Pack 142 Cubmaster Joe Kane illustrates the ideals of scouting during last Saturday's blue and gold banquet at St. James Catholic Church. From the "boiling" cauldron he pulls blue, the color of truth and loyalty; and yellow, the color of warmth and cheer. Combined, these colors make a boy a Cub Scout.

Scouting showed its strength in February

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

LITITZ — February may be the shortest month of the year, but local scouts managed to accomplish a lot in 28 days.

National Scouting Month came to a close at the beginning of this week, ending another year of special projects, awards and banquets. The Warwick School District is home to hundreds of boys, girls and dedicated adults who have done much more than just keep the scouting movement alive in this area. They've made it flourish.

On Feb. 27, Pack 142 of the Horseshoe Trail District, Pennsylvania Dutch Council of the Boy Scouts of America held its annual blue and gold banquet at the St. James Catholic Church social hall. The afternoon, which included a visit from school district superintendent Dr. Stephen

Iovino, encapsulated the ideals of scouting and the role that strong fam-

A gem of a story
Warwick junior takes top honor in Scholastic Writing competition

"All ye have to do is go into a mountain and find me a certain gem. A gem of luck ye might say. The gem of fortune. If ye bring it back in one piece, I'll pay ye 1,000 gold marks."

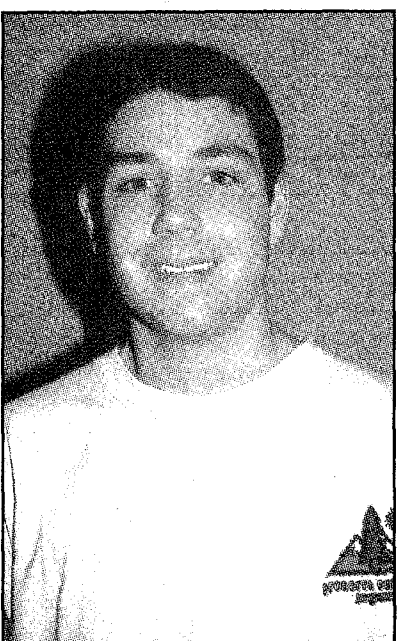

Dan Raiser

"The Gem of Fortune"

LITITZ — It appears that Dan Raiser, a junior at Warwick High School, produced a gem of his own, taking a top honor in this year's regional Scholastic Writing Contest.

The 17-year-old won first place in the Science Fiction/Fantasy category for his short story "The Gem of Fortune," and also became the first Warwick student to earn an American Voices Award for writing.

Dan's award was one of 15 earned by Warwick High School students in the 1998-99 competition, sponsored by the Lancaster County Library and Stengas Publishing Company. Of those honors, eight were gold keys, and six were silver certificates.

Dan, son of Barry and Mary Lou Raiser of Lititz, is a fan of science fiction and fantasy literature, but writing stories in that genre was a new experience for him.

This was his first entry in the Scholastic Writing Contest. "This is not something I normally do, but I had an idea, and I went with it," he said.

The story follows three "mercenaries" on an adventure to find a gem that brings good luck to its possessor. But along the way they are forced into battle with a ferocious "fire-

Moravians eye $2 million plan for renovation

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

LITITZ — What better way is there to celebrate a 250th birthday than with a makeover?

The Lititz Moravian Congregation is about to embark on a $2 million renovation that will make the historic church handicap accessible, a project the church has wanted to do for some time.

Rev. Gary M. Straughan, head pastor of the local congregation, confirmed this week that Wohlson Construction Company has provided some early concepts that could be underway by early 2000.

"There have been individuals and committees meeting for nearly 10 years to get to this point," he said, "and now is the time to move forward."

While handicap accessibility is the number one priority, other improvements may include the expansion of sanctuary and parsonage, elevator access to all three floors of the christian education building, better facilities for the choir, and a possible organ renovation and expansion.

All of the concepts are being designed to keep the historical aspect of the campus totally intact, which is a big contributor to the price tag.

"It's the boldest improvement plan since the reconstruction after the 1957 fire, when whole sanctuary and parsonage had to be redone," Straughan said.

The next step, which will be a challenge, is to find out if the congregation (See Moravians, Page 19)

WMS will host 2 big meetings

LITITZ — Two important community meetings are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday at Warwick Middle School.

The March 3 meeting of the Warwick Township Board of Supervisors, held prior to the Lititz Record Express deadline, was scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Warwick Middle School auditorium, 401 W. Maple St.

The meeting included a continuation of the conditional use hearing on the proposed go-cart track at High's Sports Inc., located along Route 501 just north of the Newport Road intersection. Details about the hearing, and a demonstration of a go-cart planned prior to the meeting, will appear in the March 11 issue of the Record Express.

On Thursday, March 4, the Warwick School District will hold a hearing to solicit opinions and suggestions about the future of Lititz Elementary School. That meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and will also be held in the middle school auditorium.

To meet the needs of a growing school district, officials are considering several options concerning the 81-year-old school, including renovation, demolition or moving to a new location.

A complete list of local municipal meetings appears each week on the Government page of the Lititz Record Express.

TB testing may vanish at Warwick

RICHARD REITZ

Record Express Editor

LITITZ — Warwick School District health officials are hoping to make tuberculosis testing in the schools a thing of the past.

Warwick currently has a policy of mandatory testing for first and ninth grade students, but only once every three years. The next cycle of testing is planned for the 1999-2000 school year.

Paula Dennis, head nurse for the district, told the Warwick School Board on Tuesday that professional health organizations are now recommending elimination of this program, designed for districts with a "low positive rate" for tuberculosis.

She said the testing is far from accurate, often indicating false positive or negative results. She said it is (See School Board, Page 13)

One week removed, commissioner candidates review party process

STEPHEN SEEBER

Record Express Staff

LITITZ — The excitement of GOP endorsement races has come and gone. Now the two local commissioner candidates, both of whom are no longer running, can settle back into their daily routines... if they so choose.

The Record Express asked both Dennis Stuckey and W. Casey McDonald to gauge the process that they endured, offer some insight and provide a sneak preview into their future plans.

Stuckey, current borough council president, has refocused his attention on another term in Lititz governing. He said this week that he is very thankful for all the hometown support he received in his brief bid for county commissioner and that he feels he will be better prepared for another run at it four years from now. Here's what else he had to say:

Record Express: Describe the county's current political landscape. How does the domination of one party and power of regional GOP committees weigh into our future?

Stuckey: There are a couple of different factions in the party, those who are much more conservative from a religious standpoint and those who might be a little more liberal. But I think overall it's still a very conservative party that reflects the political view of the majority of Lancaster County.

R.E.: There were some ugly moments in the district attorney and coroner endorsement races. Were those just cases of typical politics, or does it indicate some underlying problems for the party?

Stuckey: Given my knowledge of how the system works, it was probably the normal type of political activity.

R.E.: Were you surprised by the direction that Paul Thibault took immediately after the commissioner endorsement results were posted?

Stuckey: We had heard all along that Paul would run if he didn't get the endorsement. After all, he is the incumbent and has served four years.

R.E.: Did the GOP make a strategic error in underestimating Thibault's support in his drive against two new candidates?

Stuckey: I have to go with what I feel is the wisdom of the party.

R.E.: As a first-timer in your quest for commissioner, did anything catch you off guard during the endorsement process?

Stuckey: Lancaster County is a place where politically you have to get to know people, and one of the problems that I had was that I was not that well known all over the county. This was a good first step. I met and talked to many committee members, and I'm looking forward to expanding the basis of work that I did and building bridges and making friends in those areas where I was not well known. The experience was encouraging.

R.E.: The interviews and straw polls seemed very demanding for a county-level endorsement. How can a politician campaign, stay on top of pressing issues and devote the time needed to raise a family?

"If I choose cremation, will there still be a funeral?"

With cremation, there doesn't have to be as much difference from a traditional funeral as you might think.

Whether you're preplanning your own funeral or making the decisions for someone in your family, you can still choose any of the options associated with a traditional funeral. For instance, many families have an open-casket viewing at the funeral home before cremation takes place.

A commemorative service, with either the body or ashes present, can also be conducted so that friends and family can pay tribute to their loved one's life and can share their feelings and memories. In this way, the funeral enriches their lives by helping them look away from what has been lost and cherish what has been gained.

If you have any questions about funeral arrangements, please feel free to give us a call.

Hoping for a heavy return

Last week, the Lititz Record Express urged local residents interested in the fate of Lititz Elementary School to make an appearance at the special meeting planned this evening at 7 p.m.

We do realize that attending and evening meeting is not always possible, and as a few people have told us since that editorial appeared, a low attendance at the two Lititz El meetings held in December is not indicative of a lack of interest on the matter.

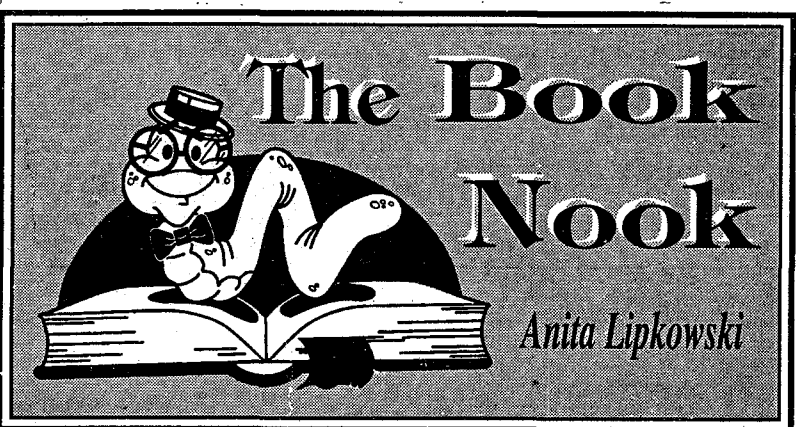

Nor did we think that to be the case. But an end to this important stage in the process must be reached soon, and the school board and administration have been making an effort to get the community involved.

Next week, a newsletter will be sent to families in the school district, and it describes the options currently under consideration for anticipated growth in the Warwick School District. It also includes a "Facilities Option Survey," where you can voice your opinion on this matter.

Should Lititz retain a community school at its current site? Should they build a new school? Should Lititz El be renovated, or should it be torn down and rebuilt?

We believe that a strong showing in any particular direction will carry some weight as the board prepares to make this vital decision. A weak response will not carry as much sway — and in fact might be skewed in a direction that does not accurately reflect the majority of opinion.

We join Warwick School Board member William Flickinger, who said on Tuesday evening: "I'm hopeful for a heavy return."

Those of you who have had an opportunity to drive past the site of the new library are probably as excited as I am about the fine progress being made. Ned Pelger certainly has kept the construction moving forward for us. We don't anticipate an official opening until the end of May. Once the exterior structure is complete, the interior will be finished and furnished before we can officially "check out" our library and its reading materials.

On March 16 from 7 to 8 p.m. Ken Gerhard will give us a special glimpse into the past with toys from our parents' and grandparents' time. Some of these treasures are fun for today's children to play with and collect. Space is limited so register at the library 626-2255 by March 8.

The Friends of the Library are selling a limited edition cookbook, "Restaurant Secrets." This hardbound recipe book for $20 features signature recipes from 29 outstanding restaurants in Lancaster County and 35 others in the U.S. There is also a coupon book with $10 certificates to each of the local restaurants included in the book. Be sure to look for the mouth-watering saffron trout recipe from Lititz' own General Sutter Inn.

Looking ahead to April 10 the Woman's Club of Lititz is planning a book and bake sale to benefit the library. Connie McKane 627-1030 is the chairperson. It will be held at the Lititz Community Center. Early bird admission is from 8-9 a.m. for $10. Free admission will be from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Hardcover books are $1, paperback for 50 cents and special value "as priced" books are available. A historic Lititz design, coverlet in shades of hunter green, cranberry and navy blue will be sold for $45. From 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Betty Narkiewicz, a local reading specialist teacher at Kissel Hill will have autographed copies of her early reader series available. The theme of this series is Penn State. Local artist/illustrator, Bill Dussinger, will also be present. He has illustrated a one of a kind color/activity book written by Betty. Cathy Dixon, interior designer, has provided a display called "Accessorizing with Books." A few of the bargain books artistically arranged may live up your foyer, bedside table or living room.

The Walk-A-Thon is still scheduled for May 1. We hope you mark your calendar to help raise funds to buy books for our new building. More details will follow.

Plan a trip to your library soon.

A tale of honesty and integrity from small-town America For the Record

Late last week, I received a call from a local reader who wanted to let me know about a "good Samaritan" deed he felt needed to be told.

The other day, he was at Stauffer's of Kissel Hill doing some casual shopping, when he went over to the hot dog vending area, where for 50 cents you can purchase a dog, and for another 50 cents a soda. A quick bite to eat that won't sock it to your wallet.

Well, it almost socked this gentleman's wallet real hard.

While purchasing a hot dog and soda, he pulled a bill out of his wallet and stuck it into the collection bin to pay for his items. Unfortunately, instead of pulling out a one dollar bill from his wallet, he pulled out a fifty.

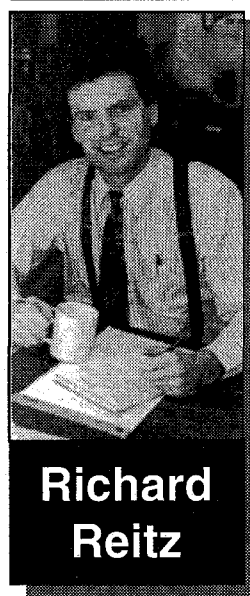

It was a mistake he didn't notice until later in the day, when he realized that he bought the most expensive hot dog and soda this side of Veterans Stadium. I can imagine he was suddenly struck with the pangs of having done a very careless, and likely uncorrectable, thing.

Now the caller, who declined to give his name, said he originally hails from New York, though he has settled quite nicely in his small town surroundings. What happened next was a solid validation of why he moved here.

"If this had happened in New York, I would not have even bothered calling," he said. "That money would have been long gone."

But his wife suggested that it wouldn't hurt to call and see if Stauffer's still had the $50, and perhaps thought it was unlikely that someone purchased 50 hot dogs and 50 sodas — or 99 hot dogs and a coke — that afternoon.

They called and explained the situation, and a short time later got the answer they had hoped to hear... that the $50 was still there. He had already resigned himself to the possibility that he would take a $49 loss on his purchase, when he was told that Stauffer's could correct the situation.

Richard Reitz

"The honesty and integrity of this place is incredible," he said of his hometown, and also of what I imagine is now his favorite place to shop. "It never ceases to amaze me."

While this scenario ended happily, our hungry friend was very fortunate that a few things fell into his favor. First, that he was able to prove to store officials that he was sincere — after all, we're honest around here, but not gullible. But when the sale items did not show the 98 extra items that would have had to have been purchased with that fifty, his story was validated. Second, that the money he placed in the bin was still there at all. Third, that he lives in a town where most people would prefer to do the decent thing rather than say "tough luck" and pocket the profit.

I'm sure there are plenty of places all across the country where a similar scenario would have played out... New York included.

But I'd also wager that in a town like Lititz, your success ratio would be much higher if that happened in many of our local establishments... though admittedly, I am not financially secure enough to actually practice that theory to determine its accuracy. Aw, just trust me on this one.

Someone Special Dance was a hit

Editor, Lititz Record:

On Friday, Feb. 12, the Rolling Hills Neighborhood Brownie and Daisy Troops had their annual Someone Special Dance at Bonfield Elementary. Brownie and Daisy scouts danced the night away with their special someone to music provided by Special Request Entertainment with D.J. Curtis Earth. The room was beautifully decorated with decorations provided by each troop. Each Brownie and Daisy troop also supplied cookies and juice.

We would like to thank all the troops who contributed decorations and snacks for the dance. The girls loved seeing their own creations adorn the room. We would also like to thank several area businesses who contributed to the dance as well. When leaving the dance, each girl received a goodie bag filled with trinkets and Valentine's Day candy. The candy was donated by CVS of Lititz and Bob's Market.

We would also like to give a very big thanks to all the volunteers, both parents and scouts, who helped with the decorations, refreshments, tickets, photographs, and clean-up. The dance was a huge success thanks to all.

A sad response to housing project

Editor, Lititz Record:

I am a resident of Lititz and very proud to be one. I had lived in Ephrata for 20 years, raised seven children there and had no complaints. Sitting here this morning reading the Lititz Record Express I decided to bring this Ephrata issue to you.

I have tired on numerous occasions to address the issue of the recent low-income housing project in the town of Ephrata. The Lancaster Newspaper seems to be afraid to print anything concerning this issue. I am amazed that no one seems to care about the poor in their communities. I guess the old adage of close your eyes and it goes away is still alive and well in Ephrata. Maybe this is too strong and I apologize for anyone I may offend.

All I wanted printed was this one statement, so I decided to come to my hometown editor hoping if a tree falls in the woods some would hear it.

"Isn't it sad that sometimes the most affluent people are blind to the plight of their poor neighbors."

If this letter gets printed, many thanks. If not, I guess no one hears the tree falling.

Pack 44 appreciates VFW donation

Editor, Lititz Record:

Pack 44 of Lititz, would like to express our sincere gratitude for the donation from the VFW Post 1463. Their support is greatly appreciated.

The donation will be used in continuing the Scouting programs which help to teach the boys good citizenship and loyalty not only to their community, but also to what Scouting represents as a whole. Pack 44 continues to offer programs that will enable Scouts to grow into good leaders.

Thank you again to the VFW for helping us continue with what is important to Scouting.

Save our most valuable resource

Editor, Lititz Record:

The most valuable resource is the minds of the people, which are like a computer. With people's minds, you have to program them with the right information early on, with things like trust, love, understanding and caring.

As the person gets older, you add more information and if you fail to put the right information into the minds of our children, it is just the same as a farmer planting a poor crop.

We reap what we sow, and we are reaping a very poor crop from millions of children because society has failed to program their minds with the right information. That is why we have so much poverty, crime, and violence. Our stupid, greedy society wants to reap the fruits of our children's labor when they go into the workforce.

But society is unwilling to spend the time and money so children can provide the labor and produce the taxes. Providing our children with positive thinking should be our number one priority. That is what our future should be built on.

But society has been programming the children's minds with the wrong information — stupidity, greed and corruption. To be a "super-power," you need taxes. School drop-outs will not provide the taxes. Society needs to wake up.

Let ballot decide Lititz El fate

Editor, Lititz Record:

Your latest editorial on Feb. 24 mentioned the amount of people who showed up at the meeting about the go-cart track. This was contrasted with the attendance at school board meetings and the Lititz Elementary.

I think people care a great deal, but many feel the school board will do what they want anyway.

Mr. Wallace Hofferth, and the school board could at least apologize for the way taxpayers funds were put at risk. I talked with a former school board member who said when he was a part of the school board, no risks were ever taken with school funds. Bids were taken from local banks for the best interest rate.

Several options for the Lititz El could be put on the ballot and left up to the people to decide. We are the bosses, not the school board. They work for us.

A good way to record your feeling would be to write a letter to the Lititz Record Express and state your views. You don't have to have your thoughts made public in the paper, but it would help the newspaper to know what the public is thinking.

Don't let the Republican machine control the town. Let's tell these people what we want done.

Franklin Fry
Lititz

Area provides limited recreation

Editor, Lititz Record:

I have been reading the letters to the editor for a few weeks now and the other week I saw the question "Does Lititz really need a recreational go-cart track along Route 501?"

My friends and I have been discussing this and we have come to this conclusion. We have all lived in Lititz for the majority of our lives, and though we do find some recreation facilities already here entertaining, we are somewhat limited to the things we would rather do. For instance, we all skateboard and are not allowed to in many areas of town, for either being a "nuisance" or for "damaging property." Now we do not believe this is true, but others do.

What we propose is to build a go-cart track, because many old and young would enjoy that. And with that, a BMX track in the shape of a running track, like at many of the schools. So with the empty space in the middle, there could be an area set up for skateboarding. Now, with the original idea for one activity, there are three in the same amount of area. This would give a place for skaters, bikers and anyone who wants to have a fun place to go without disrupting the town and park.

endorsements. Is there fragmentation in the party?

McDonald: I think campaigns have to be dirty. If we don't examine public records we are in danger of a superficial campaign. We absolutely must have a season for the accountability of past decisions.

R.E.: Did Republican delegates make a strategic error in underestimating Thibault's support as an incumbent against two unproven endorsed candidates?

McDonald: I don't think that they've underestimated him. He is defeatable if the GOP focuses its vision. If they do not, then why not elect Paul Thibault.

R.E.: Did anything catch your off guard during the endorsement process?

McDonald: Not really. I made a point of not spending too much and getting my message out without beating people over the head with it.

R.E.: How can someone with political aspirations campaign for office, stay on top of the issues and devote the time needed to raise a family?

McDonald: For me it's God first, family second, job third and then candidacy. I think someone can run a very effective campaign on 15 hours a week.

R.E.: How important is money to a successful campaign?

McDonald: Very important. As you drive down the road and you see signs in people's yards that reaffirm their decision as to who they will vote for... that all costs money. It costs money to send people a letter, to publish campaign materials, to purchase data and to have that data manipulated so that you can target your campaign.

R.E.: How much did you spend on your endorsement effort?

McDonald: My campaign was funded by two friends. I spent about $100. It was an issue campaign.

How much would be necessary to reach a commissioner seat?

McDonald: As a non-Republican candidate in the general election, I would need to put up $60,000.

R.E.: Are there any important county topics being lost in the shuffle at this point?

McDonald: I raised three of them over and over again throughout my candidacy. Those were publishing right to know information on the Internet (budgets, minutes and contracts of government offices), taking an aggressive and creative stance against Planned Parenthood, and controlling sprawl.

McDonald said that his current focus is in helping Jere Swarr and Pete Shaub get elected. In the meantime, he is putting out feelers to consider a third party candidacy in the general election.

Q: Who knocked off 6-time Quiz Bowl champion Manheim Twp.? A: Warwick

RICHARD REITZ

Record Express Editor
CONESTOGA VALLEY — This year, the Conestoga Valley Quiz Bowl crown belongs to Warwick High School.

The event, which determines the teams that advance to the next level, has been dominated by Manheim Township High School during its first six years. This year, they did not make it into the final round.

And it was the team of Matt Bieber, Lisa Hess, Rob Hess and Ben King that emerged from the Feb. 20 competition as the best in the region, earning points based upon questions that could be about almost any subject you can imagine.

"There were some pretty tough questions along the way," Matt said.

He cited one example: "What is the location of the worst earthquake in U.S. history?" The logical answer would have been "California." The correct answer, however, was "Missouri."

And it was a pivotal correct answer for the Warwick squad.

"I don't know how I got it," Ben said. "It was just something I remembered reading once."

Which is the basic strategy for this team of quiz masters — bring your prior knowledge, and get ready to recall it.

Though they did practice prior to their competition, that was mainly to get their strategy in place and accustomed to the Quiz Bowl format. Since the questions could be about almost anything, trying to figure out what they might be would be futile.

The Warwick Quiz Bowl team has 16 players, eight of which competed on two separate teams at the Conestoga Valley Quiz Bowl. There were 25 teams at the CV competition.

The teams go head-to-head with one another early in the day, and then a "Sweet 16" is selected from the top teams. Winners would then advance through a playoff tournament.

Manheim Township, seeded first overall entering the day, lost in the quarterfinal round to a team from Camp Hill High School. Then in the semifinals, Warwick defeated a team that could have also been considered a favorite — Lancaster Catholic, which recently won the Lancaster-Lebanon League championship.

So the championship match was set, with Camp Hill facing Warwick, and the Warriors emerging victorious over the Lions by the narrowest of margins, 130-120... or a one-question differential.

While some teams take this competition very seriously, this Warwick team believes that one of its strengths is that they do not. They admit to being there for the fun of it, and they do not "ride" a teammate if they miss a question.

"We do our best," Rob said, "but we always take it as a fun thing."

Their primary goal that Saturday was to qualify for the Sweet 16 — a goal that they thought would earn them a commemorative T-shirt from the Quiz Bowl.

"They were out of T-shirts, so we had to win the whole thing if we wanted something to take home," Ben said.

For winning, a photo of the team will appear on a first-place plaque that, for the first time, will not go to Manheim Township.

The Warwick Quiz Bowl team, still only in its second year of competition, will now head to Lebanon Valley College on March 27 for another big challenge, this time among a field of 72 teams.

They also said that their CV victory qualified them to participate in the national tournament, which will be held in Louisiana this June. However, they said that the cost to just get to the event, plus the fact that it falls on graduation day for Warwick, make it unlikely that they will be able to afford the trip.

Warwick stage is perfect match for 'Hello, Dolly!'

LITITZ — One of America's most popular Broadway musicals, "Hello, Dolly!" is coming to the Warwick High School stage on March 11-14.

The musical by Jerry Herman and Michael Stewart, is based on the Thornton Wilder play "The Matchmaker." It opens on Thursday, March 11 at 8 p.m. and will continue on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and on Sunday at 2 p.m.

Presented by Warwick's award-winning music department, "Hello, Dolly!" is the story of Mrs. Dolly Gallagher Levi and her efforts to marry Horace Vandergelder, the well-known half-a-millionaire. Along the way, she succeeds in matching up just about the entire population of turn-of-the-century New York.

The title roles of Dolly and Horace have been doublecast: Caitlin McGeehan and Jason Vignas for the Thursday and Saturday shows, and Emily Good and Art Scibal on Friday and Sunday. Other cast members include: Dave Raiser, Erin Leahy, Juliane Brown, Chris Moyer, Kyle Bussey, April Brenner and Erin McCoy.

The production is under the direction of Dennis Foreman and Debra Kline-Smith. Dances are being choreographed by Carol Still, and Dale Weller serves as the conductor.

Additional staff include: Harriet Schumann, stage manager; Marcia Brenner, costumes; Christine DiNovis, make-up; Tim Moser, lighting; and Scott Brutout, sound. The Warwick Warblers are constructing the massive sets.

Tickets are $6 for reserved seating and $5 for student and general seating. Advance tickets sales will take place on March 1, 2, 4, 8 and 9 in the high school lobby from 6-8 p.m. Tickets will also be available at the door.

LEIDIG TO REPRESENT WARWICK — It has been a busy winter of festivals and honors ensembles for Warwick High School senior Stacey Leidig. Recognized as one of the premiere French horn performers in the state, Stacey will now head to the Pennsylvania Music Educators Region V State Orchestra Festival, which will be held March 4-6 at Hempfield High School. Stacey has already performed with Lebanon Valley College Honors Band, LLMEA County Orchestra, PMEA District 7 Orchestra, LLMEA County Band, PMEA District 7 Band, Region V State Band, and with the MENC All-Eastern Band at Carnegie Hall in New York City.

Class Action

WARWICK CLASS CONDUCTS MOCK TRIAL — The Law in Society Class at Warwick High School conducted a mock trial, a civil suit that took place Jan. 27-29. Class members each played a role in the proceedings, with Nick Watt serving as the judge. The trial ended with a decision in favor of the defense, following an impressive demonstration by the students. Other participants included: Brad Roland, bailiff; Joy Sease, court reporter; Jen Van Kirk, clerk of courts; Adam Durovey, Luke Troyer and Justin Babcock, attorneys for the prosecution; Mike Link, Don Killeffer and Ben King, attorneys for the defense; Jen Semrau, John Shields and Robert Leigey, witnesses for the prosecution; Chad Texter, Justin Mann, Jess Michener, and Dan Trump, witnesses for the defense; Sarah Ledbetter, jury foreperson; and Marsha Drommel, Jason Hoover, Josh Neff, Brandi Marks, Tanya Stahl, Kevin Silva and Alex Tomlinson, jury members.

FOUR FROM LINDEN HALL SING WITH HONORS CHOIR — Four students representing Linden Hall School for Girls participated in the Honors Choir held at Elizabethtown College on Feb. 12-13. They included Beren Lindenborg of Cragmoore, N.Y.; Rachel Simon-Bierenbaum of Haddon Heights, N.J.; Kim Joyce of Lititz; and Melissa Dolan of Telford. Students were chosen by the music instructors from schools throughout the state, and 150 students were involved in the event that included rehearsals all day on Friday and Saturday, ending with a Saturday evening public performance of 11 songs.

Jeremy Bowlby

Bowlby named Rotary Student for February

LITITZ — The Lititz Rotary Club has named Jeremy Bowlby, a senior at Warwick High School, as its Student of the Month for February.

Jeremy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Bowlby, 206 S. Spruce St., Lititz. Many activities have kept this 18-year-old busy this school year.

He was the school mascot (The Warrior) during the 1998 football season, and finished a six-year commitment to Warwick's cross-country team. Jeremy served as a co-captain his senior year. He also raised money and ran the ABC Building Wishes 10K run in Manheim for four years. In the spring, he hit the volleyball court as a defensive specialist on the Warwick men's volleyball team.

Winning an award at the Lancaster Science and Engineering Fair has encouraged him to pursue a career in civil engineering. A love for calculus, nurtured by Mr. Pillion and all sciences should help Jeremy to reach his goal. Jeremy maintains a 3.75 GPA.

Working at Subway in Lititz and maintaining a newspaper route for five years have taught Jeremy many business responsibilities. Jeremy qualified as Outstanding Newspaper Carrier of the Year for 1998. This honor was presented to him by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association Foundation.

His is also a faithful blood donor at the Central Pennsylvania Blood Bank. Since March, he has donated six pints of blood.

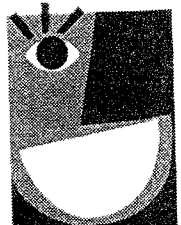

Upon graduation, Jeremy plans to attend either Penn State University in State College or Lafayette College in Easton.

PERFECT REPORT CARDS LEAD TO A DELICIOUS LUNCH — For the second marking period, five students in the Warwick High School Alternative Education Program earned straight A's in all four of their core classes, English, history, math and science. They were rewarded on Feb. 26 with a lunch provided free-of-charge, courtesy of Roma Pizza, 54 E. Main St., Lititz. The straight 'A' students this marking period included: (front row, left to right) Afton Watterson, sophomore; Lindsay Crockett, sophomore; (back row, l-r) Crystal Weidman, sophomore; John Baker, junior; and Jessica Warfel, sophomore. For Afton, John and Jessica, this was the second time this school year they have earned this honor.

Kindergarteners Can Help

TEAM EFFORT — Kindergarten students at Lititz Elementary School helped stock the local food bank by collecting cans of food and rolls of toilet paper. The project was intended to support a worthy cause while recognizing the 100th day of class for the rookie pupils. Carol Kuehner, one of the teachers who organized the effort, said that the children worked together as a team and took the challenge beyond her expectations by bringing in a total of 165 cans. Shown here is her afternoon class (front row, left to right) Chad Bomberger, Renee Kerstetter, Gwen Yellets, Hayden French, Allen Hess, Garrett Miller, Justin Thomas, (second row) Tyler Wentzel, Megan Hay, Melissa Seeber, Josh Quinones, Brittany May, T.J. Nessinger, Jon Romantic, Ashley Rice, Skyler Erb, (third row) Rachel Davis, James Derr, Amanda Woolf, Madeleine Yoder, Brandon Shain, Emily Shank and Rachel Tegowski. Both morning and afternoon classes, a total of 50 children, participated; and Cathy Dietrich's kindergarten class brought in 100 rolls of toilet paper. All of these items have been donated to the Warwick Community Chest.

Narkiewicz takes gold at Districts

Joins Witmer at States

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff
SHIPPENSBURG — Warwick wrestlers Eric Narkiewicz and Ben Witmer are going to the State Championships at Hersheypark Arena.

That's not a surprise. Pat Cummins is not going, and that is a surprise.

A big one. Such was the story for the Warrior matmen at the District Three Triple-A Championships at Shippensburg University last Friday and Saturday. Narkiewicz won his first District title, Witmer took silver, and Cummins, the No. 1-ranked 275-pounder, was eliminated following back-to-back losses, including a controversial overtime decision in the semi-finals.

Then there was Jake Russell, who was Warwick's Cinderella story this year. Although unheralded, he won a fourth-place medal in the 160-pound weight class and fell just short of a trip to Chocolate Town. The top three advance to States, which is slated for next Thursday through Saturday, March 11-13.

In all, the Warriors' efforts were good enough to place them fifth in the team standings, with 55 points. Dallastown captured the team championship with 103½ points, followed by Solanco with 82, Hempfield with 74, and Gettysburg with 72½.

"Overall, you have to be pleased," Warwick Head Coach Jerry McDonald said afterward. "The kids wrestled outstanding throughout the tournament, I'm really pleased with the way our wrestlers have performed. I mean, having three Sectional champions last week and five qualifiers, and then they come up here, and having four guys make it to the semis, and end up with a champ, a runner-up, a fourth-placer..."

"But I certainly have to admit that I'm disappointed with what happened with Pat," he added. "I really thought he wrestled his heart out."

The controversy in Cummins' semi-final match focused on a non-stalling call. Facing Chambersburg's Tyler Hart, Cummins tied the match 1-1 with an escape with 1:13 left in the third. The score remained deadlocked over the remainder of the period and then through the first overtime session, although McDonald and his coaches thought Cummins was taking all the shots, and that Hart, who had already been warned for stalling, should have been hit again.

But the match proceeded to the rideout portion of OT, where Hart won the flip and escaped with :07 remaining for the 2-1 win.

"Stalling should have been hit," McDonald said. "I really think (Pat) should have been in the finals. That was a big disappointment, knowing how hard Pat worked to come back. He still wasn't quite 100 percent yet (from a rib injury), he was back about 95 percent, and he needed to get to States and get two more weeks of practice in to be ready."

"And it was just so disappointing to see him wrestle so hard in that semi-final match and shoot so many times, and really, I think, there's no question (Hart) should have been hit for stalling, which would have won Pat the match. But I also say that, throughout Sectionals and Districts, both tournaments, that was the only bad call we had all of those matches, which is an enormous amount of matches."

Not only did Cummins (19-3) have to bounce back quickly from that heartbreaker, he had to meet Carlisle's defending District champ Brian Schmick in the consolation semi-finals.

With the score tied at 3-all after two, Schmick escaped, then took Cummins down with :55 left in the third, and held on for the 6-4 victory.

While those two matches were disappointments for the Warriors, their highlight came when Narkiewicz (33-1) clinched the gold in the 145-pound weight class, defeating Waynesboro's Craig Hight 13-5 in the finals on the strength of six takedowns.

"Eric... he was running on all eight cylinders tonight," McDonald said. "He was really hitting his shots."

Warwick fans got a scare in that match when Narkiewicz took an injury timeout with 1:33 left in the third because of a minor wrist injury. The championship match was the first time in the tournament that he didn't tape it.

"It's not a real bad injury, it's just when it gets turned the wrong way,"

Narkiewicz said, "it will hurt me bad for awhile, and then it will just go away, but it was alright. I taped it the whole time, and then I figured I'll just let it go for the finals. It didn't affect me too much."

Narkiewicz will take the District gold, but he isn't satisfied yet.

"This is great, but it's not my final goal," he said. "Next week's the important stuff. Next week is what you'll remember."

What people will remember from last Saturday is Narkiewicz's semi-final battle with Dallastown's Mike Wrinkle, the No. 1-ranked vs. No. 3-ranked wrestlers, respectively, in the District.

It was Wrinkle who took the early lead, scoring two takedowns in the first for a 4-2 edge after one. Narkiewicz got a single-leg takedown with :29 remaining in the second, but still trailed 6-4 heading to the third.

Then, in the final stanza, Narkiewicz took over. After escaping to start the period, he took his first lead, 7-6, with a takedown at the 1:07 mark. Wrinkle tied it with an escape, but Narkiewicz pulled it out with a takedown with just :03 remaining on the scoreboard.

"When (Eric) took him down and tied it up to make it 7-7, the momentum was going so much in his direction, I felt he was going to win it, even if he had to take him to overtime," McDonald said, "because the other kid was pretty tired."

Said Narkiewicz: "In the third period, he was opening up and I was getting in easier on his legs. I just basically wore him down. He was a big '45-pounder. When guys are that much bigger than you, you know they're sucking weight, and if I push him, he's going to break sooner or later."

In his first two matches, Narkiewicz major decisioned New Oxford's Justin Aiello 18-5 and pinned Lampeter-Strasburg's Cory Sharpe in 4:58.

Warrior 140-pounder Witmer (26-7) also looked sharp. He defeated Coughlin, he's going to break sooner or later."

HARRISBURG — Warwick's varsity ice hockey club ended its regular season by skating to a 2-2 tie with State College at Twin Ponds East Ice Rink on Monday night.

State College had leads of 1-0 and 2-1, but the Warriors got goals by Brett Kendig and Aaron Miller to draw even.

The Warwick icemen had a golden opportunity to pull ahead in the final minute of the game, getting a 2-on-1 rush on the State College goalkeeper, but Pete Florsdorf rifled a shot over the crossbar.

"That would have brought the house down," Warwick Coach Ron Kratofil said.

State College outshot Warwick 20-16, but Tyler Hudock came up big in goal for the Warriors, making 18 saves.

Jeff Wagaman also came up big when he dug the puck out of the corner to set up a goal. Kendig scored when he beat the SC goalie on a turnaround slapshot from the high slot during a scramble.

Florsdorf set up the other goal thanks to some strong backchecking work, turning a State College rush (See Icemen, Page 11)

BRUCE MORGAN

Record Express Staff

LITITZ — Warwick senior Matt Martzall and sophomore Ashley Haney turned in sterling performances and led the Warrior swimmers at the District Three Triple-A Championships at F&M College's Kunkle Aquatic Center last Friday and Saturday.

Martzall claimed a silver in the boys' 200 free on Friday night with a time of 1:45.07, then came back on Saturday and took a fourth in the boys' 500 free in 4:44.12.

Both times represented personal bests for Martzall, improving from 1:46.62 in the 200 free and 4:53.43 in the 500 free.

Haney, meanwhile, earned a trip to the medal stand on Saturday with her runner-up finish in the girls' 100 breaststroke in 1:07.13, which was about a second and a half faster than her previous best of 1:08.65.

Wilson's Woodring set a new national high school record in winning the girls' 100 breaststroke in 1:00.74.

Both Martzall and Haney qualified for the State Meet, which will be held in State College next Friday and Saturday, March 12 and 13.

This will be Martzall's fourth trip to States and Haney's first. Martzall won a sixth-place medal in the 100 fly at States in his sophomore year. "They both swam really well,"

Warwick Coach Lisa Miller said. "From talking to other coaches, those two will probably be seeded very well in the events they're going in — among the top half of the group."

Warwick had also been hoping to send at least one of the boys' relays — the 200 free or 400 free — to States also, if not another individual or two, but it wasn't meant to be.

"Most people who swam had their best times all year, which was really nice to see," Miller said, "but they weren't low enough to make the cut for States."

"I think all of us had higher expectations, so that was a little disappointing. That meet is a very emotional meet, mainly because you have to place to go to States."

Despite not qualifying, Warwick's 400 free relay team — Cory Gebhard, Andy Will, Ollie Black, and Martzall — won a sixth-place medal while improving their personal best time from 3:26.11 to 3:22.33. The State qualifying time was 3:19.0.

Among the others who swam their best times of the year were Carolyn Myers in the 500 free in 5:39.78 (down from 5:41.25), Emily McGlashan in the 100 back in 1:03.76 (1:04.02), Black in the 100 breaststroke in 1:02.85 (1:03.67), Haney in the 200 I.M. in 2:17.94 (2:20.22), and Gebhard in the 200 I.M. in 2:01.81 (2:01.91).

Column

I thought too Hart should have lost a point for stalling, and in fact, I've seen cases where kids were penalized for less.

It's a tough situation. How often do we hear it said that officials shouldn't be the ones who decide wins and losses? I'll admit officials do have tough jobs, and I imagine that what the referee was thinking was that he didn't want to be the one who decided it.

Either way, it was tough to see a marvelous season by Cummins, along with a wonderful comeback story, come to an end amid controversy like that.

It was also nice to see Ben Witmer and Jake Russell do as well as they did at Districts.

I think a lot of people expected that Witmer could advance, since he was on the doorstep of doing so last year. Yet, he still had to go and get the job done, which he did very nicely.

Russell was a Cinderella story in this post-season for the Warriors, winning Sectionals and then placing fourth at Districts. It's certainly a positive way for him to end the season, and it helps brighten the outlook for the Warriors next year knowing they get both him and Witmer back for their senior years.

SHILLINGTON — There wasn't a person who walked into the gymnasium at Governor Mifflin Intermediate School last Wednesday, Feb. 24 who didn't know that Warwick's boys' basketball team was a heavy underdog.

No. 13-seeded Warwick was David to the fourth-seeded Reading Goliaths in the opening-round of the District Three Quad-A playoffs.

But then again, this was playoff time, and anything can happen in the playoffs, right?

That seemed to be the Warriors' attitude, as was evidenced early on by junior guard Jamie Peifer risking life and floor burn diving out of bounds for a loose ball.

Playing their first game in nearly two weeks, the Warwick boys trailed by just six, 17-11, at halftime, and by nine, 30-21, with 5:39 to play in the game.

But Reading, led by Tillman Sims'

16 points, pulled away in down the stretch and ended the Warriors' season with a 40-25 victory in Shillington.

Warwick ended its first season under Head Coach Ryan Landis with an overall record of 11-13.

"I have mixed emotions about this game," Landis said afterward. "I was so happy with the way that we battled. At the same time, I'm disappointed that we didn't pull it out, and that's got to be our mindset, we've talked about that."

"This game is going to be a little bit more painful as the hours pass," he added, "because the reality will set in that it's over for this team and... I love this team. They gave their heart and soul, and you can't replace that."

The Warriors were led by Ian Daecher with seven points, and Kevin Silva and Peifer, each with six points.

The good news is that those three are juniors and will all be returning (See Warriors, Page 10) icz major decision New Oxford's Justin Aiello 18-5 and pinned Lampeter-Strasburg's Cory Sharpe in 4:58.

Warwick 140-pounder Ben Witmer (left) battles for control with Boyertown's Mike Reish in the championship match on Saturday.

Warrior 140-pounder Witmer (26-7) also looked sharp. He defeated Central Dauphin's Mike Kurtz (24-6) 3-1 in the first round, then edged Elizabethtown's Luke Stauffer (26-5) by a 5-4 score in the quarter-finals.

Meeting New Oxford's Bruce Clabaugh (22-9) in the semi-finals, Witmer took a 7-2 lead after two — thanks to a first-period takedown and a reversal and two back points in the second — and rolled to an 11-6 victory.

That led to a rematch with Boyertown's undefeated Mike Reish (37-0) for the gold medal. It was Reish who beat Witmer in the consolation finals at last year's District tournament, with a berth to States on the line, and then again two weeks ago in the Sectional finals by an 8-3 score.

In last Saturday's District championship match, Reish jumped out to a 7-1 lead at the end of the second period, and eventually earned an 11-4 win.

"Reish is very good, you see what his record is, 37-0, and (Boyertown) has wrestled some good teams, so 37-0... he's a legitimately good wrestler," McDonald said. "Ben wrestled very well. He got himself to the finals, he got himself to States, that was his goal this year to get to States, and he's going there as the District runner-up.

"He had a great tournament, he had some great wins," he added, "he beat two Sectional champions (Stauffer, Clabaugh) to get to the finals... I'm very pleased with Ben."

Asked what the difference is between Witmer and Reish right now, McDonald said, "Reish is pretty solid on his feet, he doesn't really make many mistakes. Ben really goes after it, stuff like that. Ben is a real wide-open kind of wrestler. With that sometimes, it allows you to score, but it also puts you sometimes in a position to be scored upon. Reish is a very solid wrestler."

In the 160-pound weight class, Russell (23-12) advanced to the semi-finals with a 15-3 major decision over Dover's Brandon Fuhrman (15-13) in the first round and a 10-3 victory over Lampeter-Strasburg's Josh Walker (23-5) in the quarter-finals.

He dropped a 17-7 major decision to Dallastown's Rob Jansen (29-5) in the semis, but rebounded to defeat Boyertown's Eric Schneider 8-3 in the consolation semi-finals. That marked a rematch of the Sectional finals two weeks ago, when Russell defeated Schneider 7-5 for the gold medal.

In Russell's final match on Saturday, he fell by a 7-1 decision to Hempfield's Ricky Barnett in a match guaranteeing a State qualifier from the Lancaster-Lebanon League.

"Jake Russell had a great tournament — Sectional champ, fourth-place finisher in Districts... great for him," McDonald said. "And he's back next year."

Chronic Back Pain

Chronic pain is pain that never goes away. It disrupts lives, work, relationships, and leisure time. Chronic back pain can be devastating, and difficult to understand if you have not yet suffered with it. More than 70 percent of Americans will have back pain at some point in their lives. For many of these people, life comes to revolve around bottle after bottle of medications.

Chronic back pain can progress into sciatica. What is sciatica? It is a term that refers to the painful inflammation of the sciatic nerve that extends from the buttocks all the way to your toes. Sciatica sufferers often have a history of low back pain.

The chemical, physical, and emotional stress of everyday living directly affect the spine. The results are spinal misalignments. Left uncorrected, spinal misalignments develop into restricted joint function, nerve irritation, and bulging discs.

There is hope. Doctors of Chiropractic are trained to find the real causes of pain. Whether the pain comes from tight and swollen muscles, damaged ligaments, injured discs, or poor posture, medication is not enough. A structural problem requires a structural correction. Appropriate case management may include spinal manipulation, traction, specific spinal next year.

The difficult part for Landis on Wednesday was knowing that he had watched his five seniors — Matt Beuke, Nate Horst, Josh Russell, Ian Tangert, and Matt Wagaman — play their final game at Warwick. He put the five out on the floor together for the final minute of the contest.

"I got to go in (the locker room) soon and say good-bye to our seniors as basketball players," Landis said, "and that might be the hardest thing I've ever been asked to do, because I just think the world of all of them."

The Berks County League-champion Red Knights nailed three triples — one each by Kashif Reyes, Terron Buchanan, and Philip White — in the first and took an 11-5 lead after one.

"When you're the underdog, it's hard to knock off a team above you, when the other team has outstanding guard play," Landis said, "and their guards are phenomenal. They're great shooters... we needed their shots to be off, and I don't think they shot tremendously well, but they hit some big ones."

The second quarter was even lower scoring, thanks to Warwick spreading the floor on offense and employing a delay tactic. After the Red Knights (23-4) completed a 15-3 run and took their biggest lead of the half, 15-5, Warwick closed the second on a 6-2 spurt, on field goals by Horst and Peifer and free throws from Tangert and Daecher, cutting the deficit to 17-11 at the break.

"You try to put yourself in a position to win the game," Landis said, "no matter how ugly it is or what the style is, and our kids have been very, very disciplined all season, very patient."

"And again, it's not easy for 16- and 17-year-olds in front of a big crowd to hold the ball," he added. "But that was our best shot. We needed one or two of our shots to fall."

Sims scored 10 of his 16 points in the second half, including six straight for Reading in a two-minute stretch in the third, turning a 22-15 lead into a 28-15 cushion at the 2:09 mark.

Daecher knocked down two free throws with :42.6 left in the period to make the score 28-17, but then Reading's David Duncan scored on a lay-up with :05 to go, and it was 30-17 heading to the fourth quarter.

Warwick cut its deficit to single digits, 30-21, with 5:39 left by scoring the first four points of the final stanza, on two free throws by Peifer and a short jumper by Silva.

Warrior center Ian Daecher beats a Reading player and takes the ball to the basket. He led Warwick in the game with seven points.

But the Red Knights answered with an 8-0 run, in which Duncan scored four points. That extended the lead to 38-21 with 1:45 remaining and all but decided the game.

Asked if it was a moral victory to be within nine points in the fourth, Landis said, "I don't think so. We weren't coming here to keep it close, we were coming here to win. Again, I'm disappointed with the loss, but there were some victories within the game."

One of those was that the Warriors outbounded the taller Red Knights, 17-16.

"That's a tribute to our players," Landis said. "Maybe that's because (Reading) didn't miss as much too, but I could name 100 things I'm pleased with."

One of Landis' mentors, Warwick coaching icon Dave Althouse, happened to be at this game watching from the stands, and he must have been pleased with a lot of what he saw too.

"There's an awful lot of Coach Althouse in what I'm trying to do,"

Landis said, "and I know about one-twentieth of what he does, but his teams played a certain way, and I think the greatest compliment our team received is that, at times, they look like some of the old throw-back Warrior teams, which is give everything they have and play to the end."

Extra week of practice not a problem for WHS

BRUCE MORGAN

LITITZ — If this were a normal year, Warwick's Eric Narkiewicz and Ben Witmer would be preparing for the State Wrestling Tournament this weekend at the Hersheypark Arena.

Things are a little different this year, though, because of the State Team Championships, which are being held at the end of this week. That means Narkiewicz and Witmer have an extra week to get ready for the State Tournament, to be held next Thursday through Saturday, March 11-13 in Chocolate Town.

Warwick Head Coach Jerry McDonald said this is the first time ever that there has been two weeks between Districts and States. But neither he nor Narkiewicz mind the extra time.

"We're just going to take a couple days and go light," McDonald said after the District finals at Shippensburg University last Saturday. "I think for us, it will be good. The kids have been going so hard and stuff, I think two weeks to get ready for States... will do it. I think it's good."

Narkiewicz, a senior, has a minor wrist injury which he slightly twisted during Saturday's championship round, so the extra week will help him with that.

"I think (the two weeks) is good," Narkiewicz said. "For me, I can make sure I get my wrist taken care of, all my injuries will be gone, and I'll be 100 percent."

Narkiewicz, a three-time State qualifier, will take a 33-1 record into the Hersheypark Arena, needing just one more win to reach the 100 mark for his career.

He won a fifth-place medal in the 135-pound weight class in last year's State Tournament.

An interesting tidbit is that Narkiewicz is undefeated at 145 this year, with his only loss coming to Hanover's Adam Shepler at the New Oxford Duals on Jan. 16, in a match Narkiewicz moved up to the the other way. Moments later, Miller connected on a long-range shot from just inside the blue line, denting the twine high to the goalie's glove-hand side.

With the tie, Warwick finishes with a 2-12-2 record and qualifies for the Central Penn League playoffs as the No. 8 seed. They will play top seeded Central Dauphin East tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m., back at Twin Ponds East, in opening-round single elimination playoff action.

The Warriors will have their work cut out for them with CD East, who lost their only game of the year in their season finale.

"They're definitely the best team in the league to this point, so we have to have our rally caps going," Krato-fil said. "But that would be a great game for an upset.

"In single-elimination, if you have a couple of bounces go your way, you might be able to catch someone by surprise."

It doesn't hurt that Warwick has been playing well as of late, also. Kratofil noted that, through November, his Warriors had been allowing an average of six goals per game, while scoring about one, but that over their past 10 contests, they're averaging just four goals against and three goals for.

"The last two years, our teams have really come on at the end of the season," Kratofil said. "We're slow starters. But once we get into the second half of the season, when the guys get a little confidence and we work some new guys into the system, you can see some things happening.

"I'd say the month of February was real strong for us," he added. "We played one bad game (vs. Manheim Twp.), but every other game, we were very competitive."

Their two wins this year have come against Central Dauphin and Penn Manor. They have also played to a tie against the Comets.

Those decisions have helped Warwick earn its second trip to the post-season in as many years. A year ago, they lost 5-2 to eventual champ Hershey in the first round of the playoffs.

"(Making the playoffs two years in a row) says something about the guys — it's been a growing year for us, we have a rookie goaltender, and we lost a lot of seniors," Kratofil said.

Basketball tourney openings

North American Youth Basketball recently announced that they still have openings in their annual spring youth basketball tournament for teams in the Philadelphia and surrounding area.

The tournament will be held April 9-11 at Great Valley High School and other area sites.

The entry fee for the tournament is $100 and guarantees each team a minimum of two games. There will be awards presented in each bracket.

The entry deadline is March 19. For additional information or an entry form, please call Anita Livesay at the toll-free NAYB spring tournament hotline at 1-888-629-2275, or tournament director Izzy Ingram at 610-647-8758.

Schreiber Center to hold 17th Volleyball Weekend

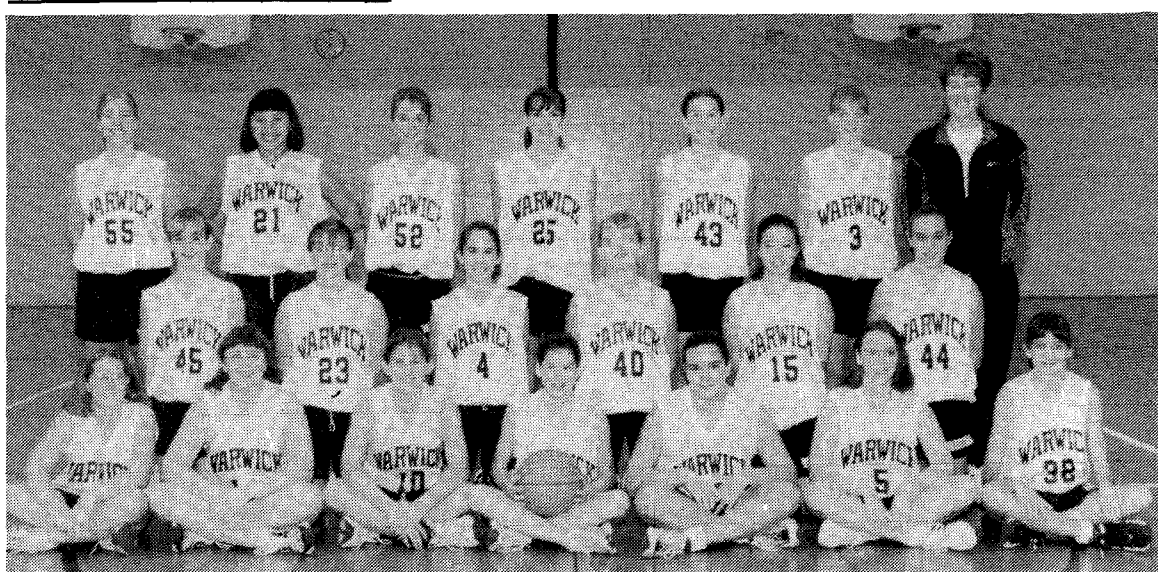

The Schreiber Pediatric Rehab Center is looking for enthusiastic people to play volleyball and referee for its 17th annual Volleyball Weekend.

The benefit will take place Friday, March 19 through Sunday, March 21 at Millersville University's Pucillo and Brooks Gymnasiums. Sponsors for this year's event are 105.7 The X, Cloister Spring Water Company, and Little Caesars Pizza.

Any team of eight to ten players — men, women, co-ed, league, or pick-up — is eligible to play. Teams may register on a first-come, first-served basis.

Each team must raise a minimum registration fee of $150. The teams are invited to play for a two-hour

LCC introduces new web page

Building on our success is LCC's theme for 1999! In June, LCC will celebrate the 10th anniversary of our current facility. Can you believe it? In this year, we are moving forward with our expansion campaign. There have been many great ideas; an additional pool, larger fitness area, and more programming rooms, and you still have your chance to voice your opinion. You can stop by our booth at the Business Expo, March 12 and 13, and jot your ideas down and even look at our current building plans. You won't want to miss this opportunity.

LCC goes on the internet. Yes, we now have our own web page; lititzcommunitycenter.com. The page is still in the preliminary stages, but keep checking it out for additions.

It is that time of year when cabin fever starts to strike. LCC has the answer. We offer a full line of motor-coach trips to various sites. On March 11, travel to Philadelphia for the annual Flower Show. On May 22, travel to Baltimore Inner Harbor and Ellicott City. We also offer multi-day trips and in 1999 we are featuring trips to Toronto/Niagara Falls and a 14-day Panama Canal Cruise. In December, Enjoy an Opryland Christmas. Remember us when scheduling your trips.

The AMBUCs Annual Business Expo is soon upon us. The event takes place at LCC on March 12 and 13. It is a great two days of seeing local businesses and meeting new and old friends. Mark your calendar now.

LCC's youth basketball is wrapping up for the year. The staff would like to thank the many parents who assisted with the program this year. Thanks!

Blue Mountain Ski area, is hosting Lititz Community Center Day on March 5. Great deals if you ski that day! Stop by LCC to pick up an information flyer.

Summer Camp registration for your kids is just around the corner. If you are a working parent, or you just want to expose your kids to a super summer environment, it is time to plan ahead! Registration materials are available at the front desk.

LCC's winter schedule is coming to and end. Our Spring programs will start end of March or the beginning of April. All of our Spring programs were in our Winter-Spring Program guide which is still available at LCC. Don't miss out on any of our Spring programs.

What is happening this weekend at the REC... There is a Middle School Dance on Friday, March 5 from 7-9 p.m. There will be plenty of open gym and pool space this weekend. There is a pool rental on Sunday night from 6-9 p.m., which will close the pool. CPR Day is at LCC on Saturday, March 6 sponsored by Health America. There is free CPR for those that register.

Sportsmen to hold course

The Lititz Sportsmen's Association will be sponsoring a Hunter-Trapper Education Course on March 6-7 at the Lititz Fire Hall. Both sessions must be attended to become certified.

Everyone is welcome, however class size is limited, so pre-registration is necessary.

To register, contact Barry Lieberman at 627-7070, Ken Hess at 626-6580, or Glen Spickler at 627-6200.

Lititz Youth Soccer Club sets dates to hand out equipment

Lititz Youth Soccer Club equipment handout is scheduled for Saturday, March 13, from 9 to 11 a.m. and Sunday, March 14 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Gerhart Soccer Trailer.

All coaches for the spring season (or coach assigned team representative) are asked to pick up equipment for their teams during these times.

I'll be there.

Gagliano to perform for Nee Danse

HARRISBURG — The Nee Danse Company will present an informal dance performance on Sunday, March 21, at 3 p.m. in its dance studio/theatre.

Currently located in the Old Water Works Building on Front Street in downtown Harrisburg, the company is presenting this final concert before moving to another location. This performance is planned to feature the Company's current repertory and community work for the general public. Donations collected at the door will help offset the anticipated moving expenses.

The Sunday afternoon concert will feature new and re-created choreography by Artistic Director Della Cowall. Two new Company members, Liz Clunk and 1989 Warwick High School Graduate Jill Gagliano will perform the 1996 duet "It Could Happen."

Historical Society to highlight treasures

MANHEIM — The Manheim Historical Society will hold its regular monthly meeting on Thursday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Manheim Historical Railroad Station, 210 S. Charlotte St.

The evening's program will be a slide show on "Historic Lancaster - Seen and Unseen" by John G. Fish of the Toastmasters Speakers Bureau of Lancaster.

Fish is retired as plant engineering manager at Ford New Holland, has been a Toastmaster for 40 years, as well as chairman and charter member of the Toastmaster Speakers Bureau of Lancaster and a certified master gardener by the Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The color slide show will depict the abundance of Lancaster's historical remembrances. Join the speaker on a Choreographed to music by the Penguin Cafe Orchestra, the duet is a spirited piece that challenges the stamina and endurance levels of the dancers. Based on the idea of falling down and getting up, the duet is reminiscent of a couple out for a night of country dancing.

Cowall's newest work, "All the News That's Fit to Print," features Clunk, Gagliano, and two dancers from Franklin & Marshall College Jessica Beshore and Megan Williams-Kief. The quartet performs sections from the New York Times and is set to music by John Adams and Ryuchi Sakamoto.

Cowall will be performing two solos on the afternoon's program. "Leverage: A Duet for One" was choreographed by the New York Ara Fitzgerald and set to text by her husband Richard Appleman.

Two student and faculty works from the Franklin & Marshall Dance Program will be included in the afternoon program. F & M student Jessica Beshore will perform a duet with faculty member Julie Brodie. Ms. Brodie will present a recent group work choreographed for six of the F & M dance students.

Cowall is planning to present a work-in-progress with her Youth Modern Dance Class. Girls aged six-ten year-olds will be showing a group-inspired hula hoop dance that is used in their weekly dance classes.

The Nee Danse Company received a notice terminating its lease with the present landlord. Efforts to find a suitable space to continue with the programs are still underway. "Homage to a Great Dance Space" will be the final performance by the Company in its present home. Donations from this performance will be used to re-locate the company and continue with its current classes and programs.

Call 232-3144 for more information about the Company and its final "Homage to a Great Dance Space."

Lititz planners like phase one of Newport Square plan

The Lititz Planning Commission on March 2 officially approved the following February business:

The Feb. 2 meeting of the Lititz Planning Commission was called to order at 7:30 p.m. at borough hall. Those present included commission chairman David Bucher, and members James Wenger, Karen Weibel and Tom Matteson. Piazza was excused. Others in attendance were secretary pro tem Lynn Stauffer, borough council representatives Al Olah and Ruth McKennon, Joel Snyder and Mark Johnson from RGS Inc., and Mike Glass. The minutes from the Jan. 3 meeting were approved unanimously.

Newport Square

Snyder and Johnson presented phase one of the project, dated Jan. 19 for North Oak Street in Lititz Borough and Warwick Township. The minor streets shown on the plan reflect borough standards for street width at 34 feet; not reduced to meet the standards of the township as previously considered. Public works superintendent Nevin Koch was present and reiterated his thoughts on the disadvantages of streets as narrow as 28 feet. Parking is to be on one side of the street.

Phase one shows access to Oak Street from Hummingbird Drive and Road B (approved by the post office as Cambridge Lane). In phase one, 18 lots, 660 feet of North Oak Street and two detention basins will be constructed, and the UGI gas line will be relocated. There remains a concern for the maintenance of basin B in lot #13.

A letter of credit for improvements in the amount of $398,745 is being submitted and the fee in lieu of parkland is yet to be determined. An agreement between the borough and the township is being finalized for water and sewer hookup. The street trees will be located between the curb and sidewalk, and streetlights could be behind the sidewalk but still within the 10-foot right of way.

Street light style, street cross section, sealing plan and the Lancaster County Conservation District letter were all reviewed. A clean letter has been received from the borough engineer. Therefore, the commission approved phase one of the project, recommending that the street lighting be resolved with borough council. Phase two is expected to be submitted for approval next year.

Trail System

Bucher recommended that the location of a Lititz Run trail system be north of the railroad tracks and share the railroad right of way, rather than be located south of the Lititz Run due to the number of property owners to the south. A 10-foot wide path could connect Oak Street to the railroad station, and it could be announced at the railroad station dedication ceremony. Thoughts were that borough council could form a committee for the trail system. The trail system topic was nothing more than discussion and so far no official action has been taken on such a plan.

Strategic Planning

Each member of borough council, the mayor, and the planning commission is to serve on one of four community advisory committees as part of the strategic plan process. There will be four meetings for each committee and one training session. The assignments are:

1. Physical Development - Matteson and Weibel;
2. Economic Development - Wenger;
3. Infrastructure Development - Piazza and Bucher;
4. Community Development.

Potential Map

Several parcels of land within the borough were reviewed as locations where future development could possibly take place. A list of these parcels is available at borough hall.

While the above items represent discussion by the commission during its Feb. 2 meeting, official documentation is not approved until its next meeting, which in this case was held on Tuesday. Because of space limitations, the Record Express runs a condensed version of the meeting minutes. For reference to meeting minutes in their entirety, residents of this borough should inquire at the Lititz municipal building at 7 S. Broad St.

Municipal Profile

Warwick Twp. Supervisor chairman

Name: Daniel B. Garrett
Current Address: 500 Owl Hill Road

Age: 53
Hometown: Denver, Pa.
Family: Married to Mary Ann, with two sons, Andrew, 16, and Alex, 15.

Education: Cocalico High School graduate. Earned a bachelor of science degree at Millersville University; Franklin and Marshall College, and Penn State University, master's equivalency degree.

Employment: Social studies teacher in the Conestoga Valley School District; vice president, Child Care Services, Inc. He is also owned a horse business from 1975-86, including instruction, showing, racing, buying and selling horses.

Elected Position: Warwick Township Supervisor
Started at Position: 1994, for a six-year term. Elected chairman of the board in 1995.

Duties

As chairman of the Board of Supervisors, I oversee the workings of the township police force, public works department, and office staff; manage infrastructure development, consisting of housing, roads, recreation and watershed reconstruction.

Most Enjoyable Aspect

Being a part of all the positive things happening in Warwick Township. We are on the "cutting edge" in the areas of watershed development and farmland preservation to the point of being a model for the state and nation. I enjoy working with the motivated and visionary people involved with the township.

Least Enjoyable Aspect

Not being able to satisfy everyone. Other government and civic roles in the community:

I served five years on the Planning Commission, and during that time much of the land for our Linear Park and recreational facilities was acquired. During my tenure as township supervisor, these facilities were then developed. I was able to see many of these projects from inception to completion. Also serve as a member of the Lancaster Housing Opportunity Partnership Executive Board.

Warwick Business Manager David Zerbe said that the bankruptcy trustee, Carl Izzo, who is reviewing the case, has added an implied interest rate equal to the amount the school districts were anticipated to earn from their investment.

The result of that decision added an additional $103,699 to Warwick's claim, bringing the money they are seeking up to $1,075,421.

Zerbe added that a former partner of Black's, who left Devon one year before the investigation began, has now had his funds sequestered, and that it could be used to cover some of the school district claims.

During a recent conversation with Izzo, Zerbe said he was told that the trustee is interested in settling this matter "in the best interest of the schools."

Weapons Policy

The School Board is reviewing a possible change in its weapons policy.

As Iovino described it, if a student is found with a weapon on school grounds in May, the current rule would expel him from school for the rest of the school year.

That rule may change to require expulsion from school for "not less than a year," unless a shorter sentence is recommended by the superintendent. Currently, the policy only outlines expulsion for the duration of the school year.

Students in grades 7-12 would still be required to appear before the School Board for a hearing before a punishment is levied. This was the first reading of the proposed policy change.

Municipal Meetings

LITITZ — The Arthritis Foundation is applauding the fundraising efforts of its volunteers.

The foundation is once again sponsoring "Applause!". The children's fashion show is produced annually by volunteers and raises money for the Arthritis Foundation which provides research, education, and special programs to help those affected by this painful and sometimes crippling disease.

One of the volunteers is local woman Kim Benjamin.

Benjamin got involved last year after seeing a picture in the paper. She thought the fashion show would be a lot of fun for her daughter Katie Benjamin-Campbell, who at just one-year old was the youngest model.

"I thought it would be fun since she likes to show-off," said Benjamin. "This year I joined the committee."

The event will be held on Sunday, March 7 at the Quality Inn and Suites, Oregon Pike in Lancaster. The event not only includes a fashion show, but dinner will be served. A raffle including Beanie Babies, a 5-pound Hershey bar, and tickets to area attractions will also take place. Additional entertainment will be provided by Movement Laboratory.

Fashions for the show are provided by Hopscotch and Marbles, Limited Too, Gymboree Store, and Kids R Us. The children will be photographed by Lori Stahl.

Benjamin said that the event is in conjunction with Juvenile Arthritis Awareness Week.

"It's a fun way to raise money for a cause," she said. "Unless they know someone affected, not many people realize children get arthritis."

Benjamin hopes that the event will raise awareness of the problem. She said tickets will be sold at the door for $15 each. According to Benjamin, most people come because they know someone involved. She would like to see that change.

"It was very nicely done last year," said Benjamin who wants this year to be even better.

She said this year's theme is "Hunt for a Cure" and will feature lots of Easter Egg Baskets and Easter Egg themes.

"It makes it fun for the kids," she said.

Other Lititz people involved are Hannah Albert, Carly Christy, Stephanie Gassert, and Kerry Diem from Be-Sharp production who will emcee.

For more information on the event call the Arthritis Foundation at 397-6271.

with Rev. Jack Shope; 10:30 a.m., Blood pressure checks with Joanne Gobble; 11 a.m., Spelling bee practice.

Lunch: Roast turkey with gravy, au gratin potatoes, California blend vegetables, wheat bread, juice and cupcake.

Wednesday, March 10: Center Closed for trip to Philadelphia Flower Show. Water Aerobics will still be held at Lititz Community Center at 9:15 a.m.

Thursday, March 11: 9 a.m.-noon, Tax assistance, by appointment; 9:30 a.m., Crafts; 10:30 a.m., Ombudsman program, with Leanne Garner of the Office of Aging.

Lunch: Spaghetti with meatballs, parmesan cheese, tossed salad with dressing, garlic bread stick and sliced pineapple.

Friday, March 12: 10 a.m., Eleanor's "Movietime," with popcorn; 1 p.m., shopping, Ephrata participants.

Lunch: Egg omelette with cheese sauce, hash brown potatoes, oat bran muffin, orange juice and citrus sections.

To reserve a meal, call the Center one day in advance. Milk and bread are served with all meals. For more information, call Bertha Ford at 626-2800.

Hot Issue — The fate of small games of chance in Lititz is now in the hands of the voters.

After numerous speeches by visitors as well as council members, Lititz Borough Council voted 3-2 Tuesday night to allow the small games of chance question on the May 16 primary ballot. About 40 visitors attended the meeting.

Voters will decide whether licenses may be issued to borough organizations for operating games such as lotteries, raffles, fish bowls, pull-tabs and punchboards. The measure has the strong backing of the Lititz VFW, Lititz American Legion and the Lititz Fire Company.

Young Artists — Students from Warwick High School and Junior High School had 129 works of art — more than any other school district — accepted in the 1989 Lancaster County Scholastic Art Awards competition. Megan Altemos, a Warwick senior, had the greatest number of works by a single artist. She had a total of 15 accepted.

May In March — Rodney D. May, 200 Hershey Road, was appointed to the Elizabeth Township Board of Supervisors Monday night to fill the vacancy created when Supervisor Jay Foreman resigned last month.

May is currently serving a term on the township planning commission, which will expire in July.

Also announcing their candidacy for Supervisor are Daniel M. Groff, 1651 Furnace Hills Pike, and Larry Wiker, 130 Blantz Road.

Ambucs Show — The Lititz American Business Club is preparing to put on its 20th benefit show, "Once Upon A Mattress," the musical comedy version of "The Princess and the Pea."

The minstrel (Dennis Ritter) tells the real version of this classic fairy tale. He, along with the jester (Dale Shelley) and the wizard (Bob Rosenberg), manage to involve themselves in various scenes throughout the show, which will take place March 30 and 31 at the Warwick High School.

All Republicans — All present borough councilmen, with the exception of one, whose terms expire at the end of this year, are expected to file petitions for reelection.

M.C. Demmy, 419 S. Cedar St., has announced his retirement from council. George K. Biemesderfer, 6 E. Third Ave., will seek election from the third ward to replace Demmy.

Three incumbent school directors are expected to seek reelection. They are Horace A. Kauffman, 25 E. Lemon St., president of the board; Dr. Rodney C. Welch, 415 S. Cedar St.; and Wallace B. Hofferth, 212 E. Second Ave.

All candidates are Republicans. Legion Week — American Legion Post 56, 109 N. Broad St., will celebrate their 50th anniversary week, March 10-15.

Monday will be spaghetti night, Tuesday will be peanut night, Wednesday will be membership night and will include special entertainment, Thursday will be chip night, and Friday will be a teen-age dance for youths age 15 to 19 years.

Need More Industry — Getting new industrial plants to locate in Lititz is even more important than the building of new homes in solving the borough's current financial problems, Paul McCloud emphasized at a fact-finding discussion held in the General Sutter Hotel Tuesday evening.

"To understand the situation you must go back to 1930, when Lititz Councils were concerned with balancing budgets and keeping tax rates low and not interested in any comprehensive plan for the future."

Pool By '60 — Borough Council Tuesday night authorized creation of a public swimming pool advisory committee and voiced the optimistic outlook that "it's possible to have a pool in 1960."

The action came at a two and one half hour meeting with members of the Citizens Committee for a Public Pool in Lititz and other interested spectators who filled council chambers to overflowing. A count of noses showed 32 persons present.

Memorial Oak — A large oak tree which stood for years on the Bomberger farm northwest of the borough has been transplanted in the Lititz Springs Park.

The oak was transplanted as a memorial to the late Henry and Mary Bomberger by their children.

LAMS racers are designed to go the distance

WARWICK TWP. — Last Friday, some students at Lititz Area Mennonite School were encouraged to play with their food.

Teams of four students participated in the Lunch Box Derby, a program created by the growers of Washington apples to familiarize fourth and fifth grade students with a variety of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Students were challenged to design and build a race car that can "go the distance," using various fresh fruits and vegetables. The teams then competed to see which car could travel the greatest distance down a ramp.

In order to stress the need for at least five servings of fruits and vegetables daily, the car was constructed with at least five fresh fruits and vegetables.

In the end, the cucumber-based hot rod created by Kaitlin Eisenberg, Rachel Good, Samantha Farmer and Ashlee Martin was the fourth grade winner at LAMS. For the fifth grade an eggplant car with orange slice wheels was the victor, created by Mikaela Hostetter, Stephanie Weaver, Leticia Kreider and Bethany Weaver.

The Lunch Box Derby is a nationwide contest. These two teams will compete with other elementary classes from across America for a spot in the national finals.

LAMS teachers in charge of the project were Keith Garner and Becky Good.

Health Corner TEMPEH (#6 In A Series)

Tempeh is a fermented soybean cake that originated centuries ago in Indonesia. The fermentation breaks down the proteins and natural sugars in the beans, eliminating the digestive challenges that some soy foods may cause. Tempeh is an extraordinary food that, like tofu, has a spongelike capacity to absorb flavor. Because of its meatlike texture, it makes a great meat substitute.

FIREHOUSE CHILI WITH BEANS & TEMPEH

Flavors develop if you make this ahead and reheat it.

Have ready:

8 oz. tempeh, steamed for 10 mins.

28 oz. can plum tomatoes, coarsely chopped

20 oz. can red kidney beans with liquid

Heat a large kettle and add: 2 Tbsp. oil

Saute until soft:

1 large onion, chopped

2 cloves garlic, chopped

1 green pepper, chopped

Grate or crumble the tempeh and add to the skillet.

Sprinkle with:

2 Tbsp chili powder

1 tsp. coriander

2 tsp. cumin

1 tsp. basil

2 Tbsp. tamari (or soy sauce)

1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper

Cook and stir for 5-10 mins. to brown tempeh. Add tomatoes, bring to a boil; simmer 15 mins.

Add kidney beans, with liquid, to kettle and simmer 15 mins. Enjoy!

Placebo Effect and Blind Studies

Our previous article addressed the question of effectiveness of magnets for pain relief. An internet search of magnet effectiveness found one "double blind" study that found some pain relief in post polio syndrome patients. The authors suggested caution in interpreting the results of their study.

Placebo effect can be described as results in experiments that are based purely on the test subjects expectations; the positive response to sugar pills is well known. To account for placebo effect, studies are done "blind". The subject doesn't know if he/she is getting a real or a sham treatment. In double blind studies, neither the tester or the subject knows if the test is real or sham.

Our magnet test will be "double blind". Some people will get real magnets, some people will get sham magnets. We will be very interested to know the results of your magnet on painful conditions. Remember this test is designed for good fun (no fair testing your "magnet" on the refrigerator), not necessarily for good science.

Please plan to visit our booth (section D-8) at the Ambucs Business Expo March 12 and 13. Free "magnets" to those who participate in our study.

Prayer Request

"Prayer Request" This heading appears regularly on messages on the Unitas (worldwide Moravian Church) e-mail list. Usually it means that someone is ill or injured, often the parent or spouse or child of a Moravian pastor. But in a larger sense, such a request also means that Moravians believe in the power of intercessory prayer. This belief is firmly grounded in the gospel message, recalling both the role of prayer in Jesus' own healing ministry and his instruction to his disciples on how and when to pray.

Soon after the renewal of the Moravian church in Herrnhut, Germany, in 1727, a group of the faithful agreed among themselves to have at least one of their number always in prayer for their companions, for their leadership, and for the world-wide church. This Hourly Intercession, as it was called, continued unbroken for over one hundred years. On August 27, 1872, a Moravian Prayer Union was formed in England as a revival of the Hourly Intercession. Today this covenant of prayer continues as each Moravian congregation is assigned in turn to a twenty-four hour period. It takes just about one year for this schedule of prayer to travel around the world and return to any given congregation.

Daily prayer is encouraged for everyone, of course. You don't have to wait for a whole year to join again in intercessory prayer. Every Sunday one of our pastors reads the names of those who are seriously ill, have been hospitalized recently, or are otherwise in need of the prayers of the congregation. Then the congregation is invited to add prayer requests of our own to the list already provided. I must confess that I was uncomfortable with this latter practice when it was initiated some years ago.

Filmmaker speaks here

LITITZ — Jeff Searles, a son of the congregation, will speak to the Fellowship Sunday School Class on March 7 from 9 to 10 a.m. in the social hall of the Moravian Church.

Assistant director of development for the Jesus Film project, Searles has been with Campus Crusade for Christ for 26 years, the last 13 working with the Jesus film. He and his wife Janell and their two children live in San Clemente, Calif.

There are 483 translations of this widely used film, either completed or in progress. It has been distributed in over 200 countries. The number of viewers has been estimated to be one and one half billion worldwide. Over 83 million decisions for Christ have been recorded. And over five and a half million videos are in circulation.

Locally, several churches are participating in distributing the film door-to-door.

Anyone interested in hearing Searles tell of his work is cordially invited.

ALL INVITED — On March 2, Lititz Mayor Russell Pettyjohn signed a proclamation that recognizes March 5 as World Day of Prayer here in the borough. Joining the mayor is Jeff Batzer (right), who is the featured speaker for the community-wide event this Friday at Trinity E.C. Church, corner of Cedar and Orange streets. Everyone is invited to attend this international moment of fellowship sponsored by the Warwick Association of Churches. In addition to Batzer's talk about how prayer changed his life and the mayor's reading of the proclamation, scripture will be read by Rev. Ryan E. Taylor of Trinity E.C., pastoral prayer will be led by Rev. Irvin E. Straw Jr. of Salem Lutheran Church of Kissel Hill, Lois Hummer is the organist, and special music will be performed by saxophonist Heidi Limbert, with accompaniment by Cindy Mason. Rev. Dr. Roy T. Haupt is the host pastor for the day and there will be a pizza party following the service. It all begins at 7 p.m. this Friday.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE
INCARNATION, ANYONE?
March 7, 1999

Background Scripture:
John 1:1-18; 20:30, 31
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 33:1-9

The late Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick said that, when Jesus first began his ministry, many people said, God sent him. Throughout Jewish history, God had sent an ample supply of prophets, rulers, champions and so forth. After a while, however, says Fosdick, "that sounded too cold, as though God were the bow and Jesus the arrow." So, some probably went on to say, God is with him. And for a while, that seemed adequate. Jesus could not do what he did unless God was with him.

Eventually, it was not enough, so that people began to say God came in him. "That was not so much theology at first as poetry," said Fosdick. "It was an exhilarating insight and its natural expression was a song. God can come into human life! they cried. God has come into human life!" That is what the incarnation means.

In beginning his gospel the Evangelist used a very special Greek term: Logos. The English rendering of Logos—Word—is rather weak by comparison. This Greek philosophical term was introduced about 500 years before the birth of Jesus, probably by Heraclitus of Ephesus. Stoics and Platonists understood the term to mean "the mind of God," reflected in the rationality, order and harmony of the universe.

To Jews, the "Word of God" represented God's penchant for expressing and revealing himself creatively. In Psalms 33:6 we read: "By the word of the Lord the heavens were made..." The prophets were given the "word of the Lord." In Proverbs 8:22-31 God's wisdom is the word of God, as William Hamilton puts it, "a portion of God extended into the world." Later, the Jewish philosopher Philo of Alexandria attempted to merge the Greek and Jewish concepts, both of which were impersonal in their nature.

When John the Evangelist used Logos in the opening of his gospel, however, he used it in a way that they probably had not anticipated: "And the word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth" (John 1:14). This was a giant step, for he is saying what to many was unthinkable: the creative, expressive faculty of God became a human being! As much of God as can be expressed in human nature is what we encounter in Jesus the Christ.

GOD'S CHARACTER
Christians have played all kinds of semantic and percentage games with the concept of incarnation. It is impossible. Jesus was not 50% human and 50% divine or any other percentage breakdown. The best we can say—that he was 100% human and 100%—divine is good poetry but lousy mathematics. The fact of Christ, says Dr. Carnegie Simpson, "does not indeed show us everything, but it shows us the one thing we need to know—the character of God." A. Ian Burnett comments: "In other words, God must be like Christ. The character of the Creator cannot be less than the highest He has created, and the highest is that babe born to Mary on the first Christmas morning."

J.B. Phillips' translation of John in The Gospels puts it with beautiful clarity:

At the beginning, God expressed Himself. That Personal Expression was with God and was God, and he existed with God from the beginning. All creation took place through Him.... So the Expression of God became a human being and lived among us. (Macmillan, 1953)

The human mind can never comprehend the Creator of the cosmos. We can never analyze God's nature nor devise a theology that adequately explains how he works in this world. But, because of Jesus Christ we can know all we need to know. We can entrust ourselves to the mercies of a God whose character is glimpsed in the life of Jesus.

The incarnation, however, does not stop with Jesus Christ. St. Irenaeus tells us that "The Word of God, Jesus Christ, for his great love for mankind, became what we are in order to make us what he is himself." The object of Christian discipleship is for each of us to incarnate God in our own lives, however imperfectly.

Veterans back scouting with big bucks

ily units play in executing these ideals.

"The reason this school district is strong is because of what we have here today," Iovino said during the spaghetti dinner.

One of the highlights of the day was the bridging ceremony, in which Troop 142 Scoutmaster Tom Lehman and Troop 44 Scoutmaster Charles Rettew oversaw many of the Cub Scouts graduate on to Boy Scouts.

"I just hope the boys who are leaving us use their knowledge gained from scouting to assist them in their school work and their friendships, and most of all that it's helped bring their families closer together," he said.

Close to 150 people attended the banquet and other special moments included Bear and Wolf Badge presentations, a song by the young Tiger Cubs, a yo-yo demonstration, recognition of the leaders and lots of door prizes donated by local businesses.

Vicky Kendig offered some food for thought on why the events of Feb. 27 in Lititz might be so important.

"For every 100 boys who join scouting, records indicate that rarely will one be brought before the juvenile court system, two will become Eagle Scouts, 17 will become future scout volunteers, 12 will have their first contact with a church, one will enter the clergy, five will earn their church award, 18 will develop a hobby that will last throughout their adult life, eight will enter a vocation that was learned through the merit badge system, one will use his scouting skills to save his own life, and one will use his scouting skills to save the life of another person," she read.

These are the ideals that prompted the Lititz Springs VFW Post 1463 to donate over $4,500 to local Boy, Cub and Girl Scout troops and packs in this area. Post commander John Zagorski said that veterans and scouts have common creeds.

"The scouting movement really goes along with the VFW principles of good citizenship, flag respect and patriotism," Zagorski said. "It's a very direct way to get both boys and girls involved in positive things. I was a scout when I was a youngster, and I know the direction that I got."

The VFW donations will help provide 952 children with tents, camping equipment, canoes, flags, computer software and pinewood derby supplies.

Worldwide scouting pride dates back to the turn of the century, when Lord Baden-Powell, an officer in the English army, took a group of boys on an outing to Brownsea Island in 1907. The popularity of Baden-Powell's movement escalated quickly and soon reached the shores of America, and eventually the springs and farmlands of Lititz.

Trinity E.C. welcomes 'Farr-out' missionaries

LITITZ — Trinity E.C. Church will have an adult missionary fellowship on March 7 at 7 p.m., featuring the Farris. Jim and Cindi Farr, serving with the Wycliffe Bible Translators Summer Institute of Linguistics, have recently returned to Lititz, from Papua New Guinea. For the past 27 years, they have been studying different linguistics and cultures.

Jim received his BA in German and

education at Ursinus College, and Cindi received hers in Spanish and education. They were married in 1968 and had a son Jamie, in 1970. In 1972, the Farr family moved to Baga village to live with the Korafe and Mokorua people. The Korafe church did not have a Bible in their language, so the Anglican Church sent for a translation team and Jim and Cindi were lead to respond.

The highlight of many years of hard work came in October of 1984, when the archbishop of Papua New Guinea, the Farris and other dignitaries celebrated the dedication of the new Korafe-Mokorua New Testament. Jim was also elected as the associated director of language affairs in both 1986 and 1996, supervising the program of over 200 language teams. In 1997, Cindi received her Ph.D. in linguistics thanks to a lot of prayers, the Lord's help and some hard work.

The Farris plan to return to Papua

New Guinea in September to continue their work, supporting the body of Christ among the Korafe and Baruga people. They will be assisting with a pre-school program, supervising national translators and helping with the spiritual growth and unity among the churches that are springing up in the area.

Trinity E.C. is located at Cedar and Orange streets in Lititz.

Having been brought up in a very formal liturgical tradition, it seemed to me somehow unseemly for congregational members to be calling out names and concerns in the middle of the church service. But I have come to appreciate thoroughly this participation of the people in the prayers of the church. Prayer has stopped being something that the pastor does while we all listen, and has become the responsibility of the gathered community.

Prayer is, insofar as I am aware, one of the elements of worship and personal devotion shared by all of the world's major religions. While the specific forms and customs differ immensely, the underlying impetus - communication with and petition to one's God for the benefit of oneself, of one's family and neighbors, and of the world - appears to be a common one. It seems to me that this common impulse to prayer should be one of the things which bind us together in our shared humanity, each recognizing in the other the desire to draw nearer to the Creator of us all.

I long for a world where billions of prayers each day twine in a rainbow fabric of petition and praise, and where billions of praying women and men join in mutual recognition, respect, and caring. Surely this is a truer path to world peace than the one we are on at present.

Famous atlas expected to bring more than $48,000

JILL GAGLIANO
Record Express Staff

LITITZ — It is not often that a person has the opportunity to purchase an item belonging to an acquaintance of Adolf Hitler.

However, on March 13 the Heritage Map Museum in Lititz is offering just that chance.

Museum owner Jim Hess recently acquired "Theatrum Orbis Terrarum" by Ortelius, 1592, which is hailed as the first true or modern atlas.

Not only is the atlas an impressive piece on its own, but it also has strong historical and political ties. The atlas was once owned by General Major Professor Karl Haushofer, who with his son, Albrecht, were primary advisors to Adolf Hitler and Rudolph Hess.

Haushofer first met Hitler in Landsberg prison in 1923 when he was writing "Mein Kampf." He was secretly involved with the German Resistance and part of the failed "bomb plot" to kill Hitler. As a result, father and son were imprisoned, and Albrecht was subsequently shot by the SS in 1945.

"It's rare to get scientific work with political people who used the book," said Hess. "It's a rare piece. There are only a couple available in the World."

Heritage Map Museum owner Jim Hess displays the historic atlas that will be on the auction block at the museum on March 13.

According to Hess, the atlas is an absolutely rich presentation of maps from all over the World. It includes the first map of the Pacific.

"It's the creme de la creme," said Hess. "It's beautifully colored and presented."

The family who owned the atlas found Hess on the Internet and contacted him. He said that he "won the competition to bring the atlas to the market" over people all over the World. He admits that he was on the phone one night and on a plane to Canada — where the family resides — the next day.

Hess said the famous atlas will bring a minimum of $48,000. He already has received several bids. He said people are flying in from across the country to attend the auction. Pictures of the atlas can be found on the museum's website — <http://www.carto.com>.

Hess holds auctions four times a year at the Lititz museum featuring a wide selection of maps from the 16th, 17th, and 18th centuries. Bidders from all over the World participate in the auctions by phone, fax, e-mail, and in person. The last time Hess auctioned such a high profile item was the 1555 "Munster's Cosmography" which went for "20,000."

"This could be a record for any item sold at a Lancaster County Auction," said Hess, who said the atlas could bring as much as $150,000. "It is a statement that the museum is competing and exceeding other auction houses in the World."

Brubaker earns Leaders' honor of Brotherhood

MINNEAPOLIS — Frederick Brubaker, LUTCF, FIC, a district representative in Lititz, recently earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1998 Leaders' Club. He is affiliated with Pfirsich Financial Group in Reading.

Leaders' Club is one of Lutheran Brotherhood's most prestigious sales honors. Representatives qualify for membership in the club based on the sale of insurance and investment products to Lutherans.

Lutheran Brotherhood offers a broad range of financial products and services to Lutherans nationwide. A not-for-profit fraternal benefit society, Lutheran Brotherhood allocated more than $66 million in 1998 to charitable and benevolent programs aiding members, their communities, Lutheran congregations and institutions.

building housed Moravian sisters and was used in part as a school.

In 1857, the ownership of the building was transferred from the Moravian Church to the school known as Linden Hall. The building has been used for classrooms, a Junior College, student housing and today, houses faculty of the school.

The much-needed renovations will preserve the historic value of the building. The Lancaster County Foundation fund projects that improve the quality of life in Lancaster County and make the county an exceptional place to live.

Linden Hall School for Girls, founded in 1746, is a non-profit institution providing a college preparatory education for young women in grades 6 through 12.

The historic Sisters' House, or the "Castle," at Linden Hall will receive some renovations thanks to a grant from the Lancaster County Foundation.

Grant will help preserve Linden Hall Sisters' House

LITITZ — Linden Hall School for Girls has received a grant for $4,650 from the Governing Board of the Lancaster Foundation to be used to renovate the interior hallways of the historic Sisters' House on the school's campus.

The Sisters' House, now known as the "Castle," is the oldest building on Church Square in Lititz, and is listed in the Historic Preservation Trust. The building was begun in 1758 and completed in 1761.

Moravian Church diaries record that all member of the congregation were required to contribute lumber to the project and that the bricks and roof slates came from the Bethlehem congregation. The original beams and bricks are still part of the building today. Originally the

Ambucs expo expects 80 businesses, thousands of visitors March 12-13

LITITZ — For the fourth consecutive year the Lititz Ambucs, a nonprofit service organization formerly known as the American Business Club of Lititz, will sponsor a business expo.

The 1999 event will again be held at the Lititz Community Center behind

Warwick High School, Friday, March 12, from noon to 8 p.m. and Saturday, March 13 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The 1998 expo drew 62 area businesses and organizations to display their goods and services and over 2000 members of the public. In 1999 the expo will be even bigger and better as close to 80 booths have already been registered.

Admission is free to the public and there will be free door prizes and raffles of an exciting variety of goods and services. Last year, 100 of these prizes were given away. For example, some attendees went home with free hot air balloon rides, a free television set, and free meal coupons to area restaurants.

All proceeds from the business expo are returned to the community by the Ambucs, a service club in the borough since 1956, well known for its sponsorship of the Warwick Community Ambulance Association, scholarships for physical therapists, and numerous other charitable and community organizations.

Information regarding the expo is available from committee chairpersons Dick Nuffort at 299-0711 or John Watson at 627-2325. The Ambucs 24-hour per day voice mail number is 627-7169.

Service is key at Rettew's Notary Service

Whether you need automotive notary service or a convenient one-stop package service, Rettew's Notary and Messenger Service, 1050 Lancaster Road, Manheim, is ready to take care of you.

With their location on Route 72 just across from the Manheim Auto Auction, they serve many dealers at the auction with a vast array of automotive services, such as auto tags and titles. Chuck said that even though they serve many auto dealers, they are primarily here to serve the needs of the general public.

After more than 21 years of service, Rettew's is still providing all of the services you would expect from a notary — issuing learner's permits, driver's licenses, title transfers, birth certificates, and other notary and dealer service. And they do it at competitive prices.

They also offer UPS service including boxes for packages.

"Anybody can be a notary or messenger service," said Chuck. "But knowing what you are doing and working and understanding PennDOT, that's where we excel over many other services."

They are also one of the fastest notary services around, making daily trips to Harrisburg to ensure that your paperwork is processed as quickly as possible.

Chuck and Andrea Rettew enjoy helping their customers, whether it is sending packages with UPS or providing the usual notary service.

They are committed to their messenger service, reducing the time it takes for many services from weeks to days. Rettew's also offers instant boat registrations, and instant learner's permits for currently licensed drivers.

Chuck added that while it may be busy at the Manheim Auto Auction on Fridays, the same is not always the case at his place. "We do some business with them, but not to the extent that some people believe. We are here for the general public, not just the dealers."

Rettew's is now open even later each day to better serve its customers. Rettew's is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. - 8 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m.

For more information on the many services offered at Rettew's, give them a call at 665-3555.

Company opens new doors in business

Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster is opening the door to a new line of products. They are no longer concerned just with what goes over their customers heads, but also what is directly in front of their customers.

Since the beginning of 1999, Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster has offered entry doors in addition to their current line of products.

The new entry doors come in custom sizes and too many colors to mention, but just in case one of those colors does not match exactly, the customer can bring in a color chip that can be matched to perfection. In addition to a wide variety of colors, customers can choose from 100 different styles of glass for the door.

According to the company's residential salesman Scott Frymyer, the new doors come in a one-piece aluminum frame.

"It is harder to break or kick-in than a wooden frame," he said, adding that they are also steel insulated.

Frymyer said the doors, which come with a 10-year warranty, are neatly put in place by factory trained installers.

"There is virtually no mess," he said.

As part of their new line of products, Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster is also offering storm doors, patio doors, and side lights for the sides of the doors.

According to Frymyer, the decision to add the new products was made by popular demand of homeowners.

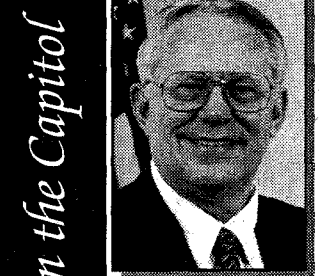

"We had a lot of requests and didn't want to refer them to our competition," said Frymyer.

The new line of products does not mean that they will be decreasing their garage door business, said Frymyer. Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster will install garage doors as well as service any make or model of garage door openers, which they also sell. Frymyer said they have a complete line of commercial products available.

If something breaks in the middle of the night or during the weekend don't worry, Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster offers customers 24-hour emergency service by calling 626-2211.

Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster is accredited by the Institute of Door Dealer Education and Accreditation, an organization for the garage door and operator dealer industry. To receive the designation, certain criteria measuring technical, safety and business knowledge, and verifying industry experience as well as licensing and insurance compliance must be met by the company.

Overhead Door Co. of Lancaster has been in business in Lancaster County for more than 35 years. For more information contact Scott Frymyer at 626-2211 or stop by their showroom at 569 Furnace Hills Pike just north of Lititz. They will also have a booth at the Spring Home Show at Franklin & Marshall College on March 4-7.

Taxes shouldn't penalize marriage

When you're walking down the aisle on what's supposed to be the happiest day of your life, the last thing you should be thinking about is the IRS. After all, when a couple stands at the altar and says, "I do," they're not agreeing to higher taxes. But higher taxes are often what they get, in the form of the "marriage penalty." The marriage penalty is the quirk in the tax code that punishes millions of married couples who file their income taxes jointly by pushing them into higher tax brackets.

Here's how it works: The marriage penalty taxes the income of a family's second wage earner — often the wife's salary — at a much higher rate than if the salary were only taxed as an individual. For example, consider a couple whose husband and wife each earn $30,500 for a total household income of $61,000. Subtracting their personal income exemptions and standard deductions of $12,200, this couple's taxable income is $48,900 — and a significant portion of that amount is taxed at the 28 percent marginal rate.

However, if this couple were living together, but not married, they would get a better tax rate from Uncle Sam. The reason? In 1997, singles were allowed a standard deduction of $4,150 and a standard exemption of $2,650. Thus, an unmarried couple last year could take a combined standard deduction and exemption equal to $13,600. Married couples, on the other hand, were only allowed to take a combined standard deduction totaling $12,200. The unmarried couple receives $1,400 more in deductions than the married couple.

There is a lot that our families can do with an extra $1,400 a year. We could buy an extra $27 a week in groceries, or pay an average power bill of $153 over nine months. We would put a down payment on a new car, or buy over 1,200 gallons of gas. We could take a week long vacation to Disneyworld, or spend 36 evenings together over a $40 dinner. We could invest in our children's education future. Or we could save for our retirement so that we won't have to worry about how we will get by when we grow old.

Compounding the inequity in the tax code is the difference between tax bracket thresholds for married filers and single filers. For example, in 1998, single filers will be allowed to earn up to $25,350 in taxable income before they are forced from the 15 percent tax bracket into the 28 percent tax bracket. Therefore an unmarried couple will be able to earn up to $50,700 before being taxed at the 28 percent rate. This is compared to a married couple who can only earn $42,350 in taxable income before having to pay the higher rate. Clearly, the difference is not small and the impact is significant.

One might ask — how significant the impact on married couples? Very significant, according to a recent study by the Congressional Budget Office. CBO estimated that more than 21 million couples in 1996 were forced to pay a marriage penalty averaging $1,400.

This is why for the past few years, I have been advocating the elimination of this unfair marriage bias in our tax code. The key component of any measure should be to eliminate the marriage penalty for two-wage earner families without creating a new and equally unfair penalty against more traditional single wage earner families. It is the most simple and fair approach to eliminating the marriage penalty that will benefit all married couples. In my view, it is the right move for America, primarily because it demonstrates that we value the core institution of society — the family.

gation is prepared to offer the financial support for these changes.

"I think that we have the potential of doing it but it will require a sacrificial effort on the part of the membership," he said.

The church council met on Feb. 21, at which time approval was given to the concept and an eight-member building committee is chaired by congregation member Dan Bender.

Current membership is a little over 1,000, but Straughan lists active members at around 600.

"What better way to celebrate 250 years than to plan ahead, just as our forefathers and foremothers did," he added.

Nursery School seeks applications

MANHEIM — Ruhl's United Methodist Nursery School is now accepting applications for the 1999-2000 school year.

Ruhl's is a private nursery school offering a Christian educational program teaching God's love and the Gospel of Jesus Christ at age appropriate levels while remaining faithful to the scriptures and doctrinal beliefs of the United Methodist Church.

The nursery school is open from September through mid-May and includes the following classes: A three-day class for 4-5 year-olds, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 9-11 a.m.; and a two-day class for 3-4 year-olds, Wednesday and Friday from 9-11:30 a.m.

The school aims to teach children acceptable social behavior, help children grow and develop simple motor skills and educational concepts, and provide group-learning experiences. Special events throughout the year include field trips, seasonal parties and parent programs.

Ruhl's United Methodist Church is located north of Manheim, one mile west of Route 72, on Elizabethtown Road. For more information, call the nursery school at 665-7508 during school hours, or the church office at 665-3400.

Spinnin' Spurs plans meeting

PENRYN — The next meeting of the Spinnin' Spurs 4-H Club will be Friday, March 5, at the Penryn Fire Hall.

At this meeting, the group will be collecting dues, which are $10, and will be handing out activity books and record books.

The club has lots of fun in 4-H, and new members are always welcome.

If you have any questions, call Cathy Diehm at 627-2424, or Natalie Unger at 626-4162. 4-H is an equal opportunity, non-profit organization.

New President Takes Oath — Herbert Hoover took his solemn oath Monday as President of the United States, while thousands of American citizens, men and women, stood before him, silent, in front of the steps of the Nation's Capitol.

It was estimated 300,000 persons lined Pennsylvania Avenue and witnessed the big inaugural parade in the afternoon during the rainfall.

Editorial: Education and Prohibition — Our new president, Herbert Hoover, will endeavor to make the country drier. His proposed plan is said in part to be based on the education of the public. This is indeed a splendid idea. It seems to us one of the best ways to enforce prohibition.

Prohibition based on individual choice is true prohibition. Personal liberty is a precious possession. It is worth while to teach the true facts of the case against alcoholic excess in order to make persons accept the idea of prohibition of their own free will, eliminating the atmosphere of compulsory regulation of personal habits.

Missing Girl Found — Miss Geraldine Horn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Horn of Brooklyn, N.Y., who ran away from Linden Hall two weeks ago, was found late Saturday night by a Lancaster Policewoman at the home of Col. G.W. Garretson, where she was visiting Co. Garretson's daughters.

Miss Horn had requested permission from her parents to spend the week-end of Feb. 16-18 at her home. That was refused because of their daughter's actions during her last stay at home. Miss Horn became quite incensed at the refusal, even to the extent of expressing her views to associates. It is believed she planned to disappear solely to inflict punishment for the refusal.

A Well Preserved Man — "Early to bed and early to rise" has been the rule of one Lititz man, and now past the age of seventy-seven he still has the firm footstep of youth. He is Christian Burkholder, of Locust street.

He retires every evening at seven o'clock and is up again in the morning between four and half-past four. "This is what I have been doing ever since I was young," he said. "I went around the country butchering for fifty years, and it was necessary for me to rise early in the morning."

Runaway Team — Martin Sahn of E. Petersburg, who has charge of one of the teams of the Fleishman Yeast Company, made one of his trips through Lititz on Monday. While at Miller's store on Broad street, the horse started to run off while the 9 o'clock trolley passed.

Mr. Sahn caught the frightened animal by the bridle but the horse had too much start and was shaken off and just missed being struck by the horse's hoofs and the wheels of the wagon passed over his body.

The horse turned out East Main street, and in front of Kreider's hardware store collided with Christian Bomberger's team tied there, breaking a wheel and bending an axle. The team went the length of town nobody succeeding in stopping it.

At Schaeffer's mill on the Rothsville road, the team was secured, and Harrison Schaeffer brought it to town, turning it over to Mr. Sahn, who pluckily finished his route, although badly bruised and hurt. The same horse ran off some time ago.

Stole Horse and Buggy — Herman Keylor of Penn township, lost his horse and buggy on Saturday night, and all traces of the rig have been lost. Keylor had driven to Manheim to attend church, and he tied his horse in Market Square. After the church services were concluded, Keylor was very much surprised to find his team gone. A thorough search failed to develop a clue as to its whereabouts.

Photographer Coming to Lititz — A.M. Lease, the photographer of 22 North Queen st., Lancaster, has rented the old photograph gallery occupied by George Bew, and will open in a few days, where he will be prepared to make all kinds of photographs in artistic style. He will make the latest fad, the penny pictures, and the best in the country. Watch new advertisements for further notice.

A Conflagration — While the Independent Telephone Co. was busy putting up the wires for the use of our fire alarm system, it was almost necessary to give the alarm of fire before finished. On Thursday morning, when our ex-Burgess J.B. Young paid his last visit to his departing pastor, he placed his umbrella and cigar in such a position on the porch, that the cigar was blown into the umbrella and ignited it. Imagine his surprise when he came out and found his umbrella in ashes. Moral: Quit smoking.

School Entertainment — The entertainment given by the High and Grammar schools on the evening of the 21st was a decided success, financially and otherwise.

The most notable features of the occasion were a drama — "The Changeling, or Which is Which" — and a burlesque opera.

Miscellaneous Notes — Chicken thieves should keep out of Charles Smith's yard after 9 p.m. or run the risk of being shot.

The water gauge of The Express steam engine burst on Wednesday morning, but beyond making some excitement did no great harm.

Business men, wishing to know the names of the "beats" in this section, should call at the local newspaper offices and examine the blacklist.

Twenty-eight trotters were recently taken from the Speedwell Stock Farms to Kentucky and there sold at public sale. One of them brought $610.

If the Shoe Factory Fits... — If shoe factories at other places are profitable institutions, why won't the same business pay at Lititz? Capital and labor are both seeking employment here, and are at least as cheap as elsewhere.

Yes, a shoe factory managed by men of rigid business sense will pay. The services of such men can be obtained.

Fire at Rothsville — On Saturday evening last at about ten o'clock, a fire broke out on the premises of Samuel Erb, near Rothsville, where a small engine had been in use during the day. Mr. and Mrs. Erb had retired for the night and the fire was seen by some of the neighbors, who hurried there and extinguished it before much damage was done. Had it not been for this timely discovery, Mr. Erb might have met with hazardous consequences.

Caution — The country is full of swindlers, and the best rule is to give the cold shoulder to all strangers who claim to represent a new invention, for in nine cases out of ten, you are liable to be victimized.

Deal with the merchants of your own place; they are alive to the wants of their customers, and are just as sharp in procuring the latest invention of value as any traveling salesman.

What Came of It — The case of the Commonwealth vs. William Evans, assault and battery, came off for trial on Tuesday. The prosecutor of the case was Levi G. Kemper, who testified that he met the defendant at the Sturgis House in Lititz on November 23. They became engaged in a quarrel, and the defendant struck him in the face.

Other witnesses testified to these facts and the defendant called one witness to prove that he struck Kemper in self-defense. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, with the costs to be equally divided, which amounted to about $28 on each side.

Record-ings — The Pope writes all his own letters... Mrs. Abraham Lincoln still resides in Paris, France... The Amateur Orchestra of Lititz is a thing of the past... Six and eight tramps in a gang daily pass through here... The people never get done talking about our township election... Wm. Essick wants to be night-watchman of this community... If nothing interferes, the Lititz creek will be one of the finest speckled trout streams in the state.

The Gem of Fortune

The following story is the first of two parts written by Dan Raiser, a junior at Warwick High School. "The Gem of Fortune" won first place for Science Fiction/Fantasy writing in the regional Scholastic Writing Competition.

Mat was breathing hard. He sprinted down the tunnel as fast as his legs could carry him. Every few seconds he would check to see how far behind his pursuers were following. Two other men, the other members of his team, ran ahead of him. They were on a quest to find a gem for a Dwarf named Pudge. He could still remember their meeting the night they had been given this assignment.

"Let me introduce you to my team, Mr. Pudge. The tall fellow to your right is Garth. He is an Elven Ranger from the city of Dauphus in the Kinto forest. The gentleman across from you is Owyn, a mage from Starfall. As for myself, my name is Mat. I am a thief turned warrior from the great city of Aethura."

"Well, you seem like a good bunch," Pudge had said, "I have an easy mission for ye. All ye have to do is go into a mountain and find me a certain gem. A gem of luck ye might say. The gem of fortune. If ye bring it back in one piece, I'll pay ye 1,000 gold marks."

"Some easy mission," Mat thought. "He didn't tell us this mountain was an Ogre colony."

The Ogres were not that far behind them now. The three men's lead kept getting smaller and smaller. They rounded a bend to find a small door in the passage with a large, heavy padlock on it.

"Blocked!" Garth cursed. "How are we going to get through this?"

Mat studied the lock. "I think I can pick it, but I'll need some time. Can you do anything Owyn?"

Owyn nodded. "I have a spell, but my power only allows me to hold it for a short time. You'll have to be quick."

With that, Owyn closed his eyes and began to chant. As his chanting became louder, he started to wave his staff in a circle above his head. Faster and faster the staff swung until with one final work he slammed his staff down. A wall of fire burst out of the cold stone and blocked the passageway just as the Ogres were about to overcome the party. One unfortunate Ogre didn't get out of the way in time and was caught up in the inferno. Not even ashes were left of him.

During this time, Mat was desperately trying to open the door. His three sets of lockpicks were laid out on the ground. He slipped in his set of lockpicks, and began working the tools with speed and experience.

"SNAP!" The tools broke in his hands and fell useless on the ground. Cursing to himself, Mat picked up the next set of lockpicks and began to maneuver them in lock.

"SNAP!" Another set of broken tools fell out of the lock.

"I can't hold this much longer," Owyn shouted. His face was dripping with sweat and you could see the strain on his features.

Mat picked up his last set of lockpicks, his lucky ones. His life depended on whether or not they were still lucky. "Please," he prayed, "don't fail me now."

He plunged them into the lock, using his trick know-how to manipulate the lock. Sweat poured off his face, but his hands remained steady.

"CLICK!" The lock hit the ground at the same time time as Owyn. The firewall disappeared as the young magician lost consciousness. Mat flung open the door as Garth picked Owyn off the ground. Even in unconsciousness, Owyn clutched his staff in an iron grip. It dragged on the ground as he was carried through the doorway. Mat slammed the door shut just as Ogre attacks were about to pass through. The wooden door bent inward under the force. Another whack caused the door to splinter. Mat and Garth readied themselves for an attack, but none came.

"That's odd," Mat remarked. "Why wouldn't they pursue?"

"The heat," Garth replied. "Ogres can't take extremely hot temperatures. We are very close to the center of this mountain now. It's a good thing Owyn's heat resistance spell is still working on all of us."

"How is he?" Mat asked. "He's fine, just exhausted," Garth answered. "Now might be a good time for a break."

They laid Owyn down in-between them and waited for him to revive. They ate some of their rations and drank from their canteen to refuel themselves for the journey ahead. After about half an hour, Owyn began to stir.

"He's coming out of it," Garth said. "Coming out of what?" Owyn asked groggily.

"Your little fainting act," Mat replied. "You had us worried there for a second. Are you okay?"

"I'm fine," Owyn said as he began to get up, "but I don't think I'll be able to pull a stunt like that for a while."

"Are you ready to move?" Garth asked.

"I'm okay," Owyn responded, "Let's finish this."

They started down the corridor. It was a straight tunnel with a red glowing light at the end. Even with Owyn's spell affecting them, they began to feel the heat as they approached the mouth of the tunnel. Stepping out of the tunnel, they beheld a sight beyond their wildest imaginations.

The path before them split to become the ring along the edge of the walls. Below them stood a pit of molten magma, churning and bubbling with white, hot liquid. Up above was the mouth of a crater in the mountain, a spout from which lava would erupt in years to come, the mouth, of a live volcano. It was a spectacle that all three men would never forget.

At the far side of the ring, a small platform was extended over the pit. Gold coins and other treasures were arranged in piles on the platform, and on top of the highest pile, sat a dark blue gem about the size of an apple which gave off a bright blue light.

"That's it," Mat said, "that's what we've come for."

"Then let's grab it and get out of here," Garth said quickly. "I don't like the feeling of this place."

They started towards the platform around the ring of rock. Each tried not to look down to see the consequence of tripping and falling off the edge. It didn't take long to reach the pile.

"Don't even think about taking any of that gold," Mat warned. "We're here for the gem and that's all. I don't want the owner of this pile to seek us out for any reason I can help. Whoever the owner is."

"Or whatever," Owyn said nervously.

"I'll climb the mountain of gold. His long strides carried him to the top in no time, despite a few slips on the gold coins. He reached the top and quickly scooped up the gem and put it in his pouch. As he turned to go, he caused a single gold coin to fall from the pile and began its decent towards the magma. As the coin fell into the magma, an uneasy silence passed between the members of the party. Garth scrambled down the gold pile and joined his companions. An uneasy smile crossed his face.

"There," he said nervously, "that wasn't so hard."

Suddenly an ear-splitting roar erupted from the magma pool. A huge figure began to take shape as it rose from the magma.

"Fire Drake!" Mat shouted. "Everybody run!"

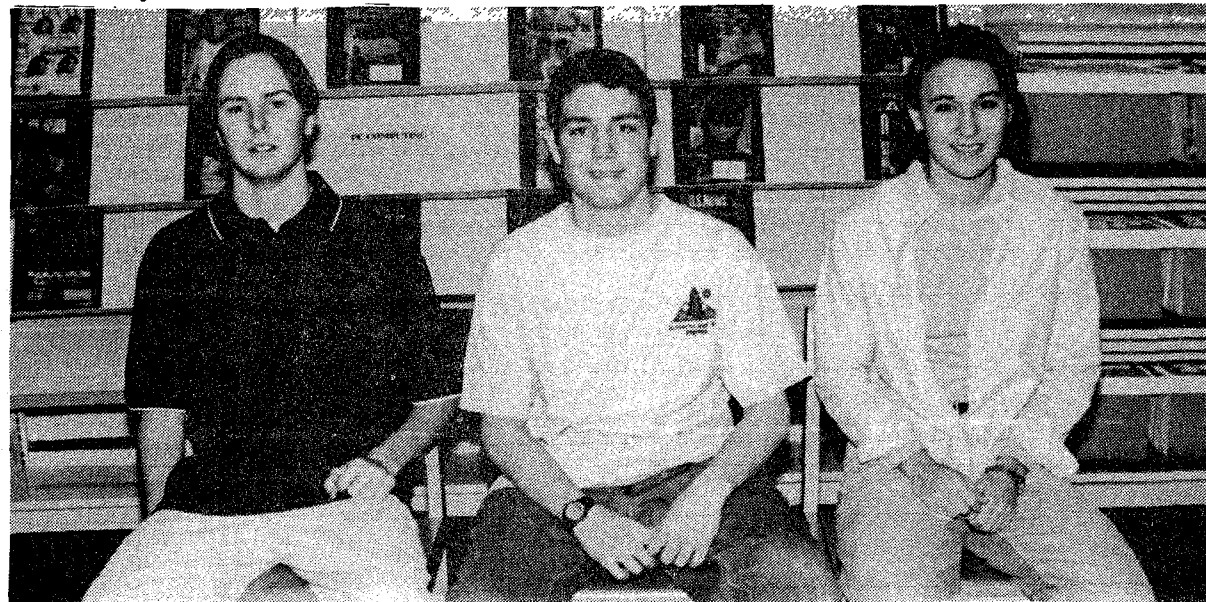

The company bolted towards the nearest tunnel entrance. The fire drake roared again as it came completely out of the magma. This huge creature was the closest kin to the dragons. It was like a dragon in every way, except for the lack of wings. The red metallic scales that covered its body glistened in dripping magma. The beast flexed his mammoth claws of bone that could cut slice a man in two. His tail splashed in the magma as the fire drake stood on his hind legs to lift himself up to the level of the stone ring. The three companions watched in horror as the beast lifted a head the size of a boulder above the ring. The beast's eyes seemed to be flames as it studied the thieves of its treasure. Its board nose puffed black smoke at the end of a snout. As the company doubled its efforts to teach the tunnel, the fire drake opened its mouth to reveal jaws with several rows of sharp teeth. The teeth weren't visible for long because they were soon replaced by a jet of fire that poured from the beasts mouth. The three men dove into the tunnel just in time.

"We're safe now, right?" Owyn asked as he got to his feet.

"I think so," Mat replied. "I don't think it can reach us now."

Just then, the far wall came crashing down as the head of the fire drake bursts through...

The conclusion of this story will appear in next week's Lititz Record Express.

drake." It also includes an amusing twist at the end of the tale.

Before entering the story, Dan first had to trim his first edition from 7,000 words to about 3,000 — not an easy task, but judging by the first place honor he earned, his skills at effective editing are also quite sharp.

"I was surprised," he said about becoming the first Warwick student to win this honor. "I had a good feeling about the story, but I never thought 'first place.'"

The award has sparked an interest in pursuing other fantasy story ideas he has.

Dan said that his favorite fantasy writer is Robert Jordan, author of the "Wheel of Time" series. His interest in science is not limited to fiction, however — he expressed interest in pursuing a degree in chemical engineering in college.

They gold key winners from Warwick High School, all in the essay/narrative/opinion category, were: Julianne Brown, "School Choices"; Kimberly Fleager, "The Use of Corporal Punishment with Children"; Heidi Hibshman, "Education Reform"; Rosamund Hunter, "Children of the Hole"; Stacey Jensen, "The Security of Easy Death"; Maryanne

Laager, "The Laws and Voluntary Euthanasia"; Laura Mazurkewicz, "Modern Barbarism"; and Sarah Snyder, "The Media and Body Image".

Silver certificate winners in the essay/narrative/opinion category were: Erin Benedict, "Confusion with the Definition of Marriage"; Jim Doutrich, "A Learning Experience"; Danielle Miller, "Capital Punishment: Legal Murder"; Joshua Morris, "Child's Play?"; Audrey Palomarez, "A Pop Quiz"; and J. Paul Rinehimer, "Put a Ban on the Taliban".

Award winners each received a certificate of achievement. First place and gold key winners will advance to the national competition, which will take place in New York City.

CARD OF THANKS

From the family of
J. Herbert Oelme

Our heartfelt thanks go out to all those who sent cards and made contributions to the Lititz United Methodist Church in his memory. These gifts of love and caring were most appreciated and comforting during our time of bereavement. Thanks to everyone at Moravian Manor for his care during the past few years. A special thank you to Pastors Kauffhold and Deutsch for their prayers and visits.
