and at 7 p.m. 99 people there for the sold-out performance were in the lobby being entertained by the sound of three drills installing their seats for the evening," said Warfel.

"Everyone was running around like crazy; we had fathers of cast members, who had been dressed up, in their t-shirts helping out."

The seats did finally get installed, and according to Warfel, at 7:35 p.m. their first show opened at its present 15 North Lane location.

"But the producers say that now when attending opening night performances, all will be ready on time," added Davis.

In addition to family theater, this past summer, Warfel and Davis decided to do something for an older demographic, and the theater temporarily became the Lititz Springs Summer Theater.

In July, they entertained audiences with "Arsenic and Old Lace," and in August, they had audiences snapping their fingers to "Tapestry," a revue of Carol King music.

According to Davis, First Stage also holds workshops at various schools throughout the county. The workshops offer a multitude of theater-related programs from acting and dance to set construction, costumes, and make-up. At the end of the series of workshops, the students are invited to special weekday matinee performances of the current production.

"It's good because people who don't get exposure to theater, have that opportunity with the workshops," said Davis. "Also, using the Arts in Education curriculum, we've conducted theater workshops for kids in special education through I.U. 13."

First Stage also offers classes at the theater in areas such as auditioning, make-up, acting, scene study, improvisation, and musical theater.

Davis said that they find a lot of their talent for the mainstage productions in their classes. He added that the classes are good even if the person never wants to participate in a mainstage performance.

"The person will still learn public speaking and will also learn to stand in front of a group, which no matter what field a person chooses in life, will be beneficial," said Davis.

Warfel said that in the future, the theater would like to be more involved in community projects in addition to expanding their mainstage series.

"With the success of 'Tapestry', we decided to do more musical revues," said Warfel. "This year we will do a Christmas music show."

To get more involved within the business community, the theater is hosting a Lititz Business Club mixer on Sept. 28.

Davis said that they are also planning to put a catalog together of their shows so that other groups can perform them.

"We appreciated the support of the Lititz Community so far, and we hope that the people who have not been here yet will come out to check-out Lititz's own live theater," said Warfel.

"Come out and see First Stage Theater as it hosts its first annual Community Open House Saturday, Sept. 9 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Admission is free.

The theater is located at 15 North Lane, one block north of the square, behind Farmer's First Bank. Come in to tour the theater, sign up for prize drawings, and see how you can get involved on stage or behind the scenes. Entertainment and refreshments will be provided.

First Stage announces fall season

First Stage Theatre goes "back to the books" for its fall 1995 season. On the bill are the classics "Anne of Green Gables," "Little Men," and "Cinderella."

Performance times are Fridays at 7 p.m., Saturdays at 1-4 p.m., and Sundays at 2 p.m.

All performances are at the company's theatre at 15 North Lane, Lititz, one block north of the Lititz Square (behind Farmer's First Bank).

Kicking off the Fall is the return of a First Stage favorite, "Anne of Green Gables," playing Sept. 15 through Oct. 8. Based on the story by L.M. Montgomery, this adaptation by Craig Davis was hailed by critics as "making the story ring true, and making both children and adults laugh and cry."

"Little Men" opens Oct. 13 and plays through Nov. 5. This story follows the high spirited Jo March from the "Little Women" series, who now must contend with some high spirits at the boys school she and her husband run. Based on the book by Louisa Mae Alcott, the cast includes Jeremiah Miller, Mark Caulkin, David Moyer, and Kelsey Dintaman-Gingrich.

Rounding out the fall '95 season is the First Stage original musical adaptation of "Cinderella." Written and composed by the team that brought you "Little House on the Prairie," this production features all the favorite characters and magical transformations found in this classic tale.

Tickets for all productions are $8 per person. Two-show packages are available for $15, and three-show subscriptions are $21.

Group rates are available for all shows, call for details. To make reservations or for more information, call the First Stage Theatre Box Office at 626-7848.

Fry's Pontiac

The legacy of one of America's oldest continually operating single-line Pontiac dealership, built up over eight decades by William B. and his wife Emma Janette, will be auctioned off to the highest bidders on Oct. 24.

Fry-McKennon, former president of the company, said she wishes things could have transpired differently, but that the memory of her parents' accomplishments will never be taken away.

According to Fry-McKennon, her family's Pontiac dealership was one of longest running as a single franchise.

William B. and Emma designed the original building at 519 E. Main St. in 1928, living and working at the same location.

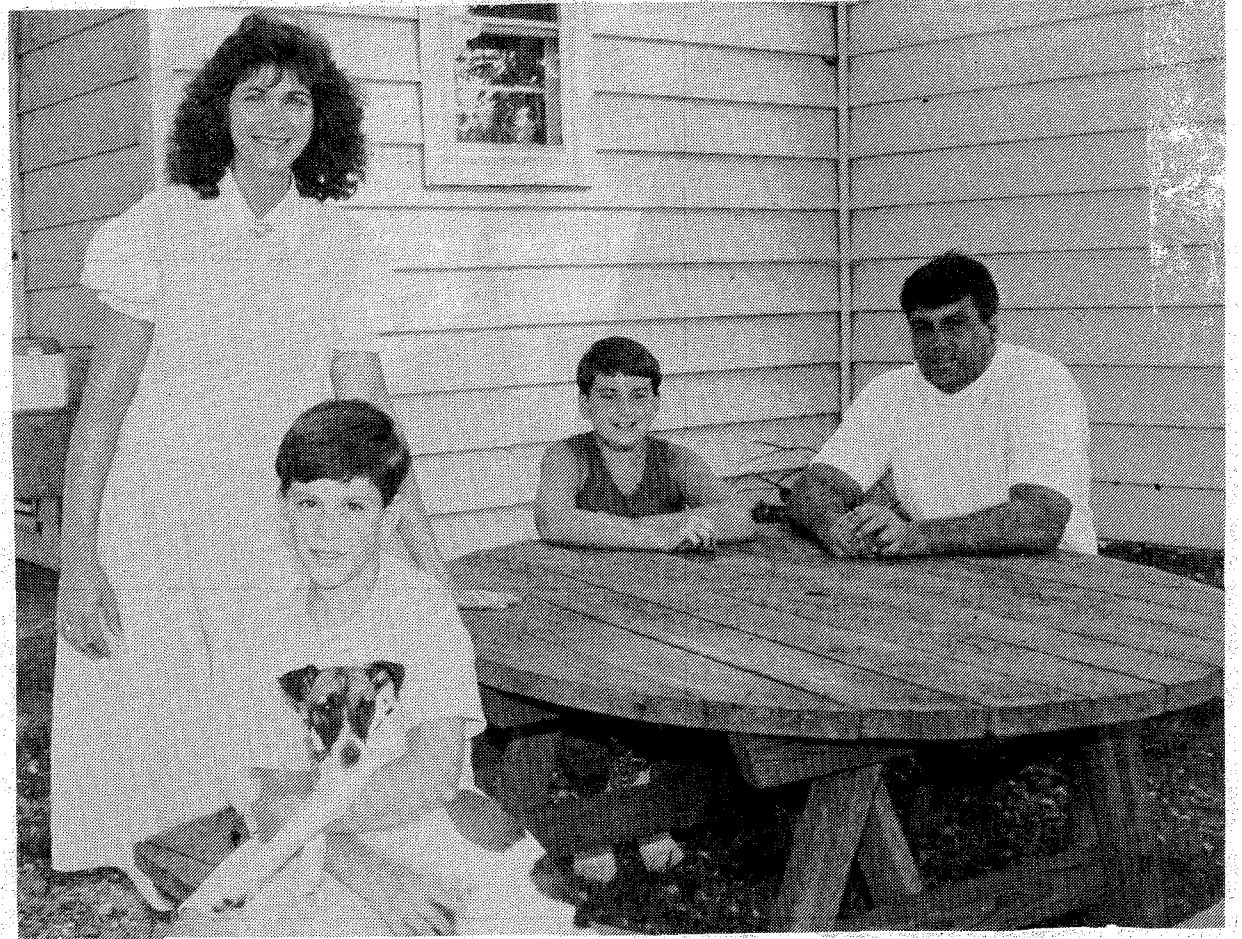

"At that time it was more like a country store," recalled McKennon. Her parents started by selling cars out front and shoes and Kelvinator appliances in the back. Her mom also made root beer and sold pies.

William B. expanded the business at three times during his career. He added the service department at 521 E. Main St. in the early 1940s. In 1967, he built the newest building, which houses the showroom floor, at age 70, at 529 E. Main St.

"It was his intention that it should never be sold and it should be an ongoing enterprise," remembered McKennon of her father's long-term dreams. "It is a monument of all their hard work."

Her father graduated from Lancaster Business College in 1926 and took several business courses at Penn State College.

In addition, Emma Janette was first graduate from ETFA (Evangelical Teacher Training Association) of Wheaton College in Illinois. Courses were held at Moravian Church. Now, the Pontiac legacy in Lititz is

This picnic table, placed only a few feet from the house, is where the fox recently attacked two children. Seated in the front is Jordan, 8, who was bitten numerous times on the hand and leg. With him are his parents, Cindy and Nevin Myer, and brother Josiah, 10.

Fox attack spurs rabies alert

LOU ANN GOOD

Special to the Record

It was 9:15 p.m. on a warm summer evening about three weeks ago, and Nevin and Cindy Myer's 8-year-old son Jordan was playing with several friends at a picnic table only a few feet from the back door of their Lititz home.

When Jordan felt something furry brush against his legs, he reached down to give his dog a pat on the head.

Instead of a warm nuzzle from his dog, Jordan was bitten, not once but numerous times.

Screaming, Jordan and several of his friends jumped up on the picnic table to escape what they thought at first was a "wild dog."

Instead of a dog, it was a fox, which turned on 4-year-old Jesse Ambrose standing nearby.

The children's screams brought parents on the scene. After pelting the fox with stones and sticks, the adults were able to free their children from the fox's assault.

Although the fox escaped, two children and three adults needed to receive shots to prevent them from contracting rabies.

The series of shots are not as painful as they once were, but are done in a series of four or five and are expensive.

Mr. Myer said that the shots cost about $1,000 per person.

"Rabies can be spread just from touching the saliva or cleaning out the wound of a person who was bitten by a rabid animal," he said.

For that reason, three adults in addition to the two children who were bitten needed the shots.

Although medical treatment alleviates humans from developing rabies, it does not counteract the fear caused by the attack.

"I have never seen children as fearful as that night," Mrs. Myer said. "We immediately prayed that the children would have peace."

"We are grateful that our sons are dealing well with the experience. But children deal with fear in different ways. Some of the children that were here are waking every night with nightmares."

The Myer home is bordered by busy highways of routes 501 and 322. A Christmas tree farm sets in back of the Myer home.

"We had heard a fox den was found there but we have lived here for 12 years and never saw a fox before that night," Mr. Myer said.

"After that night, the boys were a bit fearful of going outside to play, but I told them to remember the many nice days they had playing outside and weren't bitten instead of the one time the fox came."

The bite marks and scratches on Jordan's arms, hands, and legs are almost healed and he and his 10-year-old brother Josiah are again playing outside.

Jordan said that worse than being bitten himself was seeing the little 4-year-old being bitten.

"He got it worse than I did. I wish that it had only been me and not him too," Jordan said.

According to Richard McGarvey, spokesperson for the Bureau of Health, there have been 355 rabies cases confirmed in the state so far this year. Eighteen have been confirmed in Lancaster County.

These numbers do not include the incident with Jordan and his friends because the fox was never found and diagnosed.

Although it cannot be proven that the fox had rabies, it most likely did because of its strange behavior, authorities stated.

Ordinarily, wildlife will run away from human contact. McGarvey said, "It's very unusual for a rabid animal to be that aggressive, although it does happen."

He says in most cases, humans approach a fox, skunk or raccoon that is sitting or lying still and are then bitten.

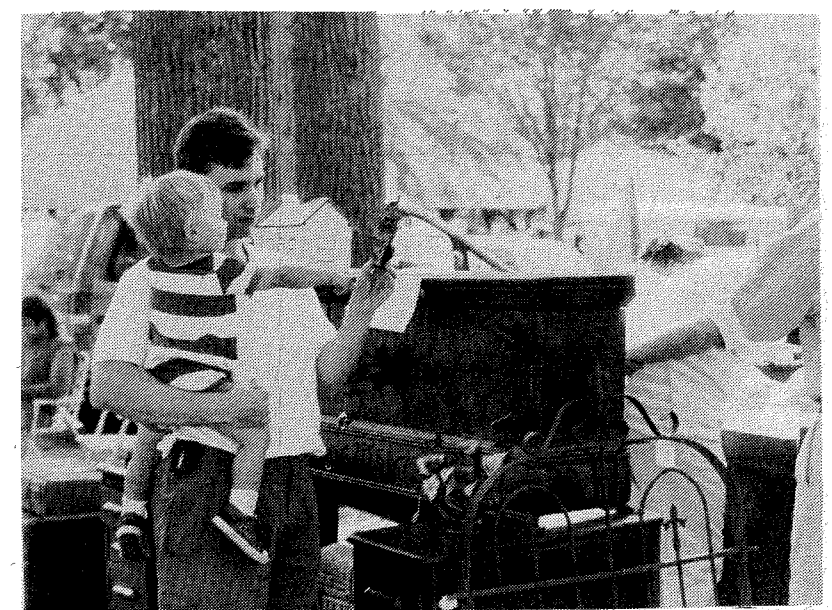

As precautions against being bitten, McGarvey said people should avoid contact with wildlife whenever possible. If they notice wildlife acting strangely, they should immediately contact the Pennsylvania Game Commission or a rodent control company.

Household pets should always be immunized against rabies because they are more prone to come in contact with wildlife.

The amount of reported cases is only slightly higher this year than the past two years.

"But we know there are many more unreported cases and cases that are not confirmed," McGarvey said.

The last known death from rabies in Pennsylvania happened in 1985. A young man died from rabies, but it was never determined how he had contacted the disease.

Funds raised from the event were not tabulated at presstime, and he did not know a crowd estimate, although from sight alone he knew it was much larger than last year.

A survey of the vendors let the committee know the sale was an unqualified success.

"They really liked this show," Sexton said, adding that some have been returning every year for over 20 years. Even the food vendors had reason to smile.
